International Leader To-day In Quiet Toronto Session

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—International Nickel was the active leader during this morning's quiet session of the Toronto Stock Exchange. It fluctuated very narrowly, however, closing at an eighth lower at 41 5-8. British Columbia Fishing, down 3-4 at 58 1-4, and Brompton down a half at 26 1-2, were other easier stocks. Canadain Oil eased one at 72. Canadian Canners were one of the firm spots. Common strengthened a quarter at 13 1-4 and Preferred a half at 63. Smelters also gained a half at 185 1-2, and Brazilian at 83 was a quarter higher. Sales Book and Industrial Alcohol were also firm.

Few Active Stocks Firm But General Tone Weak

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—While a few stocks that were heavily traded in showed good advances, the general tone of the market on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was weak. The strong and active stocks were Barry Hollinger, advancing 2 1-2 at 24 1-2, La Rose, up 3 1-2 at 35, Lorrain up one at 10 3-4, and Beaver 1 3-4 higher at 57 3-4. Two other active stocks lost ground, Amulet receding nine at 138 and Vipond selling down four at 192. Teck Hughes lost six at 325, Chaput Hughes three at 11 and Castle Tretheway one at 155.

Heavy Selling Pressure Causes Break In Wheat

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press.)—Heavy selling pressure which developed on an early upturn in the wheat market to-day led to a sharp break in prices. Increased selling was associated with an opinion from a trade authority here that wheat values in the United States would have to undergo a substantial decline before there would be merit on the buying side.

He called attention especially to the wheat shipments backing up in Canada not only at the terminals but at country points as well and he also gave emphasis to reports of unexpected shipments from Germany and Russia. Opening unchanged to 3-4c. lower, was followed by fractional advance and then by sudden reaction that carried May down to 169 1-2 and July to 148.

Report Of New Coal Parley Had Effect At New York

NEW YORK, January 22. — Canadian Press. — Backing and filling movements characterized to-day's stock market which was again under the domination of professional traders. Reports that the resumption of anthracite peace negotiations was likely, brought a number of buying orders into the shares of hard coal carrying railroads, several of which advanced 2 to 5 points. Further strength developed in Frisco common on rumours of "surprising developments" at to-day's meeting of the directors. Special buying was apparent in such issues as American Can, Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance and Savage Arms which advanced 2 3-4 to 3 3-4 points.

Two London Firms Suffer Loss By Fire To-day.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Fire early to-day destroyed the three story brick building occupied by the Canada Rug Co. and the London Cloth and Apron Supply Co. Low temperature hampered the firemen and their clothing and ladders were sheeted with ice. At one time the Walper House was in danger and the guests were dressed and ready to leave. The loss to the Rug Company and the Apron Supply Company may total $50,000.

CAVAN DISTRICT LODGE OFFICERS

Bro. William Lynn, L. O. L. District Master—Auxiliary Meeting.

. . MILLBROOK NEWS. . .

MILLBROOK, Jan. 22. — Cavan District L.O.L. has recently elected its officers for 1926, Bro. T. H. Aiken having charge of the installation ceremony. The list is:

D.M.—Bro. William Lynn.
D.D.M.—Bro. Wesley Fallis.
Chaplain—Bro. J. L. Byam.
Secretary—Bro. Jas. Roddy.
Treasurer—Bro. M. Tedd.
D. of C.—Bro. A. V. Thorne.
Lect.—Bro. W. Williamson.

Reports for the past year showed finances in good condition, and the Orange lodges of the district keeping up in interest and attendance.

Four rinks of local curlers went to Peterborough on Monday to compete in the bonspiel for the Neil trophy, the wet weather making soft ice that hindered play. Those going were:

B. R. Richards, J. A. Vance, J. M. McGill, G. W. Sayles (skip).
V. C. Lambert, H. J. Grassett, Geo. Hetherington, J. Steele (skip).
T. H. Collins, G. E. Burnham, John Allen, J. E. Allen (skip).
T. H. Bradley, W. E. Ball, A. McCorry, Ross Edmunds (skip).

J. Steele's and J. E. Allen's rinks won in the morning, but lost in the afternoon play. Sayles and Edmunds failed to win out. Twenty-eight rinks were entered in the competition, 14 from outside points and an equal number from the city curlers.

The Women's Missionary Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Church held its annual meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Herb. Russell, the attendance being very encouraging considering the unfavorable state of the weather and the pavements.

The president, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, occupied the chair, and the reports of the year's work were most satisfactory, showing the Auxiliary in a prosperous condition, both as to members and finances.

Mrs. Allen, in her address, referred to the splendid spirit of co-operation that had characterized the work of the past year, and to the interest taken in the study book, and the information gained. Other aspects of Auxiliary activities were also referred to by the president, who urged a higher ideal and more concentrated effort for 1926.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. W. C. Allen.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. H. Mulligan.
Secretary—Mrs. E. Whyte.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. McNeil.
Literature Sec'y. — Miss Annie Armstrong.
Dorcas Sec'y.—Mrs. Thos. Harkness.
Assistants for Dorcas Sec'y. — Mrs. G. Fowler and Mrs. H. Russell.
Junior Sup't.—Miss Muriel Smith.
Sup't. Little Helpers—Mrs. J. E. Allen.
Organist—Miss M. Smith.
Visiting Committee — Mrs. T. Harkness and Mrs. J. A. Vance.
Leaflet Sec'y.—Mrs. Harkness.

The Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Church was organized in 1890, and Mrs. Allen is now entering upon her thirty-third year as its president, the late Mrs. Archibald Wood having been the first to hold this office after organization. Mrs. Wood resigned in Mrs. Allen's favor after two years in the presidency, and the rector's wife has served continuously ever since.

Mrs. Russell and Mrs. G. Fowler were joint hostesses for the delicious lunch served at the close of the business session, when a most enjoyable social hour was spent.

The officers of Golden Link Mission Circle were hostesses for a most enjoyable social gathering on Tuesday evening, the event being held in the United Church, two large class-rooms in the basement, with the folding-doors thrown open between, being used for the event.

Over fifty invitations had been issued, and at least forty-five guests sat down to supper at 6.30 p.m. The tables were centred with sweet peas and roses, and laden with an abundant supply of tempting viands presented a most attractive appearance. Circle members, Misses Elsie Spence and Wilma Fallis, waited on the guests to the satisfaction of all.

Mrs. J. McKnight, president of the Mission Circle, acted as chairman when the supper was concluded, and after extending a hearty welcome to all present, called upon Mrs. (Dr.) Rea, first vice-president of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary, for an address.

Mrs. Rea pictured the great need of the eastern world, particularly the women and children, who are suffering in mind and body because they know not the Christ. Some say, "the heathen will be saved anyway, then why bother sending them the Gospel? Imagine waking up in heaven for the first time and finding the knowledge of the Saviour had been denied them while here, when it was their right to have known. Would they not question why we had left them groping in darkness?

"If we cannot go, what may we do? Learn the names, and fields of labor of at least two or three of our missionaries and make them special subjects of prayer—it will be a means of blessing to them and also to ourselves. But God is surely calling some from this gathering to-night to go and tell."

Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard, president of the W.M.A., was the next speaker, devoting her remarks to "Why a Circle?"

"The young ladies who are members of the Circle are just choosing their life-work. Quite a share of our missionaries come from the parsonages, the largest number from the homes of missionaries, and some from the mission bands and circles. So it is a good plan to keep this big missionary task before them at this age, and make them thoroughly acquainted with our W.M.S. work, which offers an opening for a wide range of talents. Sewing, nursing, teaching, superintending homes and boarding schools, housekeeping, and medical work are among the things one may do." The fact that training for nurses may be obtained in mission hospitals, under Christian doctors, nurses and amid Christian influences, was particularly stressed. The mission hospitals now have the same entrance requirements as any city hospital, and after two years of a course in these the final year must be taken in one of the hospitals in a larger centre.

"The Circle fills a need and open field of activity after some girls leave school, providing interests, a good reading course, and giving scope for talents, making supplies for hospitals, and outfits for boys or girls in some of the boarding schools being just one outlet for energy and abilities.

"The Circle is an easy place to begin taking an active part in public meetings because of wise leadership, congenial companions, a sympathetic atmosphere, an equality of ages, and a community of tastes. True development only comes as we reach out and help other lives."

During Mrs. Howard's address Jean Burnham read an account of one day's experiences in the busy life of a hospital matron in the West. Marjorie Sayles read of the training nurses receive in mission hospitals, and Margaret Howard of the affiliation between the C.G.I.T. group and the W.M.S. in mission study.

Mrs. V. C. Lambert, superintendent of the Golden Links Circle, spoke briefly, suggesting that the group system be introduced next year (the church year begins in April) in the local circle, and that each member must put in something of time, energy, talents, prayer and money, if each expects to take something out.

Mrs. Offe Williamson, superintendent of the Sunshine Mission Band, gave some report of a letter received from Miss Hawken, of Wahstao, Alberta, thanking the Band for the generous box sent at Christmas time, and a few facts of interest regarding the work at the school.

Community games were heartily entered into and thoroughly enjoyed, under the direction of Mrs. Lambert, before the gathering finally broke up. The game where all the months of the year got together by twos, those who had birthdays in each of the two joining together for the separate groups, and writing a diary of the special features of their respective months, proved a novel and particularly interesting pastime. Ten minutes was allowed for the writing.

Eight new members for the Circle were enrolled on Tuesday night, and it is hoped several others will shortly join this live and helpful organization.

The newly-organized senior hockey team, in connection with the Cosmos Club, had its first game on Tuesday evening, Bethany coming here to play. The local team won out, scoring two goals in the first period, the only score made throughout the game. The ice was rather soft for play, but the visitors evidently were not equal to the local players. L. C. Russell umpired the game to the satisfaction of all. Other games with outside teams are being arranged for the near future.

The only passenger on an ocean liner and with all its service at his disposal, William Thomas Stewart of Toronto, who arrived home after docking at Boston, stated that never before had he appreciated seamen so much. Mr. Stewart's name comprised the whole sailing list of the Leyland liner Devonian, which left Liverpool, January 1st, and has accommodation for 260 passengers. Mr. Stewart ascribes the light traffic to the very rough weather and to the fact that the boat was four days late in sailing. The photographer shows Mr. Stewart and his twin daughters greeting him on his arrival.

DEBATE ENLIVENED BY KENT MEMBER

A. J. Doucet Says Liberals Waged Campaign of Anger in Quebec.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—The debate on the address will be continued in the House of Commons this afternoon by F. Rinfret, Liberal of St. James, Montreal. The debate took on an unexpected zest yesterday which kept the house and galleries in keen attention. It started with A. P. Doucet, Conservative from Kent, N.B., who attacked the methods which he claimed were followed by the Liberals in the recent general election campaign in Quebec and in certain portions of New Brunswick. He complained that the Liberals had waged "a campaign of anger for personal aggrandisement," in the Province of Quebec.

R. H. Jenkins, Liberal, Queens, P.E.I., said that the only thing necessary to a solution of the problem of the Maritime rights was that every part of Canada should unite in a common effort to work out the problems affecting the nation. Hon. Robert Rogers, Conservative for South Winnipeg, made the charge that every member of the House knew that Chief Commissioner McKeown, of the Railway Commission, "had instructions to do and give certain decisions concerning cases."

ELEVEN CHNDLES

of members — the older men who help through their means, and the younger men who help through their energies. The life and enthusiasm of the Peterborough Club is only evidence of the life and enthusiasm that has brought Kiwanis up to its present high status.

"The bigger the appeal that is made," Kiwanian Paterson concluded, "the bigger will be the men attracted, and the bigger the result."

George Henderson.

George Henderson, who has the distinction of being one of the seventeen charter members still associated with the Peterboro Club, told of the beginning of Kiwanis Club in Peterborough.

"The Peterborough Kiwanis Club was born on a Thursday night, in the month of November, 1921, in the grill room of the Empress Hotel," he said. "Had one asked any of those who were present on that night as to what gender the new baby was, they would have been hard put to it to answer, but they could truthfully have said that it had a healthy pair of lungs and was rapidly learning how to use them in the approved manner for babies, and, in fact, was already showing an aptitude for close harmony, especially in McDonald's Farm. In other words, it had arrived and was demanding its place in the scheme of things. Of the 50 members who constituted the Charter Club, there are still 17 members on the roll to-day, while 12 more have moved to other parts of the continent, and 5 have attained the great reward and are now master builders in the realms beyond. It may be of interest to the newer members of this club to know who the 17 charter members still active are: Chas. Cummer, Jack Craig, Jim Doran, Geo. Gordon, Doug. Grant, Joe Johns, Chas. Lacheur, Jack McKone, Jack McNabb, Harold Perry, Walter Oke, Ray Scott, Ernie Warne, Carl Webber, Lloyd Hamilton, Ed. Taylor and Geo. Henderson. In their classification they represent everything that man needs on this earth, excepting the spiritual, and that came later when the club induced Jim Rollins, the 'Fire Fighter,' to undertake that job, and whose duties are to-day being successfully carried on by his successor, Doug. Patterson.

"In selecting the first president of the club, it was conceded that nothing but the best would do, so a representative of the Whitehouse was selected, by the name of Frank, and under his guidance the club was successfully established as a community enterprise. Following his term of office, the club's thoughts having turned to matters of education and business ethics, they selected Jack McKone, an exponent of these accomplishments and virtues, as their second president.

"The club having now passed from the swaddling clothes stage, and in fact having become a daddy, by sponsoring the Lindsay club, felt that a more militant attitude would be to its advantage, so it elected a Marshall as leader, who also went by the name of Jack, and he, being like his illustrious namesake of fabled story, a master in the use of brown paper, bound the club so tight, that the following year it became necessary to select a Cook, who was known as Charlie, and he evolved a method of separating silver from the members that got all the cream and the skimmed milk too.

"Now we come to the present year, and we find a Craig with another Jack in front of him. That makes three Jacks, and three of a kind, being better than two pair, we can look forward to being pulled onward to greater achievements during the coming year.

"During this week a detailed report was given in the Peterborough Examiner of the activities of this club since its inception, but one activity, which was not mentioned, and which has been a real benefit to the community at large, is the habit of community singing at public gatherings. Music hath charms to sooth the savage breast, and community singing can claim no little credit for the cooling of the fires of hatred, distrust and jealously between man and man, and community and community, on this continent. Under its harmonious influence the icy barriers of reserve and prejudice have melted away, and thus permitting of the sowing of the seeds of a toleration and respect for our fellow man, and community that has long been lacking in this old world. To Kiwanis belongs the privilege of having shown the way.

"In 1922 the public attitude to this club was a skeptical Missourian one of 'Show Me,' and when the club made its first appeal through the medium of a minstrel show, the members had to be real gold diggers before they received an adequate response from the public. Since that time there have been four additional appeals for assistance, which have met with an increasing responsive attitude from the public, and to-day they stand ready and willing, at all times, to give that assistance. By their works ye shall know them—and the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough has to its credit to-day the commendation of public opinion."

Art Reynolds.

Art Reynolds, speaking of Kiwanis achievements, said the works of Kiwanis have spoken aloud to the public at large. True community effort has marked the path along which the organization has come in the eleven years of its existence. The first great accomplishment is the Kiwanis spirit, because without the Kiwanis incentive of love and good fellowship the practical works would be impossible of accomplishment.

Kiwanis Club has set every other service Club a mark to shoot at —it has led in community service and energetic spirit.

One of the great achievements of Kiwanis Club is the development of good will and the cementing of friendship between the two great English-speaking peoples of the continent. "We little know what this may mean to future generations," Kiwanian Reynolds declared. "We are far from patronage or the idea of patronage from fellow Kiwanians on the other side of the line."

"We in Canada," the speaker continued, "have added our tribute to that wonderful international spirit—on the shores of the Pacific is erected a monument to President Harding of the United States—a most unique thing, to erect a monument to the leader of another nation—and behind it is the cementing of friendship between the nations."

Harry Boyle.

Harry Boyle, who is chairman of the Kiwanis Education Committee, spoke on "The Challenge of the Future."

Chairman Jack and Brother Kiwanians:

I think it is my privilege and honor, he said, to be chairman of the most important committee in our club, and after hearing the thunder of such eloquent speakers, I suppose you are expecting me to be the lightning. So that I may not disappoint you, I am going to strike right to the point.

You have listened to some very pertinent remarks concerning the inception, growth, ideals and aims of Kiwanis, and it is my duty to give you the challenge of the future.

Do you know that the finger of scorn is pointed at our club? Only last week a man said, "All the Kiwanians do is lunch at the Empress, and think themselves big stuff." Is that all we do I hope not. I am reminded of a little girl who bought a dozen of eggs at our store. On the way home, she dropped the bag with the usual results. On her arrival at home, her mother scolded her severely, and she said: "It is alright, mother, I only lost the juice out of them." Have we lost the juice of human kindness and brotherliness? Are we only empty shells? I hope not.

I have spoken to several members about attending lunchons, attending committee meetings, etc., and the usual excuse is: "I am handicapped by business or some other imaginary excuse. What is a handicap? Is it not an incentive to strive the harder

Do you see what I am driving at? How does Kiwanis affect each one of us? I know a very busy member of this club who gave his time and energy to help a poor family, where the mother was gone, and the father was too old to work. They were booked for the poor-house and children's shelter. Can you imagine the joy that was brought to that little family and the satisfaction the member derived in "doing his bit," by helping them to keep a roof over their heads?

I am going to give you a personal illustration and may I be pardoned for so doing As I said before: "I want to strike the point." When I came back from overseas, people sympathized with me in the loss of my leg, but I feel I haven't lost it. I have only traded it for a clear conscience and so may all trade our duty to Kiwanis for a clear conscience.

What does the future hold for Kiwanis? We have listened with deep interest to the achievements of the past and what are we going to do now? Accept this big thing in our lives as a completed whole? Something handed down with a tag on—something for us to be linked up with for personal glorification or to further our own selfish ends

Our programme includes a deeper responsibility for each member to his committee and the club as a whole. We want a copy of by-laws sent to each member and a more impressive introduction of new members.

With this broader vision we can go forward and strive for perfection in 1926. We can't improve the principles and ideals of Kiwanis, but we can each strive harder to live a bigger and better Kiwanis life by enlarging our enthusiasm for our wonderful organization.

I want to point again, to our slogan: "We build," and I think Edgar Guest must have had those words in mind when he penned:

"So long as men be on earth
There will be tasks for them to do.
Come way for them to show their worth.
Each day shall bring its problems new.
All men shall dream of mightier deed
Than ever have been done before;
There always shall be needs
For men to work and struggle for."

Vote of Thanks.

Charles Elliott and J. E. Smith moved the vote of thanks to the speakers of the day.

HIGH SHOES MAY RETURN TO FAVOR

Have Not Been Worn Recently by Smartly Dressed Women.

One of the interesting style possibilities in the women's footwear field is that high shoes may be brought back to popularity after an absence of several years. They have never been entirely "out," but their adherents in recent seasons have not been women of the type designated as "smartly dressed." Attempts are now being made to reintroduce high shoes in the more expensive lines, but it is being said that the reaction in their favor has not as yet been very marked. In some quarters, in fact, the present attempt to bring them back is held to be premature in that American women, as as a whole, have not become tired of pumps and Oxfords. The question of skirt length is said to have little relation to shoe height, so far as women in this country are concerned.

DRUGLESS HEALERS MUST BE REGISTERED

New Ontario Law Comes Into Force To-day.

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—The law compelling all drugless practitioners in Ontario to be registered comes into force today.

Osteopaths, chiropodists, theurapists and masseurs are directly named in the act, and all other branches and aspects of drugless heading are included.

Drugless practitioners must pay $40 for registration and an annual fee of $15, if they are osteopaths or chiropractors.

BONDS STOLEN.

Latvian Securities, Worth Three Million, Stolen on Way to London.

LONDON, Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press).—More than $3,000,000 Latvian bonds which were being brought to a bank here have been stolen somewhere on the Continent, according to a report published in the Star. The bonds, which were part of $3,500,000 worth, were in a special trunk guarded by a bank official.

Returns From Dance To Find Husband Hanged At Door

WOOLWICH, England, January 22. — (United Press.) — Returning from a dance Mrs. Nellie Hayes pushed open the front door of her home with difficulty and looking behind it in the semi-glow, saw her husband's features.

"Silly," she exclaimed, thinking thinking Hayes had obstructed the door and playfully slapped his face.

There was no response, and Mrs. Hayes pushed him. Her husband's form receded as she pushed, but then swung back again. Mrs. Hayes screamed. She reached out again, and found her husband was hanging by a scarf from a hook on the door.

The Assisting Clergy.

The Bay of Quinte Winter School had the kindly assistance of a number of well-known clergymen. The local clergy conducted the afternoon worship period each day as follows: On Tuesday, Rev. Alfred Brown, D.D., pastor of the Convention Church, on Wednesday, Rev. W. A. Bremner, associate pastor, was to have been in charge, but was unavoidably absent owing to the death of his sister. Rev. H. A. Bont supplied for him on Thursday. Rev. T. Stannage Boyle, D.D., Rector Bont supplied for him on Thursday, of St. Peter's church officiated. On Friday Rev. J. N. Norton, pastor of Cobourg Baptist church was in charge; and on Saturday, Capt. R. W. Case, of the local corps of the Salvation Army.

The Bible Study Group throughout the week on the theme "The Jesus Way of Life," were led by Rev. E. Harston, Woodville; Rev. R. T. Richards, Peterborough and Rev. J. S. J. Wilson, Brighton. Three other clergymen were to have taken part in this work, but were unable to attend. Rev. W. J. H. Smyth, M.A., B.D., Consecon; Rev. W. R. Tanton, Napanee and Rev. J. E. Griffith, B.A., Tyrone.

The class in religious education was conducted throughout the week by Rev. R. H. Rickard, B.A., M.R.E., Northport.

Rev. F. W. Anderson, M.A., Port Hope, conducted a Mission Study class each morning.

"United Church of Canada At Work."

This comprehensive subject was subdivided and taken up by several leaders in five outstanding addresses.

On Tuesday Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, M.A., B.D., Toronto, spoke on Home Missions in the United Church. Mr. Smith also gave an address the same afternoon at a special meeting of the W.M.S., of Division St. United Church, dealing especially with the needs of the non-Canadian women of Canada. Rev. F. W. Anderson also spoke at this meeting when a memorial service was held for Miss Annie Bremner, sister of Rev. W. A. Bremner, of Cobourg, who died a week ago.

On Wednesday, the great theme of Foreign Missions in the United Church, was taken up by Rev. Mr. Cook, of India. It was expected that J. W. Waters, M.D., of India, who is here on furlough, would be present, but he was unable to come.

On Thursday Rev. John Coburn was present and spoke on Evangelism and Social Service, a work in which he is a recognized leader.

On Friday, Rev. Archer Wallace, M.A., efficiently dealt with book and publishing interests, and explained the charges that have been made in the publications of the three uniting churches, now to be issued by the United Church of Canada. He also dealt with beneficiary funds and stewardship, giving the young people an insight into these things.

Rev. R. T. Richards, Peterborough, was a busy man throughout the convention. He not only gave an address each morning at the worship period, but also conducted a Bible Study.

Illness detained Rev. A. McLaughlin, M.A., B.D., Keene, at his home, and his work throughout the convention was taken by Rev. Harold Neal, of Wooler. The subject was "Teacher Training" and a class in this was held each afternoon and proved of much interest and benefit.

On Saturday afternoon there was an outstanding address given by Rev. B. A. Myers, M.A., who spoke on Religious Education, Colleges and Deaconness Work.

A portion of each afternoon was given over to recreation and visits to places of interest in the town. A skating party was held and the delegates, in a body, visited the Cobourg General Hospital.

Photos Taken.

The appointment of a road superintendent was dispensed with until the next meeting.

TEA BLENDERS CONSPIRE.

LONDON, Jan. 22 (United Press).—Tea is regarded so highly as the national English beverage that big tea firms have begun a careful analysis of the waters of the British Isles with the idea of blending their teas to match the waters.

For instance, in Sussex, a special blend is required because the water is hard, while in Nottinghamshire another mixture is required, since the water there is soft.

PUSH INVESTIGATION

James Rand Insists Despite Official Verdict of Father's Suicide.

GRAFTON, Ill., Jan. 2 . — (By N.E.A.).—The fact that Henry Rand, credit manager for Royal Bros. departmental store, was in the Canfield Hotel is considered by the police corroborative of their suspicion that he committed suicide. The Canfield is a second-rate hotel with a bad name. The furniture in the room where the body was found is battered and old. It is possible, the police say, that Rand had a meeting there secretly with some one who had a hold on him, and was slain after a disagreement, but they still cling to the suicide theory.

At the insistence of James Rand, the dead man's son, an investigation is being pressed.

PETERBORO' MAN ADDRESSES ROTARY

Dr. E. Bruce Marshall Speaks on Osteopathy to Montreal Club.

"In every state of the Union and in three provinces of Canada Osteopathy is legalized and there are ten thousand osteophathic physicians and surgeons, with over one hundred hospitals and sanatoria," said Dr. Bruce E. Marshall in stating the claims of his methods of practice before a large number of Rotarians and their guests at the weekly luncehon on Wednesday.

A sketch of the history of the treatment was given by Dr. Marshall, who showed that the founder of osteopathy broke off from the allopaths of traditional school of medicine, when they rejected his offers to demonstrate his methods at a nearby medical university in Kansas. This was about the year 1874.

"Osteopathy is based on the perfection of Nature's work," said the speaker, and, "the rule of the artery is supreme." The mechanical attitude toward the human body goes back to the pronouncements of the founder who said he found out "that the human body was just as liable to strains and variations as the steam engine and that after correcting the strains and variations, health was sure to follow."

Speaking of the standards required of osteopaths Dr. Marshall said that "osteopathic colleges require evidence of graduation from an accredited high school or academy and a preliminary study in physics, chemistry and biology for entrance and a minimum of four years' intensive training in all general medical subjects before the degree of D.O. is conferred."

Methods Followed.

"Its practice contemplates all known or that may hereafter be devised, methods of treating diseases, mechanically or thermally, without the use of drugs as the primary remedial agent, excepting only as an anaesthetic, antiseptic, antidote, anodyne, or germicide," said Dr. Marshall. In refernce to mental cases, he added that "there had been as high as 60 per cent cured by the osteopathic methods."

Diagnosis is just as important to us as to any other physician he contended, and he went on to state that his profession believed it was as much the physician's duty to show his patient how to avoid a recurrence of his illness as it is to make him better. Osteopathy includes the use of the microscope, X-radiance and labaratory tests just as allopathy and also may use certain dietary treatment.

Dr. Marshall ended his talk upon osteopathy by a hope for better legislation in reference to it in this province.—Montreal Gazette.

PEOPLE EVADE STAMP TAX LAW

OVER $10 LIABLE

That many people are evading the law by not affixing stamps to receipts for the amount of $10 and upwards is evident by the number that are seen minus the stamp. In an interview with the Collector of Customs, he stated that while most of the larger firms and Corporations are complying with the law in this respect, a number of professional men and some of the smaller firms were apparently not doing so. He stated that the law read "all receipts of $10 and upwards must have affixed thereto a revenue stamp value two cents which must be cancelled by the person issuing the receipt stamping or writing the true date of the receipt on the face of the stamp." He also said tht he had no other option in infringements of this kind but to have the person or persons brought before the magistrate and fined, the prescribed penalty being a maximum of $100.

SPECIAL COURT TO HEAR ROYAL CLAIMS

Proposed By Party Leaders in German Cabinet.

BERLIN, Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Leaders of the parties supporting the new Luther Government agreed yesterday to propose legislation creating a special Federal court for settling all claims against the Government and various states by the former royal families which have not yet been adjudicated. It is proposed that this court shall apply not only legal but also economic principles.

The party leader's plan provides that in cases where settlements already have been reached, an appeal for revision may be taken to the new court if both litigants freely agree to such an appeal.

The prospect for the enactment of such legislation is not bright, since the Socialists and Communists are demanding the complete expropriation of the former royal houses and since two-thirds majority in the Reichstag is necessary to make such a measure law.

PARIS, Jan. 22. — Marshal Foch and the other Marshals of France have had their salaries raised along with all the other military ratings of France.

At the new scale Foch will receive the magnificent remuneration of 775,000 francs a year, or something less than 3,000 dollars at the present rate of exchange.

The rest of the army will still be paid on a similarly economical scale. A General will get $1,500, a Colonel less than $1,000, while a French Lieutenant will receive only $235 yearly on which to keep up a good appearance.

A French private who remains with the army after his year's voluntary service will be rewarded with the pay of one franc (or less than 5 cents) a day, and if he remains enrolled for service for ten years he will get a little more than double.

Woman Plays Poker While Husband Toils

By NEA Service.

TAHITI, Jan. 22.—It's poker for the ladies in the South Sea Islands, while fond husbands are out at work gathering nuts or diving for pearls.

All is O.K. while the ladies win, but when Mrs. Tahanomoku's full house is beaten by Mrs. Toaherai's many aces, woe be unto Mrs. Tahanomoku. For when "the old man" comes home after a hard day of diving the news that his wife has lost many lovely cocoanuts is apt to precipitate a wallopping.

But if the gambling one can win many cocoanuts, so to buy friend husband a nice plug hat, there is peace and happiness forever after.

SUDBURY 'COAL' TO BE TESTED

Shipment To Toronto To Be Pressed in Fuel Oil Mixture.

VALUE DOUBTED.

SUDBURY, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Shipments of "coal" from the Larchwood basin, near Sudbury, have commenced. One of 45 tons was made three days ago by a Hamilton concern, and consigned to Toronto. Others will follow in a few days. It is being teamed from an open pit about twenty feet deep to a railway siding about a mile and a half away and loaded in box cars, which are sealed in transit. It is understood that an experimental test to crush and press it in a mixture of fuel oil, or some such plan is to be attempted. Considerable drilling and some work has been done on the property since Government geologists last officially reported on the deposits as being anthraxoilite and a commercial impracticability.

Locally, little significance is attached to this week's shipment, save for the fact that it is the first of any consequence to be made out of the district. The presence of coal, or anthraxoilite, in the Chelmsford area has been known for thirty years or more. In this time options covering thousands of acres have been taken, companies formed, stock sold, but up until recent years serious attempts to prove or disprove the area by diamond drilling has been left to private interests. One hole was sunk to a depth of 3,000 feet, but nothing more encouraging than the surface showing was found to warrant further expenditure of money. Secrecy has surrounded the activities of the British Colonial Co., which has done considerable drilling during the past few years, and little is known locally of the purpose of the shipment of 45 tons which has just been made.

PAINT BONNETS.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Painted hats are the rage in Paris. Some women are insisting on having signed masterpieces by fashionable painters at the usual fashionable prices. But most milliners disapprove of the craze because too many women are painting over their old velours instead of buying new ones.

BUFFALO WOMAN TRAILS HUSBAND

False Signature of No Avail —Recognizes Handwriting.

HAMILTON, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—After trailing her husband to this city following the auto in which he drove another woman on the Niagara-Hamilton highway, a Buffalo wife, in her own sedan pursued the couple, but lost them on entering the city. She visited various hotels, realizing that her husband would use a false signature, yet she maintained she would know it by "the way he crosses his T's." Sure enough, she found a name with a circle round the letter. Private detectives were summoned and a divorce case resulted.

HISTORY OF FIRE DEPARTMENT BRINGING FAVORABLE COMMENT

SOME COMPLIMENTS

Business Men Laud Work as Outstanding in Its Field.

Many copies of the history of the Peterborough Fire Department have already been sold, and the demand is increasing. The book is of interest to everyone in the city, showing the growth of the fire-fighting apparatus and personnel from the days of the old hand pump and bucket line to the present splendidly equipped department of up-to-date apparatus and well-trained men.

That the history of the Fire Brigade is being favorably received is manifest by the comment of several who have read with interest the accounts of the past achievements and structure of the department. Many, on reading the history, have felt that the book merited more formal recognition, and, accordingly, conveyed their congratulations to Fire Chief George Gimblett through the medium of letters. Some of the testimonials are given herewith:

J. P. Bond writes the following: "Your book is certainly very interesting. It is a work of art, and a great deal of credit is due to you and your staff in making it such a success."

From J. M. Greene: "I want to congratulate you and your assistants for the History of your Brigade and subsidiary efforts, so well arranged and gotten out by you in co-operation with Mr. Dobbin. This is indeed beautiful work and worthy of the attention of our very best citizens.

"I certainly hope you will be able to influence a sufficient number of our citizens in subscribing for this magazine so you will be able to build up a very creditable fund for your splendid department."

George L. Gardiner, sales manager for the Photo Engravers, Limited, of Toronto, says: "We have just received a copy of the History of the Peterborough Fire Department, and hasten to extend to you, the printer, the photographer, and all those interested in the issue of this very splendid book.

"The writer has personally examined the book from cover to cover, and has no hesitation in saying that it is one of the finest books of its kind he has ever seen.

"We were instrumental in the issue of a similar book for the Toronto and other fire departments, and feel that the Peterborough book is well up to the standard that has been set.

"We note that the engravings show up well, indicating that they have been carefully printed, and, generally speaking, we think this book is one of which you may well be proud."

David Lamb, of the Provincial Federation of Fire Fighters, states briefly: "I have this day received from you a copy of the history book of the Peterborough Fire Department, and so far have only casually gone through it, but from my short glance over it, it appeals to me to be one of the best I have yet had the pleasure of reading. It is a credit to yourself, the historian and the members of the entire force of the Fire Department and something that each have a right to be proud of."

VIEWS DIFFER ON GRAIN RATES

Three Members of Railway Board Concur in Refusing To Rescind Order.

TWO MORE POINTS.

OTTAWA, January 22. — Canadian Press. — Three differing viewpoints are revealed in the reasons for the judgment handed out yesterday by the Board of Railway Commissioners in the British Columbia grain rate appeal.

The Chief Commissioner H. A. McKeowan, Deputy Chief Commissioner Thomas Vien, and Commissioner Frank Oliver, concur in the view that the order giving reduced rates on west bound grain is valid, and that the rates filed under it should remain effective. The order therefore stands.

While dismissing the motion to rescind the order, the three commissioners make it clear that further representations may be made as part of the general rate investigation; and also that the railway companies are at liberty to ask that the order be varied.

Assistant Chief Commissioner McLean takes the ground that the order should be rescinded, and that the rates filed under it should be cancelled. The two remaining commissioners, Bovce and Lawrence, besides not admitting the validity of the order, express the view that it should stand until the general rate investigation, in view of the private interests which have grown up since the reduced rates went into effect.

They say, however, that the railways should have full liberty to come to the board, and ask for relief from the order.

Broke Monte Carlo Bank Dies In Poor Circumstances

LONDON, Jan. 22 (United Press) — Captain Arthur De Courcery Bower, who "broke the bank at Mone Carlo," six times in his life—three of them in one day—is dead at the age of 69.

"Lucky Bower," once credited with being a man "who can't lose," died in a suburban boarding house, having fallen on evil days in recent years.

One of his most spectacular gambles was cutting the cards at Monte Carlo with a millionaire Argentine rancher of £30,000. The Argentine cut a queen; Bower calmly lighted a cigar without any sign of emotion and cut a king.

GOVERNMENT LIQUOR

ter," declared Attorney-General Nickle. He remarked that "possibly the wish is father to the thought."

Hon. W. H. Price declared: "It is certain there has been no formulations of a Government policy, and on that account I cannot understand how anybody would discuss the thing or say he had any authority to discuss it."

Alleged Secret Session.

Alleged to have been announced at a secret gathering of London hotelmen yesterday by "a representative of the Government," the despatch published in the Toronto Globe this morning says that other meetings of the same nature are to be held throughout the Province. "The Government, without taking another referendum or appealing to the country in any manner," it is announced, "will make new legislation, effective May first, granting hotels the right to sell strong beer and wine, either in bottle or from the tap.

"Wines and beers will be sold in bottle orders only in clubs, but a license will not be granted to any club that did not exist under charter prior to 1919. Draught beverages will not be allowed.

"Hard liquors will be sold in packages from Government dispensaries under the permit system similar to that in operation in British Columbia, where the individual may secure his annual permit at a small fee.

"These regulations will be applied on a local option principle, all municipalities which voted wet in 1924 being regarded as wet, and all which favored the dry program will be held bone dry in so far as it will be possible to prevent the carrying of liquor over the borders of electoral districts."

Created Sensation.

The extraordinary programme, presented with the emphatic declaration that it is the resolve of the Ferguson Government, created a major sensation in hotel circles, where a warning of strict silence was, however, issued.

It was further stated that a means had been found to avoid the hostility of Hon. W. F. Nickle, the present Attorney-General, who is "a bone dry" in the heart of the councils of a wet administration.

An enabling bill is said to be already drawn up at Toronto, to be introduced as a financial measure by Provincial Treasurer Price. If Hon. W. F. Nickle does not take kindly to this process he will have the alternative of withdrawing from the Government, it was reported.

FANATIC KILLS TWO OF FAMILY

SLASHED BROTHER

He seized a carving knife and attacked his mother and sister. They died within a few hours. He next slashed his older brother, Ambrose, later setting fire to a barn.

Neighbors organized a posse and followed the youth through the woods for about two miles. He at last submitted tamely to capture, sitting exhausted on a tree stump.

In jail here he spends his time praying — not in remorse for his deeds, but asking the Deity to send down His wrath upon those who captured him. Neighbors said that he was frequently a victim of such religious frenzies, but never before had they taken a violent form.

NO COMPROMISE FRENCH FINANCE

All Hope Has Been Abandoned—Briand Breaks Silence.

DEPUTIES TO DECIDE.

PARIS, Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press).—It is now decided that the great financial debate on which the future of the Government and much else depends will begin in the Chamber on Monday. The opposing positions have undergone no change, and all hope of a compromise has been abandoned. Premier Briand's remarkable silence for some days led to the hope that his subtle brain was still conjuring means to avoid a pitched battle, but last night, in conversation with friends and supporters in the lobby of the Chamber, he intimated the deputies must now decide between the plan of the Government and that of their own committee.

KIWANIS NOTES.

WHAT KIWANIS MEANS.

Unselfishness is the greatest glory of the human race. The most precious of our possessions is life; all that we have we will give for it. Yet men lay down their lives for their friends, which they will not do for themselves; they lay down their lives for an ideal, for their country, and for progress.

Whether they are soldiers, dying gloriously on the battlefield, officers and men bravely facing death in a broken gas bag, experimenters in a laboratory, physicians burning themselves to death with X-rays, or missionaries fighting disease in far countries, they show, these heroes, that there is within all men, when the call comes, that little spark of the divine which puts the good and the happiness of others before self.

Kiwanis asks no offering of life for her ideals; she demands no utter unselfishness by which men make the last great sacrifice for their fellow men. She asks only that modified unselfishness by which men gave a little of their time, a modicum of their labor, to better the condition of their fellows, to help the under-privileged child, to bring a greater measure of happiness and understanding to urban and rural citizen.

Kiwanis — the Kiwanis which cries to a world "we build"—does build! And no one is wanted as a member of this organization who has not a shoulder to put to the work, who has no dollar he is willing to give, who has not within him that little spark of divine unselfishness which puts his brother's welfare before his own comfort.

BIG DIRIGIBLE TO CROSS SEAS

Akron Firm Plans Giant Liner For Atlantic Service.

TWO-DAY TRIP.

By FRANK COCHRAN.

AKRON, Jan. 21.—A super-dirigible, a giant air liner to cross the Atlantic ocean in two days, is in the making.

It is to be the world's largest lighter-than-air craft, with nearly three times the gas capacity of the Los Angeles and Shenandoah and 200 feet longer.

Business men can walk into a cabin of this mammoth "bird" on Saturday, shoot swiftly to London, spend four days in England's capital and be back home on the following Monday!

Eight days for a trip to Europe and back home!

The plans are nearly complete for the great ship and construction is soon to begin. It will be Akron's 1926 gift to the world of speedy transportation.

The craft will be known as the Goodyear-Zeppelin-1. It will be built in the Goodyear factories, and the plans of the designers call for:

A ship 850 feet in length, with a gas capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet.

A carrying capacity of 100 passengers, baggage, food, fuel supply, supplies for the crew and auxiliary apparatus for flying 8,000 miles at the rate of 75 miles an hour.

Eight Liberty motors, all with the exception of the stern motors to be built inside the hull and all to have radiators that will not freeze in the highest altitudes.

Propellers geared out from the side of the ship to grip a free flow of air.

Steps and walks, corridors and runways instead of catwalks and narrow girders. Thus the crew will be able to visit every part of the craft, examine every foot of gas cell, repair leakages, test valves and controls.

The ship is designed with an added knowledge of storm conditions. According to its designers it will be able to weather the most severe storms.

Beryllium, an aluminum alloy, the most recent metal developed for aircraft construction, will be used for the frame-work throughout, assuring lightness as well as unusual strength and durability.

The plans are to inflate the great craft with helium, the non-inflammable gas.

The sleeping quarters on the giant new blimp will be Pullman style, seats by day and beds by night. Dining and sleeping quarters will be off two main corridors running the entire length of the ship, like the corridors through the passenger section of an ocean liner.

Weapon in War.

In times of war the GZ-1 would be a powerful weapon. Used as a mother-ship, it could carry 20 attack planes. It could cross coastlines and frontiers, carrying its own protecting planes or could fly out into the sea with bombers, release them against a hostile fleet and stand out of range as a supply base.

Three men in Akron are bringing this dream to a reality. They are P. W. Litchfield, vice-president of the Goodyear Tire Co., and manager of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation; Dr. Karl Arnstein, designer of the Los Angeles and sixty other Zeppelins, and Capt. Ernest A. Lehmann, who before the war made 1,000 flights in commercial Zeppelins.

The war and the dirigible made Dr. Arnstein and Capt. Lehmann famous. Their inventive genius and daring were back of those German raids that struck fear into the hearts of the Allies. But the Armistice made them jobless. Now they are Akron residents, working for American interests.

After the war the Goodyear company bought the North American rights to manufacture Zeppelins and hired the men who had made the greatest success of them.

With the GZ-1, a new field of travel will be opened, and a dream wilder than any of Jules Verne's will become a reality.

He was returning from visiting his sister at Westport, Ont. and was walking back to Ottawa on the tracks.

ALUMINUM ALLOY FOR AUTO BODIES

Color and Finish Can Be Built In, Says German Inventor.

BERLIN, Jan. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—The discovery of a method for alloying aluminum with other metals which will produce materials for automobile bodies which will not show scratches and will have both color and finish "built in," is claimed by B. Jirotka, a German electrical engineer. He has demonstrated the discovery to a commission of metallurgists of the German Institute of Chemical Technology.

Hungry as a hunter

A GOOD appetite usually denotes good health, yet how often you hear people say that the sight of food sickens them or complain of indigestion or gas after eating. These symptoms are often Nature's warnings that the body is in a run down condition.

Medical research has definitely proved that one of the causes of a run down condition of the body is a shortage of certain mineral elements, including iron, potassium, calcium, sodium and phosphorus, and until a sufficient supply of these minerals is restored to the body, good health is impossible. Wincarnis contains every one of these elements in addition to other health giving ingredients, and in a form in which they are most rapidly absorbed into the blood and carried to every part of the body to be converted into vital force.

Wincarnis has been recommended by over ten thousand physicians in cases of nervousness, anaemia, sleeplessness, and the general debility that accompanies a run down body. For fifty years this strength giver and nerve restorative has brought new life and happiness to weakened men and women.

Delightful Version of the Two-piece Sports Frock

Many points of interest center in this sports frock. First, the material, leaf green and fawn tweed, is the smartest thing for these essential costumes, then there is the deep yoke front and back from which extend two box-plaits. The long sleeves are gathered into tight little wrist-bands of contrasting-color silk, this harmonizing note being used for the convertible collar and all around belt. It is obvious the skirt, which is joined to a camisole top, gets its fulness by repeating the box-plait of the overblouse. The blouse, No. 1272, is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 2⅝ yards 36-inch, or 1⅞ yards 54-inch material. The skirt, No. 1266, is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 1¾ yards 36 or 40 inch material, with 1¼ yards lining for the camisole top. Price 20 cents, each pattern.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl nineteen years of age, and am engaged to a young man one year my senior. My fiance lives about three hundred miles from here. I have been accepting the invitations and attentions of my friends here, and my fiancee does not know this. I love him dearly and do not want to lose him, so what shall I do?

BLACK EYES.

BLACK EYES: Under the circumstances I think you are justified in accepting the attentions of friends who live near you, Miss Black Eyes. But if I were you I should do this quite openly. Your fiance will probably realize that because he cannot ask you out you do not want to spend all your leisure time alone. I suggest that you write him and tell him of your good times, occasionally. He will certainly understand.

"Not Being Done," Declares Varsity Head, Of Smoking

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press). — Women students of the University of Toronto and its affiliated college are not permitted to smoke on college property. There is at present no rule against it, but smoking by women students "simply isn't being done, and hasn't been done on university property, so the matter has never been officially discussed," according to information from the office of President Sir Robert Falconer.

"We are not blind to the fact that some of our young women smoke at parties and in their clubrooms or sororities; but this custom is recognized as unethical in the college buildings, and it is not done." Such is the opinion of one leading university authority.

Thirty-four per cent. of all the women in New York city are wage-earners.

Toronto Female Board Member Refused Signal Honor From Select Order.

LIGHTEN DULL DAYS

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—With two of the three feminine candidates for the Board of Education elected, and each of these heading the polls in her constituency, the local municipal results may be considered a victory for women. Mrs. Plumptre, with a large majority behind her, was after the war offered the honor of becoming a "Lady of Grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem." She refused it, saying that she had done nothing more than hundreds of other women. "It is the first time I have ever had to make that report," said the official in whose hands the matter had been placed. "I never heard of anybody refusing the Lady of Grace decoration before."

According to London papers, there is to be a pilgrimage of the Knights and Ladies of the Saint John order to the various shrines all over the world, and particularly in the Holy Land. Mrs. Plumptre was asked if she regretted the pilgrimage, or if she would prefer to be put on the Toronto Board of Education.

"The Board!" she said promptly. "I am much more interested in Toronto children having the things they should have than in visiting shrines in Palestine. The 'year of economy' has resulted in bad lighting and insufficient sanitation in school buildings, and the children are suffering from the results. Shrines in Palestine! No—proper lighting for dark school rooms on dull days and proper arrangements for all children attending school, with money available to pay the bills—those are the things that interest me just now."

LESS WORK CAUSES FEWER MARRIAGES

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—More than five hundred fewer marriage licenses were issued at the central office in the City Hall during 1925 than were issued in 1924.

There are two explanations, according to the license issuer. There have been more banns called in Anglican and Catholic churches this year than ever before in the memory of the informants. When banns are called it is unnecessary to secure a license.

The other and chief reason is that with employment hard to secure, young men were unwilling to take the responsibility of supporting homes.

The most striking feature of the year's operations is the number of persons below the legal age of marriage who secured licenses. In each case, of course, the consent of parents had to be certified to in writing. The License Issuer was impressed with the number of young Canadians who are now resident in United States cities who have returned to Toronto to marry the girls they left behind them.

"DO I STILL LOVE HIM?"

By Juanita Hamel

To every woman in the world there comes a time when she asks herself, "Do I still love him? Or has life cheated me, and tied me to a man whom I have ceased to love?" Take care! There lie the treacherous ous quicksands!

Love—true love—never changes! Ever staunch, ever true, even though doubts assail and storms weaken, —love is ever triumphant!

The Home Kitchen

By Jeannette Norton

The amount of food required by the average person must be regulated by height, average weight, occupation, and general well-being. Men and women who live rather sedentary lives in cities do not need the amount of food that active out-door workers in the country need. Two to three thousand calories a day is a good average. A calorie is simply a unit of measuring heat and the energy value of food, as we use pint, quart and gallon for the measuring of liquid. Fifteen to twenty calories a day per pound is a simple rule to follow, we can then cut down a bit to reduce and add a bit to take on flesh.

A glance at one hundred calorie portions may simplify the problem for most of us. Two ounces of lean steak three ounces of roast beef and two ounces of roast chicken are one hundred calorie portions each. Four ounces of lobster and three ounces of codfish are hundred calorie portions.

Three ounces of cream soup and thirty ounces of consomme, eight clams, twelve oysters, one medium sized baked potato, and a seven-ounce apple are each one hundred calorie portions. There is a great comfort in measuring foods after this fashion, for we do not have to diet and give up our favorite dishes. If we love pie, we can have a generous piece of delicious pie which will be about 350 calories and top it with whipped cream, one hundred and fifty calories more and call it a meal. Then make the rest of the day's food fit in to the desired amount of calories needed.

All schools agree that water is a necessity. The water must be pure. If in doubt about it, boil it. Milk, skimmed, buttermilk, or whole, may make up part of the needed liquid to keep us well.

Should the calories worry us, we can remember that a polite helping, such as a baked potato, an ordinary piece of meat or fish, will be the hundred-calorie portion, it is the sweets and the made dishes that we must beware of, especially if we gain weight easily.

Breakfast of fresh and one stewed fruit and a glass of milk, a luncheon of vegetables, one creamed, and an average dinner with a fruit dessert will be found to come within the needed number of calories prescribed for the average person. It's the rich sauces, mayonnaise, fatty foods, over-amount of white breads, desserts and candies that add the unnecessary food that burdens the system.

Nearly all systems of diet look askance at coffee, tea and cocoa. Milk is favored in their place. Especially buttermilk or skimmed milk. Orange juices, a slice of whole-wheat bread toasted, a cup of warm milk don't sound very hearty for a cold morning's breakfast, but it is enough. The toast may be buttered with a small pat of butter.

A luncheon highly favored is of a large dish of fresh lettuce with a Roquefort cheese dressing. The dressing is made of one and an eighth-inch cube of the cheese in a small amount of vinegar

For dinner, try an oyster cocktail, a piece of lean meat or fish, a dish of stewed tomatoes, a lettuce or cabbage salad, a little French dressing, a tiny baked potato, or slice of bread, and a fruit dessert.

The old problem of candles that will fall out of their holders has been solved by the invention of small rubber rings now on the market. These are slipped over the end of the candle, to anchor it fast.

HEARD SON SPEAK.

One of the many dramatic incidents on the opening day of parliament was the presence in the gallery of Mrs. Thomas White, the mother of R. S. White, Conservative member for Mount Royal.. This old lady of 91 was listening to the second maiden speech of her 70-year-old son, who returned to the house after 31 years' absence. And she did not need any ar trumpet to catch the polished words of the member.

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

Consider what wonderful possibilities every woman has for beauty if she only realizes that she can correct the defects of her figure by exercise.

There are often small defects which can be corrected completely, so that the figure can be transformed from just an average one to a figure of perfection and loveliness.

This is a particularly pleasant thought when we reflect that the figure is at least as important to the beauty as the face. Now we cannot change the shape of our features into those of classic loveliness, but we can change our figures to a great degree. By the proper exercise for putting on a bit of flesh here and taking off a bit there, we find that the figure which was only average becomes more than passably good looking.

It takes only causal observation to come to the conclusion that the most usual fault which detracts from the loveliness of the young woman's figure, or the older woman's figure, is the abdomen which has been allowed to become soft and flabby, with its inevitable accompaniment of superfluous flesh at the hips.

This can be corrected, if the proper exercise is taken. The woman who keeps a careful watch over this part of her body can ward off the appearance of unwelcome flesh by taking exercises to strengthen her abdomen before it becomes noticeably soft and flabby.

I am going to give you here an excellent exercise for stretching all the muscles of your torso. For, if you keep the muscles of your abdomen properly toned you will have no difficulty with unsightly flabbiness.

The exercise is this:

Stand erect, chest out, chin in and with your right hand resting on your hip. Place your left hand on your left shoulder and raise your elbow as high in the air as possible, until it is almost perpendicular.

This Back Bend Tends to Slenderize the Abdomen

Now bend backward as far as you can bend without undue straining. You should feel the pull on every muscle of your torso.

Repeat, alternating the positions of your hands. When in training on this exercise, you should be able to repeat twenty times without becoming too tired.

It is true to today's life.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It was not many years ago that we spoke of tuberculosis as the chief cause of death. Thanks to the education of the public in the ways of avoiding tuberculosis and the importance of early treatment, tuberculosis has steadily declined as a deadly factor.

During our successful campaign against the white plague we have overlooked another enemy of the human race. I refer to heart disease. This has become more and more menacing.

Not only is heart disease a factor in producing disability and death in adults, but also it impairs the well-being of the young. Out of the million children in the public schools of New York City, 20,000 are said to have permanently-damaged hearts.

We take great pride in the lowered death rate. It makes us happy to know that in the last half century, fifteen years have been added to the normal expectancy of life. But most of what has been accomplished is in the extremes of life. The infant's chance of living is tremendously increased. The diseases of old age have been controlled. But the middle age group is about as badly off as ever.

We hear too much now of the so-called "cardio-vascular-renal disease." And what is the disease with the terrible name?

In plain language this term means heart—blood vessel—kidney disease. Disease of these three portions of the anatomy is a common mixture of ailments. Unfortunately, it is a combination which is demanding a sad toll of human life.

It is difficult to explain exactly why these troubles should be increasingly common. Of course our manner of living is a great factor. The old time simplicity is gone. Economics and social pressure have made living more complex and its problems more difficult.

Were I to be asked what one thing is more responsible than all the rest for the change, I should mention food. In the old days eating was not the elaborate ceremony it is today.

A city-bred person, accustomed all his life to the "course dinner," accepts it as an everyday affair. Let the country cousin come to town and he is bewildered at the display of silver, glass and china and the painful variety of foods offered at the dinner hour. Hors-d'oeuvre, soup, fish, entree, roast, vegetables, ice, salad, dessert, nuts and raisins and coffee—enough food is served to feed three husky persons.

Let no man think he can eat a dinner of this description every day in the year and live as long as nature desired him to do. It can't be done.

On the contrary, there is a larger percentage now of persons who do not get enough to eat, or at least enough of the right sort of food. This is just as bad a condition as overeating is. Poverty has its drawbacks, too.

There are many other causes for heart disease. Some of these we will discuss at another time.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

ANXIOUS. Q.—What do you advise for varicose veins which cause considerable pain, when on the feet?

A.—Applications of warm witch hazel and wearing a bandage or elastic stocking during the day should give relief. In some instances, where this trouble is of long standing and very painful, it may be necessary to resort to an operation for relief. Keep off the feet as much as possible.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23

A flourishing day is assured by the dominant lunar and solar aspects. It should be a particularly promising day for those in the employment of others, and all are encouraged to reach for honors or preferment, with the prospect of receiving much encouragement and patronage from those in high places. It might be well, however, to be careful in the matter of papers or contracts as well as all manner of writing for publications. Finances are splendidly aspected.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an excellent year, with the promise of advancement, in employment, honors, and the patronage of those in authority and expanding business and financial status. A child born on this day should be splendidly endowed in talents and character, be favored by the mighty, and rise to superior position through their intervention.

So far as known, the most important deposits of oil shales in Canada are those in Albert and Westmorland Counties, New Brunswick, a district adjacent to tidewater and supplied with railway facilities.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

WHERE CARRIER PIGEONS ARE THE MEANS OF COMMUNICATION

Carrier Pigeon is Important.

There is no region in the world that offers more grandeur in scenery and natural beauty than the Canadian Rockies. But this is unfortunately a region to be approached with prayer and meditation, and very elaborate and careful preparation, if you are going into the regions that are not commonly visited.

Great sheets of ice and heavy snowfalls, raging rivers and bogs are among the hardships to be encountered on a trip of this sort. For six or perhaps eight weeks, there can be no communication with the outside world, no source of supply other than those in your packs. And there is always the chance that your supplies will be injured by the onslaughts of the elements.

On a trip of this sort, the carrier pigeon always assumes a position of importance. His services are indispensable even in these days of the radio, for there are regions which are "dead" as far as radio communication is concerned, while the carrier pigeon knows no obstacles of air or land.

Oiled waterproof paper must be used for the messages to be carried by the pigeons, for there is no way of telling when they will run into a storm. The messages should be tied securely to the tail feathers of the bird.

The cote, which is the home of the birds, is so built that the doors permit the birds to enter without any difficulty, but they cannot leave without the owner's permission.

The difficulties of this trip are more than rewarded, however, by the joy of the remarkable visions of loveliness one encounters on every hand. Woods and lakes and mountains and ice sheets and rivers combine to entrance the eye on every hand. It is a miracle of enchantment. Waterfalls gush from unexpected corners and throw a sheet of foamy whiteness over the surrounding landscape. Rainbows and cataracts, gray rocks, dancing wavelets in the lakes below, all these are reward for the dangers of the trip.

The sights of the Canadian Rockies, their real beauties, are reserved for the few who have the courage to brave hardship to see them. The faint heart will never have the privilege.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID HAS A CHAT WITH A LITTLE NEIGHBOR.

David was just ready to step on the little brown bug when he heard a tiny voice crying. Stooping over, he found the little brown bug was weeping as if her heart would break.

"Oh, please, little boy, please, don't step on me!" she cried. "I only have such a short time to live, as it is. Please, let me live!"

"Why, bless my heart," said kind-hearted David. "Surely you may live. I wouldn't harm you for the world. But tell me, little bug, what is your name? Mine is David, David Dorn."

"Well, David, I'm mighty glad to know you," said the wee little bug, wiping her eyes with her front foot. "I'm Mrs. Scoletus Beetle. Cut-off-short, some folks call me, because I look as if I have been cut off square at both ends."

"So you do," answered David. "But I'm glad to meet you, Mrs. Scoletus Beetle. Haven't you any wings?"

"Sure I have," replied Mrs. Scoletus Beetle. "Right here under these dark wing-cases," and she raised a pair of pretty gauzy wings for David to see. "Won't need them much longer, though," and she wiped her eyes again. "But goodness, I'm not worrying. It will be one beautiful sacrifice and I don't mind."

"What in the world are you talking about?" asked David, sitting down

"Please, Let Me Live!"

beside the little beetle. "That's the second time you have spoken as if you were expecting to die soon. What do you mean, little beetle? I'm not going to kill you."

"Thank you so much, David. You see Scoletus Bettle mothers have a great duty in this old world," she said. "We must sacrifice our lives for our young. You don't understand me, do you?"

"I don't believe I do," said David. "Maybe I'm terribly stupid."

"Not stupid," replied Mrs. Scoletus Beetle, "it's just because you have never met one of my kind before. You see, we are wood-eating bugs. We find a dead tree trunk, eat our way into the heart and there we lay our eggs. When we get through laying the eggs, we retrace our steps to the entrance where we went into the tree, and there we lay our bodies in the very doorway. Here we stay until we die. Our bodies stop up the doorways to the nursery and in that way we know our young will be protected from intruders. Today is my day to lay my eggs. I have already picked out that old elm tree. That's why I was so afraid you were going to crush me with your shoe."

"I'm glad you picked on the elm in my yard," said David, kindly. "Maybe I can help your babies. I shall look for the little beetles when they hatch. Will they look like you?"

"Goodness no," laughed Mrs. Scoletus Beetle. "When they hatch, they are tiny, white grubs. Just as soon as they are hatched they begin to eat the tree, and by the time they eat their way to the outside bark of the tree, they are full fledged beetles. Now I must hurry. You just watch for my youngsters," and waving her front foot, Mrs. Scoletus Beetle hurried off to the elm tree.

That was the last of the little Scoletus Beetle; for the next morning when David went out to look at the elm tree, sure enough her little body lay in the entrance to the beetle nursery.

I was very tired, weak and miserable. INDIANS RENEW AFRICAN PLEA

Earl Reading Opens Legislative Assembly for the Last Time.

COLORFUL SCENE.

DELHI, India, Jan. 21 — (Via Reuter's)—The legislative assembly was opened in state yesterday for the last time by the Earl of Reading, the retiring viceroy and governor-general of India. The sun shone brightly, the streets were lined with troops, and the legislative chamber, which was crowded, presented a brilliant spectacle. The viceroy sat on a golden chair which stood on a crimson carpet. All the officials present were in uniform and lent added color to the scene.

In the speech from the throne, which was read by the viceroy, it was annouced that the King had approved the appointment of a royal commission to inquire into agriculture in India.

Africa Legislation

Sympathy was expressed with the feeling in India rgarding the anti-Indian legislation proposed by the South African government. The Indian deputation, which was now on its way to South Africa, had ordered valuable information from the government of India, and it was still hoped that the South African government would be persuaded that there was the strongest possible ground for holding the desired conference to discuss the whole question of Indian rights in South Africa. It was hoped that the course which appeared to have justice and equity on its side would prevail and a basis of discussion with the government of South Africa would be reached.

Birkenhead Advances

Regret was expressed that the Indian political leaders had not made a better response to a message of sympathetic encouragement, sent by the Earl of Birkenhead, secretary of state for India.

OSGOODE LAWYERS DEFEAT PETES WITH SPEED AND HARD CHECKING

UNEXPECTED REVE RSE IN 2 TO 0 SCORE

By F. D. C.)

The Petes ran into an unexpected disaster in their Senior O.H.A. game against Osgoode Hall in Toronto last night, the Lawyers blanking Eddie Wright's crew 2 goals to 0 and taking first place in the group race.

There was no fluke about the result.

Osgoode played fast, hard hockey, and they deserved to win.

With perfect goal keeping by Jack Cameron, Olympic star, behind a hard-checking defence and assisted by a forward line that never let up for a moment in its persistent and systematic back-checking, the budding lawyers presented a problem that the Petes could not solve for goals, while the individual brilliancy of Ross Taylor, former Varsity defence man, supplied enough attacking punch for the Osgoode Hall team to win.

Taylor Star Of Game.

Taylor was responsible for the only two counters of the game, getting the first himself in the second period, with a beautiful rush and a perfect shot, and carrying the rubber down for the second goal in the last session and then giving Evans a pass at the goal mouth.

Taylor was the best man on the ice, his fast skating and good stick-handling making him dangerous every time he broke away while defensively he was of great assistance.

Cameron performed brilliantly in the Osgoode nets, making some great saves, while Fisher teamed up well with Taylor on the defence. Heffernan, the Westerner at centre, was the most conspicuous of the forwards, showing a great turn of speed although the Plaxton boys, and Gordon and Evans were not far behind.

It is true that the Petes have played, and will play better hockey, than they showed last night. They did not look right from the start and Osgoode beat them right at their own game. Matching them in speed and back-checking more effectively than the blue and white. The Petes lacked punch and their shooting was weak and inaccurate, while the close checking of the winners shook all idea of team work out of the crew with the result that most of their attacks were one-man affairs, easily handled by Osgoode Hall.

Dwyer had no chance with either shot that beat him and made some great stops during the battle, while McLeod and Parker were effective defensively but found difficulty in piercing the Osgoode defence on their raids down the ice. Up in front the most dangerous attacks were made by Ranger, who turned in a good card. Bailey was a marked man and got nowhere most of the time, and the rest of the attacking force also had a tough time trying to shake of their checks.

Checking Big Factor.

To sum it all up in a few words Osgoode Hall's checking barrage was effective enough to hold the Petes off the score sheet while Taylor furnished the driving power for the attack.

It was a fast well played battle and the fans went away tickled with the argument put up by the teams and happy because the Legalites had put the skids under the Petes.

Osgoode showed plenty of reasons for believing that they will be very keen contenders for the group honors. Incidentally they are the first Toronto team to beat the Petes at the Arena.

The Line Up.

Osgoode Hall:
Goal—Cameron.
Defence—Taylor. Fisher.
uSbs—B. Plaxton, Evans.

Peterboro:
Goal—Dwyer.
Defence—Parker, McLeod
Right wing—Bailey.
Subs—Bogardis, Cox.
Referee—M. J. Rodden.

The first period was scoreless and although both goal-keepers had a number of shots to handle they were nearly all from outside the defence and Dwyer and Cameron turned them aside with ease. The checking was close all through the period and it was difficult to work into scoring position. Twice early in the period Osgoode Hall were short-handed, Heffernan drawing a penalty for tripping Bailey while after his sentence was up Roger Plaxton was chased for a similar offence. The Petes failed to take advantage of the opening as did Osgoode Hall a little later when Ranger was penalized for tripping. The Lawyers most dangerous attack during the period was a lightning thrust by Heffernan who skated around a couple of checks and laid a beauty on the nets, which Dwyer saved splendidly. The Petes attacked individually and on combination plays in a manner that promised to bring goals but they failed to beat Cameron and honours were even when the period ended.

Second Period.

Osgoode Hall got the only goal of the second period on a beautiful rush by Ross Taylor, former Varsity star, eight minutes after the session started. The period opened tamely enough but when Taylor dusted down mid ice and drove a low shot into the corner of the net as he rounded Parker, for a fine goal, the game livened up appreciably as the Petes battled to draw up on even terms. For the next ten minutes the pace was hectic with the Petes having the edge, despite penalties to Bailey and Collins but they could not drive one past Cameron. Ranger engineerd seevral smart attacks at this stage but the former Olympic goaler foiled him each time and also saved on close in attempts by Collins, Bailey and McLeod. The Petes had the most openings but could not score and the Lawyers were still hugging their one goal lead when they skated off for the second rest period.

The Final Dash.

And Osgoode not only held their margin throughout the last session but added another one to it for good luck. Early in the period the Petes tried hard to even up the count but the winners back-checked them all the way down the ice and allowed few real openings to score. A three man attack by Ranger, Collins and Bailey ended in Collins netting the puck, but the play was called back for offside. As the minutes sped by and no loosening up in Osgoode Hall's successful checking barrage could be detected the Petes' chances slowly faded and they disappeared altogether five minutes before the end when Taylor got away for one of his dashing rushes. Dwyer stopped his shot but Taylor chased into the corner and made a perfect pass out to Evans, in front of the net, and the sub forward batted the rubber in before Dwyer could blink. That settled the argument and although the Petes threw everybody up on the attack they could not break through Osgoode s stubborn checking or beat Cameron from outside.

CELTIC STRONG AGAIN FOR CUP

To "Cop" League Also Would Be Great Honor.

SCOTTISH GAMES.

GLASGOW, Jan. 22 (Canadian Press Cable).—The interest of soccer fans throughout the northern part of the kingdom on Saturday will undergo a shift from league to cuptie football, for the first round of the great annual competition will then get underway. In only five contests will wholly first division teams clash, and this quintette of games sees the present holders, Celtic, matched against Kilmarnock. The other Senior string combinations who will face each other are Hamilton Academicals against Cowdenbeath; Clydebank at Hampden Park against Queen's Park; Motherwell at Partick against the Thistle, and Heart of Midlothian at Tannadice Park against Dundee United. In all other cases the big leaguers are matched with second or third divsion teams; or, as in the case of Dundee, with amateurs like Inverness Caledonians.

Followers of the game here feel that on their present league showing the Celtic will make it twice in succession, for they are by far the most outstanding team in the game at the moment. To "cop" the league and the cup in the same year would be a great honor, and it is believed that the Irishmen have this in mind.

It is a curious feature that sees the "bottom-dogs" of league play drawn against each other in the first round of the cup. Both Queen's Park and Clydebank are almost certain to be relegated this year, for their performances have been worse than indifferent. Each will make a strong bid in the cup contest, but neither can hope to get very far.

Rangers, who travelled into the semi-final before they were finally crushed by Celtic last year are conceded a snap in Lochgelly United, a third string club, but the same is not being said of Hamilton, the other semi-finalist of last year who gave Dundee two strong runs for their money before being put out of business. The Academicals are confronted by Cowdenbeath and play at Cowdenbeath. Also on the one occasion on which these teams have met in league football this season, Cowdenbeath were the victors.

PLAYED TIE GAME.

Youthful Players From Lindsay Battled Dunsford Juniors—No Decision.

DUNSFORD, Jan. 22.—A junior hockey team from Lindsay journeyed to this village on Friday night last and played a real good game with the local juniors. No little energy was put forth by the players on either side, but the game ended with an even score of 4-4. They played no overtime but the locals expect them back to play off next Friday night.

PRAISE FOR 'RED' FROM NEW YORK

CROWD LIKED HIM

KINGSTON, Jan. 22.—(Special).—The New York Sun of January 9th had the following under the caption "A red-head an asset to an athlete":

"The value of a red head of an athlete was illustrated once more during the visit of the Queen's College team to this city. A young man named Legon who plays on that team has a shock of fiery hair, and the minute he glided out on the ice the crowd spotted him—and liked him.

"Legon is a splendid player—one of the best in amateur hockey circles, I venture to say—yet on a team of the caliber of Queen's he did not stand out particularly except in the affection of the crowd. The first time he darted in pursuit of the puck in the Princeton game there was a cry of "Come on Red," from the crowd, and the cry was repeated every time thereafter that he went into action, which was so often as to be almost continuous. The other Queen's players thrilled the crowd as they flashed behind the puck toward the Princeton goal, but none thrilled it quite as much as 'Red.' When he scored a goal the spectators were in an uproar, and when he was ordered from the ice for a bit of rough stuff toward the end of the game, the official who penalized him did not escape without a few lusty boos."

CANADIAN GIRLS MEET AMERICANS

Relay Team in New York Feb. 4.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (Canadian Press)—The champion girls' relay team of Canada, composed of Rosa Grosse, Fannie Rosenfeld, Josie Dyment and Myrtle Cook, of Toronto, Ont., will be seen again at the Millrose games here February 4, in the new Madison Square Garden, it was announced Thursday.

Last summer they established a new world's record of 51 3-5 for the 440 yard relay and Miss Rosenfeld also set a new world's record for girls and women of 11 seconds flat for the 100 yards. She and Miss Grosse will be entered in the 50 yard sprint, competing against the best the United States has to offer.

Opposed to these Canadian runners will be Francis Ruppert, of Meadowbrook Club; Eleanor Egg, of the Patterson Recreation Association; Maybelle Gilliland, of Savage School, and Loretta McNeill, of the Millrose A. A.

The Canadian team met with misfortune last year, when their third runner, close to the lead, fell and the team was able to get only third place.

BALL SCHEDULES FOR 1926 DRAFTED

World Champions Open at St. Louis April 13.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 22—The National and American Baseball League schedules for the coming season have been drafted and are ready for submission to the club owners, who will meet to ratify them early in February, Barney Dreyfuss, the National League schedule maker, announced here last night.

The announcement came at the close of a two day meeting of the schedule committees, including Dreyfuss, B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, and his secretary, William Harridge.

The committeemen refused to discuss the schedules, other than to say that "They have been signed and sealed and are ready for delivery to the leagues." Asked concerning the trouble encountered by the schedule makers in fitting the playing dates to the proposed shorter season, Dreyfuss said, "We did the best we could. The schedules will be kept secret until they have been ratified. I cannot give you the opening and closing dates, other than that the beginning of the season for the Pittsburgh Club. The Pirates will open at St. Louis on April 13."

PIRATES DEFEND STRONGHOLD AND DEFEAT ST. PATS

Irish Held Game To Deadlock By Tieing Score in Final Period.

SENATORS WIN.

Americans Accept Loss at Hands of League Leading Ottawa Six.

PITTSBURGH, January 22. Canadian Press. —The rejuvenated Pittsburgh team won its third straight victory by defeating St. Pats of Toronto last night by 5 to 4. The contest was one of the best and hardest fought combats of the season. Toronto made the game stand to a deadlock score in the final period, when Adams and Day dumped two pretty scores into the net.

SENATORS 3; AMERICANS 2.

OTTAWA, January 22. Canadian Press. — Staging a third period assault that netted them two goals the New York Americans just fell short of victory here last night and went down to defeat before the league standing Senators by 3 to 2. The closing session was marked by a gallant but futile effort on the part of the Americans to pull the game out of the fire, had the crowd standing up for the greater part of the time and was productive of the best hockey of the evening.

EASY VICTORY FOR HAVELOCK

Defeated Weak Hastings Team 12-4 at Havelock.

ALWAYS IN LEAD.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 22.—Havelock beat Hastings 12 to 4 in a Trent Valley League hockey match, played in Havelock last night.

Hastings came minus several of their best players, which made the game not very interesting, although what players they did have worked very hard against the Havelock six.

The first period was pretty snappy, and Havelock looked winners from the start, as the game had not been in progress long before they scored a nice goal. Then, by some nice play, Hastings worked the puck down and shot at goal, and he lost the puck, which was under his feet, and a Hastings' man pushed it into the net. This made Havelock get more spirit into the game, and away they went and scored four more goals which they well deserved. This ended the first period with Havelock leading by 5 to 1.

After the intermission Havelock eased down a little and Hastings scored a couple of counters in the second period, but Havelock would not be denied so they went at it again and started combination, which ended in three more goals being scored.

Credit must be given to one player on the local team, Becky Jack, as he is only a beginner and this is his first season but one would think from the way in which he handles the stick and shoots that he was an old stager. All the rest of the team, namely, Rugs Wright, Doug. Brennan, Barney Quinn, Chuck Brennan and Bill Laing played as usual a good game as every player scored with the exception of the goal tender. Hooper in the nets never worried very much and seemed to let two or three go past him to make the game look a little better. In the last period Havelock team scored 4 more goals and Hastings scored one, which finished the game with Havelock winners by the large score of 12 to 4.

Credit is due Mr. J. Draper, the manager of the Havelock team, for the way in which he worked all day, whitening the fence and changing the lights around to make everything as nice as possible for the game.

Mr. A. Armstrong refereed the game satisfactorily.

A fairly good crowd was in attendance but the night was cold and stormy and it is hard to get people to turn out to witness a game on an open air rink. This is the first T. V. League game here and the boys are hoping to go farther in the O.H.A. finals this year than they did last, and to repeat their victory at Campbellford next game.

Havelock team defeated the Campbellford team in Campbellford last week 5-1 and also a game with the Brinton Carpet Co. team of Peterboro in Havelock by the same score, which is a good start.

WIN FOR TWEED RIGHT IN MADOC

Winners Twice Came From Behind, Winning Out By 4-2 Score.

GAME WAS FAST.

MADOC, Jan. 22.—The first game between Tweed and Madoc in the Hastings County League was played last night, with the score in favor of Tweed, 4 to 2.

In the first period much of the play centered around the Madoc goal and there was much checking by the referee. The play was pretty even for a little more than half the period, while the excitement was intense. Then Madoc scored a goal, Watson being the marksman. Brown of Tweed tried hard to make a goal but the shot went wild. Madoc nearly succeeded again and the play was fast until the bell rang, leaving the score 1 to 0 in favor of Madoc.

The second period began with hard fast playing. Watson of Madoc and Houston of Tweed got slight knock-outs, but went on playing. Tweed made many drives at goal and some shots were very close, but Lenahan put up a good defence. Early in the period, however, Tweed scored, and shortly afterwards Smith, who did some good work, scored another one for Madoc. Both sides fought hard for another goal, but the period ended with the score 2 to 1 in favor of Madoc. One Tweed player was penalized during this period.

In the third period the play was faster and Tweed worked up to a high pitch. Two Madoc players were penalized. Excitement was intense when Tweed finally succeeded in scoring. The Madoc boys played well and put in some nice work, but their opponents succeeded in scoring twice more. The period ended with the score 4 to 2 in favor of Tweed. Barrett of Belleville acted as referee.

BASKETBALL

By THE CAPTAIN

NO. 9—DEFENSIVE GUARD ON TAP-OFF

Regardless of what position a man might play he must know how to prevent being eluded as well as know how to get away from the other fellow. The guard's ability to stick to his forward, is especially tested on the tap-off.

Unless your side's center is consistently getting the tap on his opponent, you as the guard, are the one to play defensively. The forward has a natural advantage at the start. Unless he is an exceptionally slow man your efforts will be almost entirely defensive.

Your stand is between the opposing side's forward and his goal.

He will be playing with his back to the side of the court or to the end zone. Never face him on the tap-off. Rather, remain a step behind him, as in drawing.

You have two things to watch, your opponent has only one. While you are forced to keep your eye on both the play center and on your rival, he apparently loses sight of you and is intent on the play at center.

You start inside of the forward. Stay there. He'll make a false start, he'll pivot and possibly give the appearance of staying out of plays. Don't be misled by any move he makes, for it is nearly always something different from what he will do.

Follow his every move, start and stop with him, and above all stay between him and his goal. When you're on the defensive, as you usually are on the tap-off, let him take the initiative. But guard against his outwitting you His every move will be made with that intention.

Promising Future Seen For Dorthy Wihr, Tot Swimmer

DOROTHY WIHR

Some day you may be reading of this little water nymph being a world champion. In fact, no less an authority than William Bachrach, famous coach and the fellow who brought the great Weissmuller, predicts she'll be the leading breast stroke mermaid in the not too distant future. Dorothy is six years old and lives in Chicago, "Just watch her," opines Bachrach.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY FIGHT DOUBTFUL

Rickard Refuses To Say Negotiations Complete.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — (Canadian Press) — Tex Rickard, whose promoting hand is credited with manoeuvers believed to be preliminary to matching Jack Dempsey for a heavy-weight title fight with the ex-marine, Gene Tunney, broke his silence Thursday sufficiently to give the impression that he figures on staging this battle at his Jersey City arena, Boyle's Thirty Acres, next September.

Rickard refused to make any point-blank admission that he als negotiations for such a match near completion, as published reports have contended. Likewise, he declined to deny them but at the same time he admitted holding a conference with Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, expressed his conviction that Tunney is the champion's most logical contender and made it clear he has shelved plans to match Dempsey with the persistent negro challenger, Harry Wlils.

HOCKEY AT MADOC.

New Rink Suggested as a War Memorial—Player Recovers.

MADOC, Jan. 22. — Many cars travelled to Stirling on Tuesday night to see the Stirling-Marmora hockey game. Among those who went from Madoc were: G. C. Moon, Dr. F. Fraser, Dr. W. Wyper, Col. Rierdon, E. Jewell, H. McLean, R. P. Wellman, E. Ryan, B. McCoy, K. Jarvis, T. Blue, J. K. Lenahan, K. Nicol, L. Blue, J. Henderson, J. Watson, H. Henderson, A. Robertson, P. McCoy.

A suggestion has been made that Madoc also have a memorial covered skating rink, and much favorable comment is being heard. Madoc has not yet erected a memorial to her heroes, and it is believed that no more fitting one can be designed than a place where the training of those sportsman-qualities which so characterized our brave, fair-minded soldiers, may be fostered in the youth of today and tomorrow.

At the organization meeting of the Hastings County Hockey League it was agreed that all teams must whitewash the boards five feet around the rink, but Marmora has not yet done this. Other teams hope they will soon see their way clear to doing this as the dark boards make it very difficult for visiting teams to follow the course of the puck.

Mr. L. McConnell, who was hurt in Stirling at the first game of the season, is again able to play on the local team.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—A sale of a car of storage seconds shipped from Alberta is reported sold at Montreal at 20c. Toronto reports that fresh supplies are equal to the demand.

Toronto—Market unsettled fresh receipts coming in fairly plentiful. There seems to be quite a number of Canadian storage eggs being offered.

Montreal — Market quiet and steady; jobbing extras 42, firsts 37, seconds 32, storage firsts 25, seconds 18.

Winnipeg—Fresh plentiful, paying country points extras 44 to 45, firsts 36 to 37, seconds 25. Jobbing, firsts 40, seconds 27 to 30, storage depressed; jobbing firsts 35 to 37, seconds 25 to 30.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:
Sterling demand $4.86 5-8.
Sterling cables $4.87 1-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Increasing shipments from Argentina, together with large arrivals of German wheat at Liverpool, led to a sharp break in wheat prices today. The wheat market here closed heavy, 2 3-8 to 3 3-8c net lower, May, new, $1.73 1-8 to $1.73 1-4, and July $1.50 to $1.50 1-8.

Corn finished 3-4 to 1 cent down; oats 5-8 to 3-4 cent off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to 7 cents advance.

General selling began in the Chicago wheat market right at the opening and persisted throughout the day whenever rallies took place. Weakness of quotations at Buenos Aires and Liverpool preceded the downturns here, and had much to do with driving to the bear side a majority of traders. Argentine exports this week, 1,480,000 bushels, were more than double those of a week ago and in this connection it was pointed out that Argentine prices were being discounted on account of reduced weight per bushel of Argentine offerings this season. Depressing effect of heavy receipts of German wheat in England were added to the announcement that Russia had cleared 600,000 bushels to various continental European countries.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—There was some demand on the Montreal market today for Canadian Western barley from the United Kingdom and some business was transacted. The foreign enquiry for oats continues quiet, which is due to the keen competition from Argentine and the low prices quoted from the latter source.

Owing to the further weakness in Winnipeg cash wheat situation, the more liberal offerings from Ontario millers and the accumulation of stocks on spot on account of the continued very limited demand from both local and outside buyers, the market for winter wheat grades of flour was weaker and prices declined 30c per barrel.

The feature of the rolled oat trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for standard grades, and prices were reduced 10c per bag.

According to latest cable advices received here from Glasgow, a weaker feeling has prevailed in the market of late for Canadian baled hay, and prices have declined 5s per ton. There was no change in the local market, prices being steady with a small trade passing in car lots.

Eggs Off 2 Cents.

The feature of the local egg trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for strictly fresh eggs and prices were reduced another 2c per dozen, which was attributed to the continued liberal supplies coming forward and the further reduction in prices at United States centres. At the lower level of the market there was a steady demand from grocers and other dealers and a fair amount of business was done.

The market for storage eggs also displayed further weakness and prices dropped 2c to 3c per dozen, which is due to the continued pressure of holders to liquidate and the impression is that they will go still lower owing to the fact that demand for them is very limited. The receipts today were 327 cases, as against 443 for the same day last week, and 306 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The condition of the market for potatoes was unchanged prices being steady, but the volume of business was small owing to the fact that buyers were not disposed to operate freely on account of the mild weather prevailing, and in consequence only sales of odd cars of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at $3.50 per bag, and Quebec varieties at $3 to $3.25 per bag of 90 lbs, ex-track.

Butter Market Easier.

A weaker feeling has prevailed in the butter market of late and prices have declined 3-4 to 1c per lb. There has also been some further demand from local buyers for Australian pasteurized creamery butter and further sales were made at 37c per lb. for delivery here late in March.

There has been a fair enquiry from foreign buyers for supplies of late and it was reported that sales of some fair-sized lots of early-made goods were made. The trade on spot continues quiet and prices were nominally unchanged, with early makes quoted at 20c to 21c per lb, and current receipts at 17c to 17 1-2 cents per lb.

LONDON Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Whether women who have their hair shingled lose strength as did Samson when Delilah used the shears on him is the question now going the rounds. The problem had its origin in a tug-of-war between bobbed and unbobbed girls at an athletic meet. The unbobbed won.

CAN BRINTONS STOP DE LAVAL

Weavers' Strong Defence Will Keep League Leaders Busy To-night.

FOUR GOOD GAMES.

City Hockey League fans are showing unusual interest in to-night's bill of four games, because of the main battle between Brintons and De Laval. The Separator Kings have a clean sheet, and much of their success has been due to the work of Dundas and McDougall on the attacking line. Opinion is divided as to how this pair will fare in their efforts to break through the Brintons' defence, which is considered the strongest in the League. This contest, which promises a real hockey thrill, will start at eight o'clock.

St. Peter's Juniors play St. James' at six o'clock, and Raybestos meet St. Andrew's at seven o'clock. St. Peter's will be back with their regular line-up, and if Raybestos can defeat the leading St. Andrew's team, the race will warm up considerably.

Crescents and Raybestos go on for the second Senior game at nine o'clock, when both teams will be expected to make frantic efforts to keep in the hunt for the championship.

PETES NEED WIN TO KEEP UP THERE

Must Beat Hamilton Here To-morrow Night or Drop a Notch.

The unexpected defeat of the Petes by Osgoode Hall last night has added much interest to tomorrow night's battle with Hamilton at Brock Street Rink. The Petes have to beat the Scullers to stay up in the running for the Osgood Hall team has won four games in a row and is now leading the parade. The Blue and White realize now that they have a real fight on their hands to bring home the group honors, and they can be depended upon to put more determination and fight into their effors from now on.

Hamilton are bringing their strongest lineup and heartened by Osgoode Hall's feat will sail right into the Petes tomorrow night. The Scullers gave Osgoode a great argument last week only losing 5 to 4 and they will be real opposition.

Harry Batstone will referee and the game will start at 9 o'clock sharp.

It is planned to have the match played here in June or July.

The challenge is issued to any American player over a course of 72-holes for a purse of £500.

With a rich patron employing him as private professional, Mitchell has been granted freedom for unlimited practice, and all England seems ready to back him against the pick of American match players.

GAME INSPECTOR AND GUIDE FOUND IN SHACK ASHES

Missing Men Had Been Burned to Death in Building.

FOUL PLAY FEARED.

Police Suspect That Someone Fired Shack During Night.

BARRY'S BAY, Ont., Jan. 22.—Canadian Press.— Search parties, which have been out for the past week or more, in the hope of locating Sergeant John Billings, D.C.M., Game and Fisheries Inspector at Barry's Bay, and Joe Stringer, a guide, who have been missing since January 6th, came upon the charred remains of two men in a shack which had been burned to the ground about ten miles from Whitney, in the Sand Lake district, late yesterday afternoon, and it is presumed that Sergeant Billings and his guide have met death by burning in a shack.

Provincial Constable Elliott of Pembroke, one of the leaders of the search party who discovered the bodies, suspects foul play.

The shack, which was built for the use of trappers, was far from any other human habitation. The Game and Fisheries Inspector and his guide had gone into the district in search of certain men who were claimed to be trapping illegally.

What Constable Elliott suspects is that while the inspector and his guide slept, some one crept up and fired the shack. Both the victims were experienced woodsmen and for this reason it is doubted that they would be caught in a fire of their own starting.

There is some doubt as to the jurisdiction, both coroner's communicated with in the early hours of this morning expressing the opinion that the scene of the fire is outside their county.

The remains of the charred bodies of the two men were found lying in the debris of the shack. The bodies were so badly burned that they could not be identified, but articles found in the ruins seem to leave no doubt but that they are the remains of the Inspector and his guide.

BREWERS DENIED RIGHT.

Cannot Maintain Warehouses Along Border, Says Belleville Judge.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)— The right of brewers or distributors to maintain liquor export warehouses along the line of the international boundary or at lake ports has been denied by Judge George E. Deroche, in a decision just handed down in the case of Harry Robinson, charged under the O.T.A.

Judge Deroche's verdict is a reversal of the Deseronto police magistrate's finding. It was at the instance of Attorney General Nickle that the appeals were taken.

IN POLICE COURT

Three youths who had been convicted of stealing two robes from the shed of a farmer living on the Port Hope highway, received sentence this morning from Magistrate O. A. Langley.

Two being under the age of sixteen, were sentenced to two years in the Victoria Industrial School at Mimico, while the third, a lad of eighteen, was ordered to be detained for two months in the common jail.

The grandfather of one of the younger boys entered a plea for leniency, explaining that both parents were dead and the boy had been an orphan since shortly after his birth.

One of the boys had been on suspended sentence as the result of a previous conviction, while the other had been frequently warned by Police Chief Newhall.

After imposing sentence, the Magistrate addressed the youths and told them of the necessity of keeping the law and the opportunity for improvement, and also for learning some profitable trade, which he was giving with his apparently harsh sentence. He told them of the ultimate fate which will surely visit wrong doers, and exhorted the young men to take their misfortune as a lesson so that they might profit by it in the future.

Snubs Of Schoolmates Because He Was An Orphan Impelled Nelson Harrington, 16, To Commit Suicide

BERRIEN SPRINGS, Mich., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—Chided by his school mates because he was an orphan, and because they denied him any companionship, Nelson Harrington, 16, a High School boy, fatally shot himself in the home of his grandfather, A. W. Calvin, here yesterday. Mrs. Benjamin Harrington, the boy's foster-mother, took him back to school after he had been "playing hookey" for several days.

Protesting against the snubs of his school mates, the boy asked permission to go to his grandfather's home for a few minutes. When he did not return, his stepmother went to the Calvin home. She found the boy on a floor. Beside him were found the revolver and a note which read: "Mother, I will see you in heaven." The boy died a few hours later.

The above rules were made and approved of by those at the meeting. The League will open Saturday afternoon with two games at Mark Street Rink.

After the other rules were decided the matter of the Lakefield team who wanted to enter was discussed. It was finally decided that at the close of the League, after the cups had been disposed of, a special district series will be run off. A shield will be donated for this purpose.

Those present at the meeting were Hon. President Hon. G. N Gordon, President G. G. Agnew, Secretary C. F. Williams.

BUSES START

p.m., while a special street car will call at the Canadian General Electric plant at 12 noon and 5 p.m. Four of the street cars are being re-built and re-painted for service on the George Street route.

The buses are specially built, the bodies being supplies by the commercial Motor Bodies and Carriages Limited of Guelph, while the Gotfredson chassis is used. Twenty-one passengers are easily accommodated. The general structure indicates strength while the quality of upholstery and the beauty of the interior makes for comfort. The windows are large and set solidly in brass frames. The life of the vehicles has been estimated to endure for 250,000 miles of use.

The destination of the bus is made known by a canvas strip which bears the names of streets and other places such as the Exhibition grounds so that confusion will be minimized. The door is controlled by a handle in the same manner as the folding doors of a street car making it unnecessary for the driver to leave his seat. The heating is controlled by a foot pedal and may be easily regulated.

Mr. Clifford in conclusion stated that Peterborough people had their chance now to endorse the new system at the reduced rates. Should insufficient patronage be accorded the change the street railway company will have no other course open but to replace the old scale of fares. He remarked that it was now "up to the people to show their approval and they would receive the benefit of all possible co-operation."

Theatre

AT THE CAPITOL

REGINALD DENNY IN "CALIFORNIA STRAIGHT AHEAD".

The likable Reginald Denny, is at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end, in "California Straight Ahead." He stars as Tom Hayden in a picture that recalls the spectacular exploits of Wallace Reid in the days of his prime. There is a touch too of the charm of Thomas Meighan in the work of this star.

It is one of those pictures that have become familiar to movie patrons with two men struggling for the favor of a pretty girl, whose father looks with contentment on the suit of one and frowns on the other. Tom Hayden is the son of the father's most prominent business rival. One of the parents makes the Moonbeam car, the other the Brown Special, and they come to loggerheads over the great California speed classic of the year, when the two cars battle against each other for the supremacy. The race is rather more realistic than the usual run if such movie thrills, and furnishes an excellest opportunity to view the latest ideas in death-running in such events.

Tom Hayden on the eve of his wedding to Betty Brown, goes for a farewell bachelor tour in his pleasure car, an affair something like a train coach hitched on to a powerful motor car. On the way back, the coach becomes disengaged from the car, and runs away, wrecking itself finally and landing its owner in a hospital, half an hour before the time set for his wedding. With his face bandaged up, he makes his way in a hospital ambulance to the church. But the ambulance contains a crazy female who insists on embracing Tom in view of his waiting bride, and the marriage is called off. Tom is disinherited, and everything is gloomy.

The racy atmosphere of the following portion of the picture is very interesting. Tom goes into the business of convoying travellers across the desert to California, and on the way runs foul of Betty and her parents. There is an entertaining scene, in which a nearby circus runs amuck owing to a wind storm, and the slumbers of the campers are rudely disturbed by apes, lions, tigers and elephants. The scenes here are handled in a hilarious and very clever fashion. Altogether it is an amusing and entertaining picture, with Gertrude Olmstead as the supporting star.

There are the usual good short reels and a comedy entitled "Buster, be Good," featuring the little Buster Brown and his playmate and his doge Tige.—Jeanette.

"BUFFALO BILL" AND "WILD BILL" HAVE ROLES IN FOX FILM.

Two famous characters of the early days are forcibly portrayed in the film version of the construction of the pioneer trans-continental railroad, "The Iron Horse," produced by William Fox and directed by John Ford.

These two old picturesque fighters are "Buffalo Bill" Cody and "Wild Bill" Hickok. The important bearing of these two men on the success of the original venture made it imperative that exact types be procured. It was "Wild Bill" himself who presided over the forces of law and order in the rough and ready town of Benton, where much of the important action of the picture takes place. The great buffalo hunter figured importantly during the long period when the road was under construction.

"Wild Bill's" original vest-pocket derringer that featured in many of his notorious gun duels is used by the picture play character.

AT THE REGENT

"Steel Preferred," Comedy-Drama, Is Heartily Received.

Gigantic of theme, startling in its realism, a dramatic story punctuated with laughs, "Steel Preferred," featuring Vera Reynolds, William Boyd and Charlie Murray, was heartily received by delighted audiences at the Regent Theatre yesterday. It is the romance of steel inasmuch as it was filmed in the heart of the steel industry in Pittsburgh, and while it is illuminative, the picture is a comedy drama of exceptional entertainment value.

The story deals with a young steel worker who is ambitious and who rises from the post of a common helper to a position of prominence in the mill. The scenes for the greater part are located in a steel mill, and they are so realistic that one fancies one's self to be in the mill rather than in a theatre. From every angle the production is a delightful innovation and reflects great credit upon Metropolitan Pictures Corporation which produced it.

There is dramatic action that is most impelling, comedy situations such as Charles Murray, Ben Turpin and William V. Mong can create and thrills that follow one another in rapid succession . . . . thrills new in motion picture presentation.

There are two outstanding thrills in the production that defy comparison. One when a ladle train filled with molten steel is wrecked and spills its contents over the hillside, the other when Walter Long catches Nigel Barrie in the giant tongs and swing him over the heating pits. Nothing like this has ever been attempted . . . it thrills with tremendous force.

The cast, one of exceptional merit, includes William Boyd, Vera Reynolds, Hobart Bosworth, Walter Long, Ben Turpin, Charlie Murray, William V. Mong, Nigel Barrie and Helene Sullivan. All the portrayals were artistic and satisfying.

It is a motion picture innovation, clean, fast moving, well acted and exceptionally human . . . . a treat for fans.

MR. HUGH KANE.
At Gospel Hall last night Mr. Hugh Kane gave a powerful address from Job. 19:25-26, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."
Mr. Kane showed that God always had one way of saving sinners in Old Testament times as well as in New Testament times; it was always on the ground of sacrifice and faith.
Any religion that presents any other way or salvation on any other basis than the death of Jesus Christ is of the devil, said the preacher. Job has faith in a redeemer and not in good works. All Old Testament saints looked forward to a Saviour whose blood would alone atone for their sins. All New Testament believers look back to one who has bled and died and liveth again, so God's method has always been the same, death for sin, resurrection for justification, ascension for advocacy, and Christ sits to-day on the right hand of God with all power given unto him for the benefit of believers in a finished salvation.
Mr. Kane will stay over Sunday and continue part of next week.

WEDDING BELLS.

QUINN—FORESTELL

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at 8.30 on Wednesday, January 20th, at St. Mary's Church, Campbellford, when Bridget Cecilia, youngest daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. James L. Forestell, became the bride of Patrick Joseph Quinn of Campbellford. Rev. D. L. Forestell, C.S.B., brother of the bride, performed the marriage ceremony, and celebrated the nuptial mass. Rev. Father C. J. Phalen, pastor of St. Mary's Church, was present in the sanctuary. The Wedding March was played by Mrs. Wm. Welch and Mrs. Frank Daly sang very sweetly an "Ave Marie."

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, looked very dainty in her suit of navy blue tricotine with hat of gold; log cabin shade of shoes and stockings with gloves to match, and fox fur. The bridesmaid, Miss Geraldine O'Connell of Peterboro, a neice of the bride, wore a coat of mist shade trimmed with fur, with small black hat, shoes and stockings.

Mr. Edward Forestell, brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

After the ceremony a very dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's father. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn leaving on the afternoon train for Montreal and points East where a brief honeymoon will be spent.

The young couple who, on their return, will reside on the groom's farm near Campbellford, were the recipients of numerous useful and beautiful gifts.

COMEDY PRESENTED.

High School Boys of Sacred Heart Parish Gave Amusing Play.

Last evening, in the Sacred Heart hall, a three-act musical comedy entitled "Adventures in Philanthropy," directed by Rev. J. Moloney, was presented with great success by the High School boys of the south end parish. This will be repeated this evening, when another good audience is expected. The plot of the entertaining offering centers about the efforts of Mr. J. P. Gotroxfeller who has more money than he can spend, to find some means of lessening his wealth. He advertises in The Examiner, and receives numerous suggestions, among them a plan to make mules live one thousand years, and another to install radio outfits in stables, to prevent horses from becoming lonesome. Finally, he is in induced to visit a miners' school in Crimson Gulch, which he assists. The denoument of the third act is a surprise to everyone and also a disappointment to Mr. B. Smooth.

The cast of characters is as follows: J. P. Gotroxfeller (John Cairns), I. Doem (Victor Grady), Ima Gogetter (Herbert Masterson), U. Tellem (Joseph O'Toole), C. Medoit (Roy Bacon), B. Smooth (Roy Deannard), I. Pinchem (Albert Guerin), The Teacher (Herbert Masterson), Six Gun Sam (Bernard Jones), Hard Luck Hank (Roy Bacon), Lynx Eye Leo (Roy Deannard), Panhandler Pete (Leo Masterson), Free Lunch Fred (Robert Creighton), Hot Dog Harry (Albert Guerin), Tight Rope Tim (Joseph O'Toole), Quick Draw Quentin (Leo Richea), Jackpot Jack (Victor Grady), Lookout Louis (Arthur Lazure), Friskall Frank (Eddie Woodhouse), Left Bower Larry (Frank Kirkcaldy).

Specialties between acts were introduced by Vincent Lynch and Billy Garvey, in clog dances which were enthusiasticaly encored, an excellent reading, "The Bell of St. Michel," by Gordon LaPlante, a vaudeville act by Roy Bacon and Victor Grady, entitled "Uncle Josh at the Dentist's", and an entertaining skit by James Maloney, as Mr. Tomkins, an old, decrepit man of wealth, and Kanneth O'Toole, as Polly Hopkins, a maiden of bashful fifteen.

Members of the Sacred Heart orchestra, Harold Armstrong, Jerry Collins and Frank O'Keefe, also contributed several much appreciated musical numbers.

The entertainment will be repeated this evening in the parish hall.

Service

Down in a certain town a man went into a store to buy an article and asked the price. It was $3.20, the dealer said.

"Good gracious," said the man. "I can get the same thing from a mail order house for $2.82."

"That's less than it costs me," said the dealer; "but I'll sell it on the same terms as the mail order house just the same."

"All right," said the customer. "You can send it along and charge it to my account."

"Not on your life," replied the dealer. "No charge accounts. You can't do business with the mail order house that way. Fork over the cash."

The customer handed over the cash."

"Now two cents for postage and 5 cents for money order."

The customer, inwardly raving, kept his agreement and paid the 7 cents.

"Now 35 cents expressage."

"Well, I'll be ——." he said, but paid it, saying: Now hand me it and I'll take it home for myself and be rid of this foolery."

"Hand it to you? Where do you think you are? You're not in Winnipeg, and you'll have to wait a week."

Whereupon he placed the article on the shelf and put the money in his cash drawer.

"That makes $3.26," he said. "It has cost you 6 cents more and taken you a week longer to get it than if you had paid my price in the first place."

DEBT NEGOTIATIONS WERE ADJOURNED

Count Volpi Says Experts Will Shape Agreement During Week End.

LONDON, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press)—After a three hour conference yesterday between Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Count Volpi, Italian Finance Minister, assisted by experts, the Anglo-Italian debt negotiations were adjourned to Monday. Count Volpi after a conference at the treasury, gave a reception to the newspapermen, at which he announced that yesterday's discussion was concerned for the most part with consideration of a tentative scheme for a draft agreement. He added that while Mr. Churchill was spending the week-end out of town, experts would endeavour to give definite shape to this draft agreement.

21ST CHAPLAIN USED UNFAIRLY SAY ANGLICANS

Members of St. George's Cathedral Think Rev. W. Kidd Should Get Office.

GARRISON CHAPLAIN.

Bishop Bidwell Has Been Appointed To Position Temporarily.

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 23 (Special)—Declaring that their acting rector and veteran of the Great War Rev. W. E. Kidd, has been unfairly treated, quite a stir has been created among the members of St. George's Cathedral, over the appointment of Bishop Bidwell as acting chaplain of the Kingston Garrison, in the place of the late Dean Starr, which was announced Friday.

The members of the Cathedral point out that Rev. Mr. Kidd had been practicaly appointed to the position on the recommendation of the Officer Commanding No. 3 Military District and they say they cannot understand why this appointment did not go through and at any rate why the position was placed temporarily in the hands of the Bishop of Ontario with the idea that the position would go to the person selected as Rector and Dean of the Cathedral. The late Dean Starr was chaplain of the Kingston Garrison before he was made Rector or Dean of Ontario.

Rev. W. E. Kidd, when questioned regarding the matter, stated that he had been offered the position of Anglican Garrison Chaplain by Military District No. 3 and that he had verbally accepted. Later on he was informed that his appointment had been held up as something had transpired and that Bishop Bidwell was to be appointed temporarily until the position of rector was filled Rev. Mr. Kidd is at a loss to understand the condition of things. He served overseas for three years with the 21st Battalion.

ITALIANS INSIST ON MORATORIUM FOR FIVE YEARS

Unwilling To Pay More Than $5,000,000 Yearly in That Period.

FEAR STATES.

Cannot Give Britain Better Terms For Fear of Complications.

LONDON, Jan. 23 (United Press)—The British to-day faced urgent insistence by the Italian Debt Funding Commission upon an almost complete moratorium for the next five years and a partial one for the following five years. The Italians are unwilling to pay more than $5,000,000 annually at first, claiming, first, inability, and, secondly, anxiety that better terms to Britain would cause American Congressional complications on the United States-Italian settlement.

The Italians suggest a fixed annuity of £4,500,000 after the moratorium, while the British are seeking a compromise with a rising scale for ten years. This would begin with slightly more than £1,000,000 because the debt to Britain is more than to the United States.

A loss of $20,000 was made by the Local Commission's failure to collect what is justly owing by the Campbell Milling Company. A loss of $9,000 was made by the Local Commission's failure to advertise for tenders when erecting the Aylmer Street office and garage. The aggregate loss of $74,000 by our Local Commission in six years certainly demands a remedy to avoid losses in the future. These may not be all the losses that were made. They are only those that have slowly come to light.

CONSUMERS' COST GROWING YEARLY

The abnormal increase in the cost to consumers of light, power and water should be more satisfactorily accounted for than has been disclosed.

During this last six years, from 1919 to 1924, the cost to consumers of light and power has increased 43 per cent, and during the same period the cost to water consumers has increased 90 per cent, while our population during the same period has only increased 3½ per cent.

BESETTING EVILS TO CURE

The besetting evils of the Local Commission calling for energetic action on the part of the City Council to wipe out are as follows:—

1.—The Local Commissioners have shown an entire lack of feeling the duty they owe to the taxpayers who elected them, due to the fact that these three can only be defeated one at a time each year and not all at the same time.

2.—The contempt of the taxpayers has been due to a servile and hypnotized attitude toward the Hydro Commission, resulting in the City's rights and interests being sacrificed for the benefit of the Hydro Commission's schemes.

3.—The "hole and corner" methods of the Local Commission in the management of a great public trust involving $1,500,000, and the concealment of vital matters from the City Council and the public has resulted in the loss and wasteful expenditure of public money to the injury of every power, light and water consumer in this city.

4.—The Local Commission has adopted a settled policy to sacrifice and belittle the power rights of this City for the benefit of the cities, towns and villages on the Lake front to serve the Hydro Commission's schemes, thereby depriving this City of its birthright for a mess of fakir's pottage and turning its hopes of blessing to dust and ashes.

REMEDIES SUGGESTED AND OBJECTS

(a)—That the three local Commissioners should all be elected for a term of two years and then all retire and all be eligible for re-election at the same time.

THE OBJECT.—This will certainly impress upon them their direct responsibility to the taxpayers and to no one else.

(b)—That the Mayor and Chairman of the Finance Committee for the time being should be ex-officio members of the Local Commission, each having the full powers of a Commissioner.

THE OBJECT.—They would see that the surplus funds of the City are protected against the hypnotic raider; that false pride that refuses to admit a mistake will not prevent the collection of an honest debt; that the cost to consumers of light, power and water must not be further increased but should be reduced; that extravagance and waste should be replaced by rigid economy and efficiency; that this City should develop its own water powers from the dams available; and that this City has something else besides "dust and ashes" to offer new industries.

(c)—Full and unfettered rights and powers should be given to the City Council to obtain production and inspection of all books and papers in the possession of the Local Commission and to make full enquiries into its affairs or before the County Judge under Section 248 of the Municipal Act.

THE OBJECT.—Exposure to the bright light, and to the scorn of the open eye are great stimulants to efficiency and economy in the administration of a great public trust involving an investment of $1,500,000.

The Mayor and Council could perform no better public service than to see that legislation is passed at the coming Session of the Legislature to carry into effect these suggested remedies, respectfully submitted for their favorable consideration.

TOWNSHIP USERS OF LIGHT DISCUSS PROBLEM OF RATE

Monaghan, Otonabee, Smith and Douro Represented at Meeting Here.

TWO SCHEMES.

Impending Increase Averted By W. H. Bradburn, M... .. P.P., For Time Being.

A committee representative of the townships of Monaghan, Otonabee, Smith and Douro convened at the court house yesterday afternoon for the purpose of hearing B. Mulholland, assistant engineer of the Hydro Electric Power Commission, who has his headquarters in Toronto.

The purpose of the meeting was to discover the cause of alleged excessive power rates and to obtain if possible information which would lead to a relief from the burden. The increase of 90 per cent which was impending and scheduled to be imposed at the end of this month was postponed, a dispensation, it developed which was brought about by W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. He, while in Toronto on Wednesday visited authorities at the Hydro office and obtained a deferment of the increased rate in order that additional time might be given for further consideration of the problem by those more directly concerned.

After a discussion which lasted nearly four hours the following motion was adopted: "That members of the committee representing the four townships call a meeting of the power users of those respective townships and lay before them the recommendation that they accept the Rural District plan of power distribution as sponsored by Mr. Mulholland."

Two Schemes

Two schemes were submitted by the Hydro assistant engineer. One was known as Voted Area scheme and involved the combining of the more thickly populated suburban districts in a distinct corporation but which was not feasible as it meant that the rate for power users without the limited district would be abnormally increased.

The more favorable Rural District plan would provide a more uniform and slightly lower rate than that which is promised. In addition a government grant of 50 per cent. was assured.

Mr. Mulholland explained that the rates were based on the number of power consumers per mile giving that as the reason why congested areas paid a comparatively small fee while the more sparsely settled districts were taxed abnormally.

The officials in the Toronto office had understood at the Conference there some time ago when the township council's committee had pleaded their case, that a voted area was required and were awaiting definite specifications of area limits. Had that been done a re-survey would have been made and the property inside and outside of the voted area would have been valued.

E. F. Mason, W. H. Bradburn and Gordon Matthews, members of the Utilities Commission were present.

Members of the committee are as follows: for Monaghan, H. B. Rye, R. T. Lillico, F. Pratt, W. Byers, R. Dobbin, B. Johnston and J. Barnes; for Otonabee, Alex Hewson and R. A. Wilson; for Smith, B. Middleton and G. Simpson, and for Douro, George Curtis and M. O. Heron.

Firemen Are Invited In; To Find They Are Taken In

If the firemen are superstitious, yesterday's happenings would almost floor them. At 9.38 yesterday morning they were called to 943 Water street to a chimney fire. They had just completed the task of cooling the overheated pipes when the householder at 933 Water invited them into his domain. It being a mighty cold day the thoughts of the men may have been centred on something warm to drink. However, it was another case of stove pipes becoming too ambitious and getting overheated in their efforts. And that was not all. Exactly at 2.56 p.m. they received a call to 256 Wescott Street. The coincidence of the time and the number of the house, however, signified nothing more than another argument with refractory pipes.

TOBIN MAY MAKE WAY FOR MARLER

Rumored That He Might Resign Richmond-Wolfe Seat To Benefit Cause.

ELECTORS WILLING.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—A Quebec special to The Gazette says: "E. W. Tobin, veteran M.P. for Richmond-Wolfe, was in Quebec today (Friday). Rumor has gone forth that Mr. Tobin will imitate the example of Mr. McDonald of Prince Albert, who is making way for Premier King, and resign Richmond-Wolfe to Hon. H. M. Marler, who is said to be needed by Mr. King. It is, of course, taken for granted here that Mr. Marler would be elected, since Mr. Tobin would merely have to signify his wish to the electors and they would elect any one he wishes, including Mr. Marler, it is believed.

"Mr. Tobin asked as to the rumor, declared himself ever ready to serve the interests of his party."

Santa Good To Some Birds— They Had a Christmas Tree

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Harvey, of the Harcraft Bird Sanctuary, each year provide their birds with a special Christmas tree. This year strings of scarlet cranberries twined in and through the branches, while bits of suet glistened. Rosy-cheeked apples bobbed from twigs and oranges that had been scooped out and filled with cocoanut swung temptingly. Cocoanut shells with their offering of ground suet and baskets of dried cake crumbs, strings of peanuts and tiny pots of sunflower seeds swinging from the branches, provided a Yuletide feast for the carollers and squirrels.

CARDINAL MERCIER OF BELGIUM HEROIC FIGURE OF GREAT WAR DIED TO DAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Decline Set In After Operation on Stomach Last Month.

WAS 74 YEARS OLD.

War-time Activities in Defying Germans Let to Threats of Death.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 23.—Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium and one of the heroic figures of the Great War, died today at the age of 74, losing his long battle against a decline that set in after an operation on December 29.

Death came at three o'clock this afternoon, an hour after the aged prelate had lapsed into unconsciousness. Previously he had regained full possession of his faculties and followed the mass with composure, making the sign of the cross with an effort. When the mass ended, he turned towards the company at the bedside with a significant look of farewell. He had tried to pronounce the benediction, but was too weak to conclude it. The prelate refused all medicine today.

"There is nothing to do but wait," he remarked to a physician. At midday the Cardinal's relatives gathered around the bed and in spite of great weakness he gave his blessing to each in turn.

Famous Letter.

The famous pastoral letter of December, 1914, prepared by Cardinal Mercier and read in every Catholic church in Belgium, has been called one of the most damning indictments of the German invasion ever written.

Under orders from the General's office he was kept a prisoner in his home for two weeks, while von Bissing, Belgium's German Governor, was bringing pressure to force his submissioin.

Another pastoral letter, sent out at the beginning of Lent in 1916, again brought persecution from von Bissing.

A little village not far from Waterloo, Briane d'Alleud, was the birthplace of Cardinal Mercier in 1851. The family was a distinguished religious one, several other members having received honors from the Catholic church. Believing that he was destined for a career other than secular, the future cardinal prepared for the medical profession, and upon his graduation from college studied

NO AGREEMENT ON DEBT TERMS

Situation Unchanged, Italian Minister Says in London Interview.

SPEEDING DRAFT.

LONDON, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—After a three-hour conference yesterday between Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Count Volpi, Italian Finance Minister, assisted by experts, the Anglo-Italian debt negotiations were adjourned to Monday.

Count Volpi, after the conference at the Treasury, gave a reception to the newspapermen, at which he announced that Friday's discussion was concerned for the most part with consideration of a tentative scheme for a draft agreement. He added that while Mr. Churchill was spending the week-end out of town, the experts would endeavor to give definite shape to this draft agreement.

"But I want to say very precisely," he declared, "that Mr. Churchill and myself have left several fundamental points still to be settled. The endeavor to draft an agreement is in consequence of the necessity of speeding up the negotiations. The barometer has not changed for a few days."

"Well, I cannot say as to that," was the reply.

It is understood that yesterday's discussion ranged around the Italian offer of a £4,500,000 annuity, but that Mr. Churchill is still insisting on £5,500,000, and that he would not accept even this figure unless Italy abandon the request for a moratorium. The Chancellor holds the view that if a moratorium is insisted on the annuity would be much larger.

Watch Your Daughter!

Stratford, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best tonic and nervine that can be given to a young girl while growing into womanhood. When I got to the age where I began to develop, I was very backward. I became so nervous I could not sit still. I was not able to sleep, had severe pains thru my back and head. I was very tired, weak and miserable. The lady where I was staying got me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and by the time I had taken it I was feeling fine, my nerves were good, I got strong, began to gain in weight and developed into womanhood naturally and never had any more trouble."—Mrs. Stanly Tozer, 183 Railway Ave.

1926 TOUR TO ALASKA

Arrangements for an all-expense, personally conducted tour to Alaska have now been completed, starting from Toronto, via the Canadian National Railways, early in July, visiting en route important Western Canadian cities, Wainwright Buffalo Park, Jasper National Park, and Pacific Coast points. This will be one of the finest trips anyone can possibly take from a scenic and educational point of view. A folder, descriptive of the tour, giving complete information is now in hand and will be available shortly on application to Mr. Martin Kerr (principal of Earl Kitchener School), 4 Beulah Avenue, Hamilton, and Mr. A. E. Bryson (Principal of Silverthorn School), 44 Silverthorn Ave., Toronto.

In view of the very heavy traffic to Alaska during the short season available, it would be well to make early reservation as demands for accommodations are sure to be heavy. 2d, 18, 23

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus

Fear Not, For I Am With Thee

Suggested by Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave

Studying the Bible

A Practical and Fruitful Method of Definite Value.

By William Turnbull, Sr., Toronto, (Formerly of Peterborough.)

I WISH to place before you a plan of definite Bible study which I can recommend as practical and fruitful. Real Bible study will occupy the believer's lifetime, but by following the plan I wish to suggest a thorough grasp of Bible truth will readily be obtained.

First of all, I would raise the question of who may study. I know that God's word comes with glad tidings of great joy to all people, and the message of salvation is for all, the call being universal, but this is a vastly different thing from learning the deep things of God as revealed in His written word. As God's word declares that by nature all mankind are dead in trespasses and in sin, it is self-evident that dead men cannot study the oracles of God. Again, the Written Word is the tongue of the Spirit. Without the Spirit the Word is dead, thus it follows that only those who have received new, and eternal life from God through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, and are indwelt by the spirit can truly study the Bible—to these God manifests Himself, and causes them to walk in the light of His Word. If any man do His will, he shall know of the doctrine.

The Importance of Study.

In the second place, allow me to say a word about the importance of Bible study, and the absolute necessity that exists in these perilous times of having a thorough, scholarly and spiritual knowledge of the Holy Scriptures.

In his letters to Timothy the apostle said: Study to show thyself approved unto God, and a careful reading of these epistles will show why Timothy was to take refuge in the Scriptures, and rightly divide the word of truth.

1. There were profane and vain babblings increasing unto ungodliness.
2. Foolish and unlearned questions were being raised.
3. Two men are said to have erred concerning the truth.
4. But worse than all—Paul said these times are bad, but there are more perilous times coming, and Paul heads up their description in the words—Evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse deceiving, and being deceived. And what was Timothy to do in face of all this? Simply to continue in all things that he had learned, and been assured of. And we who are now living in the perilous times predicted by the apostle in the midst of profane and vain babblings, and the foolish and unlearned questions of science falsely so called, and when not two men only, but many concerning the truth have erred, in a time when not the rationalist press, but the so-called Christian pulpit is what we have to fear.

The apostle's word comes ringing down the vista of years to us. Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed rightly dividing the word of truth. The Holy Scriptures which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

I charge thee, therefore, before God and the Lord Jesus Christ who shall judge the quick and the dead by His appearing and Kingdom, preach the Word; be instant in season, out of season, reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all longsuffering and doctrine. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears, and they shall turn away their ears from the truth and shall be turned unto fables.

If ever in the history of the church, there was a time when a sound knowledge of the Bible was required, it is at this present day, and this knowledge can not be acquired by cursory and intermittent readings here and there, and I am sorry to say that attendance upon much of present-day preaching will not help the student of the Bible, for the pulpit has long since ceased to teach, and is occupied only in preaching from texts. The old-fashioned preaching of doctrinal sermons, the setting forth of the fundamentals of the Christian faith, have fallen into desuetude, the word of God is not preached, a moral essay is substituted in forgetfulness of the fact that man cannot live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. So then in view of these things there is a loud call for Bible study on the part of every one who hears the honoured name of Christian. It is time that Christians should exalt the written word, that test of members and fellowship, refusing to admit to full association any individual who repudiates its integrity, who does not accept its testimony. Let the church make submission to the written word a test of the pulpit, allowing no man to enter it who does not base his speech unqualifiedly upon an unabridged "thus saith the Lord." Let Christians study that word as they never studied it before. Here only can the devil be met and overcome, and for a method of study, in order that large tracts of divine revelations may not be left unexplored we must begin at Genesis 1 and continue to Revelation 22. But there are some important principles to be borne in mind if we are to make an intelligent study of the Bible. It differs from every other book in a very important respect. Every other book written with anything of a serious purpose has man's improvement in view, but this book is God's message to His fallen creature, "man," and has not one word to say about improvement, but speaks solely about regeneration, and being born anew; with this thought in mind we begin where any rational being commences reading a book, at its first page, and find there God's account of His creative reconstruction of the earth in the place of prominence on the front page, these are the first words the great Creator addresses to sinful man, if we read those words simply as a record of God's method of creation, we shall get comparatively little out of them, but bearing the thought in mind that this is the preface to the "Great Redemption" plan as unfolded in the Scriptures, we are led to look beneath the surface, and do not go unrewarded, for we find that the six days of work followed by the rest day correspond to the stages or dispensations of God's plan of redemption. And as no one will ever understand the Scriptures fully without a due appreciation of dispensational truth, I would ask you to follow me briefly in an examination of the six days' work. On the first day, the light is brought forth, and for our own satisfaction we may note that this at once marks the record as true, inspired and authoritative, because the entrance of God's word gives light, and all His works are done in the light, for God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all. On the first day the only thing pronounced good is the light. God saw the light that it was good. On the second day God made the firmament and divided the waters, and note here that on the second day nothing was pronounced good, the second day ended with a barren waste of waters covering the earth. On the third day the dry land appeared. On the fourth day nothing was done upon the earth at all, God was occupied with the Heavens, and the Heavenly bodies. But on the fifth day God returned to His work upon the earth, and dealt with the waters and created fish in the sea, and fowl to fly in the open firmament of Heaven. On the sixth day God again dealt with the dry land, and created all animal life, on that day also He made man in His own image, male and female created He them.

NOW, notice particularly that each of these days ended with an evening succeeded by a morning of promise of better things, and on the seventh day God rested from all His work. I have said that this record is not intended merely to satisfy idle curiosity as to the manner in which the world came into being, but it is meant to convey a deeper truth, viz., that God's great redemption plan for fallen man consists of seven great periods of dispensations from the shedding forth of His light till the time when He shall rest, not in a finished creation, but in a finished redemption. So in studying the Bible we must give to each dispensation the truth that belongs to it, it is the very opposite of investing the Scriptures, it is rightly dividing the word of truth. Let us look at those days again. Each one ended in an evening followed by a morning. The first age or dispensation extended from Adam's expulsion from the garden of Eden to the deluge, there was nothing good in that age, only there was light, and it ended with an evening of judgment—the deluge. The second age saw men multiplying upon the face of the earth, and the peoples engaged like the waters in endless activity, and meaningless motion, its ending was also an evening or judgment,—the confusion of tongues. But on the third day God brought forth the dry land, a solid substance on which He could build. He now on this morning of the third age called out from this moving mass of mankind, one man, "Abraham," and in Him provides a solid place that He can build upon. As on the third day His work was upon the dry land, separated from the waters, so in the third age His work was upon the descendants of this man Abraham, of him He made a great nation, for at least four purposes, defined in Scriptures: 1. To be His witnesses as to His unity in the midst of universal idolatory. 2. To illustrate to the nations the blessedness of serving the one true God. 3. To receive and preserve the living oracles and, 4, to produce the Messiah. This brings us to the fourth age, the third age ended as did the others in judgment, when the believer's sins were judged on Calvary's Cross in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ. He, however, because it was not possible that death could hold Him after being in the grave three days arose from the dead, and sought out His wondering disciples, and after assuring them that it was indeed Himself, went back to Heaven again, there to appear at the right hand of God for us. So then God is now engaged with His Son, and from the earth calling out a people for His name. This corresponds well with the fourth creative day. God, on that day was not engaged upon the earth at all, but was dealing only with the Heavenly Bodies. So in this age, God is not seeking to improve or better the world, but on the contrary has appointed it to awful judgments, and is calling out from it the Church, the Lamb's wife, a people for Christ's name, this people is typified by the moon, which in itself is a dark body depending on the sun, the type of Christ, for light which it gives to the world in a poor and dim reflection, agreeable to this it is written of the whole church God has blessed us with all Spiritual blessings in Heavenly places in Christ, and again, and hath raised us up together, and made us to sit together in Heavenly Places in Christ. This fourth age will end with the secret removal of the Church from the earth, and then God will again visit the peoples whom the waters typify, and as on the fifth day life was brought forth in the waters so in the fifth age God will save an elect number of the Jews, and a great number of the Gentiles, that no man could number, but that fifth age will also be one of such trouble as the world never before saw, when the vials of the wrath of Almighty God shall be poured forth upon the earth, and when anti-Christ shall reign.

The duration of this period is given—seven years, at the end of which time the Lord Jesus Christ shall come in power, and great glory, bringing His Church with Him, thus at the end of that age of judgment Christ will come, and before Him shall be gathered all the nations, and their judgment shall take place. Then the millenium is entered upon, as on the sixth day, Adam and his bride were seen as the

THE QUARANTINE OF RELIGION.

By GLENN FRANK.

We may destroy religion by the way we defend it. It sounds paradoxical, I know, to say that the defenders of the faith may become the detroyers of the faith; but we must remember that the defence and the development of any great reality depend as much upon the soundness of our procedure as upon the sincerity of our purpose.

We can mean right and do wrong.

In any living enterprise we need realistic intelligence as well as righteous intentions. And religion is not exempt from this rule. In religion as in politics we may waste fine purposes on futile procedures and destroy the thing we set out to defend.

I am sure, for instance, that we have struck a blow at religion and delayed the ultimate civilization of mankind by the way in which we have divided human affairs into things spiritual and things secular; erected a high wall between the two, putting our religion on our side of the wall and our everyday interests on the other.

We meant well when we split our lives up in this fashion. It grew out of our excessive concern to exalt religion. It did not seem quite right to drag the lofty matters of the spirit down to base kitchen usages. So we built a wall between the world of worship and the world of work. And both have suffered from the separation.

We have made religion one of the special businesses of our lives, when it should be the spiritual breath of our lives.

These are valuable as religious aids.

They are vicious as religious alibis.

Special persons may be useful as spiritual guides, but we cannot hire men to be holy for us. That is a private undertaking.

Special places in which we may voice our common aspirations are useful, but religion is as much at home in a carpenter shop as in a cathedral. In fact, the inspiration for the building of our cathedrals came from a certain carpenter shop.

Special periods in which we stop long enough to take spiritual stock of ourselves are useful, but fast days and feast days cannot relieve us of the challenge of religion for the rest of the year.

Special practices that help us to concentrate our minds on the spiritual issues of existence are useful, but religion, after all, does not consist in doing special things, but in doing all things in a special way.

All these specialized religious arrangements may be highly useful if we recognize them for what they are—supplements to religion, not substitutes for religion.

They become dangerous to our deeper spiritual interests when we turn them into a series of Ellis Islands on which we quarantine religion, cutting religion off from fruitful contact with everyday affairs.

The world of worship and the world of work are really one world. When we tear them apart we tear life apart.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS.

Can Be Quickly Banished With Baby's Own Tablets.

The ailments of childhood are many but nine-tenths of them are due to one cause and one cause only—a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. To quickly banish any of the minor ailments of babyhood and childhood the bowels must be made to work regular and the stomach must be sweetened.

No other medicine for little ones has had such success as has Baby's Own Tablets. They banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; correct diarrhoea and colic and promote healthful sleep by regulating the functions of the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. L. M. Brown, Walton, N.S., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets as I have found them excellent for childhood ailments."

The women missionary societies of Canada will unite with the American societies in their annual observance of a day of prayer on February 19.

Protestant and Catholic clergy united in the Armistice day service at Dartmouth, N. S., and afterward gave the citizens a six days' conference upon present-day problems, when lecturers of the Roman Catholic, Anglican, Baptist, United and Colored churches, spoke on such questions as Arbitration or Armaments? The Democratic Idea, The Clash of Color. This last was taken by the pastor of the Colored church, whose name happens, by the way, to be Rev. T. A. White.

The Associated Press reports that an important step toward Lutheran church unity is indicated in the new hymnal of the Lutheran Augustana synod just published. In addition to the traditional form of service used in the Augustana synod, the book contains "common service," which is the accepted form of worship in most of the Lutheran groups in America, including the United Lutheran church and the synodical conference.

The action of the Augustana synod is seen also as a step toward uniformity in church ritual among all Protestants, since the "common service" is almost identical with the form o worship of the Episcopal communions in the United States and of the Anglican church.

CHURCHES LACKING PHYSICAL BEAUTY

Many Edifices Fail to Impress With Sanctity—Some Ugly.

Rev. Richard Roberts, D.D., a prominent Presbyterian minister of Montreal, preaching in a Toronto church recently, expressed the opinion that a majority of Protestant churches were, to a very large extent, lacking in architectural beauty. He even went further than this and declared that many of them were positively ugly in appearance.

Perhaps he is right. Is it not true that many of our ecclesiastical buildings fail to please the eye, and furthermore they do not help very much in the development of worshipful feelings.

At a recent meeting, where subscriptions for a church edifice were being sought, a speaker said:

"I am one of those persons who devote a great deal of time in the summer to wandering into empty churches, and when I go into a poor, mean place of worship I have often caught myself feeling a certain sense of superiority to my surroundings, as though I were paying God a great compliment by coming to His house at all. But when I pass into Canterbury cathedral, a wonderful peace and restfulness enters into me, and I feel that I am under a divine protection.

"I believe I am right in saying that no ordinary man could spend ten minutes in the quiet of that great and wonderful structure without feeling a desire to be a better man and to be at peace with his fellow man, which is, after all, the basis of all religion."

Those were the remarks of a man who follows an artistic career, but he expressed his feelings of all classes of men. His fellow men have in themselves also some appreciation of art, and they are helped Godward by the beautiful, the strong, and the true whenever they are found. The place may be remote from frequented paths, the structure may be inexpensive and small, yet the element of reverence may be embodied and the building itself may be beautiful enough to be looked upon with pleasure.

Thanks To That Wonderful Remedy

MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS

Mrs. F. H. Miller, 1843-11th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"Five years ago my husband suffered terribly with severe attacks of palpitation of the heart and smothering spells, and two doctors stated that he could not possibly live six months.

A friend recommended Milburn's H. and N. Pills, with the result that my husband is still enjoying life at the age of 84 years.

He has improved so wonderfully that he can now climb the stairs without having those awful pains in his heart."

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23, 1926.

MR. BRADBURN HONOURED.

Upon Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., member for West Peterborough in the Legislature has fallen the honour of moving the adoption of the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature early next month.

This is a distinction that necessarily cannot be given to many members of the Legislature, inasmuch as there is the opportunity to do so only once a year or about four times in every term, so that the fact that Mr. Bradburn has been signalled out for such honor indicates that he has made an excellent impression among the members of the Cabinet and of his colleagues generally.

Incidentally the calling upon of the member from West Peterboro to make the first speech in the new session of the Legislature is a tribute to the constituency he represents.

NOW IS THE TIME TO JOIN.

The Examiner hopes that the membership campaign of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will be pushed with that determination and vigour that usually distinguish the Exhibition Board.

Now is the time for a real drive for the Exhibition's programme of a six-day fair and a 40,000 attendance mark has fired the imagination of the people generally, who realize that Peterborough's big Exhibition has made vast strides away from the old two-day exhibition and who are now in a mood to help the swing to a new level.

With several thousand members at $2.00 each the Exhibition will not only derive some very welcome financial help but what in the long run is infinitely more valuable, the moral assistance representd by a multitude of enthusiastic boosters.

There is no limit to what can be accomplished by community spirit, intelligently directed and guided, and a big membership for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will make it easier for the directors to reach the goal on which they have set their hearts—a 40,000 attendance this year.

Citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding district are urged to become members of the Exhibition—and to join now.

WET RUMOURS.

The Examiner's reference the other day to the increasing impression that the Ferguson Government will spring a new liquor policy at the coming session was quickly followed by a report from London to the effect that a local option plan by which those areas which voted wet in the last plebiscite would see the sale of beer and wine by standard hotels and the sale of liquor in Government shops introduced.

This report has been denied by Premier Ferguson and by other members of the Government who declare that no such legislation has been under discussion by the Government.

On its face this story seemed improbable.

No matter what policy may eventually be evolved surely the Government would not be justified in accepting a wet vote in any particular locality in the last plebiscite as a mandate to put into effect a system such as is outlined from London.

If the sale of beer and wine in hotels and of liquor by Government vendors is contemplated—and this is not admitted by any spokesman for the Government—the only way in which a system of local option could be fairly inaugurated would be to have each district vote on the proposed change.

The people did not vote on that questin when the last plebiscite was taken and should most assuredlhave the right to say whether or not they want such drastic alterations in the existing system now.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF THE AIR.

The international broadcasting tests which commence tomorrow indicate that radio is making the world a pretty small place.

As the result of negotiations among the countries in which there are broadcasting stations an effort is being made on a large scale to allow listeners-in on this continent to hear European broadcasts and to transmit programmes from the new world to the old.

Whether the experiment will succeed to any great degree or not remains to be seen, but at least every chance is being given to make a success out of the international broadcast.

Commencing tomorrow night and continuing on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights every station on this continent, Canada, United States, Mexican and South American will be silent between 11 and 12 p.m., Eastern Standard time, so that a chance will be afforded to hear the European stations.

Every Peterborough set owner, whether his reception facilities are limited or extensive will doubtless stick close to his dials during the test period and if he doesn't succeed in "getting" Europe he should at least have the satisfaction of hearing some of the finest programmes next week that have been on the air when the stations on this side endeavor to reach the European listeners-in.

The value from the standard of international good will of the great experiment is too self evident to require any stressing.

AN ASTOUNDING RESOLUTION.

Chicago housed a great conference last week to discuss the best method of getting rid of the surplus corn crop of the west and middle west farmers, says the London Advertiser. There were present representatives of banking, industry, legislatures, labor and a large number of farmers.

Among the resolutions offered was one that called for the completion of the water highway from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico to cheapen transportation.

This resolution was not only offered, but it was adopted without any opposition.

Here was a very representative gathering from a variety of fields of activity, and it placed itself on record as being favorable to an extension on a very large scale of Chicago's theft of water from the Great Lakes.

There was no question raised about the move being right or wrong—the resolution was passed and takes its place with a number of others as being a proper move to make to facilitate transportation leading to the Mississippi river.

The resolution can hardly be described as anything less than astounding. The United States courts have told Chicago that the water theft is outside the law; the Chicago city council has complied formally with an order to cut down the volume of water taken; the United States secretary of war has ruled against Chicago. All these agencies stand for law and justice. Yet this lrge gathering representing hundreds of thousands of persons, is deliberately and unanimously urging a step which all the constituted courts of its own land have pronounced as legally and internationally wrong.

What conclusion can the average Canadian arrive at? What assurance can he find that the United States courts mean what they say? If the people of the republic do not accept the findings of their own couts and by them plan their procedure in compliance with these findings, then where does the court exist that can definitely stop the well-defined policy that seeks to make the Great Lakes flow down the Mississippi instead of by the St. Lawrence .

THE PENALTIES OF FAME.

History and philosophy often remind us that fame is not always what it seems to those who strive to achieve it. Nor is there unqualified assurance that greatness is the glorious thing which seekers after it are apt to suppose. To be crowned among the elect is the natural and laudable ambition of every one who takes his art or profession seriously. To top the ladder of honor and distinction is to experience the fulfilment of the supreme desire which fills the hearts and inspires the actions of men; and it would be a sad thing for humanity if the incentive to secure a position of eminence in life, or a place of prominence in history were to lose its power and appeal.

Yet, though fame has undoubtedly its prizes and rewards, which can never fail to attract, it has also its disadvantages and penalties. To these the ancients were not oblivious. Poets and philosophers have waxed cynical over them; historians have found in them a moral with which to adorn their narratives; and, if we are to accept the evidence of modern authorities, they were never more apparent or more intolerable than they are in the present age.

The fierce light which beats upon the heads of celebrities in the form of a pitiless publicity has, we are told, deprived greatness of much of its sanctity, destroyed the reverence which is its due, and created instead a vulgar curiosity which has no respect for dignity and still less for privacy. To be famous nowadays, indeed, is to be merely notorious. The statesman who achieves distinction in the field of diplomacy, the artist who is crowned with honors, and the writer who wins a place of pre-eminence in the world of letters are reduced by the crowd to much the same level as the movie actress, the author of the "best seller," the champion pugilist, or the popular professional footballer, and subjected to much the same kind of attention. And, worst of all, the path that leads to glory and, perhaps, immortality has become the trail of a sordid and demoralizing commercialism.

So, at any rate, we are assured in characteristically emphatic terms by no less an authority than George Bernard Shaw. To avoid the annoyance caused by commercial importunists and unimaginative bagmen who respect his genius only as an aid to publicity and seek the use of his name as an advertisement for the sale of their goods, that eminent dramatist has found it necessary to adopt and register what he calls a mono-mark, which will enable him to send certain letters over a code signature and obtain replies through a concern that will protect his anonymity.

"I am what is called a celebrity," explains the modest Shaw, "and it is sometimes exceedingly inconvenient to be a celebrity because of the advertising value of a celebrated name." For instance, he points out that "if the unfortunate victim of his own notoriety writes for the price list of the latest shock absorber, he does so at the risk of finding ten cars at his door the next morning, all demanding that he shall instantly leave his work and have a trial run. Each car will be attended by a group of photographers, including one with a motion camera."

Nor is that the only kind of nuisance which the modern celebrity is called upon to suffer. Though G. B. S. does not say so, there are probably others, no less exasperating. He is bombarded with invitations to express his opinions of somebody's soap, or somebody's pills; to open bazaars or address literary and social clubs; to write prefaces for books written by people he does not know, or to subscribe to every more or less deserving object under the sun. He can scarcely pick up a newspaper or open a magazine which does not reveal his features or make free with his name, and real fame is not his if he escapes the scalpel of the literary vivisectionist or the duster of the critical charman. His character and movements are made public property, and seclusion is unknown.

Clearly, to be a celebrity nowadays is not all glory. As Shaw truly observes: "Life is impossible unless one can be an insignificant private individual occasionally." Or, as that other distinguished personage, "Red" Grange puts it, "the headliner who gets big money out of the public surely earns it." One hardly knows whether to sympathize most with the dramatist who is shadowed by motor car salesmen, or with the professional footballer who is pursued by "flappers."—Ottawa Journal.

Many a woman in a street car will think enviously of Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who is said to have been offered eleven seats.

Premier Ferguson has to move fast these days to keep pace with the stories of his new liquor policy.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

ECHO

Come to me in the silence of the night;
Come in the speaking silence of a dream;
Come with soft, rounded cheeks and eyes as bright
As sunlight on a stream;
Come back in tears,
O memory, hope, love of finished years.

O dream how sweet, too sweet, too bitter sweet.
Whose wakening should have been in Paradise.
Where souls brimful of love abide and meet;
Where thirsting, longing eyes
Watch the slow door,
That opening, letting in, lets out no more.

Yet come to me in dreams, that I may live
My very life again though cold in death;
Come back to me in dreams, that I may give Pulse for pulse, breath for breath;
Speak low, lean low,
As long ago, my love, how long ago.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Cattle receipts were a little heavier this week at the Union Stock Yards with a total of 8,005 head. Two or three cars of fresh mixed cattle which arrived on Thursday morning were not disposed of, but otherwise the market was well cleaned. For export around 1,500 were bought on the market by the two firms and as many will likely be wanted next week. Export cattle were steady on the average but only a few loads of steers were good enough to bring $8.50 a cwt. Others sold from $7.25 up.

Export heifers on the average were $7.25 a cwt., but exceptional good ones touched $7.75 a cwt. Any bulls this week were bought for domestic killing and those of export quality were $5.00 to $5.75 a cwt. Bologna bulls were firm around $4 a cwt. Quality handyweight butchers sold well and odd specials brought $7.75 a cwt. Good handyweights were $6.50 to $7 and mediums $5.75 to $6.25 a cwt. Any butcher below these were not in demand and found a very draggy market.

The week's supply of cows was wanted and more could have been sold. The packers have a good outlet for this beef and the prices keep decidedly steady. Choice and export cows are $6 a cwt and over; good cows are $5 to $5.50; mediums $4 to $4.50; common $3.25 to $3.75, and canners $2.25 to $2.75 a cwt. Next week's market promises to be steady under reasonable offerings, but packers will take advantages of any specially heavy runs.

Calves have advanced 50 cents a cwt. this week folllowing a similar rise at Buffalo. Several cars were sent from here to Buffalo this week. The shippers say more could be used if shipped in. Top calves are 13 to 13 1-2 cents; good calves 12 cents; medium 9 to 11 cents, and common calves 7 to 8 cents a pound.

The market on lambs has been easier and packers are using frozen stock as much as possible at present. The prices is down 50 cents a cwt. on good ewes and wethers, which are now 14 cents a pound. Choice sheep are steady at 7 1-2 to 8 cents a pound.

Another light run of hogs for the week prevented any cut in price and salesmen were able to hold the market at 13c a cwt. f.o.b. throughout the week. Any change in price is regarded as only possible by increased shipments.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 22 (Canadian Press). — Exporters created some demand for Canadian Western barley in the local cash grain market today, but apart from their participation demands for all lines were of a limited character and the volume of business was small.

A very firm feeling prevailed in the market for all lines of millfeed on account of the improved demand for supplies and the somewhat limited offerings.

The receipts of butter today were 70 packages, as compared with 119 for the same day last week, and 108 for the corresponding day a year ago. A feature of the trade was the improved demand that developed from both local and outside buyers for supplies which resulted in a more active business being done.

The receipts of cheese were 86 boxes, as against 373 for the same day last week, and 50 for the corresponding day a year ago. A little business continues to be done over the cable in early makes, but the market on the whole was quiet and spot prices were nominally unchanged.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.86 5-8.
Sterling cables $4.87 1-8.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—Egg markets generally are steady today with slightly firmer feeling from Montreal. American fresh are also firmer.

Toronto—Jobbing, fresh extras 43 to 45, firsts 37 to 38, seconds 28 to 30. Storage still demoralized and selling anywhere from 18 to 35.

Montreal—Market steady under better demand, but prices are unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—Hurried selling out to stop losses on the part of holders turned the wheat market sharply downward today. Heavy world shipments of wheat, including Argentine shipments of 1,000,000 bushels in excess of the preceding week's total, were a bearish factor. The close for wheat was unsettled, 1 1-2 to 1 7-8c net lower, May, new, $1.71 3-8 to $1.71 1-2, and July $1.48 1-2 to $1.48 3-4. Corn finished at 1-4 to 5-8c advance; oats virtually unchanged, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents off.

With foreign markets giving way under pressure of Argentine and Australian new crop offerings, the downward swing of the market here was noticeably accelerated by statements from a Chicago trade authority drawing attention to wheat backing up in Canada not only at terminals, but at country points as well, besides unexpected shipments from Germany and Russia.

The area planted to wheat in Canada in 1925 amounted to 21,971,844 acres and to oats 14,670,927 acres.

SPANISH PLANE ENDS FIRST HOP OF LONG FLIGHT

Reached Canary Islands, 817 Miles From Palos, Southern Show.

ON SCHEDULED TIME.

Four Aviators Flying By Seaplane To South Africa.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Jan. 23. (Canadian Press). — The Spanish seaplane Ne Plus Ultra has successfully completed the first part of its journey from Spain to South America, landing on the waters of the harbor here at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon—the time, almost to the minute, at which it was expected. The plane left Palos, on the south-western tip of Spain, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and except for a fog near the end of the journey, the aviators encountered no difficulties.

As the Ne Plus Ultra made a perfect landing, great crowds along the water front cheered and shouted a welcome. Sirens were let loose on beflagged vessels of all nations in the harbor.

Commander Ramon Franco, leader of the air voyagers, is exultant over the success of the flight; his companions, Captain Ruiz de Alda, Ensign Duran and Mechanician Raga shared his joy. So anxious were they that everything should be in readiness for resumption of the flight to the Cape Verde Islands, the next stopping place on their schedule, that they requested that no festivities be arranged in their honor. Instead, they set to work immediately to overhaul the plane after its 817-mile trip.

Commander Franco reported that the first stage of the flight was favored with ideal weather, while the motors functioned perfectly. The air quartette showed every confidence last night that they would soon be able to guide their plane to the waters off the South American coast.

FRENCH STOCK MARKET STRIKE

...ONLY FEW ORDERS...

PARIS, Jan. 23. — (Canadian Press).—The Paris Bourse dealt a strong blow yesterday against the finance measures proposed by the Radical and Socialist parties in the Chamber of Deputies by reducing its operations to almost zero as a protest against the Left cartel's plan for an increase of taxes on stock operations.

The general strike of Bourse traders and employees, ordered Friday morning, was carried out with strict discipline, and the only orders executed were those received before the strike command was given.

"This was only a warning," one leading broker said, "but we are ready to repeat it if the Chamber makes it necessary."

Business was limited to just enough small transactions to furnish quotations on seventeen different securities and on French 3 per cent. bonds before the suspension. Brokers of both the official Bourse and curb joined hands, aiming to show what will happen if stock transactions are taxed according to the financial measures reported to the Chamber by its finance committee—3-10 of 1 per cent. on foreign shares and 1-10 of 1 per cent. on domestic shares. This tax, brokers say, would mean that foreign stocks would have to rise three francs before the purchaser would break even, while domestic shares would have to advance one franc.

QUEBEC TO SHOW GRATITUDE TO LORD WILLINGDON OF HASTINGS

Was Largely Responsible For Restoration of Quebec City's Ancient Shield — Arrived To-day at St. John.

GUEST OF FEDEREAL GOVERNMENT TOO.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—Lord and Lady Willingdon of Hastings, England, who are to be the guests of the Federal and Quebec Governments, arrived at Saint John, N.B., this morning. They were met there by C. K. Howard, general tourist agent of the Canadian National Railways, who will accompany them to Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa.

Lord Willingdon, who is a Freeman of the Borough of Hastings, was largely responsible for the return to Quebec City of the carved, wooden shield bearing the arms of the Kings of France, which was fixed over the gates of Quebec at the time of the English conquest in 1759, and was carried away from there by General Murray, who succeeded General James Wolfe, and presented by him to the town of Hastings.

The shield was returned by Lord Willingdon, on behalf of the Mayor of Hastings, Alderman W. J. Fellows, to Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, at a ceremony in the English town on July 16 last. Present were distinguished assembly representing Britain and France. Among these were Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario; the Agents-General of Quebec and Ontario; H. F. Biggar, chief archivist for Canada in Great Britain; Lucien Pacaud, secretary to the Canadian High Commissioner; Sir Campbell Stuart, of the London Times; Charles Lanctot, Deputy Attorney-General for Quebec; Canon Cody, Minister of Education for Ontario; Right Hon. Sir Hamar Greenwood, former Secretary for Ireland; Lord Clarendon, and M. De Fluriau, French Ambassador.

It had been the intention of Lord Willingdon to bring the shield to Canada himself, but he was prevented from so doing, and it was brought back last August by Hon. Mr. Larkin and returned to Quebec with fitting ceremony.

Quebec Grateful.

The act of the town of Hastings was referred to in graceful terms in the Quebec Legislature Thursday by Hon. Athanase David, Provincial Secretary, who declared it an act of magnanimity of the conquerors to the conquered of over a hundred years ago, and that it would make the descendents of the latter to-day even more loyal, if that were possible.

Lord and Lady Willingdon will arrive in Quebec on Sunday afternoon, and will be met by Hon. Narcisse Perodeau, the Lieutenant-Governor; by Hon. L. A. Taschereau, the Premier, and representatives of the Government and city. There will be a formal reception at Spencerwood, the Gubernatorial residence, where Senator the Hon. Raoul Dandurand will represent the Federal administration. The latter will accompany the distinguished visitors to Montreal and Ottawa. A civic reception is planned here.

At Ottawa, Lord and Lady Willingdon will be guests of Lord and Lady Byng at Rideau Hall.

NEW YORK SEES BANDIT CHASE

300 CARS PURSUE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Two youthful bandits who on Thursday night turned the Roaring Forties here into a wild west battleground, endangered the lives of hundreds as their speeding taxicab dashed wildly through traffic and laughed at the bullets of police who followed them for five miles, are in jail here Friday.

The youths, George Arnold, 19, and Michael Flynn, 17, started the "dime thriller" by hurling a brick into a sporting goods shop window, and then attempted to flee in a taxicab with their loot, valued at $25.

A patrolman commandeered another taxicab and the chase was on. Other patrolmen heard the exchange of shots, and drawing revolvers, climbed on the running boards of limousines, taxicabs and other available motor cars and took up the pursuit.

Unmindful of the dangers of traffic, the bandit car sped up one street, down another and across the heart of theatrical district, while frightened pedestrians dashed to cover as the fusilade of shots continued.

When the two finally were cornered at Tenth Avenue and 53rd Street, more than 300 cars were in the "parade" with detectives, special police, patrolmen and volunteer officers on running boards.

The end of the chase was as thrilling as its beginning. Leaping from one car to the running board of the bandit automobile, Detective Daley forced it into a curb. One of the fugitives drew a gun, but Daley lunged and kicked it out of his hand. He surrendered. His companion was found huddled up on the floor of the taxi.

Both were charged with grand larceny.

RUMORS DISCONTINUED.

Lord Willingdon Is Coming To Canada on Way To China.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23. — (Canadian Press).—Rumors that Lord Willingdon, former Governor of Madras, and of Bombay, will be appointed the next Governor - General of Canada are discounted here. Lord Willingdon will arrive in Ottawa for a brief visit to His Excellency the Governor-General on the 27th of the month. He is on his way to China on a mission for the British Foreign Office.

Two Short Sentences Caused Love Fatalities

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 23 (United Press).—The sentences "I'm going to bob my hair," and "You are a hippopotamus" were the underlying causes of two fatal tragedies between lovers in Argentina.

St. John's W. A. Branch Held Annual Meeting on Monday.

The first annual meeting and election of officers of the Teen Age Girls of St. John's branch of the W.A. was held in the Parish House on Monday evening, with a good attendance. Dear Mrs. Stanton:

We, the Teen Age Girls of St. John's branch of the W.A. wish to express our regret at losing you as one of our leaders. "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted"

BY S. GERTRUDE DE WENTWORTH-JAMES

CHAPTER I.

The purple haze of a summer's morning lay upon the distant hills. The rising sun gilded the roof of John Mannering's beautiful home and its rays scintillated against the window panes with the leaping flames of many fires. They set the dew wet grass on the close mown lawn to glittering like a vast tray filled with myriads of gems and gave warm caresses to the moist blooms in the rose garden. They aroused a robin to a joyous outburst of melody and peeping amidst the trellised vines which framed a window, they sifted on into a room to paint its polished floor with great splashes of gold.

Not content with this, a very rake of a ray crept boldly up on a bed and falling full upon a pillow kissed the soft cheek of a woman lying there. Before so wanton a salute, she moved uneasily. Opening her eyes, she gazed about her drowsily until finally, fully awakened, she reached for the clock at her side. But quickly Eileen Mannering set the time piece aside as a remembrance brought a glow of happiness to her face. A day among days had dawned. It was her son's twenty-first birthday.

She sat up, her mind overflowing with tender memories as it traveled back through the years since she had cradled Bob as an infant in her arms. Happy years had they been, for Bob had been all that a son should be. And now he was a man. A clean, splendid young fellow, the very thought of whom thrilled her heart with pride. Her eyes were misty with mother love as, having the past, her thoughts leaped on to dwell upon the mysterious way of the future. Fear found no place in her heart. Bob had been a wonderful boy and would be a wonderful man. To what high pinnacle might he aspire, what marvels accomplish?

Aroused from her dreams, Eileen reached for her negligee. But as she slipped it on, her eyes rested gently upon the recumbent figure of the man in the twin bed beside her own. To the world, John Mannering was the District Attorney of Fayette County and reckoned one of the big lawyers of the state, but to her, he was just her other boy,—her pal,—tried and true. Not always had life been as rosy to Eileen and John Mannering as it seemed this morning. There had been difficult years when John unknown and unappreciated was struggling to get a start in his profession. Money was scarce in those days, but they had met and conquered their problems, buoyed up by a richnessness of faith and love. Best of all, as John had climbed, winning by his outstanding ability and inflexible integrity of purpose ever greater honor and success in his profession, that had remained.

Another glance at the clock and hesitation. John worked so hard and now he was sleeping so soundly. It seemed a shame to disturb him an instant sooner than was necessary. Sliding cautiously from the bed, she tiptoed quietly into the bath room, beyond. Behind a carefully closed door, she turned on the water and laid out fresh undergarments for her John. That was Eileen. Today, with an efficient staff of servants at her beck and call, she still saw to the more intimate details of John's personal comfort and well being with a devotion which only love can give. And marvelously happy was Eileen at the task this morning. A paean of thanksgiving and joy welled up within her heart, for her boy, her husband and the rich fullness of her life. To it, she must surely have given lip, had it not been for the sleeping man behind her.

Yet, for all her care, John Mannering awakened. With a yawn he marked her empty bed and harkened to the muffled rush of water within the bath room. Aware that she would soon return, there came a change in him. An official of dignity and consequence, there was still a bit of a boy about John. As the bath room door reopened, he deliberately snuggled down in his pillows and closed his eyes.

Reappearing, Eileen crossed the beautifully furnished room to pause unsuspectingly by his bed side and to hesitate in gentle sweetness as if still loath to disturb him.

"John," she said finally. "John." Then she stooped and kissed him.

A kiss from Eileen Mannering? Surely it would be impossible for a man to be so lost in slumber as to fail to heed such a sweet summons? But John Mannering never moved. Indeed, he essayed a snore.

A mistake, John,—a fatal mistake. It was a sorry imitation, lacking verity and failing to carry conviction even to so confiding a soul as hers. Her suspicions were promptly aroused.

What was more, a woman of action, she cast aside the bed clothes and as an eagle swoops down on its prey was upon him,—tickling his ribs,—until he wiggled, squirmed and laughed helplessly under her attack.

Beware Eileen, be content with your triumph. Over-confidence has brought disaster at the instant of victory.

Ah,—it is over with the quickness of a flash. Her frailer figure, caught within his strong arms, is drawn down to his side a prisoner of war and made to suffer the added ignominy of a tousled head.

But even in the administration of condign punishment his touch was but a caress, his threats but empty boasts.

"Come on,—want to try it again?" he dared her when she had finally escaped his grasp to sit a breathless figure at the other end of the bed.

She received the invitation with silent scorn.

"Afraid?"

"Of you,—certainly not. But why trouble when I have gained my point. You are awake, you were never more wide awake in your life. Now, get up."

He cast a careless glance at the clock and again gave his attention to her, affection written plain upon his face.

"The prettiest bride that ever came out of Kentucky," he proclaimed.

The color that layed over her face was not entirely due to her recent strenuous exercise. He was always so outspoken in his admiration of her.

"Having picked its loveliest specimen for my own, I would be the last to deny the old state's claims in that respect."

She smiled, happy in the fact that despite the long years of their married life her husband was still her lover.

"You are blind, dear. Luckily for me, love has blinded your eyes."

"Blind nothing," he declared stoutly. "I maintain that I'm as good a judge of a fine looking woman today as I ever was."

She laughed outright. The thought of John Mannering, who was forever stalking absently by her dearest friends with never a nod of recognition, posing as a judge of feminine pulchritude was amusing. But she managed to display appropriate apprehension.

"What a speech, John? I hope you are not in the habit of exercising this marvelous judgment of which you are so proud?"

He received her mock alarm with the careless indifference of a man with a clear conscience.

"With you here at home, Eileen, it's not worth the trouble. With the queen of all beauties presiding over my house, why bother about others."

"But the years," she said gently. "The years have left some marks. I'm not as young as I once was, John."

"Nonsense," he burst forth with conviction. "You don't look a day older than the day you left Louisville as a bride."

Back flashed her thoughts to the scene in the station. The throng of excited friends, the ever-present tricksters, the white ribbons, old shoes and rice. Then she was a girl. Now there was Bob as old as she was then. How absurd for John to say such a thing, yet how lovely, for the best of all he really meant it. Still she regarded him severely.

"Flatterer,—there you go again. I would be the vainest creature alive if I listened to every thing you tell me. Base flatterer that you are, how can you sit there and make such speeches to me,—a mother. And what is more, the mother of a grown man. Do you realize that this is our son's twenty-first birthday?"

He shook his head as if it were a fact most difficult to believe.

"Great Scott, Eileen, I hadn't thought of it. How time does fly. It seems only yesterday that he was a baby."

She nodded, her eyes softened by memories of chubby fists and tiny toes.

He seemed to fall under the spell of her mood and reached forth to draw her to his side; she snuggled contentedly. So they sat, lost in pleasant memories of yesterday until John broke the silence. "The kid was a noisy rascal in those days. Heavens, what a powerful pair of lungs he had."

She bridled instantly.

"The idea,—he was a darling,—a perfect darling of a baby,—everybody said so."

"Darling he may have been,—but furthermore he was gifted with a power of expression which he never hesitated to exercise regardless of time or place."

"John, how can you say such a thing," she protested. "It was only his lungs that he was exercising. Bless his little heart it was the one way he had to exercise."

"Well, he took advantage of it to the fullest degree until he got to crawling,—then he combined both forms."

"There was nothing in the least abnormal about Bob," retorted Eileen coldly. "He had to crawl before he could walk."

"And what a climber he was," John went on perfectly oblivious to her reproof. "Always climbing,—do you remember later on when he climbed up on the roof of the barn and managed to fall off and break his arm."

"Don't I,—and you were away at Circuit Court," her eyes grew big at the memory of that calamity. Of herself, a girl wife,—crushed beneath what seemed to her tragic responsibility towards her offspring—and her husband absent.

"That was my first big case." Large though his son's injury had loomed in his life, John was not referring to it, but to a very venerable cause, involving the rights of certain most sophisticated but none the less innocent purchasers for value, upon which he had expended much lamp light. "It was next on the calendar and there I was waiting expecting it to be called at any moment when your message came. It was hard to decide just what to do and the train service was very bad." How hard had been that decision nobody but John knew. A certain inborn rectitude, a high standard of integrity so far as the cases he would accept had made John's progress slow in those days when compared to the advancement of less scrupulous men. And even now, when he looked out upon the world from the vantage ground of an assured reputation, those early battles to maintain his ideals and still make a living had graven the lines of force and strength which gave character to his handsome face.

Eileen reached over and patted his hand.

"You decided for me,—you knew I wanted you,—needed you."

"The old automobile in which I made the trip would look like an ark now. Tire trouble,—ignition trouble,—get out and get under. And the fear that old lawyer Johnson in whose hands I had left the case would get a chance to try the case and get credit for my months of hard work. Lord, —what a ride!"

"But you came to Bob and me." Drawing closer, Eileen rested her head upon his shoulder and when he stroked her hair raised her lips for his kiss. So they sat, oblivious to their surroundings, in the fullness of their mutual affection living over again those bygone days.

In the midst of their meditations, Eileen started and sat up."

"Water," she cried, "the water," and with a wild look made for the bath room as fast as she could go, with John at her heels.

"A minute more and we would have had a flood," she explained as she turned from the brimming tub.

"You turned on the water and forgot it? I thought something terrible had happened to——"

"Maw!" A masculine voice of force and power sounded from the room they had just quitted.

Heedless of her husband, Eileen made for the door. In the center of the bed room stood a handsome youth apparently driven to the point of desperation by the bow tie he had been attempting to tie.

"Bob," cried Eileen, her face alight with tenderness. "What is the matter, dear?"

"My tie,—I've had such a time with it, mother. I can't get the blame thing to go right."

THE COAL SONG

WARSAW FOLK DISCUSS PLANS

Will Vote on Wednesday on Question of Building New School.

WARSAW, Jan. 23—A meeting of the ratepayers of Warsaw School Section was held in the Senior school room on Wednesday afternoon. There was a good crowd, every seat being filled and several were seated on boards along the side.

Mr. Currie was elected chairman, and Mr. Wm. Selkirk, secretary.

James Robinson was the first speaker. He explained the plans, as exhibited. These were the front elevation, first floor and second floor. Mr. Robinson stated that a three-roomed school as presented, would cost $6,200 ready for the paint, and if the gravel were drawn and any necessary digging done. The building would be tongued-and-grooved 1-inch matched lumber inside; outside studding rough lumber, tar paper and 4-inch cement veneer blocks; steel roof; upper floor would have 2 class rooms 30 x 24 ft. each, with two cloak-rooms; lower floor one class room, 30 x 24 feet, a furnace room, a girls' play room, girls' toilet with entrance from the play room, boys' toilet, with entrance from outside. Lower rooms, 10 feet high, upper ones, 12 feet.

Mr. Downey, Public School Inspector for West Peterboro, said the first consideration was the boys and girls. Business people may look too much on the financial side, and forget they are educating boys and girls who are to become men and women, he said. The vital centre of parenthood is, that they wish their children to have more advantages than they had. Times change. Older men remember cradling, making bands, and other things about which farmers now know practically nothing. What was good enough 40 years ago is not good enough now. He advised that if such a school as was planned could be gotten for $8,000, it would be wise to have it.

If the teachers of today did as the teachers of 40 years ago did, parents would not stand for it. He advised a good school-room, good playground, play room, and good drinking water.

If a man drove into the village with a horse and buggy of 40 years ago, he would create amusement.

Mr. Lees stated that he had talked school matters a good deal, and sometimes thought he had not made much impression. He noticed the floor sagged and might give way. He really had the right to take drastic steps, but he had not, because he had hoped consolidation might materialize; but it was voted down. Prices were very high. They are still high, but there does not seem much likelihood of their becoming less very soon. He has found the people of Warsaw willing to provide the necessities.

For a time there were not many pupils. Later the people, not he, decided a second teacher would be better; he thought it wise. Expensive repairs are becoming necessary very soon, as the building is unfit. It was rather more difficult to plan a three-roomed school than a four-roomed one. He had suggested the one class-room on the lower floor, and the other part of the lower floor to be used as a basement usually is. A basement room is never a very healthy one, therefore they planned the whole above ground. The old desks can be used, also most of the blackboards, and other supplies. Supposing the building completed cost $7,500. On 20 year debenture each $1,000 would mean 80c per year, $7,500 would be $6. On each $1,000 property there would be a tax of $6 during the run of the debenture. This estimate is made with the idea of borrowing money at 5 per cent. The regulations require one acre of ground, but more is better, he said.

If continuation school is carried on (and it is not a continuation school unless the teacher devotes the whole time to continuation work) there are good grants. Outside pupils coming in, at once make the whole county responsible for 80 per cent. of a proportion of the cost of maintenance and of building of the room, or rooms devoted to continuation work.

At Ennismore, over 20 years ago, the priest began teaching a few pupils who wished to take continuation work. More pupils came, and he took up a subscription; fitted up a basement, and employed a teacher. Mr. Lees had it changed to a continuation school, and the section received the regulation grants, though they still are in the old building. There are now two teachers and 30 pupils.

If pupils come in from another county, that county council becomes responsible for them to the school section.

Mr. Lees thinks the right thing would be to equalize the cost of education all over the province. Education is a state business, and should be provided by the state.

Pupils will not appear until there is provision, but when there is provision they will appear.

The Government pays 40 per cent of initial cost, and 10 per cent of yearly cost of continuation school equipment.

Mr. Downey said that having a third room did not mean it had to be used right away, but was ready for use when needed. For a time the fifth class work could be taken up as it is.

Dr. Munro thought people should consider seriously, and do what is right. "As citizens, we must keep in mind the progress that is going on," he said, "and make provision for what is likely to come. Changes will take place. It would have been more economical to have built 15 years ago. The inevitable will come, and we must not consider simply the dollars and cents. We like to feel and see through the glasses of the man who bought a 200-acre farm when prices were high, and has a mortgage to pay: If it is to be a benefit, do the right thing!

Mr. Currie said that "From what I have read, observed and heard, the only thing we can pass on; what we live and die for, is the children. Some day these children will be looking at us as examples and will decide on what kind of men and women we are. What kind will they think us?

Reeve James Hawthorne said the room was not much changed since he went to school, only it looked a little brighter (it had been painted). One thing is sure, it is for the future, and it might be well to have the room if the teacher is not needed just yet. "We have always had taxes," he said, "and always will, and we have lived through it." Mr. Hawthorne hopes there will be no hard feelings on either side; that the people will peacefully abide by the majority.

Rev. H. B. Herrington stated that in a way he is not a taxpayer, but is vitally interested in boys and girls, and for that reason cannot afford to keep silent. "We want to give the rising generation a better chance than the present one had. Some may be opposed because they are in hard circumstances, or because they have no children to go to school. We should make provision as best we can, and the plans as presented do not seem unreasonable. Whatever we do, let there be peaceable acceptance of the majority vote."

The question of voters was raised. All who have a right to vote at the municipal elections are entitled to vote, either men or women.

Mr. Lees repeated that it would soon be absolutely necessary for him to do something. The present building could not be used much longer. If passed, the trustees will choose a site, then call a meeting of ratepayers, who will at that meeting vote on the choice of the trustees, and if the majority were with the trustees' choice, all right; if not, the trustees would appoint one, the opposition would appoint one, and these two, with the Inspector, would decide on a site, and their decision would be final.

Roland Payne said that two furnaces would be better than one large one, and could be installed for $800. The painting would cost between $300 and $400. No excavating would be necessary for furnace. Eight thousand dollars should provide all—site, building, furnace, equipment, gravel, digging, it was calculated.

BONAR LAW MAN'S NARROW ESCAPE

Neck Yoke Broke While He Was Driving Heavy Wagon Down Hill.

BONAR LAW, Jan. 23.—Mr. D. Wellman of Bonar Law had a narrow escape on Tuesday, January 19, while hauling wood to Wellman's Corners. While he was going down a steep hill between the sixth and seventh concessions the neck yoke broke. Mr. Wellman was sitting on the load. However, a large stone near by stopped the load from going any further down the hill.

One horse was thrown down but was not injured. Mr. Wellman had one leg bruised considerably, but with the aid of his son, who was also drawing another load, they soon had the horse up and proceeded on their way.

BETHANY NEWS

BETHANY, Jan. 22.—On Wednesday morning Mr. Mains, superintendent of the C.N.R. along with an engineer and several other railway officials visited our village to look into the matter of the withdrawal of the old spur between Omemee and Millbrook which event is booked to take place on January 30th. A number of the men of the village met these officials at nine o'clock and both sides were thoroughly discussed. The stock yards and grain sheds seemed to be the main drawback to the intended change. The officials assured the village deputation that as good a service as possible would be given but also said that these changes would all take time to approximate their former working basis. Mr. Mains said he was certain that the mail service could also be satisfactorily arranged.

Mr. Orr was asked if it wasn't possible to keep the present service up until spring but he replied that it was now maintained on for 30 days longer than it should have been. This part of the line has been operated at a loss for some time and now with the coming of heavier engines, heavier rails are needed to make the track safe; the bridge over Pigeon river this side of Omemee should be replaced by a new one as well as the old one is condemned. These improvements would require a great expenditure of money which eventually would come out of the people.

Franklin will be the village most affected, as Bethany is fortunate in having a branch line of the C.P.R. which gives good service to Lindsay and Peterboro and further points.

BETHANY, Jan. 22.—The senior hockey team went to Millbrook on Tuesday night to meet the senior hockey team there on their outdoor rink. Owing to the rain on Monday the ice was very soft. The score was 2-0 in favor of Millbrook.

Mr. Jeff Powell of Glen Morgan was in the village on Tuesday for a few hours.

Mr. W. A. Jakeman was a business visitor to Lindsay on Tuesday.

Mr. Irwin Fallis went to Toronto this week to take a three months' course in an automobile school.

Mrs. W. Card, Mrs. T. Wilson, Mrs. D. Driver and Mrs. R. L. Crerar were vistors to Toronto on Wednesday.

VESTRY MEETING.

Anglican Parish of Marmora Held Annual Business Meeting.

MARMORA, Jan. 23.—The annual vestry meeting of the Anglican parish of Marmora was held in St. Paul's church on Monday evening before a fair attendance. Mr. J. A. Rice acted as secretary. In the absence of Mr. H. R. Pearce, People's Warden, Mr. M. E. Grant read the financial report in so far as it affected St. Paul's church. The rector again nominated Mr. S. B. Wright as rector's warden and Mr. R. Bonter was duly elected people's warden. Messrs. W. R. Reynolds and C. Jones, with Dr. Crawford, were appointed delegates to Synod.

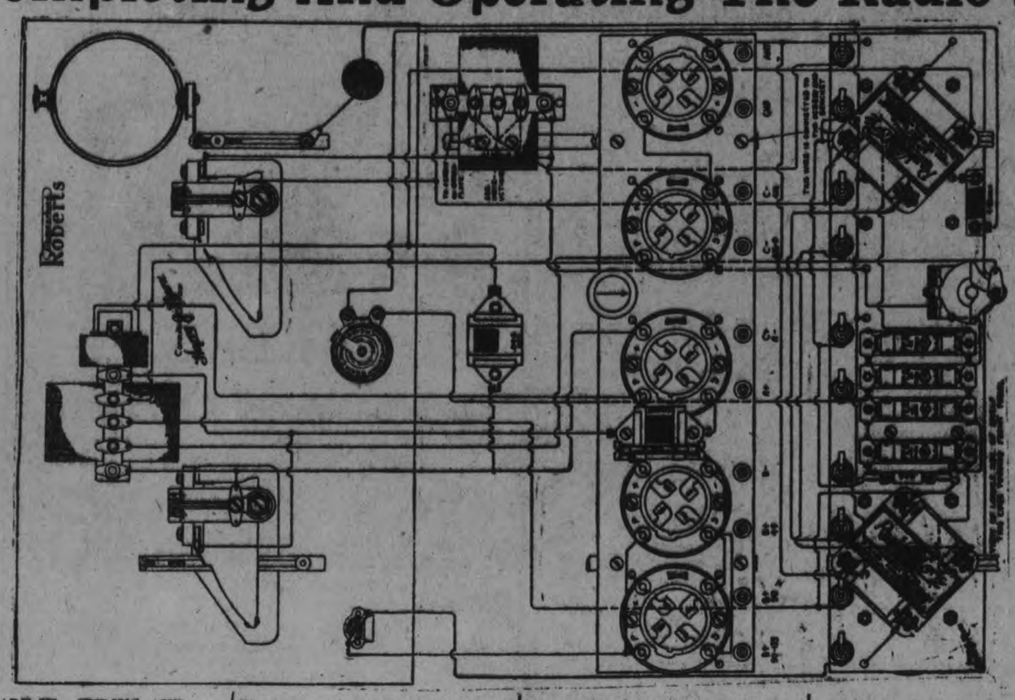
Completing And Operating The Radio Set



PART III—WIRING AND OPERATION

(By Harry J. Marx.)

It must be kept in mind that the tubes in this receiver are not laid out as in the conventional set. That is, the radio frequency tube first, the detector next and then the audio frequency tubes. For simplicity and short leads in wiring, the first audio tube was placed on the extreme right, figure 4. The second from the right is the radio frequency amplifier, the one in the center the detector and the two on the left are the parallel connected tubes of the second audio stage.

Wiring

In wiring this set these points are important—all leads are to be kept short as possible and all points should be well soldered. This doesn't mean slap solder all over everything. Make it hold—use a hot iron. The filament wiring goes in first. In the picture wiring diagram a loop, where wires cross, indicates no connection—while a black dot means they are connected and soldered.

Along side some of the socket terminals are shown holes through which the wires are intended to pass in order to connect to units on the lower side. These holes are also shown in the view of the lower side. The wires are shown disappearing into these holes in the upper view and should be followed up from the respective holes in the lower view. Where wiring disappears under some unit such as a transformer it is shown in dotted lines in order to complete the connection.

Most of the filament wiring can be completed before the sub-panel is mounted on the brackets and the transformers put in place.

In the lower right corner there is a note, "This wire is connected to the screw and bracket." Before the transformer is mounted, a terminal lug is passed over the screw on the rear edge fastening the sub-panel to the right bracket. The lead from the B–, A– and C plus, and the Ground phone tip jacks, is connected to this terminal. This puts the bracket in the negative filament circuit. Where this bracket is fastened to the front panel a terminal lug is shown under the nut on the lower screw of the bracket. This lug is wired to the battery switch which closes this negative circuit to the switch.

The Antenna Coil

This negative filament and ground lead must be connected to the first lug near the front panel on the upper terminal strip of the antenna coil. This is done by fastening a lug under one of the screws that hold the mounting plate on the aluminum bracket.

The antenna coil unit has six terminals, two lower ones for the secondary circuit, and four on the upper strip—the one of which is grounded as explained. The other three are antenna terminals and are placed there so the fan can try all of them with the set in operation, to find which gives the best results. The antenna lead can be flexible with a clip on the end so the connection can be altered as desired. This is the reason for the note, "See instructions."

Operation

Turn the volume control on full and advance the sensitivity dial to its maximum position. Now, by simultaneously rotating the two tuning dials at approximately the same settings, a squeal should be heard in the loud speaker, provided any stations are "on the air." Adjust the dials for maximum squeal and then reduce the setting of the sensitivity dial. This will eliminate the squeal and result in reception of music or whatever is being broadcast at the time.

Perhaps on local stations the advancement of the volume control to its limit will produce distorted reception because of tubes overloading. If this is the case it is only necessary to reduce on the setting of the volume control, or else reduce the amount of B battery voltage applied to the last audio amplifier tubes.

Regeneration should be obtained smoothly by advancing the sensitivity control, that is the tube should go in and out of oscillation quite evenly and slowly. If this is not the case reduce on the detector B voltage applied to the B positive 45 jack.

Neutralization

Tune in some moderately strong station, and, listening in with head phones or loud speaker, turn out the radio frequency tube by means of the volume rheostat. Adjust the midget condenser setting until signals either disappear entirely or at a decided minimum. It will be necessary to retune slightly after this and then the tube should again be turned out and the condenser readjusted slightly to a more exact position. There is a distinct minimum of sound when the neutralizing condenser has been correctly set.

NEW DEVICE IS FINAL SOURCE MOTOR POWER

Claims Japanese Scientist Who Has Produced Permanent Electricity.

"ELECTRET."

Gasoline and Steam Doomed Believes Discovered of New System.

A discovery just made by a Japanese scientist may be the final stage in the perfection of the automobile.

That final stage, many engineers agree, will be electric, yet without the bother, little power and short life afforded by the storage batter type of electric automobiles to-day.

The discovery is a way of producing permanent electricity in what Professor Mototaro Guchi of the Higher Naval College at Tokyo calls a "permanent electret." The permanent electret is to electricity what the permanent magnet is to mechanics.

Its possibilities haven't even been thought of, because it is still in its experimental stage. But it has the same prospects, if not greater, in the field of practical electrics as the permanent magnet had in the field of practical mechanics, when it was invented back in 1600.

Retains Charge.

The automobile is one of the "electret's" future fields. Underneath hoods of the future may be devices based on Eguchi's electret, replacing with much higher efficiency the gasoline and steam power plants of to-day.

The electret, as crudely shaped as it is to-day, has been shown to keep its electric charge, up to 20,000 volts to a centimeter of surface, since 1919, when it was first made, without a loss.

Thus, somewhat like the permanent magnet, the permanent electret may be the motive power of automobiles—among the many other possibilities it has—in the future.

Until that stage arrives, there may still be a transition—perhaps from the gasoline to the steam car. That sounds surprising since the steam car once enjoyed greater popularity than it has to-day, and since there seems to be little discussion over the permanence of the gasoline car.

Modern Inefficient Engine.

But it is a fact that engineers are not satisfied with gasoline as a source for motive power in autos. It is highly inefficient in the variable speed motors essential to automobiles, and requires many parts in the transmission of its power that effect its inefficiency.

There's the carburetor that needs adjustment, cams and camshafts that need timing, gears for the various stages of transmission with clutch and lever to control the mechanism. Attempts are being made to simplify the transmission, but nothing of this sort is in sight yet.

This is the great argument of advocates of the steam car who even go so far as to say that the public will return to this source of power as a relief from the old. What's keeping them back is the availability of gasoline as a source of direct power, coupled with the popular belief that power direct from fuel is better than power indirectly through steam.

Prejudices Overcome.

But the steam car has the advantage of flexibility, of simplicity and ease of control. It's as safe as any such apparatus could be and its only shortcoming is that it has been unable to live down the poor impression it made when it was first introduced, when it took time to start, effort to control and care to keep it from blowing up.

Now, these fears and prejudices are taken care of, and with more education coupled with the decline of gasoline production, the steam car may come back.

But it will be only for the interval to the time when the permanent electret, or some similar electric device, will take its place.

Many believe that continuous shaving of the human hair makes the hair wiry, but now it is declared there is no foundation for this belief. Tests made by growing beards on men who had shaved for as long as forty years showed that such hair was no stiffer than the beards of men who had never shaved at all.

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

INDIANS OF WESTERN CANADA ARE STRUCK BY CIVILIZATION

Forced Overnight Into Complete Change of Perspective of Life.

ARE THEY BETTER.

From nomadic bands of blanket clothed Indians to self-respecting communities of Canadian citizens epitomizes the transformation in the Indians of Canada's West during the past half century.

These rulers of mountain and prairie were struck as it were in a day with the new standards and ideals of the paleface, and were compelled overnight to revise their modes of living and to accept an entirely new perspective of existence. From their food to their religion, this new force dynamited what had been, and through the agencies of civilization's smallest and life's greatest—the wastrel and the missionary—injected what civilization considered best for the Indian.

The Indians have been changed within fifty years from a semi-savage, untutored people to a semi-civilized, productive nation within a nation. The question naturally arises: Have they benefited? The answer cannot be given in terms. If the standard of human success and well-being is founded upon health and morals, then the Indians have lots. But if education and productive ability are the standards, they have gained. Between these two every man must decide. Some will say the Indian has gained; some will say he has lost, but whatever the verdict, the gain or loss to the Indian as the case may be, is the white man's doing. The Indian has been molded by the white man, and upon the mold depends the product.

Before the Indian had gazed beyond the horizon of his civilization, he had acquired some of the white man's vices. This has retarded the Indian's progress, and has in some cases at least, made him sceptical of the beneficence of the new order. But the white race cannot be blamed for this lamentable fact, for it was the lower element of the Eastern civilization which led the newly awakening Indian in the wrong direction.

The Indian has attained to about the middle-age of his development.

By placing the worst facts first it is sought to bring out and accentuate the marvellous transformation that has taken place among the Indians of the West. People exclaim that if they had half the chance of the Indian, with his Government-supplied land and machinery, they would make considerably better use of it. If the people who so impatiently express this idea would stop for a moment to mentally review the handicapped trail of the Indian, and consider how short a time it has taken him to cast off the natural instincts handed down to him from generations of wild-hardened forefathers, they would hesitate to censure the red man. In the hands of a clear-sighted Government and a band of devoted missionaries the Indian is now well set on the highroad of clean civilization.

Life among the Indians fifty years ago was very different from what we see to-day. Their position was far better then than now in nearly every way. Their physique was splendid, and their moral code was stringent. They disciplined themselves in order to become hardy. The men wore very little clothing, and bathed daily in the rivers and creeks and lakes—not only in Summer, but far into the Winter, when the brave had to break a hole through the ice. Neither men nor women married, as a rule, under twenty-five.

The women chopped the wood, cut up the buffalo, gathered roots, hauled water, and did the cooking. When a move was made the women took down and erected the tepees—no easy task, since from five to thirty buffalo hides were used in making a covering for a tepee.

Tepee life was one of the healthiest forms of dwelling ever invented. The tepee was warm in Winter, and easily ventilated. There was no overcrowding, since hides were plentiful. Some of the greater chiefs had as many as a dozen tepees in use at one time. The followers or admirers of a great chief, or hunter, or warrior, were entertained and housed by him.

Buffalo Hunt.

The most common feature of the life of those days was the buffalo hunt. Several ways of making the killing were used, according to the lie of the land. On the prairie, the buffalo were run into a V-shaped corral, and there slaughtered as they bunched in the narrow neck. Where a steep cut-bank was convenient ly placed, or where a ravine intersected, the buffalo were driven over the edge, and, if not killed by the fall, were slaughtered below. Within fifty yards of the writer, stone arrow heads may be found at the foot of a cut-bank where such a killing took place.

The Indians existed principally on buffalo meat, although they also used fish, fowl, venison, roots and berries. No other beverage than water was known until the white man introduced his fire-water.

The Indian in his primitive state was naturally a religious being. His prayers were addressed to the Sun, the Creator of the Universe, the moon, the earth, and certain other of the heavenly bodies. Before the polluted morals of the lower white man were introduced, for an Indian to have improper relations with a woman not his wife meant an arrow through his heart. But when the low class whites possessed their country they polluted the Indian women, and in furtherance of their schemes taught the Indians to imbibe of liquor. When the white missionaries persuaded the Indians to put away all their wives but one, the white teachers' brothers took the remainder as their mistresses. Thus entered immorality into the Indian life.

The Sun Dance.

The great festival among the Indians is the Sun Dance. Formerly this was a magnificent gathering together of the tribes to pay homage to "the Old Man"—the Sun. At the Sun Dance, lasting a month or longer, braves were made. The making of braves was, in fact, a very important feature, and, for the aspirants, a very painful one. Aspiring braves had to give evidence of their great physical endurance, and to this end, stout leather thongs were passed through their skin—in the back and breast—and the end tied to a heavy pole. The brave-to-be danced, until, after days of terrible agony, the thongs pulled out, taking with them a bleeding mass of flesh. Of late years, the costumes worn at the Sun Dances have been resplendent with beads worked into beautiful forms and designs. The practice of the Sun Dance has, however, been discouraged by the Government and by the missionaries on account of the baneful influence it came to have upon the Indians. The medicine men were very much in the limelight at the Sun Dances, and even to-day they hold great power over the minds of the Indians. A sub-chief returned after a visit to a medicine man and told the missionary he was going to die. The missionary told him he was foolish to believe the nonsense of the medicine man, but the chief persisted in his belief. Going home, he told his people he was going to die, and, entering his tepee, a fine healthy looking man, he lay there until he died a few days later.

When not hunting, the Indians held sports, and great prowess were displayed. The strenuous life from sunrise to sunset was conducive to robust and achieving manhood. Before an Indian baby could walk, he was taken to the river and thrown into the water, so swimming came naturally to him. In casting heavy stones, riding the wild prairie horses, throwing the spear, and kindred sports, they delighted. A common feature of the sports was a 200 or 250 mile race. When the Treaty was signed, an Indian named Meat Face ran with the news from Gleichen to Winnipeg. Meat Face is still living, but his sedentary life necessitated by the confined quarters on the Reservation has made him somewhat corpulent. He presented the writer, a few weeks ago, with a beautiful raw-hide bow and a set of four arrows—as he said in his own language, just the same as he had when he was a young man.

It will be readily seen that the advent of the white man was not by any means an unmixed blessing. Formerly, the Indians lived the year round in the comfortable buffalo skin tepees, changing their encampment frequently, and renewing the skins almost every Spring. Following the wholesale slaughter of the buffalo, and the settling of the Indians on the Reservations, came a time of poverty, when several families had to crowd into one poor shack and, existing on a mere ration, bear with the resulting disease. It was thus that the tubercular trouble came amongst the Indians.

Times Again Change.

Happily, though, conditions have again changed, and now on most of the Reserves the Indians are housed in Government-built and sanitary houses, and as a result of the indefatigable efforts of interested Government officials and church missionaries, disease is being stamped out.

The boarding schools established by the missionary societies of the different churches are doing good work in training the rising generation. In these schools the girls are taught housewifery while the boys learn practical farming. As a result, many happy homes are to be found where prosperous ex-pupils of these schools are successfully engaged in tilling the soil of their ancient hunting-ground. In many of the homes, the young wife may be found at her sewing machine, making clothes for her children, while the young husband uses his four or six horses in working his 160-acre farm. The children are well dressed and clean. The families attend the church at the school where they were educated, and the children are baptized into that church.

In one school—on the Blood Reserve—an ex-pupils' club has existed for some years. The young men and women elect their own officers, conduct their business meetings in a constitutional manner, make recommendations to the Government regarding the Reserve, and, at their annual banquet, give an excellent programme.

Win From Whites.

The Indian pupils enter into competition with the white children in the surrounding districts, and very often carry off the honours. A cadet corps formed at one of the Anglican schools won a silver shield presented to the best trained cadet corps in the Province. This was won in open competition with about 70 corps of white boy cadets.

On the Reserves, competent stockmen and farmers are maintained by the Government to instruct and guide the Indians in their farming and stock-raising activities. All money earned is handled by the Indians through the Indian agent appointed by the Government. This is because of the lack of appreciation of money value by the Indians. The agent now satisfies himself personally that the Indians receive full value for the money they expend, but in a few years this system can be discarded, as the Indian is rapidly learning the principles of trade.

Modern tractors, gang ploughs, and steam threshing outfits are maintained on the Reserves by the Indians themselves. On one of the Reserves last year they made $30,000.00 from operating their own coal mine and freighting the coal.

Many of the young men served overseas during the Great War, and some did not return. One, Albert Mountain Horse, an ex-pupil of a boarding school, was gassed, and died on his way home. A fine stained glass window has been erected to his memory by his fellow Indians in the chapel of his old school.

That, after all is said against the evils which attended the white man's incursion, the Indian of tomorrow will be far better off than he would have been if left alone, is the unqualified belief of all those who work amongst the Indians for their good.

The brunt of the change from a semi-savage to a wholly-civilized race is borne by the present generation. It will be felt to some extent by the rising generation, but the red man will emerge ultimately with the odds all in his favor, and it cannot be doubted that he will prove a worthy reinforcement to the ranks of the civilized world.

Alstralian Trade Commissioner Suggests Reason For Woollen Slackness.

FOLK STAY HOME.

Radio Blamed For Many Things, But Textile Stunt is Latest.

By Israel Klein.)

It's a cry of the wool merchants and clothiers against our present system of selling radio receivers, among other modern conveniences.

People are skimping on clothing to buy radio sets, automobiles and such on the installment plan. So the woolen and clothing business has not been keeping up with the rest of the world and has, in fact, been declining of late.

Of course, there are other complaints and reasons for the decline of the clothing trades, but radio is the new sore spot in this industry. The part that this feature plays in the reported downfall of woolens and clothes is expressed like this by Sir James Elder, commissioner for Australia in the United States.

Less Social Functions.

"As regards the effect of the use of radio in the home, I believe that people are going out much less than they did, and so there is not the same necessity for party clothes."

That may be true right now. It may be a temporary restraint against the purchase of evening clothes, or even of more clothes than one has to wear, because of the installment payments coming due monthly.

But there should be no such worry. For the installment payments will end soon, with millions of receivers already in use, and so far as radio is concerned purchase of extra clothes will resume.

Further, radio should encourage the purchase of evening clothes, rather than discourage it. For there are radio parties even to-day, and as there will be finer concerts, finer dance music in the air, the country may expect a reversion to the old practice of evening visits and parties.

Radio has been blamed for other misfortunes, as it is being blamed for the decline in the woolen and clothing business to-day. But time has always shown this new industry to be a boon instead of a bugaboo.

Even in line telephone and telegraph service, radio is credited for increased busines—if alone through wires sent from fans to broadcasting stations. Yet once there was a fear, even a prediction, that radio would replace line wires.

So it will be with clothing—if the clothiers fear for the future.

Radio parties of all sorts will come, and with them of course new suits and dresses. Music broadcast to-day will arouse a greater desire among the everyday fans for the higher learning and will bring them out to concerts and plays, where they may see the persons they hear over the air.

That's not a prediction. It's an assurance based on the experiences of other businesses which at first were believed to be affected negatively by radio.

If a shield over a radio-frequency transformer is needed, melt the solder holding the end of a tin can and asten it to the insulating strip on the condenser so as to inclose the coil to be shielded.

"FROZEN TO HIS SET."

Out in the land where "men are men" lives a South Dakota cowpuncher who sends in the following letter to KOA, Denver: "I'm almost due north of Denver, where horses run wild and the weather goes to 60 degrees below zero. When it's too cold to sleep I sometimes stay up all night listening to radio programs."

BUS ROADS INCREASE.

Expansion of motor bus transportation throughout the world has been greater in 1925 than in any previous year, and further substantial increases are indicated for 1926.

CARS SELL ALL YEAR.

The automobile industry is no longer seasonable and sales are being made the year round. People have found that their cars are just as useful and convenient in inclement weather as during the spring and summer months.

RADIO TO LINK NATIONS.

Investigations are being made to determine the feasibility of connecting American and English telephonic lines by radio.

CANADA THIRD IN CAR RATIO

Automobile Industry Ranks Fourth in Dominion Export Trade.

100,000 EMPLOYED.

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (By N. E. A.).—The automobile industry has had a rapid growth in Canada and now reaches the seventh industry, employing 100,000 persons. In exports it ranks fourth among the Canadian industries.

It has been estimated that 500,000 or about 6 per cent of the total population of the Dominion are dependent for their livelihood on the manufacture and use of automobiles.

In the 21 years of the industry's life in this country, the factories have produced more than 1,000,000 motor vehicles, a large percentage of which have been exported to all corners of the globe.

It is said that the United States and Great Britain are the only two countries to lead Canada in the number of cars in ratio to population.

For the first eight months of 1925, 112,615 motor vehicles were manufactured in the Dominion, 98,794 passenger cars and 13,821 trucks. This is compared with 91,794 cars and 12,089 trucks produced in the corresponding year.

It is estimated that the annual cost of maintenance of motor vehicles in Canada approximates $150,000,000.

OUTDOOR OR LOOP AERIAL IS A PUZZLE

FREAKS USED.

(B Ed Friedman.)

Aerials—outside, inside, one wire, four wires or no wires hold a mystifying and continuous interest for the average radio fan.

The amateurs are experimenting constantly. Sets which were built to use indoor loops are being tried with outdoor antennae. And sets which manufacturers intended to be used with outdoor wires are being hooked up to an inside aerial.

Many freak aerials, bed springs, fire escapes, lamp sockets and others, are being used, giving satisfactory results in some cases and proving to be failures in others.

Aerial's Purpose.

Fundamentally, an aerial is a metal body which becomes excited by radio waves and absorbs a little electrical energy which is transmitted to the radio receiver and there translated into intelligent reception.

Tests show that radio waves pass through wood, brick, concrete and glass with ease, and theoretically there should be little difference whether the antenna is placed outdoors or in the house.

However, metal objects interfere with reception by tending to absorb or reflect radio waves. Buildings which have considerable metal in them, steel framework, concrete re-enforced with wire netting, interfering water and radiator pipe systems, permit poor and often impossible reception.

Interference.

The ideal aerial is, of course, one which is away from all interference. Even outdoor aerials give poor results when interference is created by nearby high-power lines, other aerials and even metal deposits in the ground.

Because of atmospheric and local conditions, every radio set owner has an individual problem to solve, regardless of set he uses.

There is only one way to determine whether your set will work best with an indoor loop, an indoor aerial or an outdoor aerial and that is to join the ranks of the millions of radio fans who are constantly making changes in the aerial hookup of their sets.

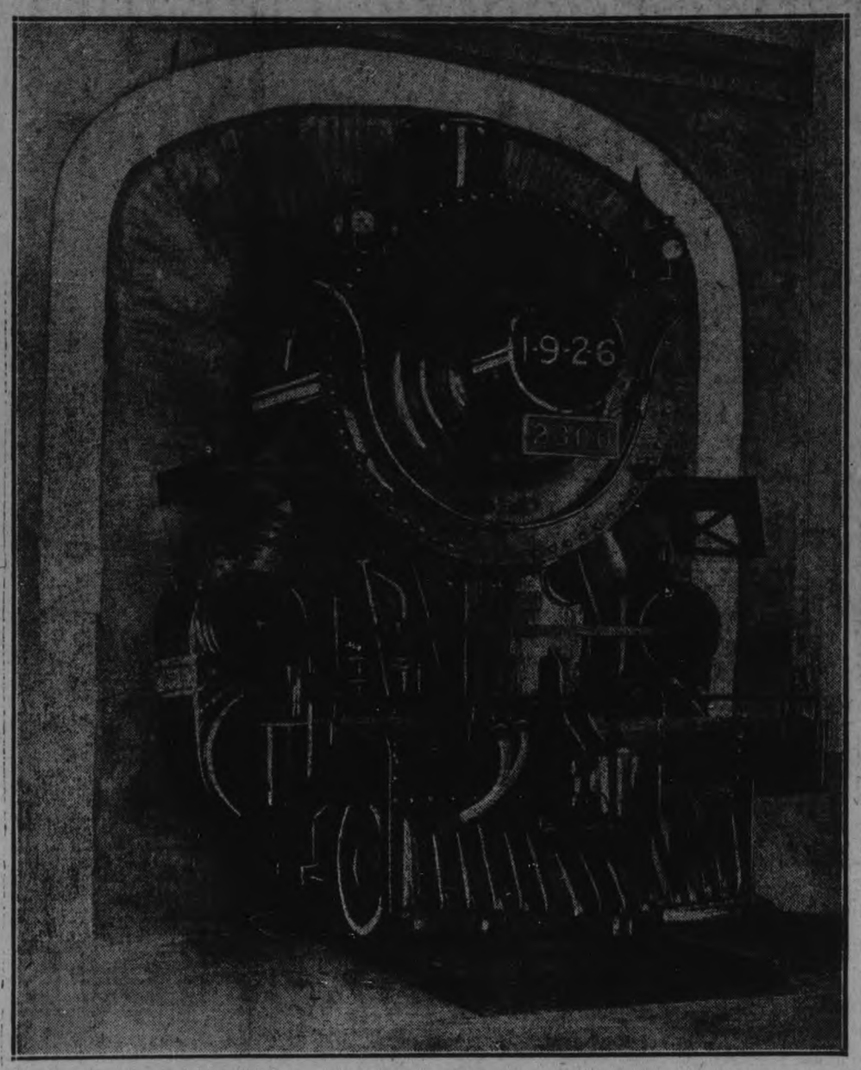
Spectacular Effect at New Year Eve Banquet



Five hundred guests at the Place Viger Hotel, Montreal, were left in sudden darkness just prior to midnight, December 31. In the distance the ringing of a deep-toned bell, varied with shrill whistles, was heard. Then came a heavy rumbling, as of a locomotive approaching on the right-of-way, and sharp on the stroke of midnight, Old Father Time stepped into the glare of a spotlight, turned on to a curtain at the far end of the dining-room. He parted the curtain for a dramatic appearance and the guests were startled to view a huge locomotive slowly shunt its way through the space opened.

On its headlight were the figures 1-9-2-6 and the engine, which was a huge model of the latest type of Canadian Pacific Railway locomotive, remained stationary five minutes. The model arrived at the Place Viger Hotel a few days earlier from the Wembley Exhibition, where it drew much interest during its stay there last summer.

sun of creation, so now the man and His bride (the Church) are seen at the head of this new creation. In the sixth age the glowing promises and prophecies of the Old Testament find their fulfilment, the church is not seen in prophecy at all, it is this Kingdom the prophets have in view. The King reigns upon the Holy Hill of Zion, upon the throne of His father David. His Kingdom lasts 1,000 years when Satan (who during this time was bound), is let loose from his prison, and gathers an army, and besieges the camp of the Saints, and the beloved city, and fire falls from Heaven. He is defeated, and cast into the lake of fire. The final judgment now takes place, the wicked dead stand before the great white throne, are judged according to their works, and cast into the lake of fire. The Redemption plan as typified in Genesis is now completed. God's purposes are now fully satisfied and filled up. Satan the destroyer is now put into everlasting torment. Christ, the once rejected, once despised man of sorrows, is now King of Kings and Lord of Lords. The people who believed on Him in this fourth age, the Gospel dispensation, and have shared His rejection here, are glorified with Him there is so close a relationship, that Scripture calls the Church, the Lamb's wife. Israel is the memorial, nations' God is all in all. It is the seventh age, the rest day, not in creation, but in the redemption of Jesus Christ, the Blood redemption of God's dear Son.

These dispensations absolutely condition the life of fallen man upon the earth, and without a knowledge of dispensational truth even the most spiritually minded believer must remain in ignorance of a very large portion of the counsel of God, and many parts of the Scriptures remain sealed to him.

THERE is a very marked tendency in almost every quarter to apply everything in the Bible to the Church, or as a friend of mine expressed it, we take the blessings to ourselves, and leave the curses to the Jews, but it will be seen from the outline I have given, that in the Scriptures the Church occupies a very small and restrained place indeed, that it is not seen in the Old Testament Prophets at all, and is first mentioned in Matthew when Jesus says—"I will build my Church," and first comes into existence at Acts 2 on Peter preaching on the day of Penticost, and will be completed soon and caught up according to Thessalonians. The writings of Paul only contain Church Doctrine. But the point is, we must when studying our Bible find out to which period each book belongs, which class it is intended for, whether Jew, or Gentile, or the Church of God. Sometimes there are books which belong to one class, and rigidly exclude the others, by this it is not meant that all Scriptures is not profitable for reproof, or correction, for we are definitely told that all things which happened to the children of Israel that they might be as types full of instruction to us upon whom the ends of the age have come, and that the whole Bible from end to end is intended for the profit and furnishing of the man of God unto all good works. It is meant to say, however, that in every Scripture one or others of these classes has priority of claim, and that the truth must first be considered in the light of its original relation before its profit can be more extendedly applied. We must first of all find to what period a book or passage is addressed, and seek to apply truth in its proper relation. Let me quote a case or two, gathered almost at random. Go back in thought to the first age, the ante-deluvian, and we shall find there an outstanding text: "My Spirit shall not always strive with man." Have we not all heard addresses applying this text to the people of to-day, and exhorting them to come to Christ, ere the Spirit take His "sad flight" and leave them forever. This is the age in which the Gospel of Grace is preached, such an application is not preaching Grace at all, but is a complete violation of the Gospel of Grace. Another gross error is to take Scripture which refers to the future Glories of Israel restored in the Kingdom age, and making it teach the conversion of the world under Gospel preaching; the 60th of Isaiah has been used in missionary meetings in this way, times without number—while it has no application to the Church whatever. Another much misused Scripture is that passage from the letter to the Christians at Phillipi: "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." Even evangelical preachers have misused this text by preaching the terrors of the Law over the heads of their hearers, and commanding them to seal salvation by strong crying and tears, and then to fear and tremble lest they should lose that salvation which they had procured so Lordly. Now, a single glance almost through the Epistle would have saved them from this blunder. It is an Epistle addressed to the Church at Phillipi, to a company of people who are saved, and therefore in possession of salvation, so that it belongs to them—is called their own, and which was to be worked out in daily life, and that with fear and trembling, lest the glory of that salvation should be observed, but being assured notwithstanding that it is God that worketh in us both to will and to do of His own good pleasure—so then—to summarise—the best plan of Bible study is to read carefully through Book by Book, beginning at Genesis, and continuing right through, bearing in mind to rightly divide the Word of Truth, and enquiring to whom is it addressed, and to what dispensation it belongs. It is necessary also to bear in mind that all Scripture is centered in Christ, and without this centre all is chaos and disorder, but with Christ as centre the whole Book is order, the expression of infinite intelligence, filled with life, and light and love and intelligible to the quickened minds of the sons of men. Moreover, each book contains a key to its contents, thus:

Genesis—Book of beginnings, the seed plot of the Bible—the germs, the roots of every doctrine afterwards unfolded in the Bible.

Exodus—Book of Redemption.

Leviticus—Redeemed people, serving and worshiping.

Deuteronomy—Preparation for the land—"Colossians."

Joshua—Conflict in the land—"Ephesians."

Ruth—Gentile bride of Jewish Lord.

Samuel, Kings and Chronicles — Six books set before us the story of the Kingdom.

I. Samuel—King after man's choice—then King after God's choice.

II. Samuel—The man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief raised to be King over all Israel.

I. Kings—The King of Glory.

II. Kings—The great apostasy.

I. Chronicle—God dealing in Grace, with the ark as centre.

II. Chronicles—God manifesting Glory with the Temple as centre.

Ezra—Building the Temple.

Nehemiah—Building the City.

Esther—Secret Providence to a Godless people.

Job—Self-righteousness.

Psalms—Christ's sufferiugs and glories.

Proverbs—Rules in Heaven for men on earth.

Ecclesiastes—"Under the Sun."

Revelations—The consummation or New Genesis.

THE purport of the Book, the purposes for which it is written forms the point of view from which we must interpret its contents, and get a grasp of its intents.

For example—in the Gospel according to Matthew, we have no record of the Ascension of Christ. Recognise that this book is written to set forth the Lord Jesus Christ as the King of Israel, and you have the explanation of the omission as King of Israel; His place is not in Heaven, but in Jerusalem, the city of the great King.

There is no account of the ascension in the Gospel of John, for in John 3:13 He claims to be man, which is in Heaven. Mark and Luke do give each a record of the ascension, because the servant of Mark rises to receive His reward, and the man of Luke rises from the dead, ascends to Heaven, to appear as the Man in the Glory, the second man, the last Adam, the Head of a new race, the prophecy of what all shall be who believe in Him. Again in Matthew, the genealogy of Christ is connected with Abraham and David, because as King of the Jews it is necessary that He shall get the land through Abraham, and the throne through David.

In Mark there is no genealogy, because He is there represented as the Servant, and a Servant has no need of ancestry.

In Luke His genealogy is carried back to Adam, that He may be presented as the Son of Man—the Seed of the woman.

In John we have no genealogy because the purpose of the book is to set forth the Christ as the unbegun, eternally begotten Son of God. He who is from Everlasting to Everlasting.

The foregoing words of mine give a few fragmentary results of Synthetic Bible Study—taking it as a whole, and studying it Book by Book, or reading large portions regularly or systematically. To any to whom such a method does not appeal I would say—read at any rate systematically, carefullly, and prayerfully. Then take the chapter you have read, and examine it thus—what does this teach about Christ? Which is the best verse? Is there in this portion any prayer for me to echo, any error for me to avoid, then memorise the outstanding truth or verse. I would commend every Bible reader to purchase a Scofield reference Bible—"the last word in Bible editing."

Another invaluable Book is Dr. Gray's Synthetic Bible Studies. Anyone possessing a Scofield Bible, and Dr. Gray's Book have at their disposal a wealth of means for research into the Holy Scriptures.

FINALLY—if you would have your faith strengthened, your joy increased, your spiritual life nourished, keep systematically and regularly at the study of the Bible. He who studies the Book as I have indicated will find himself able to flash into the darkness and ignorance of infidelic minds the light of this revelation of the truth of God, meet the difficulties of earnest seekers in the Word, and get for himself an abiding consciousness of its unity. He will see it rooting there in Genesis and fruiting here in Revelations. You will find a Royal Dignity, not a silly line in it. You will find Christ in every line, that He is the centre of Heaven and earth. He who thus studies will find that God came down to be man, that man might go up to be an immortal, incorruptable man, the image and likeness of God Himself. Reading, studying this matchless volume you will get visions of God, you will see above all the Glory, One like unto the Son of Man, and from the throne high and lifted up where the Seraphs sing, for you hear voices saying "Behold your God" and other voices saying "You shall be like Him," for you shall see Him as He is.

Study then to show thyself approved unto God a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

THE CHURCH AT HOME

land and Wales at Bournemouth was attended by some 1,500 delegates, many of whom were entertained in Anglican homes—a sign of the growing fraternity between members of different denominations in Britain. The union is rejoicing in the completion of its 500,000 fund for work at home and in the foreign missionary field.

A conference representing the various religious bodies in London has met at the headquarters of the church army and decided to call a "national" conference representative of all denominations to consider by what means the whole weight of Christian England can be concentrated upon putting an end to the deplorable housing conditions which exist throughout the country.

One of the most belated of the native races of the world, the Bushmen of Australia, have been considered almost beyond the uplift of civilization and Christianity. As an indication of the progress already made is the ordination to the priesthood of the Church of England in Australia of the first full-blooded aboriginal to receive that standing. His name is James Noble, born in North Queensland, converted 28 years ago, and a helper for the last 12 years of Rev. E. Gribble, at the Forrest River mission. The preacher, at the ordination service, spoke of the triumphs of the Gospel among the natives of the northern part of Australia.

A. T. Neal Elected President —Total Receipts $1,953.30.

C. A. BLEECKER, SEC.

MARMORA, Jan. 23.—The annual meeting of Marmora Agricultural Society in the Council Chamber on Thursday afternoon equalled all previous ones for enthusiasm and interest. Mr. A. T. Neal, the retiring President occupied the chair. Minutes of last annual meeting were read by the Secretary Treasurer, Mr. C. A. Bleecker, and confirmed.

The Auditor's report was next submitted and adopted. This showed the total receipts for the year to have been $1,953.30, included in which are the proceeds of four concerts put on by the Society. The Society received 88 dollars in membership fees. The total expenditure for the past year amounted to $1,910.39, thus leaving a balance on hand of $42.91. The total of $968.70 was expended in prizes. Usual repairs to grounds and fences were carried out.

Government Judges.

The matter of Government judges received close discussion. Eventually it was moved by Mr. J. P. Marrin, seconded by Mr. C. N. Heath, and unanimously carried that six Government judges be engaged for 1926 for classes as heretofore. The inconvenience caused through late arrival of entries was next discussed. On the motion of Mr. L. E. Neal, seconded by Mr. H. W. Sabine, an existing rule will be enforced whereby entries will not be received after 10.30 a.m. on the second day of the Fair, and doors will close at 11 o'clock.

This applies to all classes outside of horses. Attention was drawn to the professionalising of exhibits and, the re-exhibiting of the same articles. Difficulty to act in the matter was experienced. The last Friday and Saturday in September was considered the best date for the Fair.

Messrs. A. H. Connor and C. A. Bleecker were appointed as delegates to the Ontario Fair's Convention meeting in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on February 3rd and 4th, 1926. Reeves G. B. Airhart and R. Bonter were appointed to attend the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association, convened to meet in Belleville, Wednesday, Jan. 27th.

Election of officers formed the next item of business. Mr. L. E. Neal moved and Mr. A. H. Connor seconded the re-election of Mr. A. T. Neal as President. This was carried unanimously. Mr. T. E. Laycock was re-elected 1st vice-president and Mr. S. S. McComb 2nd vice-president, on the motion of Mr. C. N. Heath, seconded by Mr. Fred Johnston.

H. W. Sabine Admitted.

Mr. H. W. Sabine was added to the Board of Directors. Messrs. S. S. McComb, H. W. Sabine and C. A. Bleecker were appointed to revise the list of directors for which purpose they retired for several minutes. Upon their return, the following were announced as Directors for 1926. Messrs. F. N. Marett, F. Rutherford, C. A. Bleecker, G. B. Airhart, F. Johnston, L. E. Neal, H. W. Sabine, J. P. Marrin, C. Jones, C. N. Heath, A. Hart and H. A. Connor.

The ladies on the directorate will be known as Associates in future and the following were appointed.—Mesdames C. A. Bleecker, C. W. Gladney, A. H. Connor, F. N. Marett, D. E. Bell, D. Shannon and J. E. Bailey.

The President and Messrs. A. H. Connor and J. P. Marrin were appointed a Committee to deal with recommendations for entertainments throughout the ensuing year.

Meeting then adjourned. The Board of Directors meeting subsequently, re-elected Mr. C. A. Bleecker as Secretary-Treasurer and then adjourned.

DOOR LOCKED—NO KEY.

New Angle Indicates Henry Rand Was Slain—Police Spurred.

GRAFTON, Ill., Jan. 23 (By N.E.A.).—It is fairly definitely proven that Henry Rand, who was found dead in a hotel here, did not commit suicide, as was supposed by the police.

In questioning hotel clerks and others, a son of the dead man uncovered the fact that though the door of the room was locked, the key was not inside.

It will be recalled that Rand, Senior, was found lying on the floor of the hotel room which was filled with gas. No clue has been found, but the police are seeking H. A. Jones, of New York, in whose name the room was taken.

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is recognized everywhere as the standard treatment for piles you may be interested in this letter which describes one particular case. There are thousands of similar cases.

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, Appin, Ont. writes:—"Dr. Chase's Ointment cannot be equalled. I used it for protruding piles of the worst kind. When the Doctor said an operation was the only hope, I began to prepare for one, when I remembered reading about Dr. Chase's Ointment. I resolved to try it, and after using two boxes I had no trace of the piles. It was the greatest relief I ever got, and I only hope other sufferers who read this letter will lose no time in purchasing a box, and see for themselves the miracles it works. It will be the best investment they ever put their money into."

ARMOR!

By Juanita Hamel

In the days of old, the brave knights wore mail coats and heavy suits of armor to protect themselves from the darts and spears of the enemy. Now the style has changed and the armor has been adopted by the fair ladies to protect themselves from Cupid's arrows. Not coats of mail, nor metal armor—oh, no! Nothing so ponderous! But they employ silks and satins and lustrous, delicate feathers. What more wonderful picture can be imagined than Missst Lovely with her huge fan spread across her heart, thinking that thus she will resist Love's onslaught. But it won't be for long, for Dan Cupid's arrows will pierce the heaviest and the loveliest armor with which she will gird herself. And, whisper! She tries to make you think she's afraid, but she isn't. It's just a pose, and she's just waiting for the moment to come when Love's dart will pierce her heart and bring her the happiness for which she has been waiting.

THE WOMAN WHO KNOWS.

Are you a heliotrope woman, or a Parma violet lady?

Does your personality call for the flavor of dew-drenched jasmine, or can't your ego struggle along without a little dash of cerise narcissus?

The perfume ads especially have intrigued me. The same copy writers who sold carloads of lingerie by "matching style and color to type," evidently have taken new jobs with the ambergris distillers.

They patter long and loud about the crudity of any refined woman dousing her handkerchief with volet perfume when, if she would only have her personality diagnosed by a phrenologist and perfume specialist, she would know that no handkerchief must ever be put to her nostrils which does not convey the aroma of buckwheat fields in the spring.

Crystal Jade.

"Are you Titian?" inquires one headline. "Never, never, never, if you would be known as the woman of refinement, use any perfume but Gollie's crystal jade—that haunting, tantalizing, elusive, esoteric odor which gives sun to your hair and emerald glint to your eyes!"

Help, help, hel-up!

A double-page spread of "Costumes Pour Le Country." White and pink and orchid and pale green pleated crepe de chine skirts with equally fragile sweaters and pastel hats!

"No women will venure into the woodlands of the north unless she wears one of these chic ramble costumes. The woman of propriety never neglects to show her innate refinement by appearing in even the most rustic spots garbed in those delicate costumes which mark The Woman Who Knows."

G'rr! Donner and blitzen!

Old Oxfords.

I am thinking of my old brown oxfords "pour le country" that have waded through so many marigold bogs and trillium swamps that they bear the tracings of a rich, gooey—, chocatey coating of mud that will never come off!

What does it all mean? Whither does it all tend?

There must be enough members of our sex to bite and eat and swallow this pap, or commerce wouldn't spend money upon it!

That alone makes me blush!

But what of its effect on the women whose nearest approach to "matching personality to perfume" is the sneaky purchase of a ten-cent bottle of lilac by mail with money filched from "the butter and egg money can"?

"My life seems more unsatisfying every year," a farm woman told me not long ago. "I think it's the magazines and the ads. They make me realize the fearful chasm between my life and that of other women. They make me feel sorry for myself and at the same time ashamed of everything I am, everything I can hope for."

"But"—she added, "I can't get along without them."

Aha—perhaps, the answer is here! Some women buy cerise narcissus perfume to match their bafflingly intricate personalities!

Other women get a kick by reading about this phenomenon so remote from their own lives!

I must confess that in spite of my fury I enjoy the ads!

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am considered a very attractiive girl, but I cannot keep the friendship of young men.

Please tell me how to gain and keep their friendship.

LONESOME BETTY.

LONESOME BETTY: You must remember, Betty, that friendships are not formed on sight. Two people who have tastes and interests in common, and who are compatible temperamentally, are certain to form a very binding friendship. But to expect every acquaintance whom you meet to become a life-long friend, is foolish. I suggest that you join a club—literary, athletic or social— where you will meet young men and women whose interests and aims you share. If you are sincere and shun affectation, they will welcome you to their midst.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I love a young man dearly and he said that he loves me also. Yet he goes out with another girl who loves him, too. This girl tried to win him, and now she wants him to marry her and he wants to too.

What shall I do? H. H.

H. H.: Evidently the young man cares for the other girl, my dear, or he wouldn't agree to marry her. Why not seek other friendships in clubs or at church, for I am sure you may find others who will be in a position to return your affection.

TO LIVE LONG —GET MARRIED

Insurance Companies Prove That Wedded Folk Have Longer Lives.

REGULAR LIVES.

Married men and women live much longer than spinsters and bachelors.

No, there isn't a catch in it! I'm not about to tell you the explanatio is only that it seems longer to the married man and woman.

The figures come from insurance companies.

For men between the ages of 20 and 25 there are 6.26 deaths among husbands and 12.31 deaths per 100,000 among bachelors.

Between the ages of 30 and 35 you find that the married man dies at the rate of 8.65 and the bachelor at the rate of 15.94 per 100,000.

Between the ages of 55 and 60, fully three times as many bachelors die as married men.

A married woman of 31 may expect to live 37 years longer.

An unmarried woman of 31 may expect to live but 30 more years.

Of all women who reach the age of 45, there are 73 married women to every 53 spinsters.

Now just what is the reason? The insurance companies try this one:

Marriage means that the market of eligible men and women has been culled, and the best taken. The rest naturally are "leavings and leftovers."

Oh, they are, are they? Not an hour ago we finished reading a howl from a university president and a eugenist, complaining that only "the unfit" were marrying nowadays.

Consider the bulk of people, however. We know perfectly well that college people—cultured, intelligent people—are not the bulk of our population. Consider the bulk. We are inclined to believe the insurance companies are right—marriage does cull and take the best. "Undesirables" remain.

The insurance companies try this explanation, also:

Married men and women live more regular, routine lives. Papa goes from his office home, and from home to his office. But the bachelor can go any place at any time. He is out more at night and therefore more likely to meet with accident.

This probably will be interesting and illuminating news to the hordes of married women who ask "where is my wandering spuse to-night?"

And, say the insurance agents, the married man is better fed, better cared for, in general, than his unwed brother.

Strangely enough, the insurance savants propound absolutely no explanation why a wife lives longer than a maiden? One wonders why they do not attempt it!

Surely in this age of assuming that every virgin treads the primrose path they could prove that the maiden's dissipations bring her to an untimely end and an early grave!

BOUFFANT TYPE EVENING GOWNS TO BE LONGER

Noted Designer Gives Word Picture of the Season's Mode.

TAFFETA POPULAR.

Bound To Be Worn By Smartly Attired—Dance Frock Different.

BY HENRI BENDEL,
Noted Designer
(Written for NEA Service and The Examiner)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The day frock, to be smart must be short, but the evening gown, if of bouffant type, should be long.

Not in many seasons have evening gowns been so decorative and beautiful as the robes de style that the debutantes have taken unto their hearts, but nothing so robs them of effectiveness as abbreviating them too curtly.

The chiffon dance frock that is clinging and has points and floating draperies may display your knees, if you like, but the picture frock with bouffant skirt must show off a lovely sweep of material, and a dignity that shortness steals.

To-day I am showing two distinct types of evening frock. The bouffant one is of ivory-colored satin, with silver lace and very fine net finishing the neckline and the under-arm thus cut doing away with the hard line that frequently makes the low decollette unbecoming.

Jewels Unnecessary

With such a frock I consider jewels quite superfluous, but I like the note of color in the velvet flowers at the waistline.

Recently one of the beautiful young debutantes so numerous this season came to my studio. She was almost in tears from exasperation because she had run out of ideas.

She wanted a new evening frock, and she believed her wardrobe contained everything possible for formal occasions. Everything from the robe de style to the slinky satin frock was represented.

This model is made interesting by the tulle scarf with motifs of black lace. It is worn loosely about the neck knotted at the shoulder with floating ends, vaguely suggesting a Pierrette ruff.

I suggest this scarf as an interesting way to refurnish a frock that may lack distinction, or have lost most of its freshness through repeated visits at dancing parties.

For Day Wear

For day wear, I am showing a model that I consider essentially youthful and attractive, and which I am making in velvet for northern climates and in taffeta for the south.

It is most pleasing in black or dark blue with the under-blouse in plaid or flesh-colored satin pleatings.

The skirt flares in front and repeats the graceful lines of the sleeve. Paris loves the jacket or bolero effect, and this line is becoming very popular here. It is possible to adjust it to every figure except the very heavy one, and make it individual in every case.

In regard to lines, let me emphasize the warning that the stout figure, or the woman with hips should avoid the two-piece frock as she should horizontal ruffles, but she can simulate the two-piece effect by joining the over-blouse and skirt.

In this particular costume, the effect is of a two-piece, but it is really made all in one except for the separate unlined jacket.

Taffeta Popular

The success of this frock in taffeta leads me to urge women to watch taffeta and buy their spring wardrobes accordingly. It is bound to be worn by the smartly attired, and its youthful air, as well as its crispness and novelty are bound to bring it into high favor.

I know of nothing which could be more appealing to a woman of charm and refinement than the two-piece taffeta frock. It loses nothing of dignity and reserve, and retains youthfulness, gaiety and joy.

Again let me emphasize, however, that the two-piece suit is for the slender woman, built on the lines of the prevailing mode. It is not for the woman who s returning to the more rounded lines which have given some indication of future return.

Nile Green Crepe de Chine Makes This Smart Afternoon Frock.

Crepe de Chine in a lovely shade of Nile green is the material chosen for this afternoon frock that exploits the lengthened tunic idea.

The tunic slopes out to give the circular line and is rather ful about the lower edge. From beneath peeps only a few inches of a plain skirt of matching color.

The only material is seen in narrow bands of black velvet ribbon, applied flat against the green. These make points on the skirt and on the sleeves, which are rather full near the cuffs.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

You never had an ache or pain without wishing it might be exchanged for an ache or pain in some other location. You are always ready to trade your misery for somebody else's.

It seems to me I would rather have any other kind of ache than a headache. Almost the only thing to do for that is to go to bed and try to sleep it off. Many other aches can be controlled by local application or other treatment.

Headache has many causes. Like most other ailments, headache is the result of doing something you ought not to do.

It is amazing how many things we do, knowing all the time that discomfort or suffering will follow. Was it Rip Van Winkle who excused every drink he took, after promising to reform, by saying: "Well, we won't count this one"?

That appears to be our attitude. We think we will indulge just this one time. Or else we pray it won't hurt us this time.

It need not be over-indulgence in drink. Over-indulgence in eating is almost as bad. Too long in a poorly ventilated place, too late to bed, straining the eyes by overreading, too much worry; all these are common causes for headache. A little imagination on your part will permit you to add to this list of over-indulgence.

Nature is long suffering and very forgiving. But there is a limit to what nature will endure.

I have said to you many times that the time is sure to come when men will be ashamed to admit they are sick or in pain. Human misery is so often the direct result of physical indiscretion that there must come a realization that to have suffering or illness is proof of weakness or self-indulgence.

Next time you have a cold, a headache, a backache, indigestion, colic, or some other disability, make a survey of what you did the night or the day before, or last week. Nine times out of ten you will be able to point out exactly when you made a mistake.

The wise man learns from his experiences. He profits by them. Do you learn and profit from yours?

If you know why you have frequent headaches, or habitual indigestion, or repeated colds, you should correct your manner of living so as to escape these symptoms. You must do this, not alone to promote your immediate comfort, but you must do this in order that your length of days may be extended.

Let me put it another way. If you persist in doing things which cause you physical suffering, you are shortening your life.

Pain is a blessing in disguise if it leads you to the discovery of why you are in pain. By getting rid of the cause of the pain you are giving yourself the prospect of longer life.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Cremulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY, JANUARY 24 AND MONDAY, JANUARY 25

Sunday's horoscope emphasizes the social and spiritual activities of the day, with Venus and Neptune, her higher octave, ruling. It is urgent that change or travel be postponed, as the incitement is malefic and the mind impulsive.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an active year, with new affiliations and the social activities enlarged. But make changes carefully. A child born on this day should have an alert mind and lively social and artistic leanings.

Monday's astrological map indicates new openings and assists to successful ventures, providing they do not involve radical change or travel. Under the benefic positions of the two greater "Fortunes," affairs should thrive and bring gratification.

Those whose birthday it is should have a pleasant and profitable year, if they make changes on travel with discretion. They should benefit in all that pertains to the affairs of women, as in art, music, amusements and social activities. A child born on this day should be popular and accomplished and have an alert mind. It should make a success of any one of the fine arts and be successful financially.

THE LAST RITES FOR ADAM BROWN

One of the most impressive funerals ever witnessed in Hamilton was that of the late Adam Brown, who died within three months of his 100th birthday. At the upper left is shown Mrs. Deguerre, his nurse. At the upper right the body is shown being carried out of the Church of the Ascension, where the funeral service was held. At the lower left are Sir John Gibson, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario, and his son, Col. W.T. Gibson, who attended the funeral. At the lower right is Judge Gauld, of Wentworth county, arriving at the Church.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

By S. T. Williamson.

Soldiers of the Buffalo Division and stevedore labor battalions of the American Expeditionary Forces never could understand why black men in French uniforms put on such airs; why they repulsed friendly advances in voluble French, and why they would not converse in the language spoken by every southern field hand. By what right did they wear the fez, when they showed not the slightest sign of membership in any fraternal organization popular in colored circles?

One of these strange soldiers, though, was not to be trifled with, for he was business-like with his fists. He had been born twenty years before, on the edge of a West African jungle. Ways more mischievous than those of other pickaninnies rolling in the dust had attracted the interest of a wealthy Frenchwoman, who took the boy into her household and made him her page.

When his patroness died, on the Riviera, he fended for himself, washing bottles in a waterfront cafe and fighting other youngsters for a few coppers at low resorts frequented by sailors. The scum of six continents collected along the quais of French Mediterranean ports, and it was upon this seasoned material that the young black bottle-washer hardened his fists.

He enjoyed fighting so much that when the war broke out he abandoned three-franc bouts for the privilege of receiving five sous a day as a private in a colonial regiment. He seemed to like battles. At any rate, his record discounted assertions that blacks are good soldiers except that they cannot stand shell-fire; for twice he stepped forward from the ranks to have the Croix de Guerre and the rarer Medaille Militaire pinned on his blouse, and to have both cheeks kissed by a high French officer.

While statesmen wrangled after the armistice, a renascence of physical exercise swept over France. Membership in sporting clubs increased and athletic games became popular in the army. Nightly the galleries of the Cirque de Paris echoed to the smack of a padded leather glove on muscular ribs and unguarded chins. The idol of the nation was the Apollo-like light-heavyweight champion of the world.

He needed training and the revenue from a fight that would look well in motion pictures. The war-decorated bottle-washer from West Africa was matched against him before 50,000 excited Parisians. It was Greek statue against black panther. The latter had the ambling, shuffling footwork typical of so many American negro boxers and in addition some of the savagery of the African jungle. Moreover, the vinegrous dregs of the countless wine bottles he had washed had pickled his hands as hard as paving stones. In the sixth round France's idol was knocked out.

That bout did not contribute anything lasting to the reputation of either contestant. The black man said that before the match he had agreed to throw the fight to the champion; in the ring he "double-crossed" the white man and beat him to the canvas.

Nevertheless, the boulevards never saw a more picturesque figure than the new light-heavyweight champion of the world. He spent his money with the abandon of a war profiteer. He was offered a small fortune for the use of his name in a pill advertisement. A notorious dancer offered him 1,000 francs if he would dance with her. He invaded Parisian bars and cafes, and those who declined to drink with him felt the force of his grisly fist. On his shoulder rode a chattering monkey. By a leash he dragged a howling lion cub—and once, just to place himself upon an equality with his jungle pet, he bit it.

"He's a gorilla," complained his manager. "He has the gorilla's tricks and the gorilla's manners. He's just a bit crazy, judged by human standards. He's never where you wait for him, and he fools you every second."

Then the new champion had the temerity to defend his title against an Irishman; had the stupidity to fight him in Dublin, the impudence to enter the ring on St. Patrick's Day. Most of what can be imagined in such a case happened. The Irish were in the midst of a quarrel of their own. Sinn Fein decreed March 17 a day of mourning, but forbade the mixing of black with green in the prize ring. Irish Free State soldiers and police surrounded the arena, and, to prevent any armed Sinn Feiners entering, searched all ticketholders as if they had been criminals.

Around the corner the Irish Irregulars set off a mine. Two children were killed in the explosion, while within a white and a black man pounded each other—until, at the end of twenty rounds, a new champion was proclaimed.

This episode was more than Paris could forgive. Paris appreciates the bizarre and will condone, provided the offense be unusual; but it does not tolerate stupidity. Thus the unusual victim was compelled to adopt a usual course to recoup his fortune. He came to America.

On account of the African quota being filled he found it difficult to get into this country, but was finally admitted as an "artist." Before he could be signed up with some of the leading heavyweights who clamor around Jack Dempsey's throne, the black man was matched with a second-rater to show what he could do. He lost the decision, and spectators carried away with them the impression of a black windmill—an inefficient machine that seemed capable of standing a lot of punishment.

But while he failed as a black hope, he lived up to the "artist" designation of immigration officials by furnishing entertainment. He never seemed to get enough fighting in the ring and consoled himself by participating in street brawls. It was a habit of his to ride all night in taxicabs and then offer to fight the indignant chauffeur for his fare. These incidents generally ended in doctor's bills for taxicab men, black eyes for the bluecoats and station house cells for the light-heavyweight champion of France.

So erratic were his pugilistic appearances that his manager took out a "disappearance insurance" policy. The champion was near death from pneumonia in Havana, and a month later, in a cafe altercation, a Cuban carromed a sugar bowl off his head. Last July he was picked up for dead, with two knife wounds. The next day he left the hospital in his pajamas, carrying a reporter under his arm, and took a taxi home.

A few weeks later the immigration authorities warned him that he had overstayed his leave in this country and sought to deport him. From France came word that that country would not receive him. This was the beginning of the end for the black man without a country. He never faced another enemy, for one day recently—

Louis Fall, better known as Battling Siki, the "Singular Senegalese" who knocked out Georges Carpentier in 1922 was found dead in a New York street with two bullets in his back.

BOBBY CHANGES HIS MIND ABOUT HIS SCHOOL

Every morning it was the same thing—Bobby's mamma would have to call and call to get him up and ready for school so he wouldn't be tardy.

"Oh, dear! I wish we didn't have to go to school so early," he fussed. "I don't see why a fellow has to go to school at nine o'clock. Why can't we go at——"

"Well, of all things!" exclaimed a soft voice and Bobby turned around to see a funny little elfin sitting on the foot of his bed.

"Gocomeback!" cried Bobby, excitedly. "Where did you come from?"

"You mean, where are you going, don't you?" laughed the wee elfin.

Bobby laughed and pulled on his shoes and stockings, yawning all the time.

"Guess I'll have to change my mind and take you to see a little friend of mine," laughed Gocomeback. "He goes to school much earlier than you do and I never have heard him complain."

"What, before nine o'clock?" asked Bobby. "I'd like to see a fellow that can get out of bed before nine."

The little cluster of houses scattered around Bobby were all made of mud

A queer, two-wheeled cart, with a white covering over the top of it, drawn by two strange looking animals, passed them.

"What kind of animals are those and where are we?" Bobby whispered in Gocomeback's ear.

"Those are zebus, replied the elfin. "We'll hurry to school."

"What? To school at six o'clock in the morning!" Bobby exclaimed. He had just heard a clock strike six. "Surely, you don't mean——"

"Indeed, I do," replied Gocomeback. "The boys here in India go to school at six every morning. Then at nine o'clock, when you are just going to school, they return home for breakfast. At ten they go back to school and stay until two; from two until three they have recess; then back in school they go until dark. Let's go inside this school," and he led Bobby into the schoolhouse.

All the boys were sitting on the floor, not in classes as one would expect, but each boy off by himself studying out loud.

The noise was so great Bobby had to hold his hands over his ears. He was glad when Gocomeback pulled him outdoors again.

"My goodness!" he laughed. "I thought nine o'clock was bad enough. I wouldn't like to live here and go to school at six every morning."

A big bell sounded and Bobby found himself back in North America. He thanked Gocomeback and, gathering up his books, hurried off to school.

His mother never had to call but once after that, for Bobby never forgot the little boys who had to go to school at six o'clock.

HOW ALL MOTHERS CAN KEEP HEALTH

Cares of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown.

The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. It is no wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women have grown up to accept these troubles as a part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are the cause is simple and relief at hand. It is rich, red blood that keeps a woman well; when she is ill the blood is thin and watery, and she must take a tonic to enrich it to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman in the world needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one sure way to get this rich blood so necessary to health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Henry Burke Lower L'Ardoise, N.S., tells what these pills did for her. She says:—"I first used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills five years ago. After my baby was born I did not regain my usual health. I felt weak, miserable and always tired so I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking five boxes I felt like a new woman. Ever since that time when I feel tired and overworked I take this treatment and always with great benefit. I have proved them to be a splendid medicine for nursing mothers, and I always recommend them to others."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What Peterboro People Think of Flask Toting

PUBLIC OPINION ON FLASK TOTING AT THE DANCES EXPRESSED THROUGH INTERVIEWS WITH EXAMINER THE PRACTISE IS REGARDED AS UNGENTLEMANLY

Men Consider Carrying Liquor To Public Affairs Is De Trop.

PARENTS TO BLAME.

J. M. Brooks Says Six Hundred Breweries Keep Peterboro' Wet.

Dr. T. W. H. Young, in explaining his views on flask toting, said that every nation and savage tribe has its stimulant. If the people are deprived of its use they quickly turn to some other form which they find more easily obtainable and which might have more deadly effects than that to which they had been accustomed. Dr. Young intimated that the Ontario Temperanrr Act was largely to blame for the increased use of drugs which, being of smaller volume were more readily handled and consequently were supplanting the more cumbrous flask. Branding the action of young men carrying liquor to dances and other places where women congregate as contemptible, he qualified his indictment with the naive remark that in many cases the ladies were equally 'culpable.''

He understood that a young man was denied a certain standing if lie did not carry a flask and in most cases carried the liquor as an act of bravado.

In the days when it was possible to obtain the whiskey freely it was not used as universally as it was now, said Dr. Young. It was impossible to make either a Christian or tee-totaller by an act of Parliament. The people must be educated to the new viewpoint.

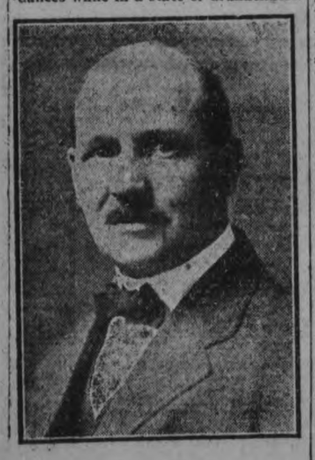
Viewing the question from another angle he said that it was an imposition on the public that the members of society were forced to obtain a prescription from a doctor in order to get a little brandy, whiskey or alcohol for medicinal purposes and further, it was an insult to the medical profession to deprive the members of their academic robes and substitute the white aprons of bar-tenders.

J. M. Brooks.

Mr. Brooks' comment was brief and pointed. The old cry used to be 'protect the boy.' Now it was becoming necessary to substitute that of 'protect the girl.' It appeared to him from the trend of the times that the girls were worse offenders than the boys. They want the liquor too. But Mr. Brooks did not think that the youth were wholly to blame. He declared that there must be nearly six hundred breweries in the city, where in recent years, previous to O.T.A. legislation there was but one. Children are being reared now he said, in an atmosphere of home brew and when parents countenance the practise of making it in the home it is natural that the children would follow in their footsteps or attempt to exceed their efforts.

J. J. Turner.

Mr. Turner declared that he had never formed an opinion regarding the alleged flask-toting habits of modern youth while at public dances, but he had always believed that a gentleman would not attempt to attend public dances while in a state of drunkenness.



JOHN J. TURNER
Last Year's Mayor.

He also said that when a statuet is placed in the legal archives of a country good citizens should do their utmost to abide by it and even enforce it until the national leaders saw fit to either modify or rescind it. Parents should take upon themselves the duty of directing their children to conform with the provisions which are made for their own safety, instead of leading the rebellion against the laws of state.

Joseph Wearing.

With respect to the apparently growing habit among young people of carrying flasks, Mr. Joseph Wearing stated that in his opinion this was the result of attempting to do something considered smart, just the same as young boys covertly smoking cigarettes. Law can have little effect on the practice because of the impossibility of making it effective. The remedy lies with parents and good society generally. If a practice, now considered smart, is branded as vulgar and bad form, the habit of carrying flasks will soon die a natural death. Hostesses and patronesses of dances, if once fully seized of the terrible danger to young girls who drink the contents of flasks, will soon put a ban on the use of them. So far as Peterborough is concerned it is not likely that flasks are nearly so plentiful as Dame Rumour supposes, but ladies, who are asked to become patronesses of dances must have absolute assurance that no flasks whatever are in evidence, where their names are used.

'How I Earned My First Dollar

By Dr. John J. Craig,
President of Kiwanis Club.

I earned my first dollar when I was ten years old, working for one of the big threshing outfits that are used for threshing wheat in Western Canada.

That is some time ago, and since then science has added many improvements and labor saving appliances to the modern threshing machines that are operating in harvesting the wheat fields of to-day.

In those days there were no blowers for blowing the straw into stacks, but the straw was taken away from the end of the straw carriers by two horses hitched to the end of a square piece of timber 6.. x 6.., and sixteen feet long. A piece of wood was attached to each end of the pole by means of a clevis, and to the other end a whipple tre: to which the horse was hitched.

The straw was allowed to pile up beneath the end of the straw carriers, the horses hitched to each end of the bucking pole (as the piece of timber is known by) would start one horse going underneath the carriers, the other around the other side of the pile of straw, thus surrounding the pile and dragging it away, the distance depending upon the amount of grain that would be threshed in that field. As the fields are large in Western Canada, the grain is usually hauled direct to the large grain elevators at the railway tracks, there it is loaded into box cars for shipping, so it is not uncommon to thresh from 1,500 to 2,000 bushels in the one position. In any case the quantity of straw was enormous and would possibly cover an area of two acres.

Horses are very intelligent animals and soon become so accustomed to their work that they go at it almost voluntary and do it with little or no driving whatever.

Usually the team doing this work belonged to one of the threshing outfits, who looked after and cared for the horses, and a small boy was hired to ride on one of the horses to see that they kept going in order to keep the straw away from the carriers.

This is how I earned my first dollar, the work was light, in fact more like play. The hours were long, but labor unions in wheat fields were hardly thought of in those days.

THE GROUCH.

He lives around our neighborhood. You've seen him there, no doubt. He doesn't know what joy and fun and laughter are about. It seems to irritate him when he hears the young folk shout, and from the look upon his face, he always seems put out.

They call him grouch, and may be that's the name that fits him best. I've heard a lot of people say he's nothing but a pest. He spreads the sort of spirit that can never stand the test that's passed by any fellow who's a mighty welcome guest.

Wherever he may travel he's extremely out of place. He always has that downcast look of sourness on his face. It's really rather sad, but true, that his type sets the pace that always kinda irritates the friendly human race.

And yet, why people scorn him I have ne'er quite understood. At best, the scorning habit never does you any good. Perhaps the world might change him if 'twould plant the proper seeds. It seems to me that sympathy is what this fellow needs.

Women Suggest Several Plans For Protecting Girls From Influence.

CAN'T SEARCH MEN.

Admit That Certain Class of Girls Not Averse To Drinking.

"America's oncoming generation will be a race of confirmed drunkards," is the opinion voiced recently at Washington by California's Republican Congresswoman, Mrs. Florence Kahn, who goes on to say that the young folk of the day drink because they think it is smart. "Take away the inhibition, and you will find that the youths will stop drinking."

There is no doubt that the hip pocket flask has become prominent in social affairs of the present day. A curious commentary on this popularity of the flask is the fact that its distinctive outlines appear in other articles than the container of the liquor itself. For instance, some of the very latest models in cigarette cases and even in face powder holders are shaped exactly like a pocket flask. Even if the contents are perfectly innocent, the illusion of smartness in the carrying of a flask is created and that, apparently is the object striven for.

With regard to the appearance of this same pocket flask at local affairs of recent date, several ladies of the city who might have had an opportunity to form an opinion or to observe such conditions, were interrogated. One and all, they united in condemning the practice, and were unanimous also, in wishing to remain incognito on the subject.

Can't Reach Men.

"If you try to stop it by means of asking or searching the men, you will get into a very awkward position," said one lady. "Everyone there would feel as if he or she were being watched, and if you start having policemen at these affairs to do this, you won't have any dances at all. It is only a few of the younger boys who do this sort of thing, anyway, and if you draw the line at them and stop sending them invitations, they may come without any."

A lady who is a member of the W.C.T.U. said that her society had not yet taken up the question for discussion, and thought that there might be considerable exaggeration in the reports of such practices.

"Some of these affairs where such things are said to go on are very well chaperoned, from the lists of names, anyway. That is the strange part of it," said another woman. "The mothers will have to keep their daughters at home, and then, of course, there won't be any dances. It is too bad that these affairs should be spoiled by a few. The management should put a stern foot down in the beginning and say that no liquor will be allowed."

Private Detective.

Another: "It should be stopped, of course. It is a great pity that such things go on among our young people.

JOSEPH WEARING
City Solicitor.

But I don't know what could be done about it."

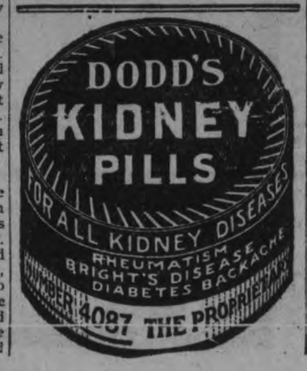
A private detective to watch proceedings was the suggestion of one feminine citizen, who also made the somewhat striking statement that the condition of the orchestra was responsible for much that went on later, evidently taking the position that the orchestra called the tune in more ways than one. "They should make the orchestra guarantee to be sober, and if the whole system of drinking was frowned on by the girls, it might be stopped more easily. But there is no doubt about it that girls of a certain class do not object to drinking by their escorts and are willing to indulge to a certain extent themselves, also. The parents should keep a sterner eye on their daughters, anyway, even if it is hard to keep an eye on the boys. The rising generation is the limit, in my opinion."

"I certainly admire the stand The Examiner has taken in the matter. The whole thing is abominable," said one woman who asserted that she knew nothing from personal experience about the question, but had heard a good deal.

That the Local Council of Women should turn its attention to the subject was the suggestion of another.

Keep Girls At Home.

Again: "Something should be done about a condition of affairs in which young girls can go to public dances and make regular fools of themselves. If their own parents are not interested enough in them to try and stop it, then mothers in general should do something. One thing to do is to refuse to let the girls go to public dances, and another would be to appoint some member of the committee who would have power to step up to any man under the influence of liquor and ask him politely to go home. If we are going to drift into practices prevalent in the United States and the big cities of Canada, something drastic should be done at once."



DETECTIVES UNDER THE SKIN

Craig Kennedy, Famed Sleuth of Fiction, Says Everyone Has a Mystery to Solve

Why Didn't Milkman Leave This Morning's Milk?

BY GENE COHN.

Craig Kennedy, the great detective, squinted his owl-like eyes, lighted a fresh cigaret and began:

"Mystery! Why do people enjoy mystery? My dear fellow—it's because all life is made up of mystery. Now let us place it under the microscope. What is it? Mystery is merely an unanswered question.

"Pardon me if I present a few of the daily mysteries that are all about us?

"Is Mary Jones going 'o marry John Smith? The question is asked at the breakfast table. Before noon the entire family is on the trail of clews. Little Sally asks her schoolmate what she's heard about it. Daddy asks the office girl or the woman who sits next to him on the street car. Mother calls up six friends. By night they have a rather co-ordinated case. Yes—Mary and John are going to marry—that is unless such-and-such happens. There another mystery opens.

"And to go on: Why didn't the milkman leave the milk? Who was the man in the taxicab that stopped at the neighbor's house last night? Who is the new beau that Mollie Green was out with? Why didn't Brass, the banker, keep his business appointment? Are the Thus-and-Sos really married? Why did Mrs. X leave her husband?—Mysteries, mysteries, mysteries, everywhere and anywhere!

"My dear fellow. I have the reputation of being a great detective, but any good gossip of the Ladies' Monday Club could put me to shame when it comes to running down a neat morsel o' scandal.

"The point is wer'e all detectives in our particular way and each day of our lives we solve some problem or mystery which, in its way, is as important and difficult as that I am often called upon to solve. The business man finds out what caused some loss or some gain. The mother finds out where Johnny has been spending his nights. The child finds out some new fact about life. We all are searching and finding.

"The difference lies in this: my problems present certain phases of drama or melodrama. They are about things detached from the ordinary life. The continuity of interest is built up at once and not over intermittent spaces, as in the every-day mysteries. Also there is generally violence and danger and those other elements, that hold interest. But the basis is mystery—and that is life itself for we know not whence we came or whither we go."

Craig Kennedy, as you know, is Arthur B. Reeve, a plump, humorous ex-newspaper man who amassed much fame and fortune by his "scientific detective" creation. Some 24 volumes have been written around this character and two more are about to come.

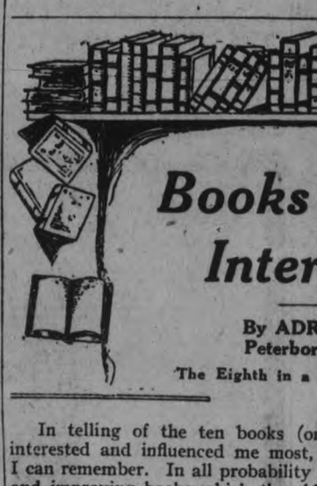
Discussing mystery stories, Reeve went on:

"The fact is every story is a mystery. Love stories, adventure stories, tragedies and comedies—they are all mystery stories or they wouldn't be popular. The reader always wants to know whether the hero will marry the heroine or what becomes of them at the end of the book.

"It's one of the answers to large newspaper circulations. A celebrated divorce case holds attention because the public wants to know what will be the next revelation. A political campaign keeps them guessing until the votes are counted; a trial has the double interest of testimony and jury verdict. And so it goes.

"Without any mystery this certainly would be a dull old world."

'Twould Be a Dull World With No Question Mark



Books That Have Interested Me

By ADRIAN MACDONALD
Peterborough Normal School

The Eighth in a Series of Peterborough People

In telling of the ten books (or approximately ten) that hav interested and influenced me most, I should begin as far back as I can remember. In all probability I was fed on the usual uplifting and improving books which the elders think are necessary for the moral development of children and which are to be found in every Sunday-school library,, but somehow or other I have completely forgotten these and consequently they cannot have had a very deep influence on my character. The first books I remember being interested in were those of Henty, Ballantyne, Collingwood and Jules Verne. I have often wondered if it would be possible for me now to re-reada Henty story with anything like the old fascination, but I have never had the courage to try. I have often wondered, too, if the series of boys' books being turned out nowadays by prolific writers and prolific printing presses have anything like the charm of these old favorites that threw their glamor over my own boyhood. Has any subsequent writer, for instance, ever produced a book half so marvellous as Jules Verne's "Twenty Thou and Leagues Under the Sea"? I read it again and again and I must choose it from all the other books I read as a boy as the one that was most outstanding.

The fascination of a good yarn, probable or improbable, well told or badly told, continued until a teacher in high school lent me a copy of Stevenson's "Travels With a Donkey." This book in my case marked the transition from the juvenile to the adult point of view. After reading it I could never again read a book without asking whether it was well or badly written. It awakened in me a love for Stevenson that has continued ever since. The efforts of recent biographers such as George Hellman to discredit the "Stevenson myth" and to give a picture of "the true Stevenson" have had no influence whatever on my liking for him. It is not Stevenson the preacher, but Stevenson the romanticist, Stevenson the exquisite artist in style to whom I profess my devotion. And after all what have the more recent biographers of Stevenson accomplished other than to show that Henley, his intimate friend, knew what he was talking about when he wrote his poetic description of him?

When I was in high school, too (how extremely seriously we took ourselves in those days!), I picked up a copy of Professor Ferrier's book on the Greek philosophers which I am forced at this point to add to the list for it started me on the very bad habit of reading books on "meta-feesics." At university I read with sufficient attention to pass examination all the usual things in the course I took. What they were anyone can find out by looking up any university syllabus. Like other students, I read them largely through the eyes of the professor and cannot therefore treat them as personal discoveries. The books I read outside the university course I read mostly with the student's usual self-important and highly proper desire to improve what he calls his mind, but two or three books remain in my memory as real finds. Birmingham's "Spanish Gold" was one of these. My experience with it, by the way, showed me the dangers of recommending any humorous book to another person. I read it at home during the holidays and, much to the disgust of other members of the family, would every few moments bubble over into irrepressible chuckles. When I was finished with the book , my brother read it—or rather started to read it. After forcing himself through several chapters, he looked up and said: "Is this the book you were reading?" "Yes." "Well, does it get much funnier as it goes on?" "No, some of the funniest parts are not far from the beginning." "And is this what you were laughing at?" "Yes." "Well, I think you had better see a doctor."

Of the standard novelists Scott was my favorite, though I notice that I very seldom read him nowadays. When I take up a novel to read now it is usually by one of the modern writers. Although I must admit that the present-day novelists do not leave as deep an impression on my mind as the old ones possibly because my mind, poor old thing! is past the impressionable stage), I nevertheless have found that the modern novelists deal with aspects of life in which I, as a modern, am more deeply interested. Of these modern novels Galsworthy's "White Monkey" is the one which has recently interested me most. Dickens I have never taken to. I have noticed that you can divide the novel reading public into two classes —those who like Scott amongst the standard novelists and those who like Dickens. It is very seldom, according to my experience, that one person likes both. I admire Dickens tremendously. I fully realize his magnificent powers of characterization and the depth of his human sympathy and understanding, but I simply cannot stomach his horrible outbursts of sentimentality and his descents into melodrama. I realize that this is a defect in my taste but I cannot help it—I cannot read Dickens. I have tried "David Cooperfield" at least six times and I know that I shall have to read it through some time before I die, but so far I have never got past David's heart-rending experiences at school.

Of the classic poets Wordsworth is the one I find myself returning to again and again. Tennyson I admire but I do not read. I feel that he is too much of the fine gentleman amongst the poets. He does everything with admirable propriety: the artistry of his versificati o is irreproachable; his indulgence in sentiment is perfectly gentlemanly; his scepticism is no deeper than "good form" will countenance; he is thoroughly typical of the age in which he lived. For my part, I much prefer Keats' absolute abandonment in his worship of beauty or Shelley's absorbing devotion to his intellectual ideals. And there is a simplicity and a sincerity to Wordsworth that gives him, for me at least, a charm that does not wear off. The more modern poets whom I find myself most frequently reading are probably Henley and Yeats.

Some years ago I fell under the fascination of Rabindranath Tagore's "Gitanjali"; even went so far as to write a semi-philosophical article about it which a magazine editor was rash enough to publish. His magazine died immediately afterwards. And, ike every other modern, I devoured Freud, psycho-analysed all my friends and explained everything in heaven and earth by the action of complexes. But the author who has my unquestioning devotion at the present moment is Lytton Strachey. His abundant and trenchant style has preserved the most admirable traditions of English prose and he has coupled with a thorough scholarship the modern man's scorn of shams and bumbug and pant. Lytton Strachey is, in my opinion, the most outstanding litterateur of this era.

A weekly lesson about the earth: why it whirls and what it wears.

By WILLIAM SILLY

THE WORLD

The World, which cannot talk back, has been described by scientists as an OBLATE SPHEROID. Others are satisfied to call it a ball, and school teachers say it is like an orange. Whatever it is called, it is difficult to see why it is round. Real estate men say corner lots are the most valuable, and corner lots on the home planet would have commanded high prices, with their extensive views. It is easy to understand, however, that the added friction through having a cube-shaped earth would have caused trouble.

You often hear people say, "It's a small world, after all," but they have never been around it. They form their ideas from the small tin or wooden globes or worlds they saw in school. In reality the earth is quite large, and in an effort to reduce her waist measurement of 25,000 miles she takes the most strenuous exercise. She waltzes around the sun once a year and makes a complete turn around herself once a day, but has not lost a single mile. She does not even keep warm all over.

A noteworthy feature about the earth's waltzing is that she has not learned the snuggle, the tango, or any of the "hug-me-tight" steps. She has a stand-offish air which repels any advances.

Questions For the Student:

1. Describe the cosmological, geological, political and moral constituents of the earth.
2. Explain the relation of the Radio wave to the Marcel wave.
3. What is your favorite dance step?

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS.

To the Editor of Examiner:—

Will you kindly use a small space in your paper to publish the following, taken from the "Humane Pleader," the only humane periodical published in Canada.—

What a startling change in the treatment of horses would quickly occur if men were used exactly as they treat their horses!!

Whips would be seldom used;
Jerking the bit would cease;
Yelling, cursing, kicking and pounding would cease;
Check-reins would be very slack;
Blinders would be discarded;
Clipping and docking would go "out of style;"
Big loads would be rarely seen;
Fast driving would be unpopular;
Axle grease would have a boom;
Gravel on dirt roads would be demanded;
Wide tires would be numerous;
The demand for blankets would double;
Stables would be light, clean and well-ventilated;
Horses would be watered frequently, fed regularly, have a variety and sufficiency of food and a deep soft bed in a wide stall at night.

Kiwanis Notes

TODAY.

Today marks the close of the Kiwanian celebration of the eleventh anniversary of Kiwanis. The event in Peterborough was marked by special educational exercises, whose influence will be felt for many weeks, and Kiwanis wil continue to carry out the things they stand for.

"Listen to the exhortation of the dawn
Look to this day! For this is Life.
The very life of life.
In its brief course lie all the verities,
And all the realities of your existence.
The bliss of growth,
The glory of action,
The splendor of beauty.
For yesterday is but a dream
And tomorrow only a vision.
But today, well lived,
Makes yesterday a dream of happiness
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well, therefore to this day.
Such is the salutation to the dawn."

The above quotation is from the Sanscrit. Its idea is the kernel of all idealism. To live each day as though it were all of life, is to live each day well. The modern version of the same thought gives us the lines "For all you can hold in your cold dead hands, are the things which you give away."

Kiwanis is founded on this ideal. To do the kindly thing at hand, to help in some small way to make the world easier for some less fortunate person, to smooth some of the rough wrinkles out of rough dried life; that is the task of today.

Men are inherently kind. But in the hustle of modern life, the clang of the trolley car, the honk of the automobile, the whine of the saxophone, the static of the radio, so besets our attention that kindly acts get lost in the whirr and the crash of a jazzed life.

It is well once a week to pause for an hour in good fellowship and let the good which is in us rise to the surface. today is here. Let us accept its opportunities to be of service to our fellow men.

The Welsh pony, one of the best breeds in the world, is said to have inherited its fine shape and staying qualities from horses left behind by the Romans when they abandoned Britain.

Armour Hill Park Will Be a Unique Memorial

EFFORTS OF WOMEN'S PATRIOTIC LEAGUE HAVE LAID FOUNDATION FOR MOST PICTURESQUE AND BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL TO SOLDIERS OF CANADA

Bought 38 Acres of Land on Armour's Hill and Arranged to Have It Planted With Thousands of Small Trees to Form Memorial Park.

HOPE TO ERECT MONUMENT

Driveway Will be Made From Hunter Street, Leading Up Around Crest of Hill—Wonderful View of Beautiful Country Seen From Top.

By J. TURNBULL

Few citizens of Peterborough realize that within the limits of the City they have, thanks to the untiring efforts of a few women, a monument that will stand out for all time as being one of the most unique and at the same time picturesque memorials to the men who died for Canada in the recent war. The Women's Patrioti League of Ashburnham was formed in 1914 for the purpose of supplying comforts to the men who had heard the call of King and country and had enlisted for the great adventure. The League performed wonderful service in this connection, keeping together during the dark days of the war until at last the Armistice was signed and their strenuous labors apparently at an end.

So great, however, was the harmony and good feeling that existed among the various members that they were unwilling that a society that had accomplished such wonderful work in war time should perish with the advent of peace and they decided they would still continue to "carry on," doing what they could for those who came back.

Eventually the members conceived the idea of buying Armour's Hill, reforesting it and making it into a beautiful park as a tribute to those who had fallen in the conflict. E. A. Peck, executor of the Armour Estate, sold the hill to the League for $3,000—a price much lower than the market value. The League had a little money in its treasury which it supplemented by writing letters to former residents of the City and Ashburnham. The results were very gratifying as to-day it holds a clear deed to the property, which comprises some thirty-eight acres of land.

R. H. Parsons, City Engineer, whose wife has been the President of the League almost since its inception, drew a contour plan of the hill and forwarded it to H. J. Moore of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, a noted specialist on trees, who in turn made a planting plan showing where the trees should be planted and the different kinds of trees that should be used. In May 1924, the Government supplied the League with 6,000 Scotch pine and 2,000 jack pine trees, Mr. Moore coming here and supervising the planting of them.

Last year 2 000 more white spruce and 2,000 deciduous trees were added making a total at present of 10,000 evergreens and 2,000 deciduous trees. The 2,000 deciduous trees are at present planted in nursery beds on the west side of the slope, being transplanted as they grow.

The plans include a driveway from the top of the hill just back of the King George school, climbing on a 5% grade, making it easy for automobiles to climb, to the north limit of the property. This driveway will swing in a circle around the top towards the west side eventually coming out at Hunter Street where some day the members hope to erect a entrance gateway that will be worthy of the beautiful enclosure.

It is also proposed that a monument will be erected on the top of the hill that will be visible for miles around the surrounding country, always serving to keep the memories of our fallen heroes green in the sometimes forgetful memory of the people. Anyone who has viewed the beauty of the surrounding scenery from the top of Armour's Hill knows what a magnificent view can be obtained from it.

The average memorial of stone or marble, while imposing in appearance, when exposed to the elements becomes in time weather beaten and forlorn. It is to remind people of somebody that has accomplished something in a dim and distant past. Thanks to the vision of the 35 members who constitute the membership of the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham, Peterborough will have a memorial that wil become more magnificent as the years roll on. As the next generation hears about the deeds that were done in the great war and the stories of the heroes who did them. Armour's Hill will rise before them a truly wonderful spectacle with its thousands of trees and will imbue them with a spirit of thankfulness for those who were responsible for making the name "Canada" known throughout the civilized world. This could not otherwise be accomplished by statues or marble tablets. Let all credit be given to the vision of these women whose far-sightedness has ensured that Peterborough in the days to come will have a monument that will be second to none.

H. J. Moore, who was responsible for the planting of the trees was in the city a few days ago and inspected the trees and stated that 90 per cent. of those planted had survived, which, in his opinion, was a very good percentage of growth.

The amount of subscriptions, together with the $900 which the Ashburnham League donated to start the fund, was just sufficient to pay the purchase price of the property. Since that time the League has earned the money required to pay for the planting of the trees and placing a substantial fence around the property.

The following is a list of subscriptions from people who were interested in the project. The subscriptions from outside of Peterborough are from former citizens of Ashburnham and Peterborough, who have kept a warm place in their hearts for their old home town.

CHINESE ENTERED FRENCH HOSPITAL

Lowered the Tri-Color, But Later Hoisted it Again With Apology.

Hong Kong, January 23. Canadian Press. — Chinese troops entered the French hospital at Pakhoi, in Kwantung Province, and lowered the French tri-color, later hoisting it again and apologizing eventually for their action.

Meantime the French consul ordered the guards to fire if the troops attempted to lower the flag at the consulate. This cowed them.

A Canton despatch reported a public demonstration there against the Japanese position in Manchuria, which ended with the adoption of a resolution for an anti-Japanese propaganda campaign.

Mrs. Mary Baker, of Chertsey, the only woman town crier in England, took over the position when her husband went to war in 1914. Since then she has fulfilled the duties with marked ability, leading the various local processions and taking part in other official functions, business with the peasant girls.

Take a Brodie

(By Jeanette.)

Something should be done by someone or other, about Steve Brodie. It isn't likely that when that immortal gentleman took the famous jump that earned him a place in history's pages, anyone thought his name and exploit would echo down the corridors of fame for years to come. Our contention, however, has nothing to do with the fact that he took a chance. But we really think that people in this day and generation should cease to imitate him.

The dentist peered into our mouth and then, with a triumphant look, he said: "There's a tooth there that must come out." Now, it's the simplest thing in the world for people to say things like that. There isn't any law against it and nothing, apparently, can be done about it. If a doctor, for instance, while engaged in leisurely inspecting his finger-nails, chooses to tell you that you have been harboring a diseased liver within your anatomy for years past and that your days are numbered in consequence, if he picks out a convenient spot somewhere on your chest and murmurs something about a leaking valve, or if he orders you to have your appendix removed forthwith, or sooner, what are you going to do about it? Nothing. To him it is merely a few sentences, more or less, the prospect of some hours spent in exploring your inner mechanism, and a consequent enlarging of his bank account that is if you happen to be the type of person who thinks a doctor should be paid for his services but for you—well that's another story.

But we did not lower the flag without a vain effort to retrieve that tooth. We said, ingratiatingly, or as ngratiatingly as we could while wearing the white bib that they tie on you nowadays before you climb into the chair: "Couldn't you fill it?" We knew that it was useless to argue. This dentist had a firm chin and he evidently meant what he said. He wasn't to be browbeaten by any mere female. If that tooth was doomed, in his opinion, it must come out. We had nothing more to say, or if we had, we must be hushed up.

"No!" he said, with an upward lift of that firm chin. Just like that. A decided negative. If a cross-word puzzle had asked us the next minute that word of two letters constituted an unappealable verdict, we would have imitated that "No" as closely as possible.

So the tooth had to come out. It had grown up with us, so to speak, and many's the time we had treated it, along with its companions, to some nice soft candy or ice-cream. It had also received doses of castor oil and such things in its young days to help along its growth, and now, after all this attention and care to bring it to full maturity, we must part with it. And we knew the parting would be painful.

However, we forgot to say that some misguided individual over in Chicago or some place where they do irrational things had suggested that minor operations might be performed without the use of anaesthetic and with a plentiful supply of music as a substitute, if the victim were agreeable. And here is where the restless spirit of Steve Brodie steps into the picture because when we hinted in an effort to arouse sympathy for our plight that we had to have a tooth removed gently if possible forcibly if necessary one of our friends suggested immediately that we try this experiment. And the memory of Stephen commenced to do its stuff.

Anyway he was a nice dentist. He said he didn't think we would go through with it, but we had screwed up our courage so tight that it would have been a painful thing to relax it. We had assumed the airs of a martyr who was ready to do or die in the effort to advance the cause of science or whatever it is that rules erratic suggestions such as those of that Chicago surgeon. (We don't wish to say anything about that man, but if he starts theorizing any more along this line, we, for one, will absolutely refuse to have anything to do with him.)

It was a cheerful office, that is, as cheerful as the office of a dentist ever can be. Of course, it made you think of the Inquisition when you looked at all the little shining things lying ready on a neat stand, but still, it was as cheerful as one could expect. However, we didn't want to be there particularly. We would have been quite happy anywhere else. It was a cold day, but we would just as soon have been out in Jackson Park listening to a lone sparrow chirping on a mournful winter tree. Indeed, we would just as soon have been washing the dishes in the home sink, which isn't at all a happy occupation, at any time, as sitting in that chair. We didn't care for the view. We didn't like all the little instruments spread for our inspection. We didn't like the wall-paper or the electric grate or the pictures on the wall. We were a member of the Restless Club at that moment, and felt like saying, "Any place but here."

So Mrs. Foster tuned up her violin. Mrs. Foster is extremely good-natured, and when we asked her if she would provide the music for the operation, she assented willingly. She swung into the gay strains of the "Brindisi" waltz, and we concentrated our attention on it in an effort to discover if she was playing any false notes. The dentist had something in his right hand, something bright and shining. He bent down and whispered confidentially, "Now, if it hurts much, do you really want me to take it out?" We wanted nothing so much as to leap from that chair with a loud exclamation in the negative. We wanted to keep that tooth. Why should we part with one of our very own upper left second molars, anyway, at the mere behest of a dentist? In response to his question, we wanted to say, with Florian Slappey, "Anything but——" and go away from there immediately, like Mark Twain was so fond of doing when he travelled abroad.

Again that spirit of Steve Brodie intervened. We clutched the arms of the chair and said, in a hollow voice, "No, we want it to come out." We opened our month and he slid his hand in.

Mrs. Foster was playing a "Tarantelle," one of those things that are supposed to tickle the toes and make the listener want to dance. But we weren't thinking of dancing. He had placed the forceps gently on that unfortunate tooth, and commenced twisting it. Everybody in the small audience said we never made a sound, but we remember quite distinctly saying, "Oh!" a couple of times anyway. Not that we felt conversational at the moment. It was a purely involuntary exclamation on both occasions.

He twisted the tooth. It didn't want to leave us. He grasped it more firmly. We felt as if the top of our head was coming off. That's a good sign in a tooth removal. It means that something has to give way soon, even if it is only the victim. And then—yes, she was playing "The Song of Love" from "Blossom Time." We didn't like this as well as the livelier music and we recommend strongly that when you have a tooth removed without the use of any freezing solution or anaesthetic, that you have lively music. The other sort makes you feel sentimental, and a dentist's chair, during a tooth extraction, is no place for sentiment.

Anyway, as we were going to say, the tooth broke. It was a strong-minded tooth, evidently. It didn't want to part with us and it resented the fact that music was being played for the obsequies. So it broke. He went after it again. It scrunched with an alarming sound. He removed the forceps.—

Presently, we went home. We said we had bargained to have a tooth out with music, but not for an excavation. So, preserving the roots somewhere in our interior, we left that place and went elsewhere.

—Just in passing, and quite sincerely, we might say that the influence of the music, played close to our ear, was distracting to a certain extent. It took our mind off the forceps and the necessary preparations and when we focussed our attention on it, we weren't thinking of the tooth at all. It was really a distracting and therefore a helpful influence.

—Just in passing, also, when we had that root removed later, and it didn't come too easily, at that, we had a local anaesthetic,—plenty of it.

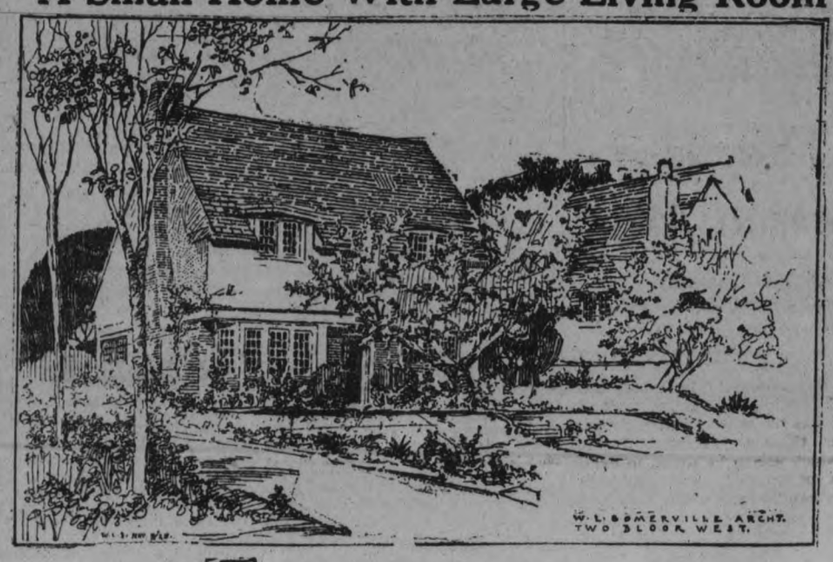
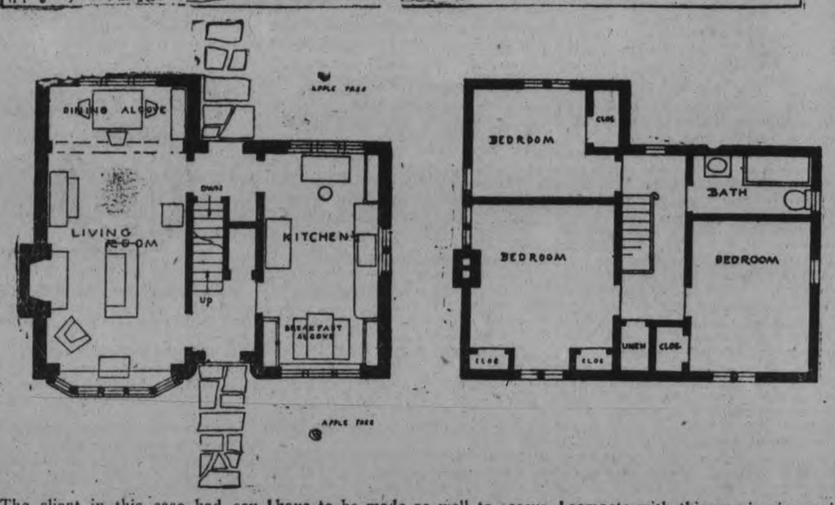
A Small Home With Large Living Room





The client in this case had several very definite ideas of his own before he consulted the architect. He wanted a small home for a family to which the same adjective also applies, but a large living room was insisted upon. It was also desired to place the home in an orchard without destroying any of the trees which were valuable from a monetary point of view and perhaps a sentimental one as well. Let us see how these wishes have been complied with.

It is 28 ft. wide by an average length or not quite 21 ft. and the living room, 22 ft. x 11 ft., is certainly an unique achievement in a house of this size, in fact, it appealed to the owner so much that the house is rapidly nearing completion. But what of the orchard? not only is the "roll-call" still the same but several of the trees have gained additional value through being taken into consideration from a landscape viewpoint.

It is not a pretentious home from the standpoint of any such ideas as "keeping up with the Jones." But, isn't it attractive? Wouldn't you hesitate to take the responsibility of altering the pitch of the roof a few degrees one way or the other, or of changing the treatment over the second storey windows, or tampering with the design of any of them? Such is the peculiar art of architecture—to alter anything would be to probably spoil everything.

Take, for another example, the stucco exterior finish of the walls. Brick cannot be substituted without special attention being devoted to the design of the brickwork and in addition to this, other changes would have to be made as well to secure a harmonious effect of the whole. One thing, however, is optional to a certain extent—the materials used to apply the stucco on. The choice here dpends solely on the building by-laws to be observed and would in no way affect the design.

In this case, the backing used for the rough trowelled stucco exterior was brick for the first storey and metal lath on frame construction for the second. The shingle roof is stained a dark brown with which the cream tone of the stucco and the natural oil finish of the window frames combine to create a very pleasing effect.

Taking a peep inside we find a centre, square type front hall approximately 5 ft. 6 ins. x 6 ft. There is quite a roomy coat closet at the side of the stairway and either living room or kitchen may be entered through the well placed doorways. To have them directly opposite each other would not do at all.

The large living room with dining alcove at the back is undoubtedly the most interesting interior feature of this home, in fact, the group of three windows and provision for portierres almost make the alcove a separate little room. It is at least possible to obscure the view of it when desired to and the access to rear hall and kitchen is very well arranged. The fireplace and big bay window, in conjunction with an artistic arrangement of furniture, will present a delightful view from the front hall.

Not many kitchens, including those of much larger homes, can compete with this one in size or its consequent possibilities in the matter of placing furniture and equipment. The dimensions are 9 ft. 6 x 17 ft., including the breakfast alcove with its built in seats and table, and noteworty indeed is the fact that there is light on three sides.

Upstairs are three bedrooms, bathroom and linen closet. Two clothes closets are provided for one of the bedrooms and the other two have the necessary, but not always the usual, one each.

Allowing for a side drive and two or three fet margin on the other side, a forty foot lot would be sufficient for this home, but it should face the south. Slight changes in the plan could be made by the architect to adapt it to a western exposure but, well there you are again—change it and the result will not be quite so satisfactory, even if the changing is in the hands of the architect.

The actual cost of this house, including hot air heating system and using the best of materials in construction and finish, was slightly less than six thousand dollars. The landscape work, so necessary to set a home off properly and add to its homelike appearance, is not included but will not be neglected by those who care.

ST. ANDREW'S RETAIN THEIR LEAD IN JUNIOR SERIES; BRINTONS NOW LEADING PARADE IN SENIOR RANK

LEADERS BEATEN.

De Laval Fell Before Brintons, While Crescents Beat Raybestos.

St. Andrew's Juniors retained a firm grip on the honors in their series of the City League by beating Raybestos Juniors 5-2 last night, while the Brinton team displaced the DeLavals from the lead in the senior series by defeating them four goals to two. St. James' boys pulled up into second place by beating St. Peter's, and the cellar fight in the senior series resulted in a win for Crescents over Raybestos, 2-1.

Combination and good work around the nets form the secret of the commanding position attained by the St. Andrew's kids. Whenever the puck is down around the enemy goal they have a man camped right in front waiting for the pass, and he knows how to pick the corners when he gets it. St. James' play a rather rough looking game, their goalie and centre player being particularly awkward looking, but they help form one of the most effective teams in the series, being hard to score on. The Raybestos team is much the same, although somewhat weak in shooting. Three goals in three games speak for themselves in describing the play of the St. Peter's team. Every player is a good stickhandler and can control the puck until it comes to shooting and there they all fall down.

Last night's senior games produced some funny situations. In both games the sweaters of the competing teams were too much alike for rapid identification and both teams made passes to the wrong men. The first game was the pick of the two as far as hockey was concerned, with the three musketeers of the Separator Crew, Williams, McDougall, and Dundas, pitted against the sterling defence of the Carpet weavers, LeBarr, McMartin and Lackey. The defence, having weight and experience, proved stronger than the attack, and the carpet weavers won.

The other game was more of the shinny variety, fast and exciting, with plenty of spills, but little science. Both teams plugged away on attack and defence, but the Crescents proved a little better shots and scored the odd goal of the three to win.

St. James' 2; St. Peter's 1

St. James' juniors registered their first win in the opener shoving St. Peter's further down into the cellar. The Cathedral boys had a good share of the play but were weak around the nets. Heal, Calladine, Cripps and Payne starred for the winners and LeBarr for the losers.

First Period

The first period gave each team a goal on a long shot. About a third of the way through Calladine fooled Mein and six minutes later LeBarr beat Payne on a shot from outside. The game was ragged in this period with little combination and weak shooting.

Second Period

The second period was about half over when the winning counter was scored on a side shot from Cripps which went in off Mein's pad. The St. Peter's boys tried hard and swarmed around St. James' net but their shooting was weak and Payne stopped all that were on. A scrimmage near the net almost gave the south-end rooters heart failure but the puck finally landed in the corner.

St. Peter's—Mein, goal; LeBarr, right defence; Rishea, left defence; Kennealey, centre; Archambault, right wing; Jones, left wing; Carroll, Grady, Wolfe, subs.

St. James'—Payne, goal; Calladine, right defence; Ashmore, left defence; Heal, centre; Cripps, right wing; Sproats, left wing; Grose, Seabrooke, Kitchen, Lockhart.

Penalties—Heal, Cripps, Archambault, Grose.

Referee—Thirnbeck.

St. Andrew's 5; Raybestos 2

Combination won for St. Andrew's in the second encounter. The Presbyterians played well together, especialy in front of the nets and were never in danger. Hall and Marshall were the stars but every man played his position well, both on the offence and on the defence. Chambers starred defensively but his shooting was not as good as his sweeping check. Graham was the best man on the offense, scoring both goals. Corkery played a good game.

First Period

Good shooting from close in and from far out gave the Presbyterians a 3-1 lead in the first period. Hall scored the first followed in short order by Graham for the Raybestos. Graham scored on a rebound from Corkery's shot. Shortly after Hall scored on a pass out from the corner by Nixon. Robertson registered the last on a long shot from centre ice which bounced over Koster's stick.

Second Period

The losers pulled up within striking distance when Gillespie played a shot from Graham carelessly and made the score 3-2. Marshall and Sowden then went on a two-man rush and Sawden ent in behind the nets to give Marshall, camped right in front, a perfect pass, with which his team mate made no mistake. A few minutes later Marshall made a lone sally and picked the corner of the net from about fifty feet out with a wicked low shot.

St. Andrew's — Gillespie, goal; Sowden, right defence; Marshall, left defence; Hall, centre; Allen right wing; Nixon, left wing; Roberts, Robertson, Jennings, Mowry, subs.

In the third game between the De Laval and Brintons, the League leading De Laval team suffered a 4-2 defeat. The first period was scoreless, with plenty of action on both sides. The usual De Laval combination was missing.

The second period opened with both teams going at full speed, and McDougall, after a brilliant rush, went from one end of the rink to the other to score the first counter. It was a nice play and a well-earned goal. Ward, the De Laval goaltender, was brought to his knees a couple of times, but managed to clear each time. Rose (Brintons) scored the equalizer with seven minutes to go. From then on it was anybody's game, with both sides pressing hard for the much-needed goal. N. White (Brintons) got the puck from a scramble and beat Ward from a few yards out. In quick order D. White and King followed suit, making the score 4-1 for the Brintons. Dundas (De Laval) scored just before the bell rang for the finish. Final score: Brintons 4, De Laval 2.

The teams lined up as follows:

De Laval—Goal, Ward; defence, Marchen and Miller; centre, Williams; wings, Dundas and McDougall; subs., Evans, Smith, Kingdon and J. Smith.

Brintons—Goal, L. LeBarr, Jr.; defence, McMartin and Lackey; centre, D. White; wings, Cripps and King; subs., A. Rose, N. White and Chidley.

Penalties: De Laval 2, Miller and Williams. Brintons 2, Cripps and N. White.

Referee—Cox.

Crescents 2, Raybestos 1.

In the fight for the cellar honors of the City League Senior series, the Crescents pulled out with a win, leaving the Raybestos boys on the bottom shelf. The final score was 2-1. The game was of the hit-and-miss variety, with Referee Bruce Cox giving the boys a free hand.

Both teams attempted some combination, but the passes were usually wide of the mark or else the receivers were not in position. In addition, the persistent checking of both teams was hard on the combination.

Thornton was good for the losers, with Legros in goal also turning in a splendid game. Hall, in the Crescents' net, turned aside a good many shots that looked good for goals, while the entire team played hard on both attack and defence, without any conspicuous stars.

Jimmy Coursey opened the scoring from a scramble in front of the net, which was missed by many of the fans, as they were more interested in the protests of Manager 'Fonse Brioux that his team had scored at the other end. The puck rolled along the goal line and the umpire raised his hand and then changed his mind.

Holland soon equalized the count from another mix-up, and then Richea skated around the whole Raybestos team to go right in on top of Legros to score.

In the second period the brakemakers swarmed all around the Crescent net, but were turned aside Maudsley then secured and beat Legros with a fast drive which picked the side of the net. Thornton repeated the performance at the other end and the Raybestos boys pressed from then until the end of the game without success. Teams:

Raybestos — Goal, Legros; defence, Coursey and Thornton; centre, Johnston; wings, Butcher and A. Williams; subs., G. Williams, Gillespie, Batten, and Wright.

Crescents—Goal, Hall; defence, Holland and McDonough; centre, Jones; wings, Maudsley and Richea; subs., Mahood and Collins.

Penalties—Coursey, G. Williams, Johnston and McDonough.

BOWLING WITH THE CHAMPION

By Art Carlson.

"Has the bowling game reached its limits?

"Far from it! The rosy era has just begun. The resources, possibilities of this splendid recreation have hardly been touched upon. A great future for the sport is certain."

You are listening to Jimmy Smith, world's most famous maple mauler; the fellow who has rolled 16 perfect games; who for the last 25 years has averaged 10 games a day; who has never had a sore arm or known a sick day, and who, at 43, is as frisky as the proverbial colt on the far western plains.

What strides has the game made of recent years? I asked this stocky, smiling spiller of pins as I watched him roll a "249" in that graceful, easy, nonchalant manner so characteristic of his play.

"In the last decade it has doubled in popularity," he countered. "I know of no other game, outside of golf, perhaps, that has gained so in public favor. And don't think me prejudiced when I say I doubt if even the Scottish pastime has grown as rapidly of late years as has bowling."

Bowling, as you may know, is a business, a profession with Jimmy Smith. He makes his living that way; has for a quarter of a century. But you don't have to chat with him long to learn it's more than just a bank account to him.

Bowling means far more to Jimmy than that. It's his hobby, his only hobby, in fact; it's his exercise, his enjoyment. It keeps him healthy and happy; to him it's fun.

He fondles "The Pineapple" (that's what he calls his favorite ball) like a mother does her child. "It's my pal," he rather shyly tells you as he rubs the big black, shiny object around in his lap.

I mentioned that bowling was becoming quite a popular game for women.

"That's true, indeed," he agreed. "Better equipment, nicer locations and a more refined atmosphere have tended to make bowling devotees out of the fair sex. It wasn't so long ago that a woman in a bowling alley was an oddity. She looked out of place. But today things are vastly different.

"Bowling is a family game now. It is played by husbands and wives, sons and daughters. Many families get their recreation by going to the alleys a couple nights a week. It's a real outing for them, a regular 'home' affair. Moreover, it's beneficial. For there's no better exercise than bowling."

Smith is now touring the country, meeting all comers in the larger cities from coast to coast. He started last September. Up to the first week in January he had rolled 760 games for a pin total of 160,262. That's an average just a fraction short of 211. On strange boards, too.

On his western trip he played 537 games, getting 2790 strikes, 2286 spares, 360 splits and 112 errors. Over that stretch he threw more than 135 thousand pounds of mineralite bowling ball and ran approximately 19 miles. He traveled close to 10,000 miles during the first four months of the jaunt.

What Cobb is to baseball; Grange to the gridiron; Weissmuller to swimming, and so on through sportdom's curriculum—so is Jimmy Smith to bowling. To be more explicit, he's the king pin—the leader of the timber-toppling tribe. What more can one say?

HIGH SPOTS OF SMITH'S CAREER.

- Bowled 16 perfect games.
- Holds world tournament record for three games, 771.
- Holds world record for 30 consecutive games, averaging 243.
- Only bowler to win all-events at A.B.C. twice.
- Rolled 782 for three games in exhibition match.
- On alleys 25 years, age 43, still going strong. Averages 10 games daily.

THE STANCE.

As in golf, the stance plays an important part in bowling. Getting the right start means a great deal. Too little stress or attention to this part of the game has kept many a beginner's score down.

Face alley squarely. Stand with the feet together. Get a firm grip on the ball. (I prefer two-hole ball. It enables you to get better control. Rest or balance ball in left hand.

As you crouch forward and take aim hold the ball just above knees. Don't deliberate too long. It may help to throw you off stride. Unlike in golf I don't place much value on concentration. You'll find many who "take their time" before starting their approach. But it isn't necessary; in fact does more harm than good as a general rule.

But, above all, get the proper stance before anything else.

NO. 10—OFFENSIVE GUARD ON TAP-OFF

The thought generally seems to be that the guard plays a purely defensive game on the tap-off. That isn't necessarily so. As a matter of fact guards can figure directly or indirectly in scoring as effectively as the forwards.

By going in to take a tap from his center, a guard can fit into a formation play just as snugly as the forward. By making a delayed dash up the floor he can be on the scoring end of the play just as well as the passing end.

A guard playing offensively must keep in mind the danger of the play miscarrying. Don't forget your opponent merely because of being on the aggressive at the tap-off. In other words this style of game means added duties for the guard.

Time your motions so that there is no possibility of the other team's forward eluding you. This on plays where you take the pass from center.

On plays where you take a pass from a teammate the danger of the opposing forward breaking loose for an easy goal is almost negligible. Play as though you are out of the formation.

That is until such time as you are assured your side is in possession of the ball. Then sweep up the court so that the pass and the try for the goal can be made, as in drawing. That's where your speed and ability to receive your teammate's tosses are tested.

Too many guards, playing offensively, forget their defensive duties. Too many, after being given a signal that they are to go up the floor, tip off their opponents. Playing offensive guard is doubly difficult, but adding offensive ability to defensive qualities makes you twice as valuable to your team.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 23 — A nine year old boy playing in a senior hockey game is not an every day occurrence, but last night the Warsaw team trotted out the youngest hockey player on the Darling family roster as goalkeepr in the scheduled game with the Grove school in the Lakefield and District Hockey League. And, what's more, they won! The score was 7-6 for the lads from Dummer township, and their goalkeeper had a great deal to do with it.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Me and President Joe Duffus, Ald. Charlie Ackerman and Doc Wood is just recovering from the shock what we got when we C.P.R.'d to Toronto Thurs. to see, as we expected, the Petes wallop Osgoode Hall. Instead of our boys winning, the young Tilleys and Robinettes in the Osgoode sweaters got out an injunction against the Petes' scoring and the jury gave them the verdict by 2 to nill. I just want to say right here, if them lawyers stick to their briefs after they're called to the bar like they stuck to their checks Thurs. they is a fine lot of corporation counsels coming on.

They just glued so tight to the Petes that at times Eddie Wright's talent looked about as useful as a radio announcer with the tonsilitis. The boys couldn't go nowhere without a lawyer tailing after them, and this Mister Jack Cameron who held the world out at Chamonix in the Olympic serious made their shots look like they wouldn't make a dint in a chocolate icing. As for this Mister Ross Taylor, he went by the Petes' forwards so fast that just when Mister Collins would say "Here he comes" Mister Ranger would be hollering "There he goes," and if he didn't get more goals it wasn't the forwards' fault. They didn't do nothing to stop him.

However, Mister Sporting Editor, I swallow doesn't make no summer, altho I swallow of the stuff they is selling for $8 per right now is libel to make a coroner's inquest, and one licking doesn't mean the Petes ain't going to be there at the finish. Thurs. showed them they can't win no group by just going through the motions, and they have got rid of the idea that they can make all the teams they meet look like a parcel somebody ordered and forgot to call for. The opposition is stronger than last year, and the boys has just gotta knuckle down, get into real condition so they can go five minutes fast without waving distress signals to the penalty box, develop a little team-work and tighten up their checking. They got 4 games on home ice, and they ought to toss overboard all the applesauce about not being able to play hockey here, forget the big ice stuff and just naturally battle the invaders every foot of the way. They got the speed to do it, and if they sail right in from the first toot they ain't no reason why they can't earn a place in the play-offs before they take to the road again.

TONIGHT'S SESSION.

It looks as if a lot of Peterboro folks is going to be late for their bath tonight with this here 9 o'clock Sat. night hockey game at the Brock st. ice plant. The Hamilton Skullers is with us this evening, and although the boys from the Shadow of the Bluff ain't got to sit up late figgering out the games they has won, they has been showing steady improvement, and you can bet your last dime they'll beat the Petes tonight if trying will do the trick. It should oughta be a interesting tussle, so you'd better order the Sunday joint and n'everything early and be on the side lines when the teams step on the gas.

I notice Mister Harry "Red" Batstone is going to do the bell ringing tonight. Mister Batstone is no unknown in our fair city, and I suggest that before he is allowed in the rink they search him to see if he's got any three-base hits hid around his person. He's got a mean habit of exploding them three-baggers just when they do the most harm to Peterboro, and I for 1 ain't forgot how he bust up 2 perfectly good ball games last fall. Outside of that I got nothing against Mister Batstone and I welcome him in our midst this evening.

THE CURLERS IS COMING.

Next week Peterboro will be full of Tommy Shanters and brooms and alibis, being the annual curling bonspiel. Usually people what likes an open winter is strong for the local bonspiel, because generally just about when the first stones are dumped out of the baggage cars and headed for the rinks the thermometer starts to climb, and by the third day it would be just as easy to have a boat race as to curl. It's got so outside clubs pick out their best swimmers for duty at the Peterboro spiel, but the curlers is hoping that next week they will be some real curling weather. Anyway, they will be a bunch of good fellows from far and near here for the doings, so that when you see a lotta people with brooms on the street don't get excited. A thrifty old lady last year glimpsed a few brooms and naturally figgered they was a sale on, so she wasted 2 hours trying the stores on both sides of the street looking for it. So this warning may save somebody else.

At the same time two radio fans which is looking forward to the international broadcast test next week don't want to get too happy if some strange language comes in over their loud speakers. They got to remember the curlers is here, and they ain't no queerer talk anywhere in the world than what an excited skip can broadcast when his vice misses the port and takes out a coupla his own stones. Chances is then that when you hear some chatter that you can't understand from your set next Tues. or Wed., you're tuned into the curling rink and not hearing Paris or Berlin or Barcelona as you might think at 1st thought.

OSHAWA'S AMBITION.

The chief development in baseball circles this week is the application of the Oshawa Ball Club for admission into the Hampden Park League, which reminds me of the old 1 about the fellow which said he nearly got married, only the girl said "no." It would be a nice thing for the motorists to get a berth in the Toronto circuit, but the Hampden Parkers ain't looking for no lame ducks, and the probabilities is they say "no" so fast that Oshawa won't remember just what they asked them. I can't see no place for the Motor team except right where they always was in the Central League, and if they operate at all they'll have to line up with Belleville, the Ponies and our lads as usual.

Hockey fans has a good battle to look forwardto next Fri. night when Parkdale is here. The Petes upset the Canoeists easy enough in Toronto, but if Mose Lount and his gang don't give our lads a lively chase next week I ain't never heard "The Prisoner's Song." The Paddlers has beat both Kitchener and Osgoode Hall, both of which things the Petes ain't yet done in the O.h.A. race, so if that don't make them look like real opposition then Mellie Dunham is a poor fiddler. And Henry Ford don't pick many lemons.

If my nerves is better tonight I expect to see the Skullers in action against the Petes, and in that case I'll have something likely to say about the set-too next week.

Meanwhile, so long, Mac.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

EASY WIN FOR SCHOOL TEAM

Campbellford Boys Beat the Belleville High School Ten to Three.

HAD BIG EDGE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 23—Campbellford High School defeated Belleville High School at Covert's Arena last night by 10 goals to 3 in a Interscholastic Hockey League fixture.

The local students had the edge throughout and never looked to be in danger of defeat. They had more speed than the Belleville gang, played their positions well, and checked back all the way, and it was seldom the city students had a clear shot on goal. As a rule the winners worked in close before shooting while it was seldom Belleville tried to pass the defence, being content to shoot from well out, with little success, and their luck was no better when they tried to break through the Baker-Ingram defence. Baker used a very effective poke check and Ingram used his weight to good advantage, and was just about the best boy out there. Belleville found him very hard to stop when he had possession of the puck, and his rushes generally ended with a shot on goal. He had speed to burn and is a fine stickhandler. Ibey was about the next best. He had lots of speed and was very hard to stop. Blute, Haig and Reynolds all turned in good games, playing their positions in fine style and checking back all the way.

Galway and Arnott were th best of the Belleville crew.

Blute drew the puck at the face off and the local students had the first shot but Calling turned it aside. Play ranged up and down and was rather of the careful variety, each team evidently feeling the other out. Reynolds opened the scoring in five minutes when he slammed home the rebound of Blute's shot. Ketcheson evened it up for Belleville a minute later when he picked up a loose puck in front of the Campbellford net.

Ingram put Coach Stephens' boys ahead when he broke up a Belleville rush, and went right through to the goal mouth. Haig and Blute went down in combination and "Jack" made it three to one for the orange and black jerseys.

Belleville had their share of the puck in the second period, but couldn't work in close for shots, and they failed to bulge the net during the period.

In a scrimmage in front of the Belleville net Ibey slipped the puck in for No. 4, Haig took a pass from Blute well out and swung around the Belleville defence in on top of Colling. He made it six a minute later when he slammed home the rebound of Baker's shot after "Toad" had carried the rubber the length of the ice.

Third Period.

With Ingram serving a penalty, Belleville pressed their advantage and Ketcheson scored Belleville's second goal.

Blute got the prettiest goal of the night. Getting the puck at centre, he went down with Ibey on his right, faked a pass when he hit the defence, and then drew Colling out of his net and flipped the rubber in. It was a heady play.

When Blute was checked at centre, Ingram picked up the loose puck and split the Belleville defence to get right in close. "Freddie" was partly responsible for the next when he carried the rubber from end to end and gave Ibey a perfect pass when they hit the Belleville defence and the right winger had Colling at his mercy. Ibey made it number ten and his third of the night on a fast lone rush down the boards right in on top of Colling.

Coach Stephens' boys had decidedly the better of this period and looked all over the better team.

Campbellford drew down six penalties and Belleville four.. The line-up:

Campbellford		Belleville
	Goal
Irwin		Colling
	Right Defence
Baker		Arnott
	Left Defence
Ingram		Kerr
	Centre
Blute		Galway
	Right Wing
Ibey		Cole

Reynolds		Ketcheson

Haig		Naphin

EXPANSION SHOWN BY INSURANCE CO.

Manufacturers' Life Made Remarkable Showing During 1925.

A remarkable expansion is indicated by the Thirty-Ninth Annual Report of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, as submitted to Policyholders and Shareholders at the Annual Meeting held on the 21st instant.

Another record in new assurances was established, the New Business for 1925 being in excess of Sixty-Five Million Dollars bringing the Insurance in force to approximately three hundred and twenty million dollars.

The assets of the Company increased by over six and three-quarter million dollars and at the end of December amounted to slightly less than sixty million dollars. The Company continued to invest its funds in Goverment and high-class municipal bonds and first mortgages on improved real estate at satisfactory rates of interest.

Payments to policyholders also constituted a record. The death claims amounted to $1,609,089; matured policies, annuities, etc. $2,518,496, and dividends to policyholders $1,198,798:, making a total of $5,326,383. It is interesting to note that the dividends to policyholders amounted to 75% of the death claim payments. In addition to the above the Company set aside $1,313,702 as dividends to policyholders to be paid during 1926.

The surplus of the Company including contingency reserve and reserve for dividends to policy holders, amounts to over seven and one-quarter million dollars.

The commodious new Head Office of the Company on Bloor Street, East, Toronto, formally opened by the Canadian High Commissioner in August last, houses comfortably the business of this growing institution.

FAST ICE FOR SENIOR BATTLE HERE TO-NIGHT

Scullers and Petes Will Meet Here Under Ideal Conditions.

BATSTONE REFEREE.

A lightning fast sheet of ice awaits the Peterboro and Hamilton teams at Brock street rink for to-night's Senior O.H.A. clash and the battle should be productive of some smart hockey all the way. The Scullers are not yet out of the running, the Petes defeat by Osgoode Hall giving the Hamilton crew an outside chance and they are going to make a desperate effort to improve their position by a win to-night. On the other hand the Petes can't afford to lose and they need a victory to keep up in the first flight.

Harry Batstone, the well known rugby and ball star, will make his local debut as a referee.

Th games promises to attract a big crowd despite the fact that Saturday night hockey is a novelty in Peterboro.

REFEREES GIVEN SEPARATE ROOM

Ottawa Hockey Club To Prevent Intrusions By Public and Players.

BASEBALL EXAMPLE.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—President Frank Ahearn, of the Ottawa Hockey Club, has put in force a regulation which, if adopted throughout the National Hockey League, is expected to go a long way towards eliminating the "referee baiting" which of late has become a vital problem in the League. The rule put in force allots to the referees a separate dressing room at the rink and a guard to prevent anybody holding speech with these officials, except on their invitation. This is to make it impossible for officials of the teams, players, or fans to enter the referees' dressing rooms and "have it out" with them on some ruling.

Mr. Ahearn points out that great care is taken in the big league baseball games in the United States to keep game officials apart from the teams, even going to the extent of prohibiting them from travelling on the same trains or stopping at the same hotel.

While not suggesting that such strict rules be enforced, the president of the local club thinks that protecting the referees from outside criticism between periods of the game, would go a long way towards remedying the present evil.

Local newspapers are all strongly supporting Mr. Ahearn in his experiment.

STIRLING EASY FOR MARMORA

Home Team Won 5-0 in Hastings League Game Last Night.

LOSERS OUTCLASSED.

MARMORA, Jan. 23. — (Special.) Marmora completely outclassed Stirling on the home rink Friday evening, winning substantially by five goals to nil. The ice was in first-class condition, but snow falling lightly a little ahead of the game, and throughout, made it slightly on the heavy side. The game on Tuesday night overshadowing all past encounters, made the attendance at last night's game a local record. The gate receipts exceeded one hundred and thirty dollars. Those who expected a Waterloo were disappointed, since Marmora greatly excelled the opposing team.

Delay as occasioned in the first period through Tulloch, Stirling's fast defence man, being struck on the chin, and having to retire for the remainder of the game. A second and a longer delay marked the succeeding period, when Hulin, the visiting goalie, received a nasty blow on the forehead. Hulin, who always turns in a good game, irrespective of his team mates' performance, returned to the game without being further beaten. Neal, in goal for the league leaders, played his greatest game. The game was of the cleanest description and was free of penalties. The referee gave absolute satisfaction to both teams.

Marmora's first goal came midway in the first period, Jack netting from a pass by Auger, A few mnnutes later Berry, the swift right wing of the home sextette, scored on a rebound. Jack shortly after further increased the lead with a shot from centre, which baffled Hulin. Marmora showed up in the second period, with a smart combination. Berry's pass to McWilliams enabled the latter to score close in on goal.

Stirling pressed heavily in the third period, testing the home defence repeatedly without success.

Referee—S. Hagerman, Belleville

HELEN WILLS WINS.

American Girl's Tennis Improving.

CANNES, France, Jan. 23. — Smiling for the first time since she began playing on the Riviera cuorts, Miss Helen Wills, the United States tennis champion on Friday smashed her way to victory over Mrs. C. F. Aeshlimann, formerly Miss Leslie Bancroft, after two hard fought sets in the Metropole tournament. The score was 6-2, 6-2.

"At last I am coming into my own" said Miss Wills, after defeating the ranking United States player, who won from her three times in 1922 and 1923. "This was a satisfactory match, but I can do better," she added.

In the mixed doubles, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen and Jacques Brugnon defeated Mrs. O'Neill and Pinkney of Great Britain, 6-0, 6-2. Mlle. Lenglen and her partner also beat Miss Bennet and Scovel, 6-1, 6-0.

CARDINAL MERCIER

surgery under Professor Charcot at Paris.

Following the war, in September, 1919, Cardinal Mercier paid a visit to Canada and the United States.

Desire Mercier, Cardinal of Malines, price of the Church, and "Apostle of Peace," was one of the most striking figures brought prominently before the world by the most ruthless war of all times.

Although hailed as the "Apostle of Peace" throughout the civilized world, he demonstrated early in the great struggle that he also was a fighter of the first magnitude when convinced that his cause was imbued with righteousness.

He was in Rome when the news arrived that Belgium, his native land had been stricken to earth by the mighty German advance. Cutting short the formality which usually attends the departure of a high church dignitary from the Vatican, he hastened back to Brussels, waved aside preliminaries and precedent, exhorted his people to resist the invasion with all the strength and determination at their command; denounced the Germans from pulpit and palce, and from then on continued as one of the most formidable and dangerous thorns in the side of the enemy military authorities who were endeavoring to shape the destinies of conquered Belgium to the best advantage of victorious Berlin. On countless occasions, his courageous attitude in defying the invaders evoked admiration throughout the world. His devotion to the subjected populace throughout the five most frightful years in Belgian history never faltered for the briefest moment, even under pressure of threats and coercion bespeaking violence and death to himself.

SEVEN DIE WHEN HOTEL BURNS AT ALLENTOWN, PA.

Lafayette Hotel, Century Old, Totally Destroyed in Early Morning Fire.

MANY PEOPLE HURT.

Some of Guests Jumped From Windows and Sustain Injuries.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 23. — (Canadian Press).—Fire early today destroyed the century - old Lafayette Hotel, taking with it a toll of at least seven lives. The bodies of three or four persons are believed to be in the smouldering ruins. Twenty persons are in two hospitals, some of them in a critical condition.

One of the known dead was a guest at the hotel who lost his life when he fell from a window on the fourth floor and landed on the sidewalk. The fire broke out shortly after 2 a.m., and spread so rapidly that it cut off the escape of most of the guests, many of whom had to be carried down ladders by the firemen.

Twenty of the guests, all suffering from burns or injuries received when they jumped to the streets, were at either Allentown or Sacred Hospital. Three of them, doctors said, probably will die.

Frantic in their desire to escape from the hotel, many of the guests, the exact number of which could not be determined, jumped to the streets. A number of those who jumped were injured, some severely.

Ontario Trapper To Drive Wolf Team In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (United News).—If any one cries "Wolf" in Madison Square Garden tonight, it will be the real thing, for once.

Tex Rickard, who 30 years ago drove a dog team in the Yukon, has engaged Joe Laflamme, the "wolf man," to exhibit the only team of timber wolves in captivity between the periods of the Boston - New York professional hockey game. Laflamme, who is the only man ever to tame and drive a team of wolves, caught the animals in steel traps wrapped with cloth and broke them to harness.

Al. Greene, New York newspaperman, succeeded in persuadinw the trapper to "mush" down to New York from Gogama, Ontario, to exhibit the unusual team.

WELDING OF EAST AND WEST SHOWN IN "IRON HORSE"

Story of Building The First Transcontinental Railway in Fox Picture

The story of the wires and the rails which first linked the west with the east, has been recorded on the screen for the first time. Described by Robert Louis Stevenson as a greater achievement in the world's history than the building of Troy, this tremendous theme furnishes the basis for "The Iron Horse," the William Fox super production which opens a three-day engagement at the Capitol Theatre Monday.

Names which have come down in history and will go on forever, appear in the cast. Lincoln, Grant Dodge, Buffalo Bill Cody, Wild Bill Hickok and Bat Masterson are just a few of them. The picture is not a melodrama, but a spectacular cinema record of the linking of America, based on historical records.

When President Lincoln signed the Pacific Railroad Act on July 1, 1862, the bill included the provision that a telegraph system must accompany the rails, thus connecting the east and west by wire and rail. It was the first means of communication other than stage coach and pony express. Lincoln at the time was striving to unite the north and south, but he did not abandon one great dream for the other. He was assassinated before his dream could be realized.

The dramatic story has been made into a powerful picture, with George O'Brien, J. Farrell MacDonald and Madge Bellamy in the leading roles. John Ford, the director, used a regiment of cavalry and four tribes of Indians to add to the color. An enormous cast of capable artists supports the principals.

AT THE REGENT

BETTY COMPSON ALWAYS LONGED FOR THIS ROLE

Since First Screen Success She Wanted to Be Queen of Love.

Since her girst great success in "The Miracle Man," Miss Betty Compson, who plays the leading feminine role in "The Palace of Pleasure," Fox Films production directed by Emmett Flynn, coming to the Regent Theatre Monday, has nursed an ambition with an earnestness that only an artist could evince. It is to play on the screen the world's greatest Queen of Love.

Strangely enough, it is her first role under the Fox banner that gratified Miss Compson's ambition, in part at least, for in "The Palace of Pleasure" she portrays Lola Montez, the most noted siren that ever helped to make his history in the Old World.

Lola Montez was an Irish girl who later became identified in the theatres of Europe as a Spanish dancer. She attracted the attention of Princes, Premiers, and most of the great national leaders of every country on the continent. The weight of her power and her love was felt in almost every political crisis in the history of the early Nineteenth Century but always on the side of justice.

But, the Lola Montez of "The Palace of Pleasure" is a more modern personage than the original. Miss Compson, however, has given her all the charm of the famous Queen of Love in a setting that is as gorgeous as it is vast.

Forrest Lowe has the male lead in "The Palace of Pleasure." Others in the cast are Henry Kolker, George Seligmann, Nina Ramano, Harvey Clark, Francis McDonald, Sammy Blum and Jacques Rollens.

RINFRET REPLIES TO CHARGES OF KENT MEMBER

Denies That Liberals Stirred Up Race Hatred in Quebec.

"WHO IS LEADER?"

Asks Whether Patenaude or Meighen Leads Quebec Conservatives.

OTTAWA, January 23. Canadian Press. — The debate on the address and the Conservative amendment to it in the House of Commons goes over into next week, with a number of members scheduled to join in the discussion before there is another test of party strength. The debate yesterday started before well filled galleries, who came to hear Fernand Rinfret, Liberal for St. James, Montreal, whose speech was to a considerable extent in reply to A. Douchet, Conservative of Kent, N.B., of the day before, as to what were the issues of the election campaign in the province of Quebec.

Mr. Rinfret denied that the Liberal party had stirred up race hatred, and claimed that the Liberal sweep in Quebec was a victory over prejudice. He accused the Patenaude campaign in Quebec of describing as the two worst enemies of Quebec, ex-Premier Norris of Manitoba, and Sir Clifford Sifton. He added that the only time Liberals had discussed conscription in the past election campaign in Quebec, was "when we were provoked to do it."

Referring to the situation of the Conservative party in Quebec, Mr. Rinfret said that in 1924 Mr. Meighen and Mr. Monty were leaders of the Conservative party. In the last election, Mr. Patenaude was the leader, and in the Bagot bye-election, Mr. Meighen was again the leader. Since then Patenaude had held two caucauses, "and God knows who is the leader now."

Mr. Rinfret read from an Ontario paper to support his claim that there had been prejudices raised against Premier King in this province.

Mr. Rinfret characterized as "untrue that the campaign in 1925 either by our own leader or by Mr. Patenaude" had been waged in Quebec on conscription. He thought that the speech of the Conservative member for Kent (A. j. Doucet), had been "imposed" upon him by his party.

This statement Mr. Doucet emphatically denied.

The only time, continued Mr. Rinfret, that conscription was discussed by Liberals in the election in Quebec was "when we were provoked to do it."

Mr. Meighen had apparently changed his stand in reference to his attitude towards sending troops overseas in the event of war. "Like Saint Paul travelling to Damascus," the Conservative leader had evidently seen a new light.

In 1924 Mr. Meighen and Mr. Monty were leaders of the Conservative party; in the last election Mr. Patenaude was the leader; and in the Bagot by-election, Mr. Meighen was again the leader. Since then Mr. Patenaude had held two caucuses in the Province of Quebec; "and God knows who is the leader now," commented Mr. Rinfret.

"Quebec Domination."

Mr. Rinfret went at some length into the charges made against the Prime Minister in a Toronto paper. Statements had been made that a vote for King meant Quebec domination. The war issue had been an appeal in Ontario as well as in Quebec. One speaker in Toronto had said that Premier King was head of a prowhiskey government, and that he was an emissary of the United States. The Conservatives had applauded Mr. Doucet's charges of Thursday. Why didn't they applaud these statements?

"Don't ask me to applaud, the paper doesn't applaud me," interjected Mr. Meighen.

"Is this the high tariff campaign of the Conservatives? Is this a fair discussion of the campaign?" asked Mr. Rinfret.

W. A. Boys, Conservative Whip, asked if Mr. Rinfret had quotations from any papers other than the one he had used. Mr. Rinfret replied that he was merely giving the statements as typical of the campaign in certain parts of Ontario.

Mr. Rinfret did not think the Liberal party needed any lesson from Mr. Doucet in tolerance or in honesty. He thought that Mr. Doucet's onslaught on French-Canadians was made at the demand of his leaders and at the expense of his compatriots.

New Markets Essential.

On the subject of the tariff, Mr. Rinfret said that he considered the opening up of new markets for Canadian products of vastly more importance than the imposition of high tariffs on goods from another country. The present government had tried to widen Canada's markets by judicious treaties and British preference.

Of the Meighen amendment to the address, Mr. Rinfret could only say that the Conservative leader apparently found no fault at all with the speech from the throne. He merely wished to add a paragraph to it, and that paragraph was only a "statement of generalities." The speech itself, in spite of what Mr. Meighen might say, was an embodiment of the Liberal policy. The victory of the Liberal party in Quebec was not a victory of prejudice, but a victory over prejudice. It was a refusal on the part of French Canada to accept a bid from the big Tory interests in the east, which sought only to defeat the aspirations of the west, and for that reason was an obstacle to national unity.

Edmonton Conservative.

A. U. G. Bury (Conservative, Edmonton East, followed. He said that Mr. Lapointe and other ministers who had so far taken part in the debate had shown great dexterity in making, setting up, and then knocking down "men of straw."

Coal, said Mr. Bury, had defeated the government candidate in Edmonton but darker and more subterranean than coal, had been the ways of the government itself. He criticized briefly the policy of the government regarding western coal, and promised to refer to the matter at a later time.

Speaking of the Australian treaty, Mr. Bury said the people of his constituency had rejected it because they argued that butter at three cents per pound cheaper meant nothing if people had not the wages to buy. The people too had come to distrust Mr. King's tariff manipulations. He had taken men into his cabinet ranging from the Minister of the Interior, who was almost a free trader, to Mr. Marler at the other end of the argument. No one knew where he was.

"Protection is not dead, and very far from being dead," declared Mr. Bury.

"Protection is more alive than it has been for a long time," he added. It was recognized that a policy of protection was necessary for the welfare of Canada as a whole.

Discussing the speech from the throne, Mr. Bury remarked that the tariff for revenue purposes of the Liberals evidently had been "jettisoned." Everybody believed in protection, for his own industry at least. Labor was protectionist, and had secured its present position through a machinery of protection. The farmer was also protectionist.

A proper fiscal policy was the only policy for Canada, and every effort should be made to build up our home markets.

CLOTURE THREATENED.

World Court Debate Nearly Stopped in U. S. Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—The long threatened move for a cloture on the world court was made last night in the Senate. It was followed by a bitter debate of an hour, with signs at the end that some sort of unanimous consent agreement to limit the debate without resort to a cloture might yet be reached.

Chicago Wheat Was Steady With Fractional Fluctuations

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press)—Unusual steadiness characterized the wheat market today during early dealings. Price changes were confined to fractions and were impartially distributed both above and below yesterday's finish. Trade was of a week-end sort chiefly to adjust counts rather than to take on new risks. Opening prices, unchanged to 3-8c higher, May $1.71 1-2 and July $1.48 3-4 to $1.48 7-8 were followed by numerous minor fluctuations, government almost altogether by varying pit conditions.

Corn and oats displayed even morestability than wheat. After opening unchanged to 3-8c higher, May 84 1-8 to 84 1-4c, the corn market held near to initial figures. Oats started unchanged to 1-8 at 1-2c up, May 44 3-4. The later action of prices was of little importance. A decided upturn in hog values gave firmness to provisions.

Brazilian Heads Market; Other Issues Are Active

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press) — The Toronto stock exchange at the closing session of the week was moderately active and prices were generally firm. Brazilian regained the leadership of the market with Consolidated Smelters, Crow's Nest one at 60, and International Nickel 3-4 at 42 1-2; Industrial Alcohol declined 3-8 at 17 1-4. Canners preferred improved a half at 63 1-2, and Consolidated Smelters closed a point higher at 187. British Columbia Fishing eased five eights at 57 5-8.

Heavy Run On Steel Common May Give Increased Dividend

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—A bullish sentiment again prevailed in to-day's stock market, which was featured by the buoyancy of high-priced industrials. Heavy buying of United States Steel Common, which duplicated the week's high price of 135¼, reflected speculative hope of an increased dividend at next Tuesday's meeting of the board of directors.

DEBATE ON ADDRESS CONTINUES WESTERN MEMBERS ON FLOOR

Member For East Edmonton Attacks Australian

LIBERAL SPEAKER.

Medicine Hat Member Says People Want Lower

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—F. W. Gershaw (Liberal, Medicine Hat) expressed the belief that a majority of the people of Canada favored a lower rather than a higher tariff.

Three flour mills were located in Medicine Hot, but were running on half-time. He hoped, therefore, that the suggestion of the Canadian Millers' Association to have all Canadian wheat milled in Canadian mills would be accepted.

A Conservative member asked the member if he would favor the same principle in regard to nickle and asbestos.

Mr. Gershaw agreed that it should be given "careful consideration."

H. J. Barber (Conservative, Fraser Valley) reviewed statistics of the dairy industry in Canada. The effect of the Australian treaty, he said, would be the ruin of the dairy industry if the imports increased as they gave every indication of increasing this year. Mr. Barber declared that the people of his constituency "demanded immediately the abrogation of the Australian treaty."

John Millar (Progressive, Qu'Appelle), speaking of the national railway problem, said that though the annual deficit continued, Canada was getting the lowest freight rate in the world. Mr. Millar advocated tests for strength of wheat. The strength of wheat was regarded in grading, yet it was fundamental to the quality of wheat. This was being done in the United States. He also advocated the assistance to the development of horticulture in the West and the standardization of parts for farm machinery.

KITCHENER, Jan. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Eight people had to be taken from their apartments here by firemen shortly after four o'clock this morning when a fire in the basement of the Welker block filled the living apartments on the second floor with smoke. The fire was confined to the basement of a grocery on the main floor. The damage has not been estimated.

NATIONAL FUNERAL FOR MERCIER EXPECTED AS BELGIAN TRIBUTE TO MORAL LEADER DURING CRISIS

Crowds Filed Past Cardinal's Bier on Sunday—Burial Thursday.

CHURCH BELLS TOLL.

MALINES, Belgium, Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press)—Belgium mourned yesterday at the bier of Cardinal Mercier, kindly, fighting priest, who in the dire days of German domination, rose from comparative obscurity to give the country courage to resist, and hope for deliverance.

Great crowds stood patiently outside the Archiepiscopal Palace with tear-dimmed eyes, or filed slowly past the couch where the body of the Cardinal lay, clad in robes of violet, with mitre upon the head and the Cardinal's great gold cross upon his breast.

Many in that slow procession were wounded soldiers of the war, some limping painfully as they approached the prelate's resting place to pay him their last humble honors. And while thousands at Malines bade him farewell, messages poured in from rulers, the great and humble people of the four corners of the earth, some of them from Germany, expressing the sorrow which the world feels at the passing of the "apostle of peace."

Nuns Keep Vigil.

There was an expression of profound peace upon the Cardinal's face, but suffering of the last two weeks had left deeply graven lines, and friends found a change almost beyond belief. Throughout the day the "black nuns" of Malines kept the death watch. They will be on duty until the burial Thursday. Until then also the great bell of Malines Cathedral will toll the funeral knell thrice daily, at 6 o'clock in the morning, noon and 7 o'clock in the evening. The bells of all the other churches will join in the solemn tribute.

While no formal action has been taken it is considered certain that the funeral will be a state affair of great pomp, the members of the Cabinet having decided to pay this high honor in recognition of Mercier's great moral services to Belgium. Only three Belgians thus far have been honored with a national funeral.

Cathedral Interment.

King Albert, the Crown Prince and the Government Ministers will follow the body to the crypt of the Cathedral of St. Rombold (St. Rombaut), where it will be interred, and where it will rest beside former Primates of Belgium.

It is learned that Cardinal Mercier left a religious will addressed to the Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury. This was the document he wrote on Thursday last after the visit of Lord Halifax, president of the English Church Union, with whom he was associated at the Malines conferences for union of the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches.

Cardinal Mercier died at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, and the passing of the great patriot and great churchman was announced by the tolling of bells throughout the land.

Half an hour before the end, the Cardinal's mind, which had previously been extraordinarily clear and keen, began to fail. Breathing became difficult, and at exactly 3 o'clock his head fell forward slightly as he expired.

In the last hours Cardinal Mercier grasped the hand of Brother Hubert who had so long and so faithfully watched over him and with Hubert's hand in his, the Cardinal breathed his last. A nun held the other hand, in which she had placed a lighted candle.

NOW, HONESTLY—

Feeling kinda groggy, huh? Well, maybe, after all it's your own fault.

The outdoors is full of fresh air. Do you get it?

God gave you legs to walk with and arms to exercise with. Do you use them?

It's the easiest thing in the world to walk right up and take deep breaths, and build up your lungs. Ever take any?

Don't look for sympathy, when your spirit lags — look for exercise, fresh air and fair treatment to your system.

RADIO TEST WAS INTERRUPTED BY OCEAN TRAGEDY

Norwegian Freighter Rammed and Sunk at 10.15 Last Night.

ONE LIFE LOST.

Rest of Crew Picked Up By Tanker Which Rammed Freighter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press) — The third international broadcasting test scheduled to link North America, South America and Europe by radio was partly interrupted last night just after the start of the American programme by a tragedy at sea. At 10.05 p.m. came an SOS. Broadcasing stations throughout the east immediately shut down.

Fragment by fragment out of the air came the story of how the Vacuum Oil Co. tanker, Vacuum, bound for New York from Texas City had rammed the Norwegian freighter, Solvang, five miles from the winter quarter light ship which lies outside Delaware breakwater. The freighter sank within a few minutes but not before all but one of her crew had scrambled into hastily launched life boat, which were picked up later by the Vacuum. Broadcasting had not been resumed in the east at 11 o'clock when stations in London, Bournemouth, and Daventry, England; Barcelona, Spain; Lima, Peru; Buenos Aires, Argentina, took the air with a varied programme of vocal and instrumental music.

FIRE THREATENS SUMMER HOMES

Village of Crystal Beach Visited By Destructive Fire.

HOUSES BURNED.

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press.)—The village of Crystal Beach was visited by a destructive fire early yesterday morning and only the dynamiting of the houses prevented the conflagration from becoming general. Three houses were completely destroyed and another partly gutted with a loss of $40,000, only partly covered by insurance.

At 1 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schooley awakened to find the house filled with smoke and with their four children escaped in night attire just before the roof fell in. The flames spread to the adjoining summer homes of Dr. Bragall and Allan George, Buffalo, and razed them, with their contents, to the ground. The home of Mrs. Mars, Buffalo, was partly destroyed, but most of the contents were saved.

Dr. O. E. Baker of the United States' Department of Agriculture recently estimated that Canada is practically cayable of producing a wheat crop exceeding 1,300,000,000 bushels.

Beating Of Abbe Gives Paris New Popular Song

PARIS, Jan. 25 — (United Press).—The "Cure De Bombon," a song written around the flagellation of Abbe Desnoyer of Bombon by a group of fanatics believing in witchcraft, is now the song hit of the Paris cabarets.

Preliminary examination of the alleged assailants of the cure brought from them confessions that they had stripped the churchman of his clothes and soundly thrashed him with knotted ropes, "to drive out evil spirits."

They claimed the Abbe could send death and destruction to communities through birds.

TWELFTH DEATH AND OTHERS MAY DIE FROM BLAZE

Hotel Fire in Allentown, Pa., Saturday Morning From Unknown Cause.

TWO UNIDENTIFIED.

Flames Put Elevator Out of Commission in Five Storey Building.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 25 (Canadian Press)—The death Sunday of E. F. Brightbill, of Lebanon, Pa., increased the number known to have lost their lives in the fire that destroyed the Lafayette Hotel early Saturday to twelve. Two of the bodies were still unidentified last night.

The condition of two of the injured remains critical. They are Edward Ritchey, Scranton, and Edwin Carger, this city.

Search of the ruins of the hotel continued yesterday but no more bodies were recovered, though the authorities feel almost certain that at least four or five more persons lost their lives than have been accounted for. Dynamite was used to bring down the walls of the burned structure in order to make the task of the searchers for bodies less dangerous.

The origin of the blaze remained undetermined last night. According to diretor of public safety, Herbert W. Guth, there will be a thorough investigation of a report that just before the first cry of fire there was an explosion in a room on one of the upper floors

Many of the guests on the fourth and fifth (top) floors were unable to leave their rooms by the hallways and when the firemen arrived several were hanging from windows, yelling for ladders. Nets were of little use because of the old-time narrow roofed porch that extended the whole width of the first floor.

Firemen Leave Banquet

Firemen were quickly on the scene being joined by visiting firemen who had attended a banquet of the Pioneer Fire Company earlier in the night.

Just as the firemen were raising the ladders one aged man could hold out no longer and dropped to the roof of the porch. He was dead when reached.

The elevator is said to have been in perfect running order, but fire ate away the supports of the yoke to which the cables were attached, and the weights and cables fell before the fire had been under way very long.

William D. Cassone, owner of the hotel, estimated the value of the property at $200,000 and said he carried comparatively little insurance.

The history of the structure dates back more than a century. The original building was erected in 1800, when it was known as the "Black Horse Inn." It was remodeled in 1909, then a century old, and contained nearly 100 rooms. Two stories of brick were added then to the three-story stone structure.

TO EXPEL GERMANS.

Rumania Report About To Deport 20,000.

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 25. — A Bucharest despatch to the Wiener Neueste Nachrichten states that the Rumanian Minister of the Interior has instructed the police to expell 20,000 Germans and Austrians from Rumania by to-day.

The League of Nations Council last June considered the question of the treatment of the minority populations in Transylvania, where there are many Germans, and in September succeeded in settling the question of the treatment of Hungarian farmers in Rumania whose lands were expropriated, Rumania agreed

CHARRED BONES IDENTIFIED BY MEN'S BROTHERS

Authorities Have Evidence of Foul Play in Shack Deaths.

REMAINS EXHUMED.

MADAWASKA, Ont., Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press). — That the charred bones found on the site of a burned shack on Birch Creek are all that remains of Sergt. John Billings, D.C.M., game warden of Barry's Bay, and Joe Stringer, his guide, of Whitney, was established beyond all doubt Saturday noon in the presence of Magistrate S. T. Chown, Renfrew. Furthermore, there is every evidence to substantiate the theory of foul play.

The police are working on the theory that murder had been committed and are investigating every clue.

Magistrate Chown, accompanied by Doctors N. A. Davis and H. Sullivan, of this town, and a number of witnesses arrived at the site of the burned shack shortly after noon Saturday. Work of exhuming the charred bones immediately commenced. A bunch of keys with an identification tag indicating that they belonged to the late game warden, and other articles, including the watch of Joe Stringer, identified by the brothers of the two dead men who were in the party, established beyond doubt, the identity of the two separate piles of charred bones.

In Haliburton District.

As the scene of the fatality was in the Township of Clide, in Haliburton district, it was outside the magistrate's jurisdiction. No inquest was therefore held, but a full report has been forwarded to the Attorney-General of Ontario.

From the evidence adduced, the hut was fired at 8 p.m. on January 9, and was seen by several trappers in the district. That steps were taken to heap fuel on the flames was apparent by the finding of a quantity of freshly-burned hay over the charred remnants of the two ment. Even the log piles on which the shack had been built had been dug up and thrown on to the fire, police officers report.

Doctors' Opinion.

The medical authorities who conducted the work of exhuming the charred bones express the opinion that the natural burning of a shack of this nature with no inside furniture otherwise than six bunks, could not possibly have consumed the bones in the way they were found. The fire, they think, would have to be fed continually for some time in order to maintain sufficient heat.

The shack in question was formerly used as the local office of the Mickle and Dyment Lumber Company. Latterly this building was used as a fishing club-house for the Patomoc Fishing Club, of 15 St. Clair Avenue West, Toronto.

TWELVE HURT IN DERAILMENT OF MONCTON TRAIN

Five Passenger Cars Slid Down Embankment—Most Injuries Minor.

THE OCEAN LIMITED.

Three Seriously Injured—Condition Not Considered Serious, C.N.R. Reports.

MONCTON, N.B., Jan. 25 (Canadian Press)—A dozen people were injured, three quite seriously, but not considered dangerous, when the eastbound Ocean Limited, which left here at 5:15 last Saturday evening, left the rails at Calhouns Mills, fourteen miles east of Moncton. Four cars — the dining car, two sleeping cars and the observation car, remained on the rails, as also did the locomotive, while the postal, the colonist, express and baggage cars and two first class cars left the rails and slid down the embankment on their sides. Fortunately the cars were not badly broken up and to this is attributable the fact that no one was killed and the list of injured was comparatively small.

List of Injured

The list of injured as compiled by the Canadian National Railway offices last evening was as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, Sydney; stretcher cases, injuries not considered dangerous.

Archie Boswell, Amherst, shoulder injured, not dangerous.

Fred Johnson, Sydney, injuries not serious.

Arthur Cormier, Moncton, fingers cut.

Mrs. Gaynham, no address, inward bound passenger from S. S. Montrose, minor injuries.

Max LeBlanc, Pullman car inspector, Moncton; minor injuries.

Upon receipt of news of the wreck here a relief train with doctors and nurses, accompanied by W. A. Appleton, general manager of the Atlantic region and other C.N.R. officials was rushed to the scene of the accident and the injured attended to.

Relief Train Dispatched

The injured and other passengers suffering from shock were brought to Moncton and the injured taken to the hospital where they received further treatment. The more serious cases are being detained in the hospital here until in a condition to be forwarded to their homes.

The remainder of those receiving minor injuries, after being treated at the hospital were sent to their homes Sunday.

Several hundred yards of track was torn up by the runoff and a big force of men were employed yesterday clearing up the wreck. At noon Sunday the line was reported clear for traffic.

Saturday night's Maritime Express westbound was held up east of the wreck, but passengers and mails were transferred and forwarded, after being detained about three hours.

NEW PEACE PLAN FOR COAL STRIKE TO BE CONSIDERED ON TUESDAY

SOLUTION DOUBTED.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—Anthracite miners and operators, who have agreed to hold another meeting in the effort to end the long coal strike, will meet in joint conference in Philadelphia Tuesday afternoon.

The call for the joint conference, which was requested by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to consider the peace plan offered by E. J. Lynett, publisher of the Scranton Times, was sent out Sunday by direction of Alvan Markle, Hazelton, chairman of the joint conference.

While both sides were hopeful the next meeting would develop something that each could accept, the correspondence leading up to the agreement to meet again held out no prospect that the coming session will end the strike.

The last word so far on the Lynett plan has been spoken by the operators. After a long meeting here on Saturday, Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' negotiating committee, notified Mr. Markle that the mine owners accepted the invitation to meet again, but wished it understood that they did not want to be accused of re-entering the conference under false colors.

They wished it understood the Lynett plan had not been accepted "in principle" as stated by Mr. Lewis in his request for another conference, and that it did not "afford a satisfactory basis for a contract."

Solitary Inmate In Iowa Home For Indigent Farmers

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Jan. 25.—In spite of 60 cent corn and Iowa's bankrupt banks, John Reilly, 75 years old, is the only inmate of the Fejervary Home for Aged Farmers here.

According to the report of the trustees of the institution filed Saturday, it cost $3,450.21 to keep him last year, inclusive of rent, taxes, light and gas. The home is the only retreat for poor farmers in the State. It is a palatial residence that occupies an entire city block.

Count Nicholas Fejervary of Austria, who emigrated to Davenport years ago, made a fortune of several millions and upon his death bequeathed and endowed the institution. Iowa being an agricultural State he believed there would be many poor farmers in the future and wanted them cared for.

Five is the largest number that have ever lived in the home at one time.

Rubber Flowers Help Britain To Maintain Her Monopoly

LONDON, Jan. 25 (United Press).—Helping Great Britain to maintain her booming rubber monopoly is a new fad—rubber flowers. Manufacturers claim for the new bouquets that they are weatherproof, washable, durable and adaptable for either the buttonhole or table decorations.

Rubber roses that blush but have no thorns are popular and a touch of French perfume makes them "so natural." Then, too, lilies, violets, gardenias, forget-me-nots and other flowers are available.

CONFESSES TO CUTTING BODY; DENIES MURDER

Philadelphia Chiropractor Admits Distributing Remains.

GIRL TOOK POISON.

Died in His Office, He Says, After Man Had Jilted Her.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 25 — (Canadian Press).—David L. Marshall, Philadelphia chiropractor, was held without bail early to-day, charged with having murdered Miss Anna May Dietrich, dismembered her body and carried pieces to different lonesome spots in the suburbs. After a night of grilling and feverish investigation by police authorities, Marshall, sobbing and unnerved, confessed that he had dismembered the body, but denied that he had murdered the 35-year-old Norwood milliner, declaring that she had taken poison in his Philadelphia office because she had been jilted by a wealthy New York man.

Marshall said he met the girl outside his office on Tuesday night. She was not feeling well, and he proposed she lie down in his office. He went out to get something to eat, he said, and when he came back in an hour he found Miss Dietrich on the bathroom floor in a heap, unconscious. He tried to revive her but she died. The confession of dismemberment and disposition of her body follows:

"Then I became frightened and panicky. I didn't know what to do. I have a wife and a child and I feared I would be blamed for her death I kept the body all that night in my office. Early next morning I came back and then I cut off the head and legs with a hacksaw and knife. On Wednesday night I distributed the body. I forgot the head, having left it in my office when I took away the body and legs. I remembered it Thursday morning and wrapped it up and then took it and threw it under a railway trestle."

District Attorney Taylor asked if Miss Dietrich had any reason to end her life. "She told me she had taken poison," said Marshall. "She had a love affair with one of the big fellows in New York, and, being a poor girl who went to work every day, he threw her down. That broke her heart."

Marshall was said by Alexander Schuhl, and his wife, a brother-in-law and sister of Miss Dietrich, to have been a frequent caller upon the young woman, and to have treated her professionally. They declared that he was known to them as a bachelor.

Miss Dietrich disappeared last Tuesday, after a shopping tour with Mrs. Schuhl.

RUMANIA EXPELS 20,000 TEUTONS

Minister of Interior Orders Police To Put Out Germans and Austrians.

WITHIN ONE WEEK.

VIENNA, Austria, January 25. — Canadian Press. — A Bucharest despatch to the Wiener Neueste Nachrichten states that the Rumanian Minister of the Interior, has instructed the police to expel 20,000 Germans and Austrians from Rumania by next Monday.

THE WEATHER.

Another cold dip came last night, the thermometer getting down to 11 degrees below zero. The windstorm on Saturday night was unusually severe and if there had been much snow on the ground the country roads would by now have been impassable. As it is some of them are badly blocked.—W. P.

Buses Carried 1600 On First Active Day; Ticket Sale Was $480

Fifteen Minute Service is Strain on Service, and Street Cars Will Return Temporarily on C.G.E. Route at Busy Hours.

ENGINES NEED BREAKING IN.

Much Time Lost in Selling Tickets Everyone Demanded —Manager Confident of Success and Appreciative of Reception Accorded New Transportation.

The new buses which started on their duties yesterday cannot meet the stringent requirements of a fifteen minute service, and accordingly some of the street cars will be again conscripted. Several elements enter into the apparent failure to measure up to advance notices; elements which will gradually disappear as time passes.

The most embryonic motorist can understand that a new engine needs to be operated for a considerable period before it becomes flexible and until such time the maximum of speed cannot be attained. Then, too, there is lacking that quick "pick up" and "get away" which comes only when all working parts of the motor and transmission become perfectly acquainted with one another and the rough edges are worn away.

The drivers need time time to become attuned to the idiosyncrasies of their behemoth steeds. In addition to that consideration, there is also the fact that the heavy demand for tickets has resulted in a loss of time at the stops, a fact which is more in favor of the new service than otherwise.

Because of all these things and to maintain the service until the maximum of speed may be developed, the C.G.E. route will be re-established and a ten-minute street car service will be given in the morning from 6 to 8, at noon from 11.30 to 1.30, and in the afternoon from 4.30 to 6.30. This service will go into effect tomorrow, and the buses will drop back to a twenty-minute service.

A telegram from W. R. Robertson, General Superintendent of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Toronto, sanctioning the change, reads as follows:

"Augment bus service by street car if necessary to meet requirements, pending necessary changes in buses and until they are down to working basis."

Change Gear Ratio.

After the motors become broken in, J. O. Clifford, superintendent of the local service, purposes having the gear ratio lowered from 6½—1 to 5¼—1, which, he declares, will permit the buses to attain a greater speed, so that the fifteen minute service will become an actual fact.

Yesterday, the new vehicles, operating on the twenty-minute schedule found no difficulty whatever, excepting some lost time when the shifts changed.

Taking into consideration the fact that the mercury hovered around the zero mark all day, resulting in a natural uncertainty of tempers for those who may have waited on a corner for more than five minutes, most of the patrons had nothing but good words to say of the brightly clad chariots.

Biggest Sunday.

The following figures give an idea of the interest created. Tickets to the value of $480 were sold between yesterday morning and this morning; one thousand six hundred people went a-riding yesterday, while the Sunday average for the ordinary service was 560. Of course, the novelty was largely responsible for the gain, but it is a remarkable novelty that is capable of attracting people on such a frigid day as Sunday was. All loudly acclaim the present rate of fares and many vow that the new service is just what they were waiting for. East City residents are particularly well satisfied.

WOMAN FROZEN NEAR HER HOME

Missing When Husband Returned on Saturday, But He Gave No Alarm.

FOUND IN DRIFT.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—Unusual circumstances surround the finding yesterday afternoon of the body of Mrs. Malcolm MacLeod in a snow drift a short distance from her home in Keppel Township near the hamlet of Wolseley. Although she was missing when her husband returned Saturday night from cutting wood on the farm of Albert Bell no alarm was given until yesterday afternoon. Two gangs of men were immediately gathered together and search revealed her frozen body about 40 rods from her home. She was without hat or coat and her body was clothed in the scantiest of attire.

On Saturday morning Macleod says he left him home to cut wood. When he returned in the evening his wife was not there. Coroner Dr. Ruth rford will investigate. The worst blizzard of the season raged o . Owen Sound and this whole district on Saturday night. Mrs. MacLe was about 50 years of age.

CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS SPEAK AT ALEXANDRIA

Six Prominent Men of Party Call For New Election.

EXPECT BY-ELECTION.

Observers Say They Are Preparing For Campaign in Glengarry.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Six prominent Conservatives, five of them members of Parliament representing six different provinces, united at a meeting held at Alexandria, Ontario, Saturday, in a call to battle, daring the Liberals to gird themselves for the fray and test matters in a new election. They were H. M. Hanneson M.P. for Selkirk, Man.; Dr. J. A. Macdonald, M.P., Richmond, West Cape Breton; G. B. Nicholson, M.P., Algoma East; George Black, M.P. Yukon; Alex. J. Doucet, M.P., Kent, N.B.; Hon. Andrew Fauteaux, defeated Conservative candidate in the recent Bagot by-election, Quebec.

One of the purposes of the meeting was to honor the Conservative leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, but pressure of business in Ottawa prevented Mr. Meighen from being present, so Mrs. Meighen attended on his behalf.

Political observers state that the meeting signifies that the Conservatives are expecting an early by-election in Glengarry and this is a preparatory step to a hot campaign there.

WEAVING SUBJECT OF GOOD ADDRESS

Mrs. H. H. Stansfield, of Toronto, Addressed Art Association.

There was a good attendance on Saturday afternoon at the meeting of the Women's Art Association in the studio of the Conservatory of Music, for the address on Weaving, given by Mrs. H. H. Stansfield of Toronto. Mrs. Stansfield, who has been engaged for the past two summers in teaching weaving to many of the fisherfolk of Newfoundland, in connection with a scheme advanced by the Newfoundland Outport Nursing and Industrial Committee, to bring something different to the lives of the people living in the barren fishing villages, gave a very interesting and chatty talk, dwelling mainly on her experiences among the fisher folk, and encouraging her listeners to similar efforts along this line. Mrs. Stansfield had with her several examples of beautiful weaving from her own loom. She was introduced to her audience by the president, Mrs. Wm. Blackwell, who also voiced a very hearty appreciation of her address at its conclusion.

Preceding the address, an enjoyable musical programme was given, with instrumental selections by Miss Florence Saunders, who played "L'louette" and "Si oiseaux j'etais," and Mrs. Ross Williamson, who sang, with accompaniment by Miss Saunders, "A Spirit Flower" and "Snowflakes."

At the conclusion of Mrs. Stansfield's talk, tea was served. Mrs. W. H. Pretty, convenor of the Weaving Club, had charge of arrangements, and was assisted by members of the Club. Tea was poured by Mrs. N. H. Sutton and Mrs. C. C. Cragg, the table being charmingly decorated with a large bowl of daffodils and yellow candles. Tea-room assistants were Mrs. K. S. Wightman, Miss Mathilde Masson and Miss Mary Harstone.

"No human being has really begun to live until he or she has begun to create," said Mrs. Stansfield. "Be it ever so crude or so poor, it you begin to make something, and go right on with it to the end, then you have taken on something of the Divine attribute."

If children were urged to create, instead of destroy, asserted the speaker, their natural inclinations would have a constructive, rather than a destructive, outlet. Weaving and spinning are most soothing to the nerves, "but you must be easy and gentle and rhythmical." The curative influence of the art has been well demonstrated in the hospitals where it is taught to nerve-wracked soldiers.

"We are too prone to look upon art as something entirely apart from everyday ways. But art has really a common and universal meaning, just as much as life and love, and painting and sculpture are not the only fine arts. There are many other things, such as weaving, and jewellery-making and the tooling of leather, that can be included in this category."

That women of this day are not civilized was the assertion of the speaker, who said that a sign of barbarism was the constant desire for change. "If you learn weaving and spend hours and hours in making up enough material to fashion yourself a dress, you will not be so likely to want to change it next month. We are not civilized, because we have no stability or quietness. We are like children or primitive peoples in our restless desire for constant change—for something new."

Back in the days of Helen of Troy, weaving was known and practiced. In ancient Egyptian times, there was a fabric called "Dew of Egypt," stuff that was so delicate as to be imperceptible to the eye when immersed in water.

Women who spend their afternoons in playing bridge were scored by the speaker, who considered this business of making a hard job of what should be a game, resulting often only in frayed nerves, might better be turned to something more constructive and educative. "Women do not realize that they are really the guiders of the universe, and that it is necessary that women of brains and leisure and education should turn their attention to something creative, rather than in playing bridge for five or six afternoons a week. We either make or we destroy as we go along in life, and it isn't work, so much as ennui, that wears one out."

Mrs. Stansfield went on to speak of her visits to Newfoundland, and how she had helped open up a new vista of loveliness and particularly of color for the women on those rock bound coasts. To them she had brought too a means of making a little money, which they could spend in such things as buying new sets of teeth or other necessaries.

"There is the competitive side of life and also the creative side. The awful part of women's work, as a rule, is that at the end of the day, it is all destroyed. You have nothing to show for it. It builds character and stick-a-bility, of course, but it is only routine, after all. When you create something, if it is only a little bag like this, you have something to show for your time."

Mrs. Stansfield went on to urge her hearers to branch out as she had done, and strive to bring to others' lives something of interest and help. "There are places no farther away than Kingston where they are just as far behind as they are in Newfoundland. In teaching crafts like this, there is a development of one's own spiritual life, a touch with the divine, because we are all creatives. The urge is within us all. I have studied the psychological, as well as the physiological and spiritual side of such work as this, and I am convinced that there would be less immorality in the world if we were all creatively employed."

MAN SUICIDES IN TORONTO HOTEL

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—A man who signed himself in the hotel register as Frank Shaver, of Hamilton, Ont., was found dead in bed at the Daly House on Sunday. The deceased had a bad gash in his throat. A pocket-knife was found beside the body. In the man's pockets was $15. The clothes he wore were all made in the United States. It is thought that the man came here for the purpose of ending his life. He was about 24 years of age. There was not a scrap of paper about the cloth ing by which the body might be identified.

BUSES CARRIED

Quite apart from the economic value of the new institution is the air of distinction which the new buses possess. The Gotfredson chassis is one which has deservedly won considerable approval as it incorporates the desirable feature of utility with the attractive one of beauty. The engine has a pleasing roar which gives the passengers a comfortable sense of security, a sense which is also imparted by the easy cradling of the springs and balloon tires. Even the deep chasms at railway crossings are traversed without undue discomfort, the drivers taking the proper precautions in selecting a smooth path.

Seen at a distance, the bus may be quickly recognized by its red trappings while the identification is completed when the hum of the motor becomes audible. The high silver radiator housing, characteristic of the Gotfredson, is a feature which adds greatly to the general appearance of Peterborough's latest transportation adventure.

Mr. Clifford said that under present conditions, no motor vehicle was able to perform as well as in the summer. Snow was a great impediment, he declared, as it held down the speed. Mr. Clifford is quite confident as to the ultimate success of the scheme, and he is also pleased at the ready response which has been accorded the reduction in fares.

WHACK AT KING PARTY PLEASURE TO MISS M'PHAIL

Progressive Lady M.P. Says She Has No Love For Either Party.

SPOKE AT TORONTO.

Says Main Concern Is To Preserve Independence of Group.

TORONTO, Jan. 25. Canadian Press. — "It would give me the greatest pleasure in the world to take one good whack at them, in spite of the fact that I am a Pacifist by nature and policy," declared Miss Agnes MacPhail, M. P., referring to the King government during an address at the Labor Forum last night. "We have no love, as you know, for either Liberal or Conservative party, and our main concern is to preserve the independence of our own group. We certainly do not feel tenderly toward the government," she said.

DISCUSS HEALTH OF MUSSOLINI

General Opinion in Official Europe That He Has Ulcer.

VERY ILL MAN.

GENEVA, Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press).—Italian Premier Mussolini's ill-health and the cause of his illness continue to be the subject of discussion throughout official Europe. When Mussolini visited Locarno it was clear to all who had known him previously that his appearance was greatly changed, and that undoubtedly he was a very ill man. Now it is generally reported, and seemingly with authority, that he is suffering from an ulcer of the duodenum part of the small intestine, and specialists whom he has consulted are not in agreement as to whether he should undergo an operation.

FAMINE EXISTS IN CENTRE CHINA

Lackof Rain Principal Cause —Bandits Make Matters Worse.

FARMERS BEGGING.

HANKOW, China, Jan. 25. (Canadian Press).—Lack of rain in the central provinces has created conditions of poverty, starvation and actual famine rarely equalled in this agricultural country.

The Province of Honan may be included in the famine districts, but for causes other than natural. Honan's misery is due entirely to the hordes of bandits, who outnumber the Provincial troops. The depredations of the bandits have driven the farmers from their homes. Thousands of them, homeless and wretched, are being forced to beg in order to exist.

Our Own Coral Gables.

(A News Item, with Apologies to Walt Mason.)

Tell us not of Coral Gables,
Where the streets are all canals,
And gondoliers from ancient Venice
Sing and row the boys and gals.*

You have seen them in the pictures
Spread across the magazines;
Youth and beauty, palms and starlight—
All the panoply of dreams.

Such is Florida's new city—
Tropic gem of real estate—
Not to live there is a pity,
So the advertisements state.

We have had our Coral Gables,
Out near Western Avenue,
Street canals, but no Venetians,
Broad lagoons and skies of blue.

Water from the Smithtown landscape,
From George Hatton's sloping farm,
Filled the street, the yards and woodsheds.
(And the people with alarm.)

Much you've read of flooded Paris,
How the Rhine its banks o'erran,
But not a word's been said a' ut us
Far out here in Monaghan.

All the low land inundated,
New Chamberlain street was lost to view,
Even when the rains abated
What a bleak and dreary view!

Water all around the houses,
Till they looked like stranded arks,
Kitchens here and there invaded.
As with bilge in leaky barques.

Planks thrust out o' upper windows
Let some men get out to work,
Some walked fences, others clotheslines—
Not a danger did they shirk.

Sympathy for Dutch and Germans!
But who worried whether we Anchored here at "Coral Gables,"
Or in the nighttime put to sea?

Put to sea across the acres
Down to Johnny Williams' pit,
In uneasy dreams we fancied,
Our villas tumbling into it.

One wet week of Coral Gables,
With our street like its canals—
Fed us up on tropic fables,
Palms and dancing boys and gals.

In the sheds we've now arenas,
Every yard's a bigger rink,
Ice where spuds and bright vegetables
Bloom in summer, makes us think,—

Makes us dream of Coral Gables,
Palms and stars and southern skies
But our villas out past High street—
With that sight enchantment dies!

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his precription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury to-day. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

WELCOME, CURLERS.

One of the notable events of the winter season is the annual bonspiel of the Peterboro Curling Club, which opens today and which invariably draws a large attendance of the curling fraternity from far and near.

The local bonspiel has won a splendid reputation, not only because of the fine prizes offered, the keenness of the competition and the excellence of the arrangements, but because the hospitality of the Peterboro curlers is widely recognized.

The social side of this fascinating pastime is not to be overlooked.

Many warm and lasting friendships have been formed in the midst of an exciting match, and curling can rightly claim to have contributed largely to that better understanding among citizens of different communities that is essential to the well-being of the country as a whole.

The Examiner is glad to extend to the visiting curlers a hearty welcome, knowing that such greeting will be endorsed by the citizens generally.

A NEW ERA IN TRANSPORTATION.

The advent of motor buses as a supplementary addition to the street railway system represents the dawn of a new era in public transportation in this city.

It is too early to judge as to the result of the experiment, but the new buses enable sections of the city to be served that have long been without regular transportation facilities, and from that viewpoint the new schedule starts out under most promising conditions.

The reduction in rates, providing a five-cent fare for those who buy 50 cents worth of tickets should be a further incentive to patronizing the street car and bus system.

While the seven-cent fare still remains if one choses to buy only one ticket, it is virtually wiped out by the present arrangement, and the old complaints about the cost of street car service should likewise disappear.

Upon the patronage accorded, of course, depends whether or not the present scale will continue.

It has long been argued that lower fares would result in bigger business and more profit, and the truth or fallacy of that contention should be established by the present test.

At all events the establishment of a more extensive service combining street cars and motor buses is a notable event for Peterboro, and in the general interest the success of the experiment is to be sincerely wished.

REPRESENTATION BY OCCUPATION.

Why not representation by occupation? inquires a correspondent in a letter to the Examiner.

Surely the answer is obvious.

Does any one think that Canada's problems could ever be settled by a parliament elected on such a basis?

Carry the Farmer group idea out to its logical conclusion, choose a parliament composed of representatives of different occupations, each sent there to battle for his own particular class, to bargain and barter for benefits for that one class alone, and callous to the needs of any other interests.

What hope would there be of national treatment of national problems from a body so composed?

No, representation by occupation is not the way to national prosperity.

We have already too much of the spirit of that kind of thing now, too much thinking about Ontario when we should be thinking of Canada, too much concern for Quebec's welfare when the welfare of the whole country should be the aim, too much emphasis on a Hudson Bay Railway when we have already a crushing railway problem on our hands.

Men should go to Parliament as Canadians, not as farmers or industrial workers or merchants or professional men, and heaven help this country if the time ever comes when every particular calling in Canada will think it necessary to have its own representatives in Parliament.

There is no objection to farmers or industrial workers or anybody else being members of the Federal House, but when they are elected purely and simply as farmers or industrial workers or whatever their category may be and their whole treatment of national problems is distorted by selfish and essentially class considerations, the difficulty of legislation of nation-wide benefit is apparent.

THE INCOME TAX.

An interesting letter from a Smith correspondent appears in today's issue in which the writer takes exception to the Examiner's recent reference to the Progressive attitude toward the income tax.

"Your many previous references to the same subject would almost lead to the inference that there has been a wholesale evasion of the tax on the part of the farmers," says the correspondent.

The Examiner is sorry if anything that has been said on this subject has been so misconstrued.

What we did intend to convey was not the idea the farmers evaded the tax, but that because only a small proportion had to pay Mr. Forke as the leader of a party elected largely in the interest of agriculturalists was a firm believer in the justice of this form of levy and would rather see it increased than lowered.

In short, because it does not concern his constituents the Progressive leader is always ready to cheer for the income tax.

The quarrel with this form of levy, whether it be municipal or Federal, is because it is manifestly impossible to collect it with a positive assurance of justice and impartiality.

That very inference that Mr. Brown resents, i. e., that farmers are evading the tax, illustrates the point effectively, inasmuch as many workers whose yearly income cannot be concealed, indeed must be reported by their employers to the authorities, never pay their tax without a feeling that while they have to pay others with a larger income are escaping Scot free.

Because of this condition and because of the material reduction in the United States income tax, the Examiner believes that regardless of Mr. Forke's admiration for it the Canadian income levy must be cut down as soon as possible.

RE WAGES.

In looking over the things to be thankful for during the last year the most important item is that real wages have increased.

In spite of the fact that prices and costs are greater than they were in former days, the working man of today enjoys a rise in his real wages; that is, wages measured in terms of what the worker can buy with his earnings.

In former days the comforts and luxuries of life cost more than they do today compared with what a man makes, so that now he has a surplus left over for the savings bank or the field of investment.

This was brought out by a survey of the National Industrial Conference Board, which says:

"The American workman today, if you measure the purchasing value of his earnings in terms of the same standard of living as prevailed in 1914, but discount the raise in retail prices, is twenty-four per cent. better off than he was in the beginning of the war, July, 1914, and five per cent. better off than he was at the peak of wage earnings during the inflation period of 1920."

This betterment, the survey says, is a result of increased industrial efficiency of the country as a whole. Fewer persons produce greater quantities than they did before, and increased application of power, better utilization of labor, mechanical ingenuity and managerial efficiency have steadily tended to reduce the cost of production.

The iron and steel industry is now about 140 per cent. above the pre-war level. In the automobile industry the wages are 122 per cent. higher than they were before the war.

Similar conditions are found to prevail in the chemical, foundry and machine shop, rubber, furniture, leather and other industries.

We thus find that in actuality prices are not so high as we thought them to be, for the reward of our work is giving greater purchasing power than it did in the days when prices were low. Neither the prices themselves nor the amount of wages are the true basis. We collect our true pay when we compare the dollars we make with the things we desire.

Measured by this basis, our progress is shown to be real. We are better off than we ever have been, as a country.—Dr. Frank Crane.

BUY IT HERE!

Mr. J. E. Armstrong, Conservative member for West Lambton, who has returned to the House after an absence of four years, believes that Canada should stop importing American coal and pay proper attention to the mining and distribution of her own fuel resources. To this end, Mr. Armstrong is moving for the appointment of a Commons committee to investigate the whole situation and make recommendations to Parliament.

It is encouraging to see that someone is taking the lead in this matter and endeavoring to bring it to a head. There has been much talk and no little investigation, but no real progress has been made. If Mr. Armstrong succeeds in achieving something he will be entitled to re-election by acclamation, a seat in the Cabinet and the official thanks of the Canadian people.

The coal strike of the last few months has amply demonstrated that it is possible for Ontario people to get along without American anthracite. There isn't any anthracite to be had, yet no one is suffering from the cold as a result. Coke and other varieties of coal are meeting the situation in a satisfactory manner, and it is probable that were large quantities of anthracite to be available tomorrow there are many householders who would have no desire to return to its use—especially if other fuels could be purchased at a lower rate.

In this connection it is interesting to note a recent statement by Mr. J. A. Ellis, Fuel Controller for Ontario. Mr. Ellis gave it as his opinion that even in times of plenty this Province will never again take more than 50 per cent. of its annual fuel supply in the form of American anthracite. The use of so-called substitutes will cut largely into the anthracite field in years to come, even when an abundance of "hard" coal is available. Welsh, Nova Scotia and Alberta coals are bound to have a big sale in the future, Mr. Ellis says. In other words, the people have been shown, by force of circumstances, that they can get along without American fuel and there will be a strong tendency to buy the Canadian article in the future and keep the money at home, for Canadian workmen, Canadian railways and other Canadian uses.

It appears that the coal possibilities of Alberta have never been really exploited for the excellent reason that there was no sufficient market for the product. If Ontario can be got into the habit of using Alberta coal and if a satisfactory freight rate can be established and maintained, it will be a wonderful thing for the development of the Western country as well as for the general advancement of Canada.

Alberta coal operators, at a recent meeting in Calgary, decided to urge upon the Federal authorities the desirability of providing for the immediate movement of half a million tons of Alberta coal to Ontario points at a freight rate not exceeding $7 per ton. This looks like a start in the right direction. What if the rate is not as attractive to the railways as that applying on certain other commodities. It would even be better to make up a carriage deficit—if any—out of Federal funds, if the result would be to keep Canada's fuel bill at home. And there are a good many persons who do not believe any such subsidy would be necessary, if the coal were hauled during the summer season when railways are slack and much equipment is standing idle.

It seems the most absurd thing imaginable that Canada should go on, year after year, paying out tens of millions for American coal when perfectly satisfactory fuels are obtainable within our own borders. We have the coal; surely someone is bright enough to devise a means of getting it to the consumers and stopping the huge American drain on Canadian pocketbooks.—Border Cities Star.

War Widows Re-Wed Reducing Pension Cost

LONDON, Jan. 25. (Canadian Press).—Re-marriage of war widows constitutes an important factor in reducing the cost of pensions in Great Britain, according to official figures which were made public today.

Nearly 97,000 of 250,000 war widows have re-married.

There are 900,000 persons still receiving pensions or allowances in consequence of the war

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The Editor of The Examiner:—

Standing at the corner of two principal streets, one noticed unusual activity, which transformed the neighborhood into a wood-cutters' camp. Evidently the prevailing fashions for bobbed heads and bobbed lands had reached the owner of the property and he decided to be in the fashion and hew down the trees. And what wonderful trees they were—elms, eighty to one hundred feet high; very likely baby trees when the emigrants came, one hundred years ago and since grown into sturdy upright trees, stately and grand as only elm trees can be. If trees must be felled for wood and fuel why not clean up the dead and scraggy trees along the sidewalks—in Central and King Edward Parks, and spare the grand, stately elms which have taken a century to attain their present height. Three trees have fallen and as one looks at them, lying on the ground, one felt sorrow at the decision to bring them down.

True they will furnish a lot of wood but surely wood can be obtained from waste places where it will not be missed, and not have the value or bring pleasure to the number who see these trees in the city every day and shelter beneath their shade in the warm weather.

Altogether, one's heart turns sick at the sight of three stately elms lying in death, grand, even as they lie sawn asunder into commercial lengths, to be taken away to be no more known by the place where they have stood for 100 years or more.

CITIZEN.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A DON'T OR TWO.

Don't give advice. If a man wants advice, let him go to a lawyer or a doctor and pay for it. When he comes to you the chances are a hundred to one that it isn't advice he wants, it is approval. In the one-hundredth instance, if the thing turns out right he will insist he thought of it all by his lonesome, but if it turns out wrong, he will saddle the blame on his adviser.

Don't expect perfection in anybody or anything. If a miracle should be performed and you find a perfect man or woman, they would pall on you. The reason so many people stay away from church is because they are looking for a perfect preacher, but he has not yet been born.

Don't worry about what people are thinking about you. If we knew just what our friends and our enemies were thinking about us all the time, a number five hat would slip down over our ears one minute and the next minute a number eight would be entirely too small.

HOW TO GET RID OF MUSCLE-LAMENESS

Beach Patrolman Advises this Treatment

After exposure to dampness and cold, and after hard exercise, muscles will stiffen up and get lame.

A beach patrolman at Atlantic City writes that he has found this treatment the quickest and most effective way to take out the stiffness and pain: "Just pat on a little of Sloan's Liniment. Don't rub. It's the liniment—not the rubbing—that helps. You'll get relief right away. I've tried all sorts of other things, but nothing gets results like Sloan's."

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden pain, it gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. Quickly and surely it carries off the "fatigue-poisons," takes out stiffness and drives away the aches and pains.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—Enlarged shipments from south of the equator, together with a halt in export business from North America, brought speculative buying of wheat nearly to a standstill here today. As a result, wheat prices gave way 2 1-4 cents a bushel, but subsequently rallied. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 3-8 to 7-8c net lower, May, new, $1.70 5-8 to $1.70 3-4 and July $1.48 to $1.48 1-8. Corn finished 1-8 to 1-4c off; oats a shade to 1-8c down, and provisions to a decline of 12 cent.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 24 (Canadian Press). — There was practically no demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday, and as a result the volume of business was small.

The only important change in the domestic market was a reduction of one cent per bushel in Ontario and Quebec oats. Car lots of No. 2 white are now quoted at 53c, No. 3 white at 51 1-2, and No. 4 white at 50c per bushel, ex-store. Canadian Western grades were unchanged.

The demand for standard grades of rolled oats continues steady for small lots to meet actual wants at $3.30 to $3.40 per bag of 90 lbs. delivered to the trade.

The receipts of butter in Montreal for the week ending January 23, 1926, were 2,726 packages which show an increase of 2,001 packages, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 2,149 packages with the same week last year, but the total arrivals from May 1, 1925 to date have been 57,573 packages smaller than the same period of 1924-5. Of the total receipts for the week there were 2,027 packages received from Australia.

In the early part of the week a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices declined 1c to 1 1-4c per lb, which tended to create an improved demand for supplies from both domestic and outside buyers and a more active business was done including sales of some fair-sized lots of Canadian No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 41c to 41 1-2c per lb., No. 2 pasteurized at 40c to 40 1-2c per lb., and No. 1 pasteurized at 40c per lb., but towards the close of the week the market firmed up some owing to the smaller supplies available from first hands and prices advanced 1-2c per lb. There were also some purchases of Australian pasteurized creamery butter made to arrive here late in march at 37c per lb. delivered.

Cheese Demand Improves.

The receipts of cheese for the week ending January 23, 1926, were 550 boxes, which show a decrease of 1,536 boxes, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 15 boxes with the same week last year, while the total receipts from May 1, 1925, to January 23, 1926, show an increase of 99,270 boxes, as compared with the same period of 1924-25.

A feature of the cheese trade was the increased demand from foreign buyers for well matured white and colored goods, and as the prices bid were higher than the previous week a moderate amount of business was done and the market was rather more active. This created a better demand for supplies on spot and the market closed firmer with early makes quoted at 21c to 21 1-2c per lb., and current receipts at 17 1-4c to 17 3-4c per lb.

The receipts of eggs in Montreal on Saturday were 1,822 cases as against 383 cases for the same day last week, and 358 cases for the corresponding day a year ago, while the arrivals for the week ending January 23, 1926, were 7,038 cases, as compared with 4,850 cases for the previous week, and 1,895 cases for the same week last year, but the total receipts from May 1 to date have been 22,693 cases smaller than the same period a year ago.

Egg Production Heavy

The past week has been an eventful one in the egg trade, unprecedented winter production more or less in almost every province, particularly in British Columbia has quite overtaken the demand for the time being. The overflow from British Columbia has reached as far east as Montreal and this with the heavy production in Ontario has upset consuming centres, with the result that prices in this market for strictly fresh eggs are the lowest they have been at this period of the year for many years past. The lower prices are now reaching the consumer, which will no doubt greatly increase the consumption. The net decline in prices for the week was 2c per dozen and the market was more active under an improved demand which indicates that the consumption is steadily increasing at the present level of prices.

The storage egg situation is somewhat demoralized as a result of the low prices ruling for fresh and the bad condition of the storage market in the United States coupled with a fear that they might dump some of their surplus here in the near future. Owing to the above and the liberal offerings from both local and outside holders of Canadian storage eggs a weak feeling has prevailed in the market, and prices during the past week dropped 3c to 4c per dozen, but even at the lower levels sellers found it somewhat difficult to make sales and the indications are that some severe losses will be made before they are all cleaned up.

LARGE DELEGATION HELPING CANDIDATE

Reeve Davidson Has Many Supporters in Wardenship Race.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 25—A large delegation will go from here tomorrow to Cobourg to help Reeve Charles H. Davidson in his candidature for the wardenship of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. Deputy-Reeve Palliser went to Toronto today but he will be back in Cobourg Tuesday in time for the election which will be held at night. If Campbellford fails to land the wardenship on Tuesday, an honor that this town has not had since C. L. Owen was warden 31 years ago, it will not be for lack of work on the part of Reeve Davidson and his friends as all have been busy since the municipal elections.

Over in Percy Township where Reeve McCubbin is a candidate he and his supporters are confident of victory. For the first time in years the Counties Council is evenly divided politically and as Reeves Davidson and McCubbin belong to opposite parties this adds to the interest with which the coming contest will be watched.

Canada has overtaken the United States in the manufacture of newsprint and has become the world's largest producer.

SANITATION HAS ADDED 13 YEARS TO LIFE OF MAN

Average Span Increased From 45 to 58 Years in Decade.

OTTAWA ADDRESS.

Dr. T. C. Routley Emphasizes Economic Loss From Preventable Sickness.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 25. Canadian Press. — The average span of life has been increased during the past decade from 45 to 58 years stated Dr. T. C. Routley, secretary of the Canadian Medical Association in an address to the members of the Canadian Club at their weekly luncheon on Saturday. Improved methods of sanitation as well as other hygienic methods have helped to accomplish these results, he said. Dr. Routley reviewed the activities of the Canadian Medical Association in the interests of improved national health, which he claimed as the country's greatest asset.

He maintained that Canada's most momentous problem to-day is immigration. Much depends upon the type of people admitted to Canada to help build up its population. He said that during the past four years he has covered Canada from coast to coast and he believed that the country is going soon to see the most prosperous period Canada has yet enjoyed. "There is undoubtedly a feeling of optimism," said Mr. Routley, "that Canada is at last coming into her own after the trying experiences following the war."

Huge Economic Loss.

Dr. Routley urged that what Canada will be 20 years hence depends largely upon what the people of today decide it shall be. He stated that 13,000,000 working days were lost in one year by the workers of Canada, resulting in enormous economic losses, through casual sickness, 35 per cent. of which, he averred, is preventable.

He urged the need of a unified national health programme. Canada has 9000 doctors on the firing line, he said, one per thousand of the population. The average practitioner who is not attempting to keep up with the advancement of the last 20 years in medical science, is not giving his people the best type of service to which they are entitled, he said. For country practitioners this is difficult, the speaker admitted, but the Canadian Medical Association during the present year is arranging to send academic teachers from all centres to carry the universities constantly and readily to men in practice. A large insurance corporation has given $30,000 to help carry on this work.

In closing he urged that the best can only be given by men who keep their bodies and minds alert, healthy and efficient for their daily tasks.

CANADIANS AGAIN LOST TEST MATCH

Were 34 Shots Down to the Scots in Second Test.

EDINBURGH, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press). — The visiting Canadian curlers Saturday lost the second test match played against Scotland and they were considerably disappointed thereat. The Canadian rinks had been strengthened since the first test match the previous Saturday, when they were defeated by 18 shots, and the overseas players confidently expected to win Saturday. They lost, however, by 34 shots.

J. G. MacDonald, Fort William, Ont., skip for one of the Manitoba rinks, whose continuous string of victories had been one of the noted features of the numerous games played between Canada and Scotland, went down to defeat for the first time since the series of matches began. He was defeated by 'Willie' Jackson by five shots.

Charles Bulley, Toronto, who had been playing in splendid form right along, was beaten Saturday by Tom Murray. Dr. S. T. White, Orangeville, Ont., and Col. A. Dell. Bell, Quebec, were many shots down. Joseph Dundas, Francis, Man., played an excellent game, but he was beaten by one shot on the last end.

The test match was witnessed by a large and distinguished gathering and the interest in the contest was keen throughout.

In 1917 Canada produced 689,847 tons of newsprint, while in 1924 the output amounted to 1,288,081 tons. For the first ten months of 1925 the output was 1,350,974 tons.

CARREL DISSENTS FROM BURBANK IDEA

Doctor Says Science and Religion Not in Conflict.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25. — Dr. Alexis Carrel, famous surgeon, does not concur in Luther Burbank's viewpoint of religion in relation to science. The famous horticulturist in a statement admitting he is an infidel, said "as a scientist I cannot help but feel that all religions are on a tottering foundation."

"Between true science and true religion there can be no conflict," said Dr. Carrel. "They operate in entirely distinct fields."

Dr. Carrel, discoverer of the Dakin solution which was of immense value during the World War, was a member of the staff of Rockefeller Institute.

The surgeon said he did not believe that "a theory of personal resurrection or reincarnation of the individual is untenable," as stated by Mr. Burbank, but insisted, in reference to his brief comment, that "religion is not a matter which can be dismissed so quickly."

Asked if, as Mr. Burbank, he believed there is no hell, Dr. Carrel laughed.

"That is a mere detail," he answered. "I know Mr. Burbank. He is a fine man."

Professor Phelps Retorts.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 25. — Luther Burbank's statement that "religions are on a tottering foundation everywhere" could be answered in one sentence, Professod William Lyon Phelps of Yale College said. He added:

"I think the Christian religion will survive Mr. Burbank's attack."

Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale Divinity School, a friend of Mr. Burbank, declined any comment because of personal friendship.

CANADIAN SOCIETY NEW YORK DINNER

Sir Esme Howard and Sir Robert Borden Were Speakers.

NEW York, Jan. 25. — Canadian Press. — World peace and the homogenity of the British Empire, were themes of speakers at the dinner of the New York Canadian Socieyt on Friday night.

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to Washington, declared that there is little chance of realization of "The Prophecies of Croakers," about an early dissolution of the component parts of the Empire.

Sir Robert Borden, Canada's wartime Premier, paid a tribute to the work of the League of Nations, but found the greatest hope for world peace, not in peace treaties and the pacts of nations, but in the spirit which brought them about. Sir Robert making a reference to the mutual good will which existed between Canada and the United States, said that had he remained at the helm of Canadian affairs, the Dominion would by this time have had a minister at Washington.

PROHIBITION AND CRIME DISCUSSED

U. S. Attorney General Says People Bribe Criminals To Break Laws.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Attorney General Sargent has studied the relationship of prohibition and crime waves and has reached the conclusion that there is logic in the position of the person who, paid a bribe by respectable citizens for breaking the liquor laws, continues, with a career of crime.

In the first public discussion of prohibition enforcement since taking charge of the Department of Justice, Mr. Sargent asked the members of the New York State Bar Association whether, "it is any wonder that banditry, murder, bribery and corruption flourish", when decent citizens constantly are paying the criminally inclined to take the risk of violating other laws.

BOYS NOT ILL.

OTTAWA, Jan. [illegible] (Canadian Press) — Another sheep in M. J. If it died it will be the eighth of Mr. Hendrick's herd to fall a victim, while eight head of cattle belonging to Wadson Hammond, Ironsides, have also died from the same disease, which is generally known as hydrophobia. Three boys were bitten by a dog that was found to have rabies. The boys, however, are not ill. MYSTERY MESSAGE UNCOVERED BY PRIZE WINNERS SATURDAY

Miss Margaret Taylor and Mrs. G. G. Eason Win City Awards, and Archie Cocks and Mrs. W. Fitzgerald Win in Country.

MANY OTHERS CAME NEAR SOLUTION.

Clue Was the Stub of a Theatre Ticket Around Which the Plot in a New Examiner Serial is Built—Another Contest Tomorrow and a Third Later.

The mystery is solved.—The cat is out of the bag.

Two people in the city, and two in the country, followed the clue in Saturday's paper through the mazes of the cross-word puzzle, and unearthed the hidden message. And this is what they found:

"READ THE YELLOW STUB IN THE EXAMINER."

Several others found the message too, but they were too late to win prizes. The first solution in the city was handed in at The Examiner office at 7.35 p.m., on Saturday night and the second followed at 8.40. Only two correct solutions have been received from country readers, so they take the prizes. Here are the winners:

City.

Miss Margaret Taylor, 553 Harvey street (7.35 p.m.)

Mrs. G. G. Eason, Otonington Road, (8.40 p.m.)

Country.

Archie Cocks, R. R. 1, Smith.

Mrs. W. Fitzgerald, R. R. 1, Port Hope.

Nearly Correct or Late.

Others who sent in the correct solutions, but too late, were:

Lawrence McCarthy, 193 Reid street.

Robert Dow, 184 Dalhousie street.

D. White (no address given.)

Mrs. John Storie, Campbellford, was very nearly correct, reading the message: "Read Yellow Stub in the proceeding Examiner." Very ingenious is the message unearthed by Miss Mabel Bacon, 202 Edinburgh street: "Re Stub, read the rest in Examiner." Another piece of advice is given by Cyril Huard, 423 Driscoll Terrace: "Bank the Stub; read the entire Examiner." Recognizing a mystery, and remembering one of the greatest mystery plays to appear in Peterborough, Mrs. C. McBride, 180 Antrim street, came near the correct solution with "Read the Yellow Bat proceeding in Examiner." A piece of advice with which no one will quarrel, is given by Miss Catherine Huard 423 Driscoll Terrace: "Read the entire Examiner, not the stub." Joe Huard of the same address, sent the same solution. One that was nearly in the prize winning class was brought in by Henry Dearborn, 675 Bethune street: "Read the Examiner re the Yellow Stub." Among those who decided the message was "Read the Entire Proceeding in the Examiner" were Violet Goddard, 312 Charlotte street; Howard Allison, 593 Bethune street; Elziva Irvine, 247 Aylmer street; and a little boy from Lakefield who phoned in his solution on Saturday afternoon.

It is evident that most of the competitors decided upon the word "Stub" as the most significant—and they will find before the new serial ends that the yellow stub plays a leading part in the unravelling of the greatest mystery plot the Examiner has presented in this form.

What is the Yellow Stub.

The Yellow Stub is the name of a new serial and the name is taken from the big clue. The story is really thrilling, but interwoven in it is as pretty and dramatic a romance as has ever been printed. None will soon forget "The Flapper Wife," but for real thrill and heart interest, you will find "The Yellow Stub" par excellence.

"The Yellow Stub" starts in The Examiner on Saturday, with a full page instalment, fully illustrated. Read it yourself and send it to your friends.

More Competitions.

There will be another competition, not connected with "The Yellow Stub" in Tuesday's Examiner, and in this one speed counts too. Accuracy first of course, but the first solutions received win the prizes.

Then will follow, within a few weeks, on a date not yet decided, a real detective competition based on the opening instalments of "The Yellow Stub." More numerous prizes of a different class will be offered but you will have no chance to win unless you have kept up with "The Yellow Stub" day by day.

In Peterborough Churches

AT THE GOSPEL HALL.

(Contributed.)

A large congregation listened last evening to evangelist Hugh Kane speak on the subject, "The Devil in Disguise."

The speaker said in part as follows:

"There are some who teach that there is no devil; if so, we have nothing to discuss, and there is much in the Bible that is not true. If there is no devil, many of the New Testament writers were sadly mistaken, including the Lord Jesus Christ, who, perhaps, more than anyother, according to the records, spoke of the existence of the devil. Jesus too, met him face to face in the temptation in the wilderness, and overcame him. His apostles, especially Peter, Paul and John, wrote of the devil as a real person. The devil is a person, despite the philosophical teaching of the present day.

"Satan was a created cherub at the beginning, but he fell through pride. He wanted to be as God and was cast out as an unclean thing. He then became the enemy of God and of everything that pertained to God. When God made man and placed him in Eden we find Satan on the scene as the subtle, deceiving adversary of God's creatures, namely, Adam and Eve. We trace through Scripture his diabolical work as the enemy of God and man, ever trying to drag souls down to a lost eternity, until in the book of Revelation he is described as finding his destiny in the Lake of Fire.

"The devil's character is minutely described in the word of God. Peter calls him an adversary (1 Peter, 5:8) one who goes about as a roaring lion, seeking to devour. This he did in the days of Nero; also under 'bloody Mary.'" He roared under the guise of religion, when untold numbers of the saints, on the rack, in flames and floods [illegible]dom for their faith in [illegible]as an angel of light [illegible]. [illegible]el by [illegible]iness

Reading the [illegible] deliverance of [illegible]irb of false doc[illegible]d and apostate [illegible]er.

[illegible]y will be the Lake Revelation 20:10, [illegible]m and will not ac-cept Jesus Christ as their Savior will have to share that above in company with the devil forever and ever. Surely the unsaved sinner cannot feel proud of being in the service of such a master.

"Men don't believe in a devil now,
As their fathers used to do;
They've forced the door of the widest creed,
To let his majesty through.

There isn't a print of his clover foot,
Or a fiery dart of his bow;
To be found in the earth or the air today,
For the world has noted it so.

They say he doesn't go about
As a roaring lion now;
But whom shall we hold responsible
For the everlasting row
To be heard in home and church and state
To the earth's remotest bound?
If the devil, by a unanimous vote,
Is nowhere to be found.

Who is it mixes the fatal draft,
That palsies heart and brain,
And loads the bier, of each passing year
With ten hundred thousand slain?
Who blights the bloom of the land today
With the fiery breath of hell,
If the devil wasn't and never was Won't somebody rise and tell?

Who dogs the steps of the toiling saint,
And digs the pits for his feet?
Who sows the tares in the fields of time
Wherever God sows His wheat?
The devil was noted not to be,
And of course the thing is true;
But who is doing the kind of work
The devil used to do?

Won't somebody step to the front forthwith,
And make his bow and show
How the frauds and crimes of a single day
Spring up? we want to know.
The devil was fairly voted out,
And of course the devil's gone,
But simple folks would like to know
Who carries his business on."

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"Amen, I say unto you, that I have not found so great faith in Israel," was the text which formed the basis of Rev. Father Costello's sermon at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday. The miracles performed by Christ when He cured the leper, and, on the same day, the servant of the centurion, were recounted in the Gospel for the day. The first miracle had to do with the curing of a Jew, the second with a Gentile.

"Without faith, it is impossible to please God. Without faith, religion is a mere hoax. God said, "You honor Me with your lips, but your hearts are far from Me." Sometimes petitions are presented to God by word of mouth only. The prayer does not come from the heart or the spirit. When we receive holy communion with faith in our souls, we are animated by the same spirit as that which caused the leper and the centurion to put their trust in Christ."

Sometimes, when God refuses to grant the favors asked for, we murmur and complain, not realizing that God sees that what we ask would be injurious to our lives and our spiritual salvation. We need God's grace and help at all times, and this comes to the soul mainly through prayer. When we ask God for a favor, we should do with the reservation that it will be beneficial to our souls. Often, we petition the Father, without making allowance for what He desires in our regard.

"A Catholic should put his religion into practice in his daily life. He should be honorable and truthful, pure and charitable and humble, not speaking wrongfully of his neighbor or his character, and striving at all times to be an example to his fellow-men."

IN POLICE COURT

Two local men appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning on a charge of being drunk. A fine of $20 and costs was exacted from each as a result. The first to take the stand said that he had obtained his intoxicant from the man in the dock. He also testified that it was beer and that he had taken it between 8 and 9 o'clock. After that he had gone to the hockey match feeling none the worse but later in a restaurant the beer began its insidious work and after midnight he and his friends were escorted to the cells. Police Chief Newhall in his inquiry asked the accused if he recognized a certain signed statement which he had given Detective Meagher. He recognized it but it was not true. He had made the statement, implicating another man so that he could escape the toils of the police.

The other man told substantially the same story.

J. A. O'Brien for the defense said that the reaction of the beer was quite natural. The two men had gone out into the cold after drinking and later proceeded to the rink. The cold storage conditions of the atmosphere would delay the process of intoxication; when the men went into the restaurant later the heat naturally brought on a state of nausea. Mr. O'Brien said that the odor of frying food would induce that the more speedily.

Chief Newhall in reply said that it was all "rot." He declared it was impossible to believe that anyone could drink at 9o'clock and feel no effects of it until after 12.00. If it didn't take effect in three quarters of an hour it never would, he said.

"Twenty and costs," said the magistrate.

Fall In Trading Volume Recorded To-day In N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press). — Constructive forces were again at wor kin today's stock market, but the trading showed marked falling off in volume. Indications of easy money rates, for some time to come and the recent drastic reduction in brokers' loans, combined with favorable trade reports and a new assertment of merger and dividend rumors, encouraged a resumption of pool operations in a number of specialties.

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—Several stocks were substantially advanced in exceptionally heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Transactions during the morning session were close to the half million mark, with Barry Hollinger, Kirkland Lake, and Castle Tretheway having the largest turnovers. Barry was sold up 3 1-2 at 28, Castle seven at 165, and Beaver 4 1-2 at 69. Other outstanding gains were Chaput Hughes, 1 1-4 at 18, Kirkland Lake seven at 115 and Premier three at 225.

Brazilian Was Centre Of Activity At Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—(Canadian Press.)— Activity on the Toronto Exchange this morning centred around Brazilian Traction which sold to 84 7-8. City Dairy advanced one and a half at 77 1-2. Vipond advanced to 195. International Nickel, British Columbia Fishing and Mackay preferred all gained fractionally, and Consolidated Smelters advanced a point at 188. Canners common eased a point at 12.

Weakness At Liverpool Carried May Wheat Down

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press).—Unexpected weakness of quotations at Liverpool carried wheat values downward here to-day during early dealings. An interesting development was the fact that July and September deliveries here representing the 1926 harvest rather than wheat already on hand, were relatively firm as compared with May. Opening prices, which ranged from 1¼c decline to ¼c advance, May 169½ to 170¼, and July 147 7-8 to 148, were followed by a general set-back in which May touched 168 3-4 and July 146 5-8.

Corn and oats were easy, sympathizing with wheat, although corn specialists pointed out that corn on the hoof—that is, cattle and hogs — is worth well over $1 a bushel. After opening ¼c to ½c down, May 83 3-8c to 83½c, the corn market underwent a moderate further decline.

Oats started unchanged to 1-8c off, May 44½c, and later sagged all around.

Higher quotations on hogs upheld the provision market.

DEBATE IN HOUSE TO LAST ALL WEEK

Expected That Government Will Hold By-Elections One By One.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—Present indications are that the debate in the House of Commons on the address will last all week and well into the week following. F. P. Quinn, Conservative of Halifax, will take up the discussion this afternoon. It had been generally believed that if the Government were successful in carrying the address it would at once ask for an adjournment in order to carry through the bye-elections necessary for Cabinet organization. It is now, however, considered not unlikely that the Government will introduce its legislation without seeking an adjournment and will hold the bye-elections one by one.

CAMP AHMEK IS DESCRIBED FOR THE ROTARIANS

Rotarian Roy Tells of Visit To Taylor Statten's Boys' Camp.

WONDERFUL RESULTS.

Urges Use of Rotarians' Sons as Leaders at Clear Lake.

In the course of a most interesting address on the activities at Camp Ahmek, Taylor Statten's famous boys' camp in Algonquin Park, before the Peterborough Rotary Club, Rotarian Fred L. Roy urged Rotarians who were the fathers of sons, to consider the question fo having them act as leaders at the Rotary Boys' Camp at Clear Lake.

Rotarian Roy pointed out that they had one of the best equipped and best located camps in the country, and one of the finest directors in Herb Mowat, but while it could not be expected that the same results could be obtained in two weeks as were obtained by Taylor Statten in two months, there was much that could be done if the director could be assisted by proper boy leaders. These he thought could be found among the sons of Rotarians.

The speaker's graphic description of the wonders of Camp Ahmek, where each summer some 250 boys, ranging in ages from 7 to 18 years, are gathered, was much appreciated by the Rotarians, being of additional interest because of the fine photographs of camp scenes and incidents that were passed around by Rotarian Roy. The latter had visited the camp last summer so that he was able to give in detail the routine of camp life and explain much of the system by which Taylor Statten, the foremost boys' work exponent, on the continent of America, was able to get such wonderful results. He paid a tribute to the work as leaders of the Peterborough boys, Alan Neal, Bob Fower and Harry Ebbs, who were on the staff at Ahmek last summer, and said that they were popular with the boys and had earned the admiration of the directorate.

Two weeks from to-day will be Farmers' Day, and each Rotarian will have as his guest a well known farmer from the district.

Mr. T. P. Lancaster, village clerk, addressed the board, drawing the attention of the board to the fact that Reeve Curtis had during the past two years so successfully worked in the interests of the schools at the county council that they were enjoying the benefits derived from special grants amounting to $900 during the past two years. He further said that the question of grants to High and Continuation schools for the present year were very much in the air as the school committee of the county council for the year 1925 was recommending that no more special grants be made to High and Continuation schools from the county.

Mr. Lancaster further emphasized the need of the trustees supporting Reeve Curtis to the fullest extent of their ability to secure a special grant for this year.

Moved by the secretary, seconded by Trustee Roche, that Mr. Lancaster's address be received and that the board express its appreciation of the successful efforts of the reeve in securing special grants for the Continuation school and expressing its desire to extend to the reeve its utmost support in putting the needs of the Havelock Continuation school before the county council.

Peterboro's long projected auto bus and street car service was launched on Sunday and seemed to meet with the approval of its first passengers. Two one-man cars operated on George street, providing a twenty minute service, and two buses. On week days three street cars and three buses will be used speeding up the service to fifteen minutes, except during the rush hours of 6 to 9 a.m., 11.30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5 to 6 p.m., when it will be "stepped up" to 10 minutes.

The old reliable "16" will be missed off the Jackson Park line, but it is replaced by bus accomodation. On the C.G.E. line "13" and "14" have ceased their jolting, and two buses have been allotted to their runs which are extended to take in the Ashburnham territory. There will be no street cars on this line except the noon special and at five o'clock.

With the change in public transportation in this city, a reference to the personnel has surely been well deserved by the long and courteous service of those employees who have been in daily contact with the public.

Eight of the junior men, those who were last engaged have been discharged. Those who are still retained are the oldest men in the service. They were given the choice of runs according to seniority, that is, senior conductor has first choice of conductors' runs, and first motorman choice of the motormen's runs and so on down till all the runs were filled.

Harry Smith, who has been performing on the C.G.E. line since November, had first choice, he having almost twenty years of service. He took the two-man car on Charlotte street, which will operate in place of the two one-man cars.

Walter Jarvis as the veteran motorman, chose as his job the "derail" at the C.N.R. crossing on Lock street.

"Paddy" McGrath also chose the "derail" and will assist Walter Jarvis, working 8½ hours each. One man works from 6 a.m. till 2.30 p.m., when the other will work from 2.30 till 11 p.m.

Jack Donnelly chose to be motorman on Charlotte and will work with Harry Smith from 6 to 2.30, when they will be relieved by Fred Turner and Lew Fry.

W. J. Young chose his old reliable "35" which will operate on George street. He also will work from 6.00 to 2.30, and will be relieved by G. F. Davey from 2.30 to 11.00.

"Bob" Guthrie, who has been piloting "34" on Charlotte street refused to desert his "bus" and will still be on the "front end" where he will be at home to all his old friends, with the same cheery smile.

Walter Sedgwick will handle "34" at night and will give the job his usual undivided attention.

Arthur Robinson will be the extra man on these cars, that is, he will take the place of any of the one-man operators, who will be off for any reason.

One extra will be handled by the two "Bills", Meredith and Whitworth, who have been on "31" for the last 3 months.

The buses will be handled by some of the younger men. Seniority applies here also in choice of runs. The men who operate the buses have all passed the usual tests prescribed by law and also the medical examiantion which all Hydro employees must pass.

This combined bus and street car system should give good service as all roads are open to the buses and there is no costly upkeep of track and trolley wire. The decline of business in the street cars has not been due to the 7-cent fare, as many think, although it was a contributory cause, but to the decrease in the number of working men, who are the supporters of all public utilities. Such is the considered opinion of employees of the system.

It is hoped that conditions will demand even an increased service in the near future.

Said one of the employees discussing the loss of patrons: "Another angle of the situation is the obliging friend, who when you are waiting for a street car will drive up and offer you a ride in his car. But it is noticeable that an old lady or a crippled person is rarely offered a ride. It is always somebody who is young and good looking. There is also another cause, the private bus picking up passengers wherever he can. All these causes have affected the services. The obliging friend doesn't bring his car out in the winter, however."

The street railway crews have been invariably courteous and attentive to the patrons. They will be missed in those parts of the city from which the old cars have been removed, and it may be said with assurance that they will continue to merit the goodwill of the public, and the confidence of John McCann who selected them.

British Columbia's salomn pack for 1925 was valued at approximately $12,500,000 for 1,612,,900 cases.

TRIBE OF CANADIAN INIDANS AWARDED $100,000 BY STATES

Says Private Advice To Ottawa Respecting Claims Comission.

FROM REVOLUTION.

Cayugas Adhered to British Cause and Driven Out of New York.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Private advices have been received here that the pecuniary claims commission, which concluded its sittings at Washington on December 23 last has handed down judgement awarding the Cayuga Indians of Canada $100,000 in settlement of their claim against the State of New York. The claim is an old one originating in the time of the American revolution. The Cayugas formed one of the tribes which went to make up the six nations and at the time of the revolution dwelt in the state of New York. Most of them adhered to the British cause and in 1779 a revolutionary general named Sultivan devastated their territory forcing the Indians to take refuge under the guns of Fort Niagara. Later they removed to Grand River near Brantford where General Haldimand had granted them a strip of territory.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young gentleman of about 18 years. I am considered very good looking, and I know that I could be quite popular with the young ladies, as I am a very good dancer, but for one reason which I come to you for advice about. I have black hair which is inclined to stand straight up on my head, and I can not make it lie down no matter how much time I spend on it. Please tell me what I could do to make myself an attractive swain. Would it be proper for me to explain to the young ladies that my hair will not stay down?

Hoping to have a speedy reply as the sooner this matter is remedied, the better for my popularity.

I remain, yours truly,

"TRADDLES."

TRADDLES: Did you ever try lard? And brand would do, as long as it is unscented. Or vaseline—but of course, lard is cheaper. I wouldn't worry too much about it, if I were you. Anyone can have slick hair. It must give you a dramatic and somewhat thrilling appearance to have hair that persists in standing straight up. Something quite out of the ordinary, as far as my experience goes, at least.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens working in an office. The manager is a married man but he is continually forcing his attentions on me. He asks me to luncheon nearly every day and although I refuse he persists in asking me. What am I to do? It is a good position and I hate to give it up. Hoping to receive advice from you concerning this.

DODO.

DODO: If the man is married, and you do not care for him, you shouldn't have much difficulty in rejecting his advances, although it is an unpleasant situation when one is employed under such an individual. Tell him that you are very much in love with some young man, even if you have to make up an imaginary person, and describe him as being exactly opposite to your wedded admirer. Most philanderers of this type are ruled by vanity and if your injure their egotism, they will not think so much of you. If you can't do anything else, however, get another position, or leave this one without any prospects ahead of you, no matter how good it is, rather than injure your soul and your reputation to sidestep a difficulty that should be faced plainly, without any equivocation. It is quite likely, anyway, that you have given the man a certain amount of encouragement, or he would hardly persist in such attentions. Think it over.

FASHION NEEDS.

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (United Press).

'A rag, a bone and a hank of hair'
Won't tend to make a Lady Fair!

She needs the breast of a crocodile,
A whale's fourth rib in corset style,
The jewels of a chief,
The loot of a thief,
The hide of a cow that's been sold into beef,
A bargam sale,
An ostrich tail,
A muskrat that's been bleached till pale:
Weasels, reptiles, skunks and lizards—
Make the modern females wizards.

Woe to the animal world when Dame Fashion takes a hand in framing fashions for the Fair Sex! A glance at the advertisements in the daily papers proves our cannibalistic instincts in fashions. Furred animals of every description, from field mouse to monkey are bereft of their hides and turned into wraps. Reptiles and sharks are skinned and fashioned into shoes and handbags. Birds minus plumage sadly stalk about until another season provides them with new feathers to be plucked for boas and bonnets. One little evening wrap is trimmed with the tails of a hundred weasels. Unborn lamb makes jacquettes for the elite who can afford such luxuries. And not content with nature's fur colorings, Dame Fashion dyes the chipmunk red, the ermine brown, the fox pale orchid.

Further and further we go for our finery. Into the hills of Tibet for old Llama robes, to Morocco for belts of 18th century chieftains, to Peking for old Mandarin coats and buckles, to the churches for old altar cloths which may be used as trimming.

Dame Fashion decrees that women shall be more—far more—than a rag, a bone and a hank of hair! She shall accept the offering of silk worms, she robs the oyster of its pearls, she beats gold to tissue thinness and weaves it into threads for evening gowns and even the household Tabby-cat is not immune from her voracious demand

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A GORGEOUS EVENING FROCK.

The things Madame is making now already have an advance air of Spring about them.

Today she called me into one of the fitting rooms.

"I'm making a frock for Miss Miller, who happens to be exactly your size," Madame explained.

The half-made frock, with many white basting threads was lying across a chair, and I understood at once that I was to put it on.

The dress slipped on over my head, and Madame helped me to pull it down in place, as the wide girdle at the hips was quite right.

"It makes me think of the new elastic girdles," I said, with a smile. "When I bought one the other day, the corsetiere assured me the best way to get into step-ins was to put them on over the head!"

"You shouldn't compare my lovely new model to a corset," Madame answered, reprovingly.

"I only think that if one has not extremely trim hips, this frock should be worn over a girdle," I answered.

Madame assured me that Miss Miller did possess lovely slim hips, and as I am just her size, I took this as an indirect compliment.

The frock which I'm almost forgetting to describe, is of the loveliest quality black satin imaginable, and the lace is very heavy, square mesh cream lace, with a solid design of roses and leaves forked into the mesh.

"You see, this lace gives such a fresh, Spring-like touch to the frock. I knew Miss Miller would love it," Madame explained.

Then she instructed me to walk away from her, so she could get the swing of the frock in motion.

"All the smart frocks of the day express motion," Madame remarked to me. "That's why I have the free, full movement imparted by that front flounce cut on the circular."

"This lace inset also gives the effect of the gypsy girdles that are so good at the moment," I remarked.

Miss Miller is a slight blonde, who parts her hair in the middle and draws it low down on her neck in the back, and I know she will look lovely in the slim black dress.

She came in just when I was about to take the frock off, and insisted that I parade up and down for her, so she could get the full effect of the frock.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How To Speedily Gain Strength and Put On Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But no body wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Bond's Drug Store or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Live Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets—60 cents.

TWO IMMORTAL MEMORIES

January Twenty-fifth is St. Paul's Day as Well as R. Burn's Anniversary—A Brief Review of the Custo of the Two Great Emancipators.

(By S. L.)

January 25th, to many Scotsmen and to many God-fearing people is a day of great importance in every year. In the latter case, it is St. Paul's Day and in the former, is the birthday of Robert Burns, Scotia's darling poet, who first saw the light of day in the "auld Clay briggin" near Ayr., Scotland, in the year 1759, one hundred and twenty-six years ago.

'Two Immortal Memories."

As a coincidence, "The Conversion of St. Paul and birth of "The Immortal Burns" is worth remembering in our daily life. No matter what part of the hemisphere you may traverse there you will find the Scots, with "His Bible and His Burns" in his library, to be his constant friend.

ST. PAUL A TENT-MAKER.

According to the Book of Acts, St. Paul was a tent-maker, and in very early Christian times he became the patron saint of upholsterers. In mediaeval days, the upholsterers celebrated their patron saint on January 25th, with great rejoicings, and it is not so long since that the craft in the old continent held annual festivals and kindred entertainments in his honour on that evening, but the custom of Robert Burns' anniversary is still held to the fore, while St. Paul's references has fallen into the discard. The upholsterers had an old song which was regularly sung on these occasions, and one verse is worth repeating:—

"And every true upholster
His maxim will uphold
By bold design to charm the eye,
And many a graceful fold."

The song was sung to the tune of "The Garb of Old Paul." In the old days an upholsterer was many a time called an "upholder."

Weather Forecast.

St. Paul's day was notable for the belief, even in this age which appears to have originated in the Middle Ages that the weather on this day is prophetic of what is to happen during the course of the year. Thus there is the old rhyme:—

"If St. Paul's day be fair and clear
It doth betide a happy year
But if it chance to snow or rain
Then will be dear all kinds of grain;
If clouds or mist do dark the sky
Great store of birds and beasts will die
And if the winds do fly aloft
Then war shall vex the kingdome oft."

As a rather remarkable illustration of these lines let us take a few instances. On January 25th 1759 a wind "blew hausel in on Robin" and the year which succeeded was historically notable for its military triumphs. There is also many instances which corroborate with this eventful occasion.

BURNS—POET AND PEASANT.

Robert Burns blossomed forth in many directions as a writer but it is the Poet of International Friendship that he is coming more and more into his kingdom.

His poems and songs are racy of the [illegible] soil and deal with the joys and s[orrows] the amusements and pleasures ambitions and hopes of the co[mmon] people.

Burns is specially strong in his quick brain readily realize[d] chiefly by ridicule could the peo[ple] roused to abhor the narrowness a[nd] weakness of those in high place[s] of those established customs and which were objectionable to fr[eedom] and progress.

His pathos was equal to his [humour] and represents what is best in t[he] and habits of the people of Sco[tland] The humorous poems of Burns true and are illustrative of the m[anners] and manners of this time?

But it is in his love poems and aspirations for a better and human form of national life and that he appeals to the ever-incr[easing] number of his admirers. 'Tis a pity that more local citizens d[o] master and go deeper into his although "Rabbie" has many p[ro] "admirers" who swear by his The stand of Burns for fraterni[ty] dears him to all people and race[s] have a sense of freedom and indivi[du] This is why our cousins to the so[uth] us—United States—with their go[od] sense of monopolising things, taken so splendidly to the stra[ins] Burns' slogans of freedom.

Eloquent Tributes.

What eloquent tributes have paid to the genius of the Bard o[f] by Whittier, Lowell and Longf[ellow] The sentiments of equality and f[ra]nity expressed by Burns have st[ill] appealed to the instincts of all Americans. Like all other great especially poets and prophets. H[e] was not so universally appreciate his own day as his writings entitled to be.

A Greater Recognition.

But nowadays, the development the people's tastes in education, m[an]ners and aspirations for a higher life, h[as] brought about a greater recognitio[n] the genius and spirit of Burns.

The Home Kitchen

By Jeannette Norton

INTERESTING EGG DISHES.

Inasmuch as eggs contain all the desired nutriment needed for the support of the body, are without waste and are easily cooked, it is worth while studying egg cookery. Being highly concentrated nourishment, potatoes, bread and other starchy food for bulk needed must be added. Nine eggs are equivalent to one pound of juicy steak, so we can choose our egg recipes on this basis.

Baked Potatoes with Eggs.

Wash and bake six medium-sized potatoes after oiling over the skins. When done, cut a slice off the ends, scoop out the potato, mash and season with butter, pepper and salt. Add a teaspoonful of finely minced ham and potato. Stuff the potatoes with the mixture and place them in the oven on a buttered plate to reheat. Meanwhile poach six eggs and put the potatoes on a hot dish and place an egg over each. Garnish with sprays of parsley and dainty croutons.

Eggs au Gratin.

Break six fresh eggs onto a buttered shallow baking dish. Sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese. Turn a well-made cream sauce with a h[ard] boiled egg chopped through it. Sprin[kle] with fine crumbs, dust with a li[ttle] pepper and salt, sprinkle with a li[ttle] more cheese and dot with a few [small] lumps of butter and bake a del[icate] brown. Serve at once.

Curried Eggs.

Boil six fresh eggs hard. Melt tablespoonfuls of butter and work i[n] it two tablespoonfuls of flour in wh[ich] a half teaspoonful of salt, a half t[ea]spoonful of curry powder, a little pep[per] and a saltspoonful of sugar have be[en] mixed. Stir and cook for two minut[es] then add a cupful of rich hot mi[lk] When smooth, add the boiled eggs c[ut] in quarters and when hot add th[e] tablespoonfuls of hot cream and t[hen] into a hot dish. The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

How often do you hear women say, "Oh, dear, I just can't seem to find the time to be beautiful! So and so keeps her nails in the pink of condition, and treats her hair every night and always looks so neat and dainty. I simply can't do it!"

My answer is that, of course, the person who sits down and says she can't do a thing will never do it. But if she tries, what possibilities are hers!

Now, I will admit that painstaking care of the person comes easier to some than to others. Some women may be perfectly miserable when women just as nice don't seem to feel bad when they find their nails in that condition, because they are more haphazard by disposition, I suppose.

This makes me think of a perfectly delightful young person I know, who really is quite untidy about her personal appearance. Her disposition is, as I say, delightful, but how much better off she would be if she would school herself in these small ways of beauty, just as I am advising my readers to do now. So often I hear people say, "Why does Jane go around with nails that are positively dirty!" or "How pretty Jane would be if she gave herself half a chance," or "I really have no sympathy for that girl; she lets herself look such a mess."

Now, these little remarks are being passed on to you, in the hope that you will derive a lesson therefrom.

I will admit that it is more difficult for some people to watch all these little things than it is for others. Some are what we call naturally orderly and neat about their persons. Others seem to be naturally the other way.

But there really is no excuse for the latter person if she does not take herself in hand and mend her ways and incidentally her beauty. She can go about it quietly, one item at a time, and I am sure she will be surprised how easy it comes, once she gets the hang of it.

Then, too, what pride she can take in her accomplishment when she finds her friends sincerely complimenting her looks. She will know that it comes simply from her hard-fought battle. She will know that the looks were always there, but that she has just been learning how to reveal them.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Babies are remarkably sensitive to mistakes in feeding. Adults are, too, but they are not so easily upset as babies.

As we grow older we get sort of hardened to what is going on inside us, but babies are not so. Their inward organs rebel if the feeding is wrong, even for a day or two.

Constipation and diarrhea are evidences of wrong feeding. If either condition becomes conspicuous it is time to inquire into the feeding methods used.

Give a grown-up person too much sugar or too much fat and constipation is likely to result. If the baby is constipated, you must be suspicuous at once that fat and sugar are too abundantly supplied. I refer, of course, to the bottle-fed baby.

The top milk or cream should be omitted. The mixture less rich in fat is likely to overcome the trouble. This reduction in fat will probably cause the intestines to resume their normal function.

If the fat reduction does not work, then you may return to the use of cream and cut down on the sugar. The infant may be getting two ounces or more of sugar every day. One ounce is probably quite enough.

You may think I am inconsistent when I say at this point that a lack of fat and sugar may be productive of constipation. It is true, nevertheless. If the food mixture is "too weak" there may not be supplied sufficient vitality to make the muscular efforts worth while. The muscles of the intestinal walls will be weak, too. In consequence constipation may exist.

On this account if no sugar has been added to the milk mixture, it should be done. Likewise a little more top milk may be used. Underfeeding should be avoided.

Orange juice is a great corrective of constipation in infants. At first give a little, perhaps half a teaspoonful, but after a time more and more juice may be given. In time the juice of a half orange may be given twice a day.

It is just as important to cultivate regularity in a baby as it is in an adult. The child should be placed on the vessel at regular times. It will not be long before the infant will respond. It is a rather common practice in certain sections to give the baby boiled milk. Perhaps it started with the treatment of diarrhea and for some reason its use has been continued. In constipation, the boiled milk should be discarded.

A little study and a lot of common sense will make it easy to keep Master Baby feeling fit and fine.

GREEK GOVERNMENT RAISES FORCED LOAN

Reduces Value of All Bank Notes By 25 Per Cent.

ATHENS, Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press).—Greeks awoke yesterday to learn that they all had become creditors of the Government by virtue of a decree issued Saturday evening proclaiming that a forced internal loan of 1,250,000 drachmai will be raised by reducing the nominal value of bank notes in circulation by 25 per cent, except in the case of money deposited and notes in circulation amounting to 25 drachmai and under.

The drachmai nominally is valued at about 1½ cents.

HOARD'S RINK OFFICERS.

Chas. Hoard Chosen Chairman on Friday.

BURNTSAE, Jan. 25 — The cold weather of the past few days has put the finishing touch on the ice at Hoard's, and the rink surface is now in good condition for skating. A meeting of those interested in the rink management was held on Friday evening and the following officers were elected:

President—Chas. Hoard; tresurer, John Page; secretary, Frank Heagle; directors, Harold Johnston and Wm. Hurst.

The Maple Hockey Club have entered a team in the Campbellford Town League and plans are being laid for the team. Practice starts immediately on the Hoard's ice and the first game will probably be played this week. The team line-up is still somewhat uncertain, as Johnson, the old forward, is claimed by the Hydro and this leaves a big hole in the Maple clan. Shillinglaw, the star defence player, will be available, and Rev. L. Daniel has been transferred to the Menie club. He will probably play goal position, which was apparently not attractive to many local sports. Rannie, Hume, Linn, Eagleson and Hay of the old guard, will probably be starters in the first game, and the weak sub list will be recruited as the season wears on. Local sportsmen are getting behind the team and pulling for them to stand high in the league race.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BILLY MEETS A NEW FRIEND.

"What kind of an animal is a M-a-l-l-a-n-g-o-n-g, I'd like to know?" Blly exclaimed, as he looked at the sign tacked up on the fence of the Zoo.

Just then a queer looking creature came from behind a stone and stared at him.

He was not quite two feet long, with soft, fine, deep-brown fur on his back and a light shade of tan on the under part of his body. He had a bill shaped like a duck's, only this queer creature's bill was covered with skin. All four feet were webbed, and his tail was short, thick and pointed.

"Hello, there, Mr. Mallangong," said Billy, bowing politely, "How are you this morning?"

"Just fine," replied Mr. Mallangong. "You never saw anything like me before, did you? I could tell by the way you stared at me."

"I'm sorry if I seemed rude," apologized Billy. "Your feet area webbed and you have a bill like our duck's. I suppose you can swim."

"Certainly, I can wim," declared Mr. Mallangong. "I love the water. I live right here in the bank of this pond. Have you ever seen a Mallangong's house? Of course not,' he said, when Billy shook his head. "How stupid of me. I'm sure Mrs. Mallangong will be glad to meet you."

Billy looked around to make sure the keeper wasn't looking, then he opened the gate and followed Mr. Mallangong into a hole in the bank. They went through a long tunnel.

"I Live in the Bank."

Billy thought it must be at least fifty feet long, and he was glad when they came to the big room at the other end. Here, on a bed of dry grass and leaves, sat Mrs. Mallangong.

She was glad to meet Billy and crawled off her nest so he could peek at her treasures two lovely little eggs just about an inch long.

"Well, my goodness!" cried Billy. "I never would have suspected you of laying eggs!"

"Pshaw!" chuckled Mr. Mallangong. "I can tell you something funnier than that. When the young ones are hatched they attach themselves to their mother and are fed milk from the milk-glands in her skin. They grow very fast and as soon as they are old enough they begin to eat insects. The next thing we know they will be swimming around in the pond."

"Just reminds me," laughed Mrs. Mallangong, "did you bring me anything to eat."

"I'm going after something right now," chuckled Mr. Mallangong. Then he and Billy ran up the long tunnel into the sunlight once more.

Mr. Mallangong pushed his great big, flat bill into the mud after bugs and insects. He found so many, and crammed them into his cheek pouches until his face looked as if he had the mumps. He waved Billy good-by and disappeared in his doorway.

Billy thought of his own dinner and ran home in a hurry.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Calamity Jane's birthday party was a jolly affair.

She never guesesd a word of what was going on until the Twins escorted her to the dining room of Mister Havalook's house where all the guests were waiting.

There stood the birthday cake in the middle of the table, that black Dinah had made, with its one pink candle burning brightly in the middle. Miss Calamity, for all of her battered condition, was only one year old.

"Many happy returns!" cried all the dolls heartily as she entered.

"Oh, thank you all so much," said Calamity, proudly smoothing her wedding veil. She had it draped jauntily over one eye to hide the fact that her eyes didn't match.

"This is with my love," said Miss Raggedy, presenting Calamity with the newspaper rose she had made.

"It smells delicious," said Calamity. "I'm ever and ever so much obliged, I'm sure."

"I made it myself," said Miss Raggedy proudly. "It's flavored with vanilla. Mister Havalook gave me a few drops out of his bottle."

"Vanilla is my favorite perfume," said Calamity sweetly. "I'm sorry that I have no dress to pin it to, but it will look elegant behind my ear."

Then it was time for Mrs. Jiggs to present her gift.

"Here, my dear, put these on," said Mrs. Jiggs, producing a bean necklace from her pocket. "It is made from the very best navy beans, ten cents a pound, three for a quarter. Bean necklaces are positively ultra just now. You will be in the height of fashion."

"I'm sure of that, thank you, Mrs. Jiggs," said Calamity politely, but secretly wishing that Mrs. Jiggs had thought of giving her one of her three dresses instead. "Here I am without a stitch to my back but a wedding veil," she said to herself, "and that fat old thing with enough clothes to start a store! But I should be grateful for small blessings, I suppose, and she means well."

So Calamity smiled sweetly and allowed Nancy to tie the bean necklace in a neat bow behind.

"Here is something toward your trousseau," said Belinda, who was the next to wish Calamity many happy returns. And she held out a pink cotton stocking.

"Dear me! How kind of you!" said Calamity, who was genuinely pleased this time. "I'm sure it will be becoming. I used to have two when I was new—ahem—born, I should say, but my mistress took them off one day to see how they would look on the kitten. He flew out of the playroom and down the stairs and I have never seen them since."

Nobody reminded the poor thing that she had also lost both of her legs as well as her stockings, and that the legs she now owned were not mates, having been donated by Mister Havalook, who had hunted up odds and ends in his tinkering room to make her over.

Teddy gave her a brass curtain ring for a bracelet, which he had found in Hidy Go Land, and the Tin Soldier gave her a bit of paint which had chipped off his red boots. Miss Tootsie Mobb and Miss Crinoline didn't give her anything, which was mean, but Calamity pretended to be glad they didn't.

"Oh, ho! So you are having a party without me," said a new voice. "I have a warrant for your arrest."

It was Sniff Whisker, the rat.

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

George West Elected Chairman—Mrs. Jenkins Again is Secretary.

MADOC, Jan. 25.—A short meeting of the Public School Board was held on Thursday evening last. Members for this year are: Mrs. Jenkins and Messrs. G. West, F. Dafoe, J. Smith, J. Armstrong and C. All the dogs around us chase him and the cats will try to trace him as he flutters down to chirp his morning lay. I have really come to know him through the little crumbs I throw him, and I've never tried to frighten him away.

It is not the song he's singing, but the spirit that he's bringing. It is really hard to understand just why he so willingly rejoices when the God that gave our voices to the birds just seems to pass this fellow by.

Other birds will warble loudly, and they flit around so proudly that my little friend, by most folk, seems forgot. Yet the sparrow's worth is ample for he sets a good example: just be cheerful—make the best of what you've got.

A day of uncertainty and complications is the augury from the prevailing stellar mutations. The positions of the planets are not as hostile as they are indicative of perplexity. The mind will be lively and inventive, and the speech is likely to be brilliant and sarcastic. Inventions should come before the public for consideration. But promises may miscarry and small worries annoy.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of perplexity and small annoyance. The mind will be high pitched, leaning toward adventure, invention or metaphysics, but there may be setbacks to cherished hopes. A child born in this day should have a bright and original mind, given to exploration into new channels and into metaphysical research. It may encounter domestic disappointments.

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

By way of proving he is not the worst fighter in Europe, Georges Carpentier is back on this side doing a double with a guy named Paolinio.

* * *

Mr. Paolino is a fugitive from the cheese halls of the Pyreness Mountains and is noted for his ability to submit to knockouts lying either face up or face down, as the wind blows.

Mr. Paolino first attracted attention as a wood-chopper. His record shows he holds decisions at all weights over some of the greatest two-handed hall trees in Grand Rapids.

It is hard to predict what luck the celebrated kindling buster will have in this country, where men are men and muggs who pay real jack to see imported floppers flop are nine-karat saps.

* * *

Mr. Paolino's tumbling novelties will be under the elegant and authentic directon of Mons. Carpentier himself, who knows more about tumbling than the Boston Red Sox and the January wheat market.

It is said Carpentier's greatest difficulty was to get Mr. Palolino to remain in a recumbent attitude long enough for the official clocker to squirt out 10 seconds.

* * *

Mr. Paolino, in the beginning, was given to impetuosity and insisted on jumping out of the ring as soon as his opponent started a punch and running for the cash register.

* * *

This is no longer the policy of the gifted wood and fuel man from the Pyrenees; he collects in advance and takes his knockouts as they come, which is usually with great. frequency and from all directions.

This is, incidentally, Mons. Carpentier's fifth dollar-spearing expedition to the gold fields of the knuckle- tossing world ....His motto is a good fish out to be fed plenty of worms.

The Sappy Syncopators will now distort that popular irritation: "You may be a champion to your home folks but you're just a canvass decorator to us."

* * *

The mystery of why Joe Beckett has never come to this country is finally explained.... It takes too long to scrape him off the floor after a fight.

Neither Jack Dempsey nor Harry Wills will be allowed to yip mencingly at the fluttering heels of Paolino or Carp....It develops the boys are fully protected by international game laws, The Hague peace pact and the onside kick rule.

WINNIPEG MAROONS WIN.

HIBBING, Minn., Jan. 25. (Canadian Press).—With flashy defence and combination play, the Winnipeg Maroons, of the Central Hockey Association, United States Amateur Hockey League, scored a two to one victory over the Eveleth-Hibbing pucksters here, Saturday night.

NEW YORK AND BOSTON BATTLED 80 MINUTES WITHOUT VERDICT

"Boner" By Sprague Cleghorn Paved Way To Costly Gaol.

BOSTON SET PACE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press). — The Boston Bruins and New York Americans battled 80 minutes to a two goal draw verdict in the National Hockey League tilt before a crowd of 10,000 persons here Saturday night. A goal scored for the Madisons by Bouchard three minutes before the regular playing time ended tied the issue after the Bruins had held the lead from the opening period and 20 extra minutes of rapid-fire playing could not break the draw.

From the start it looked like a Boston victory, for the combination play of the Hub Town boys had Rickard's men baffled. But the lot fell to Captain Sprague Cleghorn to pull a "boner" that snatched victory from out of his team's hands.

With his cohorts holding a one-goal advantage as the game's end drew near, Cleghorn chose to rag the puck in an effort to kill time. He was chased behind his own goal cage, however, by "Shorty" Green, and the American wing captured the disc, passed out to Bouchard and the evening tally was rung up.

Combination play was again lacking from the work of the New York sextette and it appeared that it would lead them to their sixth straight defeat. In contrast, Boston worked a pretty short passing game throughout the contest.

A touch of the "far north" was brought to Madison Square Garden by the presence of Joe Laflamme, noted Canadian trapper and musher. Joe drove his mixed race team of dogs and wolves about the ice surface during the between-period intermissions.

Lineup

Boston.—Stewart, goal; Hitchman and S. Sleghorn, defence; Herberts, centre; Geran and Harrington, wings; Cooper Reading, Mitchell, Stewart, Scharr, Cahill, subs.

New York.—Forbes, goal; Langlois and Simpson, defence; Burch, centre; McKinnon and R. Green, wings; Randall, S. Green, Bouchard, Roach, Campbell, Cameron and Morrison subs.

Referees—T. O'Leary and M. J. McDonald.

Second Period:—

CELTIC SHOWED CUP TIE CLASS

Whitewashed Kilmarnock on Latter's Ground—Airdrie Failed to Score.

SCOTTISH GAMES.

GLASGOW, January 25. Canadian Press. — Twenty six games have been decided in the first round proper of the Scottish Cup, twenty-five of them going to an issue Saturday and one, that between Dundee and Inverness Caledonians, having been decided in favor of the former last Wednesday.

With twelve teams the issue is still in doubt, for their were six drawn games on Saturday, and among these clubs are the two Edinburgh first string combination, Heart of Midlothian and Hibernians, while Aberdrie and Greenock Norton also find themthemselves in this class.

On their own ground at Easter Road Hibernians could do no better than split their chances with Proxburn United, a second division team, while at Tannadice Park the Hearts engaged in an equally indecisive encounter with Dundee United, who emerged from the second string last year. The Airdrieonians were a tremendous disappointment, failing even to register a goal against Queen of the South at Dumbries, while Norton were held to a one man draw by Dykehead.

Some Heavy Scoring.

In some cases there was heavy scoring, Brechin, a Forfarshire amateur club shot, in twelve counters against Thornhill's one; Falkirk were unspiring against the Perthshire amateurs, Breadelbane registering ten goals without any reply. Arbroath of the second division, blanketed Berwick Rangers by eight.

The contest between Arthurlie and Armadale went to nine goals, with Arthurlie securing the odd one.

Little that was sensational came out of Saturday's cup ties. Celtic again showed themselves to be the best all round team in Scottish football by whitewashing Kilmarnock on the latter's territory. The game was reminiscent last year's tilt in the cup competition between Celtic and Rangers when the latter collapsed between the Celtic's determined attack.

Seventeen home teams went into the second round, while seven visiting combinations did likewise.

Victories that come without having to be fought and won are nothing to brag about.

BOWLING with the CHAMPION

Jimmy Smith

THE APPROACH.

The approach, like the stance, plays a big part in the ten-pin pastime. You must approach the foul line in the proper manner. If not, you'll meet with little success.

As you "come up" from the crouch, bring the ball a little above waistline. At the same time step forward with right foot. (For southpaws the reverse, of course, applies.)

A find a 12-foot approach is sufficient. That permits four steps of three feet each. Some find even a shorter run suits them better. However, don't get out of breath trying to do a miniature sprint. It isn't a foot race.

I use a natural, easy stride. Don't make your approach as though you were being clocked. Take your time. Too much speed is apt to carry you past the foul line and throw you out of position.

Gauge your stride and your "run-up" so you won't be in danger of committing a foul. You must figure on a fair "slide" as you finish your fourth step.

Many players, especially beginners, find it difficult to stay in fair territory. Practice and timing of stride will soon correct this rather common fault.

FRANCE DEFEATED ON BELFAST FIELD

Second Loss in International Rugby.

BELFAST, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press)—France sustained their second defeat in the International rugby series here Saturday when they went down by eleven points to nothing before Ireland. The French were aggressive throughout the game and at times outshone the Irishmen, particularly in the forward line. But the home fifteen had some great streaks of brilliancy. They led by eight points at the interval, and widened the margin by three more in the second half.

Three international games have now been played, France participating in two. They were defeated by Scotland on January 2 at the Colombes stadium. Last Saturday England and Wales played to a draw. The fourth game takes place at Edinburgh on February 3 when Scotland and Wales clash at Murrayfield.

The present standing is:

Scotland	1	1	0	0	20	6	2
Ireland	1	1	0	0	11	0	2
Wales	1	0	1	0	3	3	1
England	1	0	1	0	3	3	1
France	2	0	0	2	6	31	0

FEW THRILLS IN MAROON WIN OVER PITTSBURG

Listless Game in Montreal, Except Goal Getting in Third Period.

PIRATES WEARY.

Three Games in Week and Illness Reflected in Play.

MONTREAL, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press). — Clever combination play in the final period, in which Nelson Stewart, Punch Broadbent and Reg. Noble featured, brought three goals and gave Montreal a 4 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates here Saturday night. The Maroon victory halted the speedy young Pirates' winning streak at three straight games and for the time being checked their dash toward second place, which the local club now holds by a wide margin.

It was the combination effort of the winners in the final session which saved the game from being a listless affair. The first two periods were devoid of any great thrills and the crowd of 9,000 spectators was in contrast to the demonstrative gatherings which have witnessed the recent hair-raising struggles here.

In the first period Nelson Stewart had put the Maroons one up on a smart goal, tallied off a pass from behind the Pirate net by Broadbent. One in front the Maroons seemed content to hold their margin, while the dashing Pirates could not penetrate the opposing defence sufficiently to even the score.

Pirates Weak

With the Pirates showing the effect of their heavy three-game schedule in the week and their defence, weakened by the absence, through illness, of Jess Spring and the indisposition of Lionel Conacher, another of the hefty Pirate defence men, Montreal in the final session took a distinct margin in the play. The Maroons used a combination attack to break through. Reg. Noble played a large part in paving the way for the goals, but it was Punch Broadbent and Nelson Stewart who counted the tallies, these two Maroon forwards dividing the scoring honors for the game, each with two goals and one assist.

Montreal's second count came in little more than a minute after the start of the final session, Noble rushing and passing to Broadbent in the goal-mouth. Right back came the local forwards and Broadbent and Stewart combined beautifully. Twice the puck passed between them and then Stewart was clear in on Worters. He had an excellent chance, but gave Broadbent the puck—a deceptive movement which made certain of the goal.

Then came a tally for the Maroons which was novel in its execution and as pleasing to the spectators as it was disconcerting to the Pirates. Noble rushed and was hemmed in on the west side of the rink along the boards, with two Pirates trying to hook the puck from him. Noble stood still awaiting a chance to pass. It took Nelson Stewart about 15 seconds to shake his check and then he started through the Pittsburgh defence. Noble slipped him a well-placed pass and Stewart was clean through for a goal which fairly dazed the Smoky City contingent.

It was Montreal's last effort. Thereafter the subs were sent into action, and they held the Pirates until the last minute. Ten seconds before the end of the game, the Pirates were saved from a shutout when Duke McCurry beat the defence and flipped the puck behind Benedict.

Kitchen Injured.

It was a cleanly-fought game, though it left two casualties on the Maroon list. Hobbie Kitchen started on the defence in place of Captain Dunc Munro, who has been ill with tonsilitis. It was the first appearance of Kitchen locally since his suspension by the club for failure to attend training drills. Kitchen was accidentally struck by McCurry's stick and suffered a broken nose, while Reg. Noble had his foot cut with a skate, and had to have several stitches.

Unusual Incident.

There was one flare-up in the tussle and it occurred in the second session when Montreal was holding to a 1—0 margin. Pittsburgh forwards had come to en masse on Benedict and a wild scramble ensued around the Maroon net for the puck. Benedict saw the puck loose and within reach of his stick and made a vicious swing to clear it. He cleared the puck and his stick landed over in the corner of the rink. Over the boards came Manager Odie Cleghorn. Down he skated to Referee Cooper Smeaton and, supported from the back benches by the entire Pirate squad, demanded an awarded goal because Benedict had thrown his stick. Cleghorn led a heated debate for a minute, but Smeaton ruled that Benedict had merely lost the grip on his stick and that it had slipped from his hands, and the Pirates' case was lost.

BASKETBALL

By THE CAPTAIN

NO. 11—CENTER ON OFFENSE

Playing the center position requires more from a man than any other position. Certainly a center must be more experienced and take more punishment than either a guard or forward.

You must do everything that is asked of you in either of the other positions and then some more. You must be able to elude your opponent and score, guard against your rival breaking loose, jump and jump well, have good wind and ability to take lots of bumps.

When jumping don't try to make a springboard of the floor and rebound into the air. That's a common fault of almost all basket-ball players when the referee orders a toss-up. Don't crouch too low when awaiting the upward throw of the ball.

When set for the jump, tense your muscles. Don't make it a "two-in-one" by hopping then jumping with the expected aid of a rebound. Rather, lift your body into the air. The tense muscles will let you get the maximum height.

Learn to use both arms in tapping the ball, so that you can always use the arm nearest the referee which will thus be the arm nearest the ball. Use the tips of the fingers, not the palm of the hand, in tapping the ball.

Learn to cut away from your opponent after making the tap. Be ready to take a pass or go through to the basket for a shot. Here's where your speed and elusiveness is needed if you are to be a successful and valuable man in the center position.

When your side is in possession of the ball, stay near the basket when able. Your height will be of most use there for you can take high passes and also reach up for rebound balls when following shots of your teammates that have been unsuccessful.

The task requires that you be able to fulfill the duties asked of both a guard and a forward. Your work doesn't end when the ball is tossed-up and the tap is made.

In a hockey game, the enthusiasts laments the frequency of off-side play, it stops action. In football there are any number of minor technicalities that must be enforced yet take a ce... punch from the art. In basketball, it's the out-of-bounds abomination.

Recently in Washington, two of the American League teams played a game in which a net that surrounded the court prevented any out-of-bounds.

I understand there was plenty action in the game, also that it was a trifle rough. This was to be expected, since the ball was constantly in play, except for the calling of a foul or held ball.

It is questionable if the out-of-bounds can be eliminated in basketball. The game is quite strenuous as it is, calls for great stamina and I doubt if the players could stand up under the strain of continuous play.

ARSENAL UPSET BY LIVERPOOL

Huddersfield Now Clear the First Division Leaders—Manchester's Surprise.

REVIEW OF GAMES.

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—As a result of the heavy defeat at the hands of Liverpool Saturday, Arsenal were dethroned from leadership in the First Division of the English League. Huddersfield and Sunderland are level with Arsenal on points, but due to the former having a game in hand, they claim the top of the table. Their handy victory at Cardiff puts them definitely into the running.

The most surprising result on Saturday was the sensational win of Manchester City over the United at Old Trafford. Six goals were run up by the City, while the United countered with only one. In view of the fact that Manchester City were in a dangerous situation near the bottom of the table, with little between them and a threat of relegation, and also at the United were not without hopes of arriving somewhere near the league championship, the result was still the more surprising.

Sunderland also met defeat, succumbing to Sheffield United at Bramhall Lane, and the margin was heavy. Four goals for the Blades" to one registered by Sunderland did not encourage the latter's hopes of championship.

A creditable victory was obtained at Birmingham when Burnley invaded the Midlands and secured the odd goal in five from the home team. Bury was one of the three visiting aggregations to get the better of their opponents' ground.

Second Division

In the Second Division the race continues between Derby County and The Wednesday. Both won their games, the latter scoring a particularly meritorious triumph at Preston, where they blanked the North End by a trio of goals. South Shields were hitherto thorny club to win a league match Preston this season.

Chelsea's victory over Barnsley by 3 to 2, enables them to keep just behind the two leaders.

One of the outstanding teams in the junior department is Swansea Town, who were able to overcome Middlesborough by 3 to Following their cup triumph at Blackpool, this game suggests that Welshmen are now hitting their best stride at an interesting stage of the season.

Third Division

In the Northern Section the Third Division, Bradford's 4 to 1 victory over Accrington Stanley gives them well ahead of their rivals, while Plymouth Argyle, by gaining one point at Millwall, keep ahead all comers in the Southern Section. Reading, however, are only one point behind. The result at Millwall was a disappointment to Plymouth, the players claiming that they had scored two goals.

ST. PATS BEAT CANADIENS 6-2

Are Still in Sixth Place, a Point Behind New York Americans.

HAVE PLAYELESS.

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—While St. Patricks are still in sixth place in the National Hockey League race their 6-2 victory over Canadiens on Saturday at the Arena improved their position considerably.

They are but four points behind the third place Pittsburgh Pirates, who have played two games more than the Irish, and they but one point behind the New York Americans, who have also played two games more. Canadiens' feat here prevented them from reaching third place, but the main feature of the engagement was the fine playing of the Irish.

METROPOLE FINAL TENNIS POSTPONED

Helen Wills and Mlle. Vlasto Meet To-day.

Cannes, France, January 25. Canadian Press. — Rain and cold wind spoiled the hopes of a horde of enthusiasts who had gathered at the Metropole Hotel courts Sunday to see the final contests in the Metropole Hotel Tennis tournament. The feature of course was to have been the struggle for supremacy between Miss Helen Wills and Mlle. Vlasto, whom the American champion defeated in straight sets in the Olympic finals in 1924.

The match had to be postponed until to-day much to the disappointment of Miss Wills, who wants every possible day's practice before meeting Suzanne Lenglen, the French champion early in February.

The California girl came through to the finals in the tournament without the loss of a single set in her four matches, scoring 48 games to her opponents 15 and 253 points to her opponents 155. She was not once taken into extra games in any set. She defeated Mrs. Green, 6-0, 6-0; Mrs. Saunders, 6-2, 6-1; Mrs. Aeschlimann, 6-2, 6-2, and Mlle. Contoslavos 6-4, 6-4.

BIG GOLF SCORE

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 25 (Canadian Press)—The favorite golfing sons of France and England, Arnaud Massey and Archie Compston, were subjected to the most thorough defeat they have sustained since coming to the United States, here Saturday at the hands of Bobby Jones, national amateur champion, and Tommy Armour, Whitfield pro. The United States stars won eight up and seven to play.

DON'T BE FOOLED.

Get your set in the pink of condition to participate in the trans-Atlantic tests that will be conducted during International Radio Week, January 24 to 30.

But beware of "imitations."

During that week many broadcasters will try to hurl their programs across the Atlantic to be received overseas, while British and other European stations will try to be heard on this side of the ocean.

For the first five nights of the week, between 9 and 10 central standard time, American stations will broadcast. Between 10 and 11, central time stations here will be silent to give fans a chance to listen in on the European stations.

The other two days American and Canadian stations in the various time zones will broadcast, while others will be silent, to enable fans to get long distance in this country.

But there's a serious warning. Look around for neighboring aerials and see if there aren't any receivers more powerful than yours near you. If so, you may be getting Europe through that set and not directly.

This lies in the fact that fans with powerful sets try to put on all the power they can, and make their sets oscillate highly, in order to get just faint reception of a distant station.

Of course, such sets as neutrodynes and radio frequency amplified units are more or less proof against oscillation. But even these may be made to oscillate when the rheostat is turned 'way up. Even a superheterodyne can regenerate.

So watch your step—crystal and one-tube set owners—and look around before you make a rash statement about hearing Paris any of these nights.

MOVIGRAPHS

RIP-SNORTIN' BILL DUNCAN IS QUIET PAPA NOW.

(By Russell J. Birdwell.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—Big, two-fisted William "Bill" Duncan, after 15 years of glory and stardom in motion pictures, is through with the make-believe world. He has quit the movie sets and deserted the chase for cinema gold to thoroughly enjoy the rewards of fatherhood.

Bill left motion pictures a year and a half ago when his wife and co-starring partner, Edith Johnson, was forced to desert because of impending motherhood.

Once upon a time Bill got his thrills in the wild and woolly serials he made—diving from steep precipices into rushing mountain streams and hurling himself from moving trains—now the red-faced Scotchman finds life's greatest thrill in changing the baby's pants and mixing her feedings.

As a hobby, Bill invented a weight reducer for milady out in his workshop. It brought her weight down from 178 to 120 in just a few weeks. It was so good Edith encouraged him to patent and market it.

"Well, I did," says Bill, "and, who knows, in a very short time I may be William Duncan, manufacturer of 'Milady's Miniature—the Reducer,' instead of Bill Duncan, movie star."

7.00 St. Andrew's vs. St. James'
8.00 Brintons vs. Raybestos.
9.00 Crescents vs. De Laval.

These should be good games as they bring together the opposing teams of the first night's play, when two tie games resulted.

WALTER HAGEN—WATCH FOOT ACTION

Hagen

Be sure that you are set properly before attempting to hit the ball.

The feet play an important part in the address of the ball, in the back swing, the top of the swing and at the finish. Some pros have gone so far as to say that the action of the feet is everything. This is not all, of course, but without the proper foot movement there is no chance for the beginner to get very far in learning the game.

Foot action is not only essential in golf, but in every line of sport that I know of. I used to play baseball in my youth and reached the point where I had to decide between professional ball and golf. I learned the game thoroughly. My specialty was pitching and I soon discovered that my feet had almost as much to do with hurling the ball as my hands. At bat I found that there was everything in the way I handled my feet. The fielders find this true, too. The first thing a shortstop or a baseman is taught is how to stand to receive the ball

AMATEURISM A WORLD PROBLEM

In the next two years the amateur problem will engage every country where athletic sports are conducted, says the Detroit News. Before another world championship athletic meet is held there will probably be a clearer definition and one that will be accepted in all countries. Such is the present aim.

Amateurism carries various limitations in various countries. How it is muddled in England is told in detail in the following letter, written by a man who for years was one of England's foremost amateur athletes but who, for reasons apparent witholds his name.

The British Olympic Committee, like 50 other countries, is trying to find out what an amateur is. The question involves 40 different nationalities (perhaps), and they demand and exact and acceptable definition of what constitutes an amateur. They are endeavoring to instil the right spirit into the youth of their respective countries. That is a problem.

In England, the athlete who accepts remuneration of any kind for "broken time" loses his amateur standing. We cannot conceive that amateurism in any country can accape the principle that payment for time to engage in athletics is permissible. But all who know athletics intimately will agree that some amateurs would be pleased to see such a thing admitted.

Many British sport officials believe that an amateur athlete, playing for an amateur team and competing against professionals, loses his right to be known as an amateur.

In England, an amateur soccer player must pay his own training expenses can not accept any situation (work) through his club without liability to inquiry, can not compete for a money prize, and so forth.

In cricket all such details are avoided by the Marylebone Cricket Club—composed of amateurs. A man is a cricketer and can classify himself. Amateurs play with, and against, professionals.

At Rugby foot ball there are fine distinctions. If an amateur plays with a professional team he loses his amateur standing. If an amateur asks for work—as a rubgy player—he is an outcast from the amateur ranks.

In English rowing, if a man has ever been in a menial occupation of any kind, or is an artisan, he can not have a seat at the Henley Regatta in a competing boat. If you wish to row at Henley, there must be VERY BLUE blood in your veins, a coronet on your boat panel, or your purse must be overflowing with money.

English golf. A man can not be an amateur player and interested with an eye to profit, in the making of golf balls and clubs. Yet he can be what is called a golf architect, a high-faluting phrase for a landscape gardener, who lays out links and digs holes something like sunken flower pots, or excavates sand and gravel pits and raises miniature mountains. He also sets traps for "unwary birds" and there are many of them. But he can lend his name to advertisers for articles used by golfers such as: The Bunker Collar Fastener, or the Plus Four Pants With Tassels.

The Australian cricketers can visit England and receive $1,000 or $1,500 for expenses, and from $2,000 to $3,500 or $4,500 as "dividend." But at Lord's (England) cricket ground they appear on the program with all their initials in front of their surnames and they use the amateurs' dressing rooms, a majestic pavilion—not in a cottage annex among the paid men, as Hobbs, J. B. (England's greatest batsman) must when he plays for his country with several amateurs against the Australians. Hobbs is always Hobbs because he is paid to play for Surrey county, while Crawford, is paid to play for Victoria, Australia, would appear on the program at Lord's, England, as Mr. J. N. Crawford, if playing for Australia against England.

At "Bowls" an Australian team has played in England, but the players did not take back any dividend.

In England there are men who go to Oxford, Cambridge and other universities not only to take a degree, but to get a Blue (letter), with the idea of becoming a games master, as the occupation is called at public schools. His learning, plus his skill at soccer, hockey or cricket, gets him to the position. If there were two men with equal degrees left in for a situation as schoolmaster, the man who was a Blue would get the preference because of his popularity with the boys. The Blue sells both his learning and his skill and remains an amateur. The common workman offers to sell his craft at some trade and his skill by perhaps saying: I am a good soccer player and would be willing to play—if you can find me work at Burton-on-Trent, where the water is turned into ale. Loses his amateur standing. One is a games master and the other is a mercenary.

At many sports the amateurs and professionals cannot consort. If an amateur runs against a pedestrians, that is knowingly, he loses his status.

All this means that many of the distinctions and rules are nonsensical, due to deep-rooted prejudices, ingrained snobbery, the feeling of caste. They are an outrage on the democratic tendencies of the world as it grows older and, we hope, wiser.

SHELL ONLY CLUE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—An unusual murder mystery in the slaying of an English butler in the doorway of the home of James R. Deering, a socially prominent attorney, has invaded one of New York's exclusive residential streets off Fifth Avenue.

The butler, Herbert Bramalt, who had served in several well-known families, was found in full livery last night in the vestibule of the Deering home a few moments after he had answered the door bell. He was shot close to the heart, and was instantly killed. His slayer had disappeared, slamming the heavy plate glass door with such violence that it was cracked.

An empty pistol shell is the only tangible clue thus far found.

AT THE CAPITOL

DODGE, NEVADA, RENAMED "CAMP FORD" AS TRIBUTE TO "IRON HORSE" DIRECTOR

Place Formerly Consisted of Lone Railway Caboose, But Grew to Bustling Village When John Ford and Company, Making Wonder Picture, Pitched Camp and Started "Shooting" Scenes.

The town of Dodge, Nevada, where Director John Ford and his troupe, made many scenes for "The Iron Horse," boasted of one dilapidated railway caboose as it's only building.

The town existed only because of the spur track that forms a "Y" for the convenience of trains of that line. The lone caboose held forth at the extreme end of the track until the invasion of Director Ford and his gang of "Movie Sour-Doughs" entrained there while filming the mammoth scenes depicting the laying of the tracks of the first transcontinental railroad shortly after the Civil War.

With the thousand of visitors that tramped, drove, walked and flew, determined on viewing from the inside the making of a movie, the town of Dodge, now known to all in that section of Nevada as Camp Ford, became well established in the minds of the Nevada residents.

Madge Bellamy and George O'Brien, the two leading players in the William Fox special now showing at the Capitol Theatre, together with Director Ford and other members of the cast, attended the huge re-christening pow-wow held at the foot of the highest peak on the reservation by the Piute tribe under the leadership of Chief Winnemucka that changed the name of Dodge to Camp Ford.

AT THE REGENT

LOWE ESCAPES IMAGINARY ARMY OF DETECTIVES.

Edmund Lowe, the dashing, romantic Ricardo Madons of Fox Films production, "The Palace of Pleasure" now playing at the Regent Theatre for three days, put in a very restless day at the studios during the making of the picture. He was dodging imaginary detectives and anybody who has ever dodged imaginary detectives knows what a nerve racking experience it is. Therefore Mr. Lowe was restless, very restless.

It seems that the Fox Theatre Corporation had put on the market some very desirable stock and Mr. Lowe having great faith in his organization had applied for ten thousand dollars worth of the securities for which he tendered his check.

It was after banking hours and the money was called in for the stock, so Eddie wrote a check anyway. Then he prayed and dodged imaginary detectives all afternoon.

The first thing next morning Mr. Lowe raced to his bank clutching several crisp thousand dollar bills. Breathlessly he ran to the teller's window.

"Want to deposit these—quick," "Yes, Mr. Lowe." The teller looked at him curiously.

"Whats my balance?"

The teller referred to a massive ledger behind him. "Fifteen thousand and forty dollars."

"Whew! Thank heaven! Give me those." Lowe grabbed the crisp thousand dollar bills still on the counter and was out of the door while a much puzzled bank teller witched his fleeting shadow.

That morning Mr. Lowe went through his scenes with Betty Compson in "The Palace of Pleasure" with his usual calm assurance. There were no imaginary detectives to dodge.

WEDDING BELLS.

A quiet wedding was solemnized St. Andrew's Manse, Campbellford, Ont., on Jan. 20th, when Bessie Alexandria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moir, Campbellford, became the bride of Mr. James F. Thompson, Roseneath, Ont., Rev. James Grieg, B. A., officiating.

The bride wore a becoming dress of rose Claude satin, trimmed with gold lace, with matching shoes and stockings.

Miss Eva Thompson, Roseneath, sister of the groom, attended the bride, and the groom was supported by Mr. Harold George, also of Roseneath.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti, on the evening train for Lindsay, Toronto and other points. The bride travelled in a coat of almond green French duvetyne, trimmed with opossum and hat to match.

On their return they will reside at Roseneath.

WHITESIDE—LE MAY

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 25—The marriage took place on Saturday at high noon at the home on Strickland Street of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Le May, uncle and aunt of the bride, of Amelia, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Le May, and Mr. Willis R. Whiteside of Bethany. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. Kemp of the Regent Street Church, under an arch of evergreen from which was suspended a floral bell.

The bride wore a gown of sandalwood crepe de chine, made with flare skirt, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and sweet peas, and wore a rope of pearls, the gift of the broom. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Myrtle Le May, of Toronto, who wore apple green cut velvet and georgette and carried Ophelia roses. Miss Ella Marie Le May of Toronto, cousin of the bride, the flower girl, carried a basket of sweet peas and wore forget-me-not blue crepe and the groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Nelson Whiteside of Bethany. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a bar pin set with sapphires, to the flower girl a bracelet and to the best man cuff links. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served, the table being prettily decorated with daffodils. The bridal couple left on the 3 o'clock train for Buffalo and Niagara Falls. The bride's going-away costume being blonde cut velvet and satin-faced canton with trimmings of fur, and hat and shoes to match. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. M. Batten of Peterborough, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Storeman of Toronto, aunt of the groom, and Dr. W. J. Le May of Newcastle, brother of the bride.

CLEVELAND—SANDERS.

A quiet wedding took place on Monday, Jan. 18th, at the City Hall, Chicago, Ill., when Olive, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, of Patterson street, city, became the bride of Frank, only son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Cleveland, Toledo, Ohio.

The young couple left for a trip to visit the groom's mother, and on their return to Chicago will take up housekeeping in their newly furnished flat.

ANDERSON—GREEN

The marriage took place quietly at three o'clock this afternoon at St. Andrew's Manse, of Gladys A., younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. Walter Green, to D. Witnesses to the signing of the register were Miss Lillian Green and Dr. J. C. Green.

The bride wore a gown of black satin-faced canton crepe, trimmed with silver. Her small hat, faced with black, with silver crown, was trimmed with grey squirrel fur and her coat of black needlepoint had grey squirrel collar and cuffs.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left for Toronto, en route for their honeymoon. They will reside in Peterboro.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BIBLE CLASS

All Saints' Ladies Heard Reports and Elected Officers.

MRS. MORRIS SPOKE.

The Ladies' Bible Class of All Saints' Church held its annual tea and meeting on Friday evening, Jan. 22nd, in the primary room, the Rev. Mr. Paterson presiding. The usual programme of the class was dispensed with, thus giving the members the privilege of attending the Boys' Club concert in the Parish Hall. After an enjoyable solo by Mrs. Paterson, Mrs. A. Stevenson, the teacher of the class, spoke a few words of greeting. The reports of the year were read, Mrs. LeBarr read the secretary's report and that of the treasurer by Mrs. Watson, these reports closing a most successful year. One hundred and thirteen flowers were sent out to the sick of the congregation, as reported by Mrs. Chas. Curtis, the flower convenor, and Mrs. G. Hillier spoke on the activities of the class. The main feature of the evening then followed, an address by Mrs. Morris on the educational system in Ontario amongst those who could not attend school in the usual way. The class strongly agreed with Mr. Paterson in voicing the opinion that something new was always learnt when Mrs. Morris spoke. The election of officers for the coming year took place, which are as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. (Rev.) J. D. Paterson.
President—Mrs. Roy H. Price.
Vice-President—Mrs. Geo. Hillier.
Secretary—Mrs. Edgar LeBarr.
Treasurer—Mrs. H. Spargo.
Flower Convenors—Mrs. Watson and Mrs. LeBarr.
Social Convenors — Mrs. Jas. Price and Mrs. Currie.

BUSY DAYS FOR LOCAL FIREMEN

Eight Calls For Chimney Fires Over the Week End.

WIND AND COLD.

High winds and cold weather made a busy week end for the fire department, they being called out to nine fires between Saturday afternoon and last night. Fortunately no damage was caused by any of them as with one exception they were the result of chilly householders shooting their winter's supply in an attempt to keep comfortable and overheating their stove pipes in their endeavors. The exception was a defective electric plug, which beyond giving the occupants a scare resulted in no damage.

The calls were as follows: 300 Smith street, 487 Parnell street, 499 Murray street, 639 Armour Road, 399 Smith street, 505 Patterson street, 337 St. Joseph street, 231 Hunter street and 481 Albert street.

DENIES STATEMENT.

HUSTON, Texas, January 25. — Canadian Press. — Captain Roald Amundsen, the discover of the South Pole, denied here last night a statement attributed to him in Fort Worth Saturday that Dr. Frederick's Cook's claims to have discovered the North Pole are as sound at Admiral Robert E. Peary's.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

CAPE TO CAIRO TRIP BY MOTOR HAS BEEN MADE

Six People, Led By British Officer, Finish Long Journey.

MANY DIFFICULTIES.

Wild Animals and Torrents Gave Travellers Trying Time.

CAIRO, Egypt, Canadian Press. — Major Court Treatt of the British army, his wife and four European companions, rode into Cairo yesterday morning in automobiles, in which they had travelled the whole length of Africa from Cape Town. Their 7000 mile trip was undertaken with the object of mapping out transport routes through Darkest Africa to help fulfil the cherished ambition of Cecil Rhodes.

The travellers were given an ovation by a crowd of motorists of all nationalities who went along the Pyramids road to meet them, and the population joined in cheers as they entered the city.

NEW RURAL ROUTE IN NORTH COUNTRY

Will Leave Kinmount, Serving Mount Irwin and Union Creek.

The Honorable G. N. Gordon returned from Ottawa Saturday and told The Examiner that he had received the information that a new rural route was established from Kinmount to Mount Irwin and Union Creek, and will serve that district.

Mr. Gordon said that there had never been a rural route in this part of North Peterboro, but now people of this district would not require to come such great distances, but would have their mail delivered directly, through this area, to the box-holders. The people of this district have been requesting this route and now that the Post Office Department has seen fit to establish it, it will be of very great convenience.

The rural route takes the following course:

Leave Kinmount Post Office triweekly, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 8.30 a.m., and proceed south 4¼ miles on the Town Line between the Townships of Galway and Somerville to the roadway between concessions 10 and 11 of Galway, serving Union Creek Post Office, thence east 3 1-8 miles to the deviation of the roadway between Lots 10 and 11, thence north 1 3-8 miles to the roadway between Concessions 12 and 13, thence east 1 mile to a given road, thence north-east on given road 1 mile to gateway of S. Pearson, serving Mount Irwin Post Office, thence retrace 2 miles to the roadway between Lots 10 and 11, then west on the roadway between Concessions 12 and 13, 1¼ miles to the roadway between Lots 5 and 6, thence north 1¼ miles to the roadway between Concessions 14 and 15, thence west 1 3-4 miles to the Town Line between the Townships of Galway and Somerville, thence north 1 3-4 miles to Kinmount Post Office.

CHANG'S ACTION CAUSES CRISIS

Russian Press Voices Indignation—War Office Warned To Prepare.

TELEGRAPH SEIZED.

MOSCOW, Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press). — Reports from Harbin, Manchuria, indicate an increasingly menacing situation along the Chinese Eastern Railroad. Not only is the principal telegraph office shut down, but the building occupied by the Russian trade unions has been closed by Marshal Chang Tso Lin's troops and severe censorship is being exercised on the local Russian newspaper, which appears with big blank white spaces. Numerous Russian workers and minor officials have been arrested.

Telegraphing Friday afternoon, the correspondent at Harbin of the Soviet News Agency says that Chang Tso Lin has seized all communication and adds: "This may be the last despatch out of Harbin."

The Moscow Government is anxiously awaiting a reply to its note to Pekin, and in the meantime the military arm of the Government has been instructed to be prepared for an emergency. The whole Soviet press voices unmeasured indignation over Chang's action.

BOGUS CHEQUE ARTIST AT WORK

Local Grocers Have Been Victimized Recently—Nearly Caught.

CHEQUE REFUSED.

A bogus cheque artist has been at work in the city, claiming as his victims many local grocers. His method of working is to order groceries, presenting as payment a cheque signed by local firms. So far he is known to have presented cheques signed by at least two different concerns. His career nearly came to a close Saturday evening when a cheque he presented was doubted by the grocer, who 'phoned the person who was supposed to have signed it. The person denied having issued a cheque, with the result that the police were 'phoned, but the bird had flown.

MANY MOURNERS PAY LAST HOMAGE

Thousands Pass Bier of Cardinal Mercier at Malines.

MALINES, Belgium, January 25.—Canadian Press. — Although only three Belgians thus far have been honored with a national funeral, the homage that is being paid Cardinal Mercier transcends even that given a monarch. In his robes of violet, mitre in hand, and a great gold cross upon his breast, thousands of people in all walks of life continue to pass by the bier on which his body lay in the Archiepiscopal residence here to which it was transferred yesterday from the hospital where the Prince of the Church died on Saturday.

JAPAN NEUTRAL.

Won't Intervene in Trouble Over Chinese Railroad.

TOKYO, Jan. 25. — (Canadian Press). — The Foreign Office to-day announced that Japan does not intend to intervene in any way in the dispute between the Russians and the Chinese at Harbin over the Chinese Eastern Railway, not believing that serious developments are probable.

It is said that even though the troops of the Soviet Government and those of Marshal Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian dictator, clash, Japan does not intend to take action except for the protection of its nationals and property.

U.S. ENTRY INTO WORLD COURT NOW REGARDED AS CERTAIN AFTER 68 TO 26 SENATE VOTE FOR CLOSURE

Gag Rule to be Applied for Second Time Since 1917, Terminating Obstructionist Tactics of Opponents to Membership in Court.

GALLERIES CROWDED FOR DECISION

Senate Almost Deserted After Division—Reading of the Court Protocol Delayed by Lack of Quorum at Intervals.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press)—Entry of the United States into the world court was made certain Monday by a Senate vote of 68 to 26 to limit debate on the issue.

Leaders on both sides in the now bitter struggle predicted a final roll call probably today and certainly not later than Wednesday.

It was conceded generally that the vote for adoption of the much modified Swanson resolution of adhesion would be even more overwhelming than was that yesterday to apply the drastic cloture rule for the second time since its adoption in 1917.

Cloture came to the test amid a colorful scene, after last minute efforts to hold out the olive branch of an unanimous consent agreement to limit discussion had been swept brusquely aside.

Every Senator save two was in his seat, the floor was crowded by members of the house and the galleries were overflowing. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the war president sat with Mrs. Swanson, wife of the senior Senator from Virginia, in the president's row, and many other notables were in the private galleries.

Forces Marshalled

An hour of debate with many barbed exchanges preceded the vote and as this went forward scouts for both sides were busy here and there trying to keep their forces in line. There was much shifting about and the strength rolled up by the opposition was somewhat surprising.

Thirty-seven Republicans and 31 Democrats voted to impose the rule limiting each Senator to one hour on the resolution of adhesion and all reservations, while 18 Republicans, 7 Democrats and the Farmer-labor, Shipsted of Minnesota, voted against cloture.

Once the result had been announced there was a marked let down in the tension that had gripped Senators and spectators alike. A rush for the lunchrooms began, and within a few minutes not more than half a dozen Senators were on the floor.

Quorum Demanded

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri Mo., a leading opponent of the adhesion, moved that the Senate adjourn. Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, a leader for ratification, countered with the suggestion of an absence of a quorum. The call developed the presence of a quorum and Senator Reed withdrew his motion.

Then came the reading of the protocol and as this proceeded, the Missouri Senator again and again insisted on a quorum being present, stating that he had no disposition to delay matters, but that he believed Senators should at least acquaint themselves with protocol and statute to which it is proposed the United States shall adhere.

The clerk began reading the protocol at 1:30 p.m., but did not finish until 4:30 p.m., due to interruptions for quorum calls, motions to adjourn and speeches by Senators explaining why they will vote as they will vote on the Swanson resolution.

CYCLIST DROWNED IN OTTAWA RIVER

Wheeled on to Thin Ice of Recent Cutting.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26. — (Canadian Press). — Albert Joanisse, Kent Street, Hull, married, but no children, employed by his uncle, M. Joanisse, Lindale Street, this city, as an ice cutter, cutting ice for Mr. George Kingsbury, lost his life in the Ottawa River at an early hour Monday morning when he broke through the ice near the E. D. Eddy Mills and was drowned before help could reach him.

There were no eye-witnesses to the tragic accident, and his death was only ascertained when he failed to show up on the job and the news of the drowning was brought to his uncle.

Shortly after six o'clock yesterday morning, Thomas Jenkinson, a watchman in the employ of the E. D. Eddy Company, noticed a man on a bicycle wheeling his way behind the number one pulp mill of the Eddy Company, on the ice road along the river leading to the ice-cutting location of E. W. Lafleur. Shortly afterwards faint cries for help were heard by several residents along the bank of the river.

They rushed out on the ice and found a hole broken where old ice had been previously taken out for storage, and the new sheet was not strong enough to hold anyone. Two mitts were the only other evidence of the tragedy. The cyclist had evidently left the road and crossed between the fir bushes which marked the hole where the ice was being harvested. Once he broke through the swift current swept him on and there is slight hope of recovering the body before next spring.

DOCTOR ADMITS STRANGLING GIRL

Philadelphia Chiropractor Says That She Demanded Money.

THREATENED HIM.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23 (Canadian Press).—David M. Marshall, Philadelphia chiropractor, last night confessed that he had strangled Miss Anna May Dietrich to death before dismembering her body in his office last Tuesday night.

Marshall, who is married and the father of a 12-year-old girl, declared that Miss Deitrich has tried to obtain money from him under threats of exposing his double life to his wife. He said he had been out with her and later went to his suite of offices, where the quarrel started. There, parts of the latest confession, as given out by the police, said, she repeated her demands for money in the women's retiring room. Seizing her by the throat, he had strangled her until she dropped unconscious to the floor. He then carried the body into another room, placed it on the operating table, and went to his home. He returned next day, dismembered the body by cutting off the head and legs, and took the parts in his motor car to the outskirts of the city, where they were found the next day.

LEAVING CITY

Free Methodist Pastor Accepts Call to Warkworth Circuit.

Rev. Francis A. Daw, who for the past two years and five months has been pastor of the Free Methodist church, on Aylmer street, preached his farewell sermon last Sunday evening. Mr. Daw is leaving Peterboro, having accepted a call to take charge of what is known as the Warkworth circuit embracing three appointments, Warkworth, Zion and Eddystone. Mr. Daw would have completed his three-year term in the pastorate here in September of this year, and his leaving Peterboro at this time of the year was occasioned by the resignation of the former pastor at Warkworth. The work here in the city will be supplied until conference when another pastor will be settled here.

CRISIS IN CHINA OVER RAILWAY NOW AVERTED

Chang Has Released Russian Officials of Line.

PRESTIGE LOWERED.

Russian Request Like Imperialism, of Which Soviet Accused Others.

PEKING, Jan. 26 (United Press). —The threatened crisis between Russia and China over the arrest of Russian officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway was believed to-day solved, since General Chang Tso Lin had released Manager Ivanoff and his companion hitherto detained at Harbin.

In some quarters it is felt that the incident has weakened Russia's prestige with the Chinese, since some see in the three-day "request" of Soviet Foreign Minister Tchitcherin a trace of "Imperialism" of which the Soviets had hitherto accused the British and other nations.

However, it is anticipated that the upshot of the present affair will be more Russian support for the Peking Government, which it will seek to strengthen against Chang Tso Lin, despite the fact that it was only two years ago that Russia was dealing directly with Chang and calling the Peking regime too weak.

Chang Still Interfering.

MOSCOW, Jan 26 (United Press) —Reports reaching the Russian capital to-day from Vladivostok claimed that despite Ivanoff's release, officials of Chang Tso Lin continued to interfere with the operation of the Chinese Eastern Railway. Moreover, it is reported that "white" officers in Manchuria are organizing bands to raid Soviet territory. Moscow looks askance at hints that Japan is ready to mediate between Chang and the Soviet regime.

MAN WAS SLAIN

Coroner Finds Bruise on Head Where Blackjack Struck.

GRAFTON, Ill., Jan. 26.—(By N.E.A.)—Henry Rand was slain. This is the verdict of the coroner after an examination of the body found in a local hotel under circumstances that convinced the police the case was one of suicide.

Although the room was filled with gas, James Rand, son of the dead man, maintained his father was not responsible for his death. And his judgment was sustained by the coroner, who found a wilt at the base of the dead man's head, evidently made by a black jack.

The discovery has spurred the police to renewed activity.

LEMIEUX ACT IS DISAPPROVED BY ALBERTA LABOR

Object to Principle of Compulsory Arbitration in Conversation With Premier.

"ONE-SIDED" EFFECT

Provincial Government Receives Petition for Advanced Legislation.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 26. — (Canadian Press). — Eight-hour working days, schemes for both health and unemployment insurance, distribution of school books and supplies through the Government to school districts, old-age pensions, a Provincial Industrial Disputes Act, and several changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act, including provision for appeal against the board's decisions, were among the things asked for by a delegation from the Alberta Federation of Labor which waited upon the Government Monday.

Distrust of the Lemieux Act and of any legislation by the Dominion Parliament that might be based upon it, was quite frankly expressed by Frank Wheatley, president of the Federation, and other members of the delegation, who stated that the labor interests in Alberta would greatly prefer a Provincial Industrial Disputes Act. The possibility of securing some compromise between the two Governments or some plan of co-operation by which parts of both laws might be applied was suggested but Premier J. E. Brownlee pointed out that in asking for Provincial supplementary legislation validating the Federal Act, the Ottawa authorities had made it clear that they would not divide responsibility in this way and that it must be the whole Federal Act or none of it.

The Labor men would not commit themselves to the principle of compulsory arbitration. Their complaint against the Lemieux Act was that it had always been applied in a one-sided way, for the purpose of getting evidence from the Labor side but not from the other. Consequently Labor disregarded it whenever possible.

Only One Juror Accepted Out Of Hundred Talesmen

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 26 (Canadian Press). — When the trial of 53 Western Canadian fruit and vegetable dealers on conspiracy and other charges was resumed Monday, the entire morning session was taken up in an endeavor to complete the jury. At the end of the first hour, 100 talesmen had been called, and of this number only one man was accepted by the Crown and defence counsel. Last Monday, when the case was adjourned, four jurors had been selected. The task of securing the remaining seven is proceeding.

More than 800 talesmen were summoned to appear yesterday and approximately 650 responded.

QUEBEC BANQUET IS SIGN OF UNITY

Union Among Quebec Conservatives Foreseen in Complimentary Dinner.

MANY PRESENT.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—Unity among the Conservative elements of Quebec is foreseen as the result of the complimentary banquet tendered to Arthur Marcotte, of Pontex, Sask., last night. There were gathered at the same table, Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Hon. Andre Fauteux, Arthur Sauve, leader of the Provincial Conservative Opposition in the Legislature, and others. A telegram was read from the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen expressing best wishes.

Mr. Fauteux, in a brief address, said the meeting permitted him to foresee soon the most complete and absolute unity. "The sooner it comes the better," said Mr. Fauteux. "Everyone must be ready to sacrifice all personal ambition," he declared, "for the principles laid down by the Conservative cause.

Mr. Patenaude spoke on "Conservatism." The party was one of principle, he declared, and that was why there could be at times "difference and disagreement, but not quarrels" between its members on certain subjects. And why, he asked, should there not be differences if circumstances warranted "We're willing to go half way along the road if they will go the other half," said Mr. Patenaude. He emphasized that he desired unity of doctrine, direction, and of authority, because in that lay real strength.

THE WEATHER.

Last night the temperature did not get down to zero, although it approached within three degree of it. Old weather saws and proverbs now everywhere dying out, but once continually on the lips of country people, represented the garnered wisdom of centuries of observation. All January weather rhymes in these proverbs insist on the cold of the lengthening days after Christmas. One of the most familiar is "As the day lengthens, the cold strengthens. Weather rhymes are all in favor of the early months of the year being cold, and if they are not, so much the worse, for

"If the grass grows green in Janiveer
It grows the worse for it all the year."

The French had a more forcible way of putting it: "Better to see a mad dog, than a hot sun in January." However, the Peterboro curling bonspiel is on this week, and although Charlie Seymour had a worried expression last night as to the weather outlook, I feel that his doubts will be pleasantly unfulfilled. —W. Ceylonese Find Famous Old Missionary Hymn Offensive: Don't Like Reference "Man Is Vile" To Which It Refers

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. — (United Press).—The old missionary hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," has been found offensive to the people of Ceylon and its third verse was accordingly dropped when it was sung Sunday at St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

Dr. R. B. Manikam, Professor of Phylosophy at Noble Christian College, in India, raised the objection. The verse reads:

"What though the spicy breezes
Blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle,
Though every prospect pleases
And only man is vile.
In vain with lavish kindness
The gifts of God are strewn,
The heathen in his blindness
Bows down to wood and stone."

Dr. Manikam insisted that it was "unfair to stay that in Ceylon isle men are vile."

"There are vile men, for that matter all over the world," he said.

FREIGHTER WITH FORTY SEAMEN REPORTED LOST IN FIERCE STORM THAT FURIED IN ATLANTIC LANES

British Vessel With Cargo of Wheat Called for Help Last Night.

LINERS ARE LATE

Leviathan and Aquitania Held Almost at Standstill by Gale.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Taking toll of life and property a powerful gale swept trans-Atlantic shipping lanes last night. The steamship Leviathan, greatest structure built by man to defy the might of the angry sea, was barely able to make progress against the storm, inward bound. The Aquitania one of the fastest trans-Atlantic liners was battled almost to a standstill and a blinding snow and fog were adding to the perils of the gale.

While several lines have limped into Halifax, a dozen are reported in the grip of the raging gale and all, including the Leviathan and the Aquitania, carrying nearly 6,000 passengers, will be two or more days late.

News of one disaster, which it is feared may have resulted in the loss of forty lives, was received by radio from the liner President Roosevelt. The steamship reported having picked up S.O.S. signals from the British freighter Antinoe, but after reaching her side, lost her in the fog and snow.

All Boats Gone.

Cryptically the message described the plight of the stricken vessel: "No. 3 hatch stove in, all boats gone, water in the fire room, and radio out of commission. The Antinoe carried wheat, a cargo dreaded by every seaman.

Mariners point out that, if a hatch stove in, the cargo would undoubtedly get wet, then probably swell and burst open the ship. Further messages from the President Roosevelt said that although she was cruising about the area where she lost the Antinoe, no trace of the latter could be found.

"Among other lines in the storm are the Caledonia, Columbua, Duilio, Edison, France, Giuseppe Verdi, Lithuania, Montroyal, Regina, Transylvania, and Zeeland. The Lithunia and Zeeland, due in Halifax Monday, were held up by the rough weather off the Nova Scotia coast."

NOW, HONESTLY—

Maybe there's someone you don't especially care for.

And maybe you take a rap at him or her in conversation, whenever you get a chance.

What good does it do you?

Knocking only boosts you out of other people's estimation.

We all get a kick out of hearing someone praised. But we never praise anyone who kicks at someone else.

Silence is a golden opportunity when all you have in mind is a rap.

MENNONITES LOST MONEY IN MEXICO

Party of Forty Reach Winnipeg Happy at Last.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 23. — (Canadian Press).—Following a year in Mexico, during which time they experienced many hardships, a party of forty-one Mennonites reached Winnipeg Monday, on their way to farms in Western Canada.

The group was happy in the prospect of being able to settle down in a country which they confidently believed held out great hopes to them.

They left Russia in the summer of 1924 for Mexico in an effort to recoup their lost fortunes.

For Mexico, they have nothing but condemnation. Some of the colony took as much as $5,000 to Mexico and lost it all, they said. They could not keep anything from pilfering hands.

The colony will be distributed on farms near Winkler, Morris in Manitoba and a number of Saskatchewan points.

"Deutschland Uber Alles" Will Conclude Programmes Sent Out From Hamburg During Radio Test Week

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—(United Press).—Some adverse comment was heard following the announcement that the Hamburg broadcasting station, on the air Monday and Wednesday nights in the international radio week tests, would conclude its programmes with "Deutschland Uber Alles." While some persons saw in this move a bit of propaganda for the Monarchists' cause, it was stated that the matter did not involve any political issue, and the Foreign Office was disinclined to intervene until the Washington Embassy reported serious objections from the United States.

To those who felt that the song might stir some war-time memories abroad, it was pointed out that the song after being dropped for a time as a National Anthem was restored to its previous rank by the late President Ebert.

Germans claim that "Deutschland Uber Alles" does not have the arrogant interpretation placed upon it by Germany's enemies during the war—namely, that Germany is better than anything else in the world. They declared that it is merely a highly patriotic anthem, calling upon Germans to place their Father and above considerations.

LONG STANDING STRUGGLE ENDS WHEN SIR ALFRED MOND LEAVES LIBERAL PARTY FROM PRINCIPLE

Former Minister Says He is Opposed to Lloyd George's Land Policy.

REPLY MADE.

Ex-Premier Says Policy is Excuse—Real Reason Different.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—The long-standing struggle for leadership within the Liberal party, with former Premier Lloyd George and Sir Alfred Mond, M.P., formerly Minister of Health as protagonists, came to an end last night, with the secession of Sir Alfred, who is to join the Conservative party.

Sir Alfred, who throughout the war period, was one of Lloyd George's strongest colleagues, announced his resignation in a letter to Lord Oxford, declaring that all efforts to revivify and reorganize the Liberal party have been rendered hopeless by Lord George's introduction of the land policy, which produced a new cleavage in the Liberal ranks. Sir Alfred says he is absolutely opposed to the nationalization of agricultural land, and that this is a question of principle in which compromise is impossible. He has decided, therefore, to join the Conservative party, with which, he feels, he can most usefully co-operate.

Lloyd George Bitter.

Lloyd George makes bitter comment on the cessation from the Liberal party of Sir Alfred Mond, M.P., former Minister of Health, and Sir Alfred's going over to the Conservative party because of Lloyd George's land campaign, as announced last night.

"I am not in the least surprised," Lloyd George says, with regard to Sir Alfred Mond's move. "He was obviously making tracks for the Tory party and the land question is only an excuse. His actions have nothing to do with the land question. He could have gone to the Liberal Convention (to be held next month) to present his case for the leadership of the party. If the decision had gone against him, he could then have acted as he has done. The real reason for his present course is given in that part of his letter to Lord Oxford announcing his resignation, in which he reveals his conviction that the Liberal party offers poor prospects for ambitious men.

"Like another notorious member of his race, he has gone to his own place."

RAILWAYMEN'S STRIKE AVERTED

Counsels of J. H. Thomas and Other Leaders Prevailed.

AWARD ACCEPTED.

LONDON, Jan. 26, Canadian Press —Peaceful counsels of J. P. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, and other leaders, have prevailed in the railway dispute and the strike has been averted by a narrow margin.

The threatened strike arose out of the action of the National Union of Railwaymen in rejecting the award of the National Wages Board.

At a meeting yesterday of delegates of the National Union of Railwaymen an angry discussion ensued, and J. H. Thomas did his utmost to persuade the men to accept award.

The meeting then voted on a resolution whether a strike should be called on Friday or they should accept the award. The strike party was defeated by a vote of 41 to 36.

SHE FOUND RELIEF FOR HER BACKACHE

Mrs. A. Caskanett Tells of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sends a Message of Cheer to Thousands of Canadian Women Who Carry a Load of Pain and Weariness Through Their Daily Work.

GREENOCK, Ont., Jan. 25.—(Special).—"I had a terrible backache and thought it was caused through my kidneys, so I bought some Dodd's Kidney Pills and they helped me so much. Whenever I am not feeling well I get a box. I would not be without them. A friend of mine advised me to try them and I can say they are all right and can recommend them." This message comes from Mrs. A. Caskanett a well known and highly respected resident here.

It must bring cheer to that great army of Canadian women who daily go about their household duties weighed down by that curse of womanhood, backache.

The relief that Mrs. Caskanett found has come to thousands of other women through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. That shows that the ache is caused by the kidneys.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, and emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other fords of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchical asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to direction. Ask your druggist Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CHURCH FINANCES SHOW GOOD YEAR

Madoc Presbyterian Body Held Annual Meeting—Encouraging Reports.

MADE PRESENTATION

MADOC, Jan. 26.—The annual congregational meeting of St. Peter's Presbyterian church was held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 20th, in the Sunday school room. The meeting opened with devotional exercises. A large attendance greeted Rev. T. G. Marshall as he took the chair after the opening exercises. Mr. W. J. Hill was appointed secretary for the evening.

Most encouraging reports were presented to the congregation from all departments of the church.

The report of the Sunday school, which was given by Mr. W. J. Hill, sec.-treas., showed over a hundred pupils and teachers enrolled, with an average attendance of eighty-five, and a satisfactory balance for the financial side. The W.M.S. report was also an excellent one and presented by Mrs. F. Curry, sec. The Mission Band, composed of children from five to twelve years, is another encouraging department, these little tots having earned over ninety dollars. Mrs. F. Jenkins is sec. of this society. The Christian Endeavour report was presented by Miss Ruby Nickle and the Ladies' Aid by Mrs. George West. The latter report showed receipts of over five hundred dollars.

The Session report, read by Rev. Mr. Marshall, spoke of the excellent congregations and the high spirited tone of the services each Sunday. The treasurer's report showed that contributions to the funds of the church had greatly increased, that while the latter half of the year was entered with a debt of over $160 the books showed a credit balance of $524.59. This report was presented by George West, treas., and shows the highest balance attained for some years.

Mr. West has been clerk of the Session and secretary-treasurer for twelve years, and as a slight token of appreciation for his excellent services he was presented with a sectional book-case by the Session and managers. George Wright made the presentation, voicing the grateful thanks of the session and congregation for the invaluable aid rendered so willingly and cheefully by Mr. West during these years.

New managers appointed were Messrs. Woods, G. Foote, J. Armstrong and S. Rollins, and trustee, T. Nicol.

The meeting closed with the benediction, after which the ladies served refreshments, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

ELECTION IN 1927.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—The Winnipeg Tribune to-day says:

ELEPHANTS STAMPEDE.

TURIN, Jan. 26.—Five elephants being taken to a local theatre for a circus act ran amuck yesterday when frightened by barking dogs, with the result that twelve persons were injured, two of them seriously.

The wife of a storekeeper suffered paralysis of the arm from fright, caused by one of the elephants trampling down the store door.

Pedestrians scattered in panic.

Bull Dog Routs Burglar Keeps Sleeve As Clue

MONTREAL, Jan. 26—(Canadian Press).—"Towser", a bulldog, proved a faithful night watchman Saturday night when he prevented a burglar from entering the store of Mailloux et Fils, St. Johns, Que. In addition to forestalling a robbery, the dog obtained evidence by tearing a sleeve off the would be burglar's overcoat and keeping it as a trophy of his victory.

Investigation indicated that the intruder did not enter the store. Footprints in the snow show that he had a struggle to make his getaway.

MOTOR BUS FRANCHISES.

The application of the Hydro-Electric Commission for an exclusive franchise of the city's streets for its motor buses is a subject that will give the city fathers food for discussion.

At present there are, in addition to the newly commissioned Hydro buses, two other privately owned bus services which have been in operation for some time.

The Council will have to decide whether these and any other privately owned buses that may be placed in commission are to be allowed to operate in competition with the Hydro buses.

It is presumed that the Hydro authorities are asking for exclusive rights to carry passengers from one point in the city to another and have no objections to other bus lines that run from the city to outside points.

The subject is a very important one, inasmuch as motor bus transportation is only in its infancy, but it is evident that before long restrictions of some kind or other will have to be passed that will prevent any individual who thinks there is profit in the business from starting up a motor bus service without permission or sanction from anybody.

Whether such restrictions will go so far as to give a monopoly of the city's streets to one organization is the problem that the members of the City Council will have to face before long.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

The High Schools in Oshawa, Bowmanville and Whitby have formed a debating league, and the three are competing in a schedule of debates much as the school hockey and football teams fight it out for first place.

That is competition that is bound to be of value to every boy and girl who takes part in the debates.

In the first place the preparation of the speeches is in itself of much benefit if it is undertaken honestly and with determination, and not, as is too often the case, passed on to somebody else—sometimes the editor of the local newspaper, who finds himself sometimes called upon to supply material and ideas for such debates.

Much more beneficial, however, is the actual delivery.

On every community there are men thrust into prominence by their profession or fraternity affiliations or municipal or political connections who would give a good deal if they could get up before a gathering of their fellow-citizens and not feel like wishing they could drop through the floor out of sight.

They have ideas, plenty of them, a sufficient supply of words and phrases to put across the message they want to convey, but they lack the confidence and poise and assurance that are necessary to convincing public speaking.

Debating leagues in the High Schools should do much to give those who take an active part in them the ability to overcome this natural nervousness and self-conciousness and impart the faculty of being able to get up when called upon and speak in language that is clear and easily followed and without the embarrassing interior disturbance that makes such a task an ordeal for many well-known men today.

CONSULTING THE CONSTITUENTS.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., in discussing the political situation at Ottawa, says that she proposes to consult her constituents on controversial points, and that the riding will have to share the responsibility with her for the decisions arrived at in these questions.

There are those who will applaud this programme as ideal conduct for a member of Parliament, and yet surely the representatives at Ottawa should be something more than rubber stamps.

Members of Parliament are supposed to be capable of making their own decisions on important matters, and if they have to consult their constituents—in reality the political executive in their home riding—before they can locate themselves in reference to any particular issue, there is something wrong with the whole system.

There is no particular assurance that the parish political solons viewing a national question through their own sectionally-tinted spectacles will arrive at a safer or more satisfactory conclusion than the member at Ottawa who, by reason of the debates in the House and from coming into contact with fellow-members from all parts of the Dominion, is able to approach the particular subject much more broad-mindedly than the political Soviet at home.

And by the same token, there is no assurance either that the riding political executive always correctly interprets the opinion of the people of its own particular neighborhood.

Members of Parliament should stand or fall on their own record.

STRIKE CONTINUES.

Hopes of a settlement in the hard coal mining dispute have again been disappointed just when everything seemed most favorable for agreement, says the Hamilton Spectator. This time it is the operators who refuse to accept the plan proposed by a Scranton newspaper and which, it had been thought, was acceptable to both sides. The operators claim "there is nothing new in it," though, from a letter previously written on their behalf, the inference had been drawn that the scheme met with their approval. And so the strike continues, with all its attendant distress to the 158,000 idle miners and their families. This is the 155th day of the dispute and the men have lost in wages—at the average rate of $1,150,000 per day—a total of $178,250,000. In view of that fact it is not surprising that suffering and want prevail in many sections. Appeals to the public to relieve the distress are not meeting with the response which representatives of the miners had hoped for. There is a general feeling among the public that the dispute is one which the workers and their employers must settle for themselves and that to assist in prolonging the misery is not the best way to serve the interests of the miners. The availability of substitutes for hard coal removes the argument which had been relied upon by both factions to the dispute that consumers would be willing to accept any form of settlement which brought the fuel to their doors. The strike is unique in the fact that regard has had to be given by both parties to the force of public opinion. In any settlement which might be arrived at it is recognized that that factor will have to be taken into account.

If the miners have suffered by reason of the dispute, the operators have not escaped lightly. Their profits have ceased and their finances undergone severe strain. Whatever may be the outcome of the strike there is one thing absolutely certain, and that is that neither side will gain anything from it. It is another instance of the futility and wastefulness of the strike method and should serve to bring about that better system of arbitration by impartial authorities which is so obviously called for in the interests of the workers, the employers and the public as a whole. Warfare in industry is just as devastating, of its kind, as international warfare.

CARDINAL MERCIER.

Cardinal Mercier's claim to a place in history does not rest solely upon the noble and courageous fight he made during the Great War on behalf of the principles of justice and humanity. He was for many years prior to the beginning of that conflict a notable figure in the councils of the church and in the religious life of Belgium. And after the war he lent all his efforts, and with some apparent promise of success, to the endeavor to effect a reconciliation between the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches. Whether he could have achieved that ambition, so tenaciously cherished by him, is perhaps open to doubt, but the movement certainly gained greatly by his championship, and, owing to his refusal to be discouraged by seemingly insuperable obstacles, he aroused between these two great Christian bodies sentiments which may yet result, if not in union, at least in more cordial and happier relations. It was his efforts and his resolute faith that gave to the Malines Conference whatever assurance it possessed of eventual achievement.

But it is on the part he played in the war that his title to permanent fame chiefly rests. It was as the champion of the principles of international faith and human justice that throughout the progress of that struggle he made his appeal to his country and the Allies, and that he challenged and impeded, if he did not restrict, the desolating power of Germany. It was in defense of those principles that he revived and sustained the spirits of his countrymen while ruin swept the land, and that he inspired them to resist or, when resistance was ineffectual, to endure the oppression of the invader.

That Cardinal Mercier was animated by chivalrous patriotism in the fearless and unwavering opposition he waged to the crushing tyranny exercised by German militarism in Belgium must, of course, be conceded, but he rested his resistance to the invader on even higher grounds—on the cardinal doctrines of morality which are recognized as governing the conduct of civilized nations. It was on the violator of every canon of right conduct, and as the enslaver of a nation which she was pledged to respect and defend, that he arraigned Germany. It was not merely as a Belgian, but as a churchman, that he counselled resistance by his people and that he defied to the utmost, and bade his people defy, the ruthless power that sought to force the country into compliance with its iniquitous will.

His pastorals to his people were an inspiration not only to the Belgians but to the Allies. His words rang around the world, stirring the hearts of the nations against German crime, and they had an undoubted influence in bringing the United States into the struggle on the side of liberty. The intrepidity with which he confronted the despoiler of his country set an example to the clergy of his own and allied lands, and strengthened the determination everywhere, at any sacrifice, to defeat the enemy of human freedom.

To Cardinal Mercier Belgium owes a debt that that land will never forget. The honor that will be paid him by his country, for which he fought so valiantly, will increase with the passage of time, and he will be enshrined in the history of the nation as he now is in the hearts of the people. But it is not only in Belgium that his intrepid courage in the cause of right will be remembered. France and Great Britain—the world at large—owe him much, and in their annals they will not fail to give his due to this great churchman who at one of the most critical stages of the history of mankind demonstrated with what effectiveness one man equipped in righteousness can combat the forces of wrong and injustice.—The Globe.

COAL PROBLEMS IN THREE COUNTRIES.

The President of the United States says his Government is helpless in face of the present situation in the anthracite mines, says the London Advertiser. It can make no move unless Congress passes legislation to empower it to act.

The Government saves itself a great deal of trouble at the expense of the public, which must continue to pay high prices for every kind of fuel. Perhaps a settlement must wait until it dawns on the operators and miners that they are in danger of losing permanently a large part of their market.

In Great Britain the Government would doubtless like to take the laissez faire attitude of Washington toward the coal industry. Perhaps if a large part of the hard coal mines in United States were tied up in addition to the anthracite stoppage, even President Coolidge could not look on with folded hands. The British Government was in such a position some few months ago, when virtually the whole coal mining industry of the country was threatened with paralysis. A complete stoppage was averted by the expedient of a subsidy from the national Exchequer to maintain standard wages in the less productive mines until May, a royal commission to study the question and report its findings in the meantime.

It is said and generally believed that the commission will recommend the national ownership of the mines. A few years ago the majority report of a royal commission headed by Sir John Sankey outlined a plan of joint control and operation, in which the public would have a part, but the Lloyd George Government rejected this feature, regarding it as too radical. It would be an anomaly if an out-and-out Conservative Government declared for unqualified nationalization, even with full compensation of owners. One alternative is to continue baling out the public treasury, as at present, to keep the mines going, but the Chancellor of the Exchequer is finding difficulty in balancing his budget and can scarcely face a new financial year with the millstone of the coal subsidy around his neck.

The approach of spring will automatically solve President Coolidge's problem as anthracite is mainly a winter fuel. The coming of spring will present Premier Baldwin with a new problem. Canada, too, has her coal question, which is political as well as economic in view of the attitude of the Maritime Provinces and the claims of Alberta.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

COMMENDS DANCE.

Editor of Examiner:—

After reading several truthful articles in your paper in reference to drinking at public dances, I sincerely hope that all promoters of such dances were at the G.W.V.A. Hall on Friday night last, where a splendid dance was arranged by the committee of the C.O.C. Ladies' Soft Ball Club. There was a great representative gathering of four hundred of our citizens at this affair and many visitors from neighboring towns, all of whom testified by the able and splendid manner in which the dance was conducted, free from any irregularities of any description. Trusting that all other promoters will be as vigilant as the C.O.C. committee, and put dancing in this city above reproach.

Yours,
A lover of clean amusement.
B. MILLARD.

BUS ROUTE.

To The Editor of Examiner:—

Kindly allow me space in your paper to offer a suggestion to Mr. Clifford regarding the buses on the C.O.C. Route.

If, instead of stopping at Byersville and returning the same route, the bus was routed to make a loop around Monaghan, Romaine, Park and so up town. There are lots of regular users of the street cars who could hardly be expected to walk to Byersville to catch a bus.

By making this loop the bus would then pick up the DeLaval trade, which is, I believe, considerable. Making Byersville the terminus practically cuts Romaine St. off.

Hoping the Hydro will see something favorable in my suggestion and thanking you, Mr. Editor—

I am yours truly,
Romaine St. Resident.

ENFORCE THE ACT.

To the Editor "Examiner,"
Peterboro',

Sir,—In recent issues of The Examiner you refer to the use of liquor at dances and other social functions and the fact minors seem to have no difficulty in securing a plentiful supply, and you ask "where does all this liquor come from. Where is the leak?" As a partial answer let me quote the following from the "Ontario Temperance Act."

"Where a person is found on a street or highway or in any public place, in the Province in an intoxicated condition he shall be guilty of an offence against the Act; and on any prosecution for such offence he shall be compelled to state on oath the name of the person and the place in which he obtained the liquor, which caused the intoxication, and in case of his refusal to do so, he shall be imprisoned for a period of three months or until he discloses such information. And the provisions of this subsection shall apply to any person convicted of having liquor illegally in his possession or under his control within the meaning of any section of the Act."

If those who's duty it is to enforce the Act would compel all found illegally in possession of liquor to state under oath the name and address of the vendor, the leak would be located and much reduced if not stopped.

All interested will do well to.

N. B.
Lakefield.

GROUP GOVERNMENT.

Peterboro', Jan. 20th, 1925.
Editor, The Examiner:—

Your editorial in a recent issue under the caption, "Group Government" is likely to convey a totally wrong impression to the casual reader. There never has, to my knowledge, been an instance of group government in Canada. If I am mistaken in this I am open to correction. We have had government by one or two groups, as the Farmers' governments of Manitoba and Alberta, and the Farmer-Labor government of Ontario, but never in the broad sense that political economists interpret the term, which means a co-operative government in which all groups in the House are represented. And what more logical form of government can be imagined? Why not representation by occupation? Every parliament has a preponderance of lawyers, who are a very minor fraction of the population. With all due respect for the lawyer's ability to legislate, he is not in sufficiently close touch with, and cannot adequately represent the greatly diversified interests of a country like Canada. Government has been likened to a huge business corporation, and the statement has been made that if the board of directors of a corporation handled the business entrusted to them in the manner that the government handles the business of the country, they would soon find themselves in jail. And yet who ever heard of seven members of a directorate striving to put through some important measure and the other five worthy tooth and nail to defeat their purpose. How far could business go under such conditions? Let us get rid of partyism.

In the same editorial you caution us from taking a slap at the farmers regarding income tax, and your many previous references to the same subject would almost lead to the inference that there has been a wholesale evasion of the tax on the part of the farmers. The answer is contained in the preceding editorial in the same issue—Monday, Jan. 19th—in which you say "In Western Ontario we have a great deal of farm land that is either vacant or not worked as well as it might be. Many farms are for sale; many thousands of acres of land as good or better than that in Alberta are not being worked. Moreover railroad service to railways and more distant markets (but that is in the Western Provinces." The truth is that the farmers are so burdened with concealed taxes due to the tariff that they cannot qualify for income tax. If farming is such a lucrative occupation why so many farms vacated and for sale? And in this connection where does the vaunted home market come in?

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

Editor, Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—In a recent issue and upon other occasions you took the stand against the principle of restriction of strong drink by law, such as the Ontario prohibition act. You base your objection to the fact that bootlegging is increasing and, therefore, a great deal of liquor is being drunk, sometimes even at dances, by unprincipled youths. While I understand from inquiries at some public attendance at some of the dancing parties entertained by the youths as a result of the ban, it stands to reason that the number of the latter is proportionately

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE WIDE, WIDE WORLD.

(British Whig Editorial).

Do not be distressed overmuch by news of evil. That is a wide, wide world. It contains much that is bad, but more that is good. Righteousness is slowly, but surely, triumphing over sin.

If you do not believe that, or merely have not realized it, turn for a moment to contemplation of happier things. Turn your tired eyes from the day's record of evil to the golden roll of heroes. There is more to see on the sunny side, and it is more worth seeing.

There are only two reasons for gazing at ugly things, either that we may more fully know evil when we meet it, even in gilded robes or that we may grapple with it and blot it out.

Broad highroads of honor lead to every worthy goal of life. The mud roads are in the lowlands, leading only to dissolution and corruption. If we travel the mud road it is at our volition.

Sin is not the harvest of life. It is the chaff threshed from the wholesome grain and will be swept from the threshing floor. Why look upon the chaff when the grain is there?

If some days the volume of chaff seems greater than others, know that the threshing has been more thorough.

This is a wide, wide world, and full of sweetness for those who find it.

AGAINST FLASKS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:—

Your attitude toward the flask on the hip at public dances in recent editorials is very commendable and will appeal to all right-thinking people. But you know that his satanic majesty has always attended dance halls with a flask on one hip and a pack of cards on the other. In these modern days when he is becoming more popular, "he is unveiling himself." This is where he gets his largest dividends.

Yours respectfully,
Reader.

EXAMPLE AND INFLUENCE.

The Editor:

A young person with a special talent can exert a marvellous influence over his or her immediate circle. This was strikingly illustrated when a girl of fifteen, who had a natural love for music, was sent to a Children's Shelter to await transfer to a foster home. There were twelve children sitting or standing around aimlessly, and without any special request or permission she began to teach them a variety of songs and soon created an entirely different atmosphere by her bright, cheery ways. Not only did the other children acquire a taste for music, but their whole conduct and character seemed to change for the better. The girl was there two weeks, but her good influence will last for years to come.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—Export buyers were bidding 50 cents a cwt. lower, and first purchases of steers were made 25c. to 35c. below those of last week. Export heifers were steadies and held at about $7.25 a cwt. The market on butcher's cattle was slow, with the export, and prices were easier. A bunch of near choice mixed handyweights sold at $7.10, against $7.25 last week. Good medium butchers were $6.75 a cwt. A couple of good baby beeves made $9.00 a cwt. Butchers' cows were not too firm. Export cows and bulls sold at $5.25 a cwt., and a bunch of Bologna bulls brought $5.90 a cwt. One load of good 1,050-lb. Western feeders sold at $6.70 a cwt.

There were too few calves today to permit of any change in prices toward a lower market. The trading was quite brisk, and top calves were 13½ cents, with all good calves 12 to 12½ cents a pound. Prices were quite firm all round.

Lambs are keeping steady at about 14 cents on ewes and wethers, and in self-defence on storage lambs, packers have to lend support to prevent any weakness. Today's lambs were of poor quality, and the prices were high on quality. One bunch of choice sheep sold at $8.50 a cwt., an advance of 50 cents a cwt.

Another light run of hogs held today's price steady at $13 a cwt., f.o.b. Packers are looking for a gradually increasing shipments from now won, and are bidding 25 cents a cwt. lower for today's loading.

RADIO TESTS TO EUROPE HALTED BY S.O.S. SIGNAL

International Broadcasting Proves Successful in Spite of Obstacles.

BRIDGE ATLANTIC

Ship's Distress Call Interrupts Dance Programs to London Hotel.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(Canadian Press).—After the opening session of the third international broadcasting tests had proved successful in spite of an S.O.S. call, an earthquake and adverse elemental conditions, the continents hobnobbed by radio again last night.

Station WMCA, whose scheduled attempt Sunday night to furnish music for dancers in the Hotel Metropole, London, was stopped by the distress call from the sinking freighter Solvang, once more tried to bridge the Atlantic with its music. But this and other stations were stopped almost as they began by another S.O.S.

Members of the radio week committee were still busy last night checking up the results of Sunday's tests. Repeated inquiries regarding the source of chimes that came on the air just as Lima, Peru, was signing off, showed that the sound came from that station when a chime clock fell from a shelf as the broadcasting ended.

"Eiffel Tower" Hoax.

A mysterious practical joking broadcaster who signed himself "Eiffel Tower, Paris," was traced to Philadelphia after the committee had received a cabled denial from France that the Eiffel Tower was on the air.

The source of another mysterious program which was put out on 490 meters has not been successfully checked, however. It is believed that this might have come from one of the Russian stations—possibly Moscow—which had shown willingness to participate in the tests and which were unofficially invited by the committee to take part.

Almost two hours after the S. O. S. call had been heard, and with broadcasting still suspended, the Independent Wireless Telegraph Company reported hearing an indescipherable message and what they believed was the identification signal of the Aquitania. Although the purport of the message could not be deciphered by the receiving operator, the belief was expressed that the message was not directly connected with the distress call. The Aquitania is due to arrive here today after a passage delayed by the storm.

The shooting for which Marshall was arrested occured in August, 1921.

MUSIC COMPANY ENTRIES FALSE

Testimony of Witness in Winnipeg Trial of J. X. Hearst.

ROYALTIES ABSURD

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 26. —(Canadian Press).—Describing as "ridiculous" the suggestion that E. J. Evans, a song writer for Hearst, could earn royalties of $115,317 between May, 1922, and September, 1023, that the Hearst companies could pay dividends of 105 per cent. in any one year and that sales of $724,000 in the same period could be made to the International Music Corporation, were the outstanding features in the evidence of Andrew A. Anderson, music dealer of Chicago, who testified at the preliminary hearing of Joseph K. Hearst, organizer of the Hearst Music Publishing Company, who is charged with theft and fraud.

Mr. Anderson had no knowledge of the International Music Corporation, and declared that it would be impossible, owing to the diverse interests involved, to unite the music publishers and jobbers of the United States.

The books of the Hearst Company contained entries showing the transactons in detail. Mr. Anderson said that all the royalties paid by all the music publishers in the United States would not aggregate the amount of $115,317 credited by Hearst to Evans. He also said that judging from the amount of business his company had done with Hearst, he did not think the latter could have had a net profit of more than $5,000 a year. He characterized as absolutely false entries in the Hearst books which showed that his company had bought goods to the value of $60,557.

Tossed for Hours Unable to Sleep

Now enjoys rest and sleep thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

About the surest indication of exhausted nerves is sleeplessness. You may have headaches and indigestion. You may be nervous and irritable. But the most distressing symptom is lying awake at night unable to rest or sleep.

Mr. Fred Ross, Dresden, Ont. writes: —"I certainly can sympathize, with anyone who suffers from nerve trouble. For many months I was afflicted with nervousness, and after going to bed I would toss about for hours unable to sleep. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was recommended to me, so I gave it a trial. I found it a splendid treatment as I can now enjoy a good night's rest. For the nerves, the best password I can give is 'Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.'"

PORTUGESE DENY SLAVERY CHARGES

Say Prof. Ross Was Misled in Report on Colonies.

By WEBB MILLER.

LISBON, Jan. 26.—(United Press).—Charges of maladministration and enslavement of natives in the Portugese colonies, made by Prof. Ross of Wisconsin in a League of Nations report recently, were denied by President Machado of the Portugese Republic in an interview with the United Press.

The Professor said the 75-year-old executive was misled and badly informed. Likewise, he did not investigate sufficiently.

"Portugal has given her colonies an unexampled degree of autonomy and was among the first to abolish slavery in her possessions and to suppress there the manufacture of alcohol."

THE CONVERSION OF ST. PAUL

(By Frank Russell.)

On January 25th is commemorated the Conversion of Saint Paul the Apostle to the Gentiles.

I do not purpose entering at any length on this miraculous event, for my readers have nothing more to do than to turn up their New Testaments and read the account as given in the Acts of the Holy Apostles.

I will briefly glance at the question, Who was Saint Paul?

From St. Paul himself we know that he was born at Tarsus, in Cilicia, of a family in which piety was hereditary. He was a Jew and had been given the name of Saul at the time of his circumcision. But as a Roman citizen he bore also the name of Paul, for at that time it was quite usual for the Jews to bear two names, one Hebrew and the other Latin or Greek. St. Luke, the author of the Acts of the Apostles, calls attention to this in Chapter 13, v. 9.

As every respectable Jew had to teach his son a trade, Saul became a tent-maker, or rather he learned how to make the mohair cloth of which tents were then made.

As a strict Jew, he took a very active part in the persecution of the Christians; notably was he concerned in the Martyrdom of Saint Stephen—the first of proto-martyr. After his conversion, his baptism and miraculous cure, he set about preaching Christianity to the Jews. Then he withdrew to Arabia, in the neighborhood of Damascus, probably for the sake of meditation. He was forced to flee from Damascus and hastened to Jerusalem to see Peter. Then he left for Tarsus and is lost to sight for five or six years. Then Barnabe went in search of him and brought him to Antioch.

But it is impossible in the space allotted for a short article to follow his various missions. They can be traced by a careful reading of the Acts of the Apostles, or by a perusal of his own Epistles in the New Testament.

We read in the Acts of the Apostles three accounts of the Conversion of St. Paul. Although these offer some slight differences, they are not difficult to harmonize, and do not affect the general story. Read the following chapers, 9, v. 1-19; 22, v. 3-21; 26, v. 9-23, which will tell the story.

Efforts have been made to explain the apparition of the Redeemer to St. Paul without a miracle; yet they have failed. It has been argued that either he believed that he really saw Christ but was the victim of an hallucination, or that he believed he saw Him only through a spiritual vision which he took in good faith, for an apparition of the risen Lord.

Falsely accused by the Jews of having brought Gentiles into the Temple, Paul was ill-treated by the populace. He was tried, but no accusation could be brought. Thence he was sent to Rome as a prisoner; and a vivid account of his sea journey thither, is recounted by St. Luke in the Acts of the Apostles; and it will be remembered that he was shipwrecked at Melita, which we now now as Malta. Later on he reached Rome, where "he remained two years in his own hired" lodging.

Thus it would appear that he was acquitted at his trial, for it is almost unanimous opinion that his Epistles were sent from Rome. Yet later on it appears he was arrested and placed on trial and condemned to death, by order of the Emperor, Nero—that heartless man of whom tradition said he "fiddled while his capital, Rome, was burning."

According to tradition the great Apostle was beheaded on the same day that Saint Peter was crucified, namely June 29, and that day is known as that of St. Peter and St. Paul. Yet it is a matter of dispute whether it was the same year, A.D. 64 or the next. As it is, St. Paul has his own special day, that which I am now commemorating.

The Church of San Paolo delle tre Fontane, near Rome, is built over three fountains, which are said to have sprung up at the three places where the head of Saint Paul fell and bounded after being cut off by the executioner. It is also said that the waters vary in warmth, the first where the head fell being the hottest, while the two others commemorating successive bounds are cooler and cooler. The body of the martyr was first buried on the spot where now stands the Church of San Paolo in Rome, but at a later period the remains were transferred to the Church of the Vatican, being placed with those of Saint Peter in a magnificent shrine, which still exists.

This day, being a day on which blood was shed, the ecclesiastical color is red, that is to say the vestments of the clergy and altar hangings should be red.

The festival of the Conversion of Saint Paul is a red-letter day and is held as a festal day in each of the Catholic churches, namely, Anglican, Roman and Greek. It was instituted by the church in quite early ages, in gratitude for so miraculous and important an instance of the Divine power, "a perfect model of a true conversion."

In connection with the day in question, it has been an article of constant belief during the Middle Ages, and even down to our own time, that the character of the coming year is foretold by the condition of the weather on this day.

Fair weather on St. Paul's Day betided a prosperous year; snow or rain were signs of an unfruitful one and, consequently, a dear one; a cloudy day was indicative of great mortality among cattle; while winds were to be the forerunners of war. I give an old rhyme, which is rather quaint, on this belief:

* * *

"In weariness and painfulness, Saint Paul
"Served God and pleased Him; after Saints no less
"Can wait on and can please Him, One and all
"In weariness and painfulness."
—Rosetti.

MARMORA SERVICES.

SMOKING CONCERT AT G.W.V.A. MEETING

Enjoyable Programme Was Contributed By Local Artists.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the G.W.V.A., held last night, was followed by a most enjoyable smoking concert which was thoroughly appreciated by the small but enthusiastic number of returned men present.

The birthday of Robert Burns, Scotland's immortal bard, was fittingly celebrated with a burst of song.

A splendid variety of songs and selections was rendered by the following artists:

Messrs. H. Rush, Chas. Coleman, T. Stazicker; Jock Smith and Bob Hendry, the Two Scots; W. E. Hodson, F. Pratt, F. Chenhall, and The Male Voice Quartette, consisting of Messrs. Pratt, Manning, Hurlie and W. Northrup.

Mr. F. Chenhall played the accompaniments and also contributed a violin solo.

The programme numbers were interspersed with the singing of popular songs from the song sheets provided for the occasion.

During the last few items refreshments were served and enjoyed by all present. A vote of thanks to the entertainers who kindly gave their services was moved by the chairman, Vice-Commander G. Coutts, and seconded by Commander Winterbottom, after which the meeting concluded by the singing of the National Anthem.

Any time is a good time to start carrying out a good idea.

INCREASED ZEAL MARKS ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING

Reports From All Departments of Havelock Presbyterian Church Denote Progress.

FILLING OFFICES.

Ladies' Aid Membership Doubled Since Disruption in June, 1925.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 25.—The annual congregational meeting of Knox Presbyterian Church was held on Thursday evening, January 21st, in the church. Rev. John Lennox occupied the chair. After opening singing and prayer, Mr. Lennox addressed the congregation, outlining the circumstances associated with his induction into this charge. He gave a detailed description of the four charges as divided by the General Assembly, namely, self-sustaining, augmented, catechist and student charges.

On motion of Messrs. D. Greenley and H. F. McNichol, the congregation voted Dr. A. S. Thompson to be secretary of the meeting—carried.

Rev. J. Lennox read from the report of Session that six new members had been admitted on profession, also the number of baptisms and visits to homes of the congregation.

Mr. H. F. McNichol gave the Report of Managers that showed praiseworthy zeal on behalf of the members in the affairs of the church.

On motion of Mrs. (Dr.) A. S. Thompson and F. Squire the retiring members of the Board of Managers, Messrs. H. F. McNichol, D. Greenley and W. Martin were elected for another term.

The Report of the Sunday School was presented to the meeting by Albert Wilson, showing the Sunday School to be in a flourishing condition.

Mrs. Wm. Hitchins presented the report of the Ladies' Aid Society, showing that the society is in a highly satisfactory condition with a membership double what it was before the Union disruption, that is, previous to June, 1925.

Mrs. (Dr.) A. S. Thompson presented the report of the Women's Missionary Society. Notwithstanding the small number of its membership the society made a splendid and successful effort to keep the members enthused in the work.

Reports of the Young Women's Auxiliary and Mission Band were presented by the Misses Reta Buchanan and Agnes Dewey, respectively, showing an excellent spirit of co-operation in both departments.

Mr. H. F. McNichol read the Treasurer's Report for 1925, showing a highly satisfactory state of church finances comparing most favorably with the best efforts of any past year.

Total Receipts from all departments of the church amounted to $2772.29, with a surplus of $372 at the close of the year.

Two new Trustees being required, Messrs. Wm. Hitchins and F. Squire were by vote of the congregation elected to this office.

The session reported the necessity of having three new elders to take the place of those who left the Presbyterian Church to become members of the United Church of Canada. On discussion it was decided to take formal steps to have these new elders elected.

Mr. H. F. McNichol was asked by the congregation to continue as Treasurer.

Mr. Lennox expressed the thanks of the congregation to Mrs. McNichol for her services in the musical service of the church.

Thanks of the congregation was proffered to Mr. McNichol as Treasurer and Mrs. McNichol as organist, to which Mr. McNichol made a suitable reply on behalf of himself and Mrs. McNichol.

A pleasing feature of the proceedings was the presentation of a reading lamp to Mr. William Mathison as a token of appreciation for his many years of service to the congregation and Sunday school of Knox Church. Mr. Mathison has served twenty seven years as Sunday school Superintendent and forty years as elder, being elected to the latter office in 1885, long before the present church was built and the congregation worshipped in the old church, just south of the village on the Marmora Road, when Havelock was in the early stage of its history.

The presentation was made in felicitous terms by the Rev. John Lennox to which Mr. Mathison replied, expressing his appreciation of the token and that it would help to stimulate him to renewed effort in the work.

After the meeting was dismissed by the pastor pronouncing the benediction, the congregation gathered in the basement where refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid Society.

THRILLS ADVENTURE

MARY LOWELL.

TWO GIRLS loved Jim Rand. There was beautiful, black-hatred Mary Lowell, who almost broke his heart. The gently reared, but intensely jealous Mary.

And then there was Olga Maynard. Life had not been gentle with this girl of the cabarets. It had bruised her and left her shaken and a little defiant.

And when the law, grimly following the trail of the murder of Henry Rand, pointed its finger at Olga, there was only one who believed her. That, strangely, was Jim Rand, the murdered man's son. No wonder she came to love him.

In "THE YELLOW STUB," THE EXAMINER'S great new serial, the author, Ernest Lynn, has created a thrilling mystery around the strange murder of Henry Rand. It is the sort of story that will find a warm spot in the hearts of all those who like mystery, thrills and red-blooded adventure—and that means nearly all of us.

But in addition, "THE YELLOW STUB" contains a love theme equally as thrilling—the love of two women for a man. It is a story that will hold you as few you have ever read before.

OLGA MAYNARD.

J. J. DUFFUS ADDRESSES MEETING OF HOTEL GREETERS' ASSOCIATION

Local Man, Vice-President Ontario Tourist Association, Talks on Travel.

AT TORONTO

Tells How Highway Associations May Promote Increased Motor Travel.

The following address was delivered by J. J. Duffus of this city, vice-President of the Ontario Tourist Association, at a meeting of the Hotel Greeters' Association, the largest hotel organization in the world, at the Prince George Hotel in Toronto.

The subject which you have asked me to deal with this evening, namely, "How May Highway Associations Best Promote, Develop and Increase Motor Travel" is one which could in a sense be covered in a comparatively short space of time as far as the Province of Ontario is concerned, due to the fact that up to the present we have a comparatively small number of such Associations, most of which have been handicapped by lack of sufficient funds.

On the other hand I frankly admit that there are no features in connection with motor travel that cannot be assisted to a lesser or greater extent by Highway Associations, either directly or indirectly, particularly indirectly. I say this for the reason that owing to lack of funds their most effective work has been accompished indirectly by reason of the influence which they have with the powers that be, namely, township Councils, County Councils, town and city Councils, the Provincial as well as the Dominion Government. Their actions in co-operation with the municipal and governmental bodies has been effective to a considerable extent in the improvement and building of highways and the "signing" of same.

In addition to the O.M.L., if I may term it a Highway Association for the purpose of discussion, there are four fairly active Highway Associations in the Province of Ontario who have been instrumental in advertising the province throughout the U.S.A., and have alsor been successful in the improvement and development of provincial highways through the districts in which they have been functioning, which has resulted in increased traffic throughout these districts and brought considerable business to hotels, corporations, commercial and merchantile interests.

Among these associations are the Blue Water Highway, Niagara-Hamilton Highway, the Southern Highway and the Trent Waterway Development Association.

The one which I am intimately in touch with is the Trent Waterway Development Association with head quarters at Peterborough. This Association covers the territory known as the Trent Waterway extending from the town of Trenton on the shore of Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay to the north. This takes in, in addition to the town of Trenton, the villages of Frankford, Campbellford, Hastings, Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, City of Peterborough, the towns of Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, etc.

This Association, much the same as others, and in fact much the same as the newly formed Tourist Association of the Province of Ontario, is financed by the Municipalities, Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, Motor Leagues, Hotels, Corporations, individuals, etc.

The main object of this Association is to increase the Tourist trade by means of advertising and co-operation.

The advertising has consisted of newspaper, magazines, pamphlets, etc. For example,—annually it has gotten out some fifteen or twenty thousand pamphlets a number of which were given both lines of railways to distribute, some to the municipalities and a great many were mailed to interested and prospective tourists.

In addition, annually the Secretary visited the New York Motor Boat Show, who, with the assistance of a Government official, was in charge of an exhibit consisting of an operating miniature model of Peterborough Lift Lock, which was very kindly loaned to the Association by the Imperial Tobacco Co., Montreal, which with a number of large and very fine specimens of fish (mounted) which were caught in the Trent District, weighing from fifteen up to forty-eight lbs. each, together with a number of splendid scenic views, made a very attractive exhibition visited by many thousand people.

Many visitors there and then decided to visit the Trent District, left their names with the Secretary, who courteously agreed to send them further information, and most of them took pamphlets descriptive of the Trent Waterway and its advantages.

These plans of advertising have materially developed Tourist trade to the district and as an evidence of the effectiveness of the Association's work trace of some $254,000.00 of American money was found in the City of Peterborough last year and many of the municipalities gave similar reports. For example, the village of Bobcaygeon from June 1st to October 1st $90,000.

After our Secretary's return it is quite usual for him to receive from four to six letters a day from enquiring tourists and when replies are made they are accompanied by charts, pamphlets, etc.

A plan which was adopted to welcome the tourists who came to the Trent District by motor boat is that the Association has standing arrangements with the lock masters along the Trent Waterway to 'phone the Secretary when a boat passes a given point which gives the Secretary an opportunity of being at the dock when the boat arrives to give the tourist a welcome and offer any possible assistance he might desire.

The name of the subject which we are discussing, namely, "How May Highway Associations Best Promote, Develop and Increase Motor Travel" has no doubt received its designation from the U.S.A., due I believe to the fact that there are over two hundred named Highway Associations in the United States and have been more or less active for a number of years. At present I learn that officials of the United States Bureau of Public Roads have been for sometime past endeavouring to determine the best system of naming and properly marking State Highways. Public enthusiasm of the past fifteen years has created at least sixty well-known Highways which are found to overlap in many instances and the greatest advertising Associations were able to secure the largest share of the ever increasing automobile traffic.

It is obvious that this system did not tend to develop the portions of the United States still sparsely inhabited but capable of development if sufficient information were given to the travelling public. I believe nearly all the Highway Associations have been financed much on the same basis as our own, that is, by various municipalities, hotels, corporations, individuals, etc., directly affected by the development of the travel on the designated highways and where other highway associations have come into existence many cases were found of numerous demands upon the public in certain centres to support this or that other association, which in many cases resulted in with-holding support from all.

The officials now engaged in endeavouring to entangle the situation are desirous of maintaining control of designation and marking of highways by Federal and State Governments to enable a uniform system to be used throughout the United States which will simplify matters considerably for the travelling public.

Many of these Highway Associations have had a checkered career. Some of them only known to-day on paper and in almost every case a considerable overhead expense has been occasioned by the employment of highly paid promoters and officials.

They have without doubt attracted the attention of the motoring public to certain highways designated and increased travel considerably to the benefit of hotels along the route and to the respective municipalities.

This is only a passing reference to the United States Highway Associations. In Ontario we have been more fortunate in the formation of Highway Associations, inasmuch as owing to not having so many there are fewer instances of overlapping, and those in existence have been reasonably successful in obtaining results in their respective districts.

"Signing" of Provincial Highways is entirely under the supervision of the Department of Public Highways, and, therefore, the matter of road marking should not be confusing to any motorist.

I have already stated that such Associations are supported by the public in the districts affected, but experience has shown that sufficient finances are not available from the individual districts to carry on a really extensive publicity campaign.

When we realize that there are 24,000,000 people residing in six States contiguous to the Province of Ontario and that they own over 3,000,000 automobiles, the possibility of developing motor travel in our Province can readily be imagined.

Over 1,300,000 American automobiles entered Ontario last year. Of these 85% stayed on a twenty-four hour permit, 200,000 entered the Province for sixty days and 2,000 entered for six months. It is estimated conservatively that the revenue from this traffic was over $24,000,000.00 and it is further estimated that of this amount 15% or $3,600,000.00 were paid out for accommodation. Surely a business that is worth while developing.

On account of the success of the Trent Waterway Development Association, as already mentioned, with head quarters at Peterborough, the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, realizing what might be done by a Province - wide Tourist Association drafted a resolution and forwarded it to the 1924 Annual Convention of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, where it was adopted and sent on to the Provincial cabinet, where it received endorsation.

A committee of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce was appointed for the purpose of further developing this idea and in April 1925, an Organization Meeting was held and the Tourist Association of the Province of Ontario was formed.

At this Meeting were representatives from all over the Province of Ontario, Members of the Legislature, Municipal Officers, Representatives of the Board of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, and all Motor Associations, those interested in hotels and many others. It was possibly one of the most enthusiastic and most representative meetings ever held in the Province. The Government was represented by Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Highways, who was thoroughly in accord with the view of the Meeting and gave it his endorsation and promised that the Government would give every reasonable support.

As already mentioned, this Association is a Province-wide movement. It is endorsed financially by the Ontario Government and its object is to encourage, develop and service tourist traffic in Ontario, with a membership composed of Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, Municipalities, Corporations, Hotels and individuals, paying nominal membership fees.

At the first Annual Meeting of the Tourist Association of Ontario, which was held in November last, all parts of the Province were again enthusiastically represented. This year the Association has undertaken to invest $30,000 in a publicity campaign, which will be carried out largely in eastern United States, by means of newspapers, magazines, motion pictures, radio broadcasting, exhibits and distribution of literature and road maps. Beginning with an exhibit and information bureau at the National Motor Show, New York, Jan. 9-16th, where direct information relative to the holidaying attractions of the Province will doubtless influence many tourists when arranging their vacation.

Co-operation with existing organizations and the establishment of district offices strategically located will ensure organized united free service to visitors throughout the Province at all times.

In some countries and states, tourists provide the sole source of revenue, and at present have handsomely increased our own tourist traffic, being estimated as Canada's third largest source of revenue. The public benefit directly and indirectly by an increased market for all products and are therefore prepared to enthusiastically support its development.

With judicious advertising of our attractions, scenic and sporting, the highways, and through rendering satisfaction to the tourist by well-organized service this revenue may be vastly increased.

From experience and observation, in my opinion, the first essential to increased motor travel is good highways. Satisfactory service at connecting points, such as bridges, ferries, etc., between the Province of Ontario and United States at ports of entry. In this regard the arranging of automobile accommodation on the ferry boats which ply between Cobourg and Charlotte would very materially increase tourist traffic from New York State to the northern and central portion of the Province of Ontario. Many tourists would come into Canada by this route and return by Niagara Falls or Montreal, and many of those who now enter Canada by way of Montreal or Niagara Falls would return via Cobourg and Charlotte.

Motorists when planning holiday trips make very definite enquiries regarding the accommodation at ports of entry and the condition of the roads and other facilities.

In connection with this one of the most important features is that officials at ports of entry should be men who are the acme of courtesy, well-informed, so that they may be able to disseminate authentic information such as will make the tourist feel that he is thoroughly welcome, and that we desire him not only to remain with us for an extended period but that on his return he inform his friends with considerable delight what a splendid reception he was given and what a remarkable pleasant holiday he had spent. This would serve to be a perpetual advertisement for the Province of Ontario as a tourist's paradise.

Next to these I believe is a sufficient amount of judicious advertising. Advertising for tourist trade presents the same difficulty problem as advertising an industrial or merchantile business. It is not so hard to produce subject matter, in fact it is comparatively easy, owing to the many sided attractions and advantages which the Province of Ontario presents, but the matter of effective distribution is a much greater problem. However, I believe that the newly formed Tourist Association of the Province of Ontario will be able to handle this matter in a very satisfactory way.

Good accommodation at reasonable prices is a great satisfaction to the stranger. Many of our tourists are people of reasonably moderate means and consequently this feature plays an important part during the holiday season.

Properly signed roads, uniform traffic laws and courteous traffic officers are important features. One of the difficulties during the past and which exists to some extent at the present time is that different municipalities have taken upon themselves to establish different speed regulations. However, I believe this is fast being rectified. Traffic officers can do much to assist in making the stranger have a feeling of security during his stay in the country.

For obvious reasons our highways and roads must be properly patrolled, as, unfortunately there is always the reckless driver. However, I am firmly convinced that if the traffic officers were as courteous as they might be, even the stranger, who is taken in hand would not find fault or feel sore if courteously treated, even though he may be forced to pay a fine. On the other hand, if a traffic officer is curt and uncourteous the tourist will naturally feel hurt and will not tend to recommend his friends to spend their holiday season in our midst.

I am of the opinion that hotels, garages and service stations should have their tariff schedules reasonably prominently exhibited, as it gives the stranger the satisfaction of feeling that he is not being charged more than the regular price. In the past too many such places have been prone to add something to the regular prices, forgetting the harm they were doing, and that many tourists return year after year, consequently it is to our advantage to not do anything which would create this feeling.

Many hotels, wisely I believe, have cards showing the different churches and times of service in their municipalities. This I believe to be a great satisfaction to tourists, as some are somewhat reticent in enquiring regarding churches and the times of service, not but what they are proud of the faith which they profess but more by reason of the fact that they were

"The Protection" that light affords

AN unlighted house is an invitation to unwelcome callers. And yet for less than the price of a car fare, you can protect your home with light, during an entire evening's absence.

A home half lighted is like a home half warmed—poor economy at the cost of comfort. Electric light is the least expensive of all modern conveniences, and costs even less to-day than it did before the war.

Whether you own or rent your home, you are the one to light it properly. But don't regard that as a problem—just use Edison Mazda Lamps generously throughout the house.

Near you is an Edison Mazda Lamp Agent. There you can obtain real information about good lighting.

CHORISTERS GUESTS OF CHURCH BOARD

Millbrook United Church Singers Entertained on Friday Evening.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 26—A unique and most enjoyable gathering was held in the basement of the United church on Friday evening, when the session gave a banquet and social evening in honor of the choir, the first occasion of the kind in the history of the local congregation.

The tables, arranged in the form of a hollow oblong, presented a very attractive appearance. Runners of red mariael the length of the tables, while the cross pieces formed a generous sized square at each guests places, the floral decorations adding to the general beauty of the color scheme.

According to the constitution of the United church the elders who compose the session have a responsible position, the spiritual oversight of the congregation being vested with the pastor, in addition to other duties. There are ten in the local church. Messrs. H. A. Earle, H. W. Johnston, W. Fred Fallis, J. Whitfield, P. Stinson, W. E. Ball, T. H. Aiken, Dr. A. Jennison and G. E. Burnham, and these, with their wives, not including the one who are members of the choir, were in charge of the banquet on Friday evening.

The menu was of a most satisfying nature from the standpoint of both quality and quantity, about fifty sitting down to the tables at 6.30 p.m., and it is doubtful if there has ever been a more thoroughly enjoyable occasion of a similar nature in the history of the local church.

Place cards elicited only considerable curiosity as to the seating of the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, and the choir leader, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, the organist, Miss Estelle Richardson and the remainder of the choir, Mr. Leslie Hunt, organist of Christ church, Port Hope, being seated of honor at the head of the tables.

Rev. Mr. Howard acted as chairman for the toast list and proposed the health of the choir, coupled with which were many humorous remarks and reminiscences of familiar hymns and anthems. The chairman also proposed the health of the session, coupled with the name of Mr. H. Aiken, to which Mr. Aiken responded in a few appropriate remarks.

A solo, "The Lord is Mindful of His Own," was rendered by Mr. H. Johnston, and was followed by a duet, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Mrs. Johnston and Miss Richardson.

Mr. Leslie Hunt, organist of Christ church, Port Hope, was then introduced by the chairman, and gave a most interesting address on the subject of "Church Music," dealing with the history of the hymn tune, and the development of the anthem, and the part played by the choir in the service of praise. Mr. Hunt's address was greatly appreciated by all present.

Mr. Hunt also rendered a solo, "Crossing the Bar," which was much enjoyed.

Mr. Hunt was then asked to preside at the piano, and the choir rendered the anthem, "Lift Up Your Heads," which was followed by a solo, "Abide With Me," by Mrs. Johnston.

Mr. Hunt then rendered a piano solo, "Rhapsody," which was much appreciated.

Mr. Hunt was then asked to lead the choir in the singing of the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," which was followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

INDIAN ENTERTAINS HASTINGS PEOPLE

Concert Under Auspices of Young People's League Enjoyed by Many.

HASTINGS, Jan. 26.—The entertainment held on Friday evening in the Town Hall, Hastings, under the auspices of the Young People's League of the United church was largely attended.

Chas. A. Cooke of Ottawa, the Indian entertainer, was present, and greatly pleased the audience with his songs and readings.

The chairman, Rev. M. L. Hinton, made a few pleasing remarks and then called on Mrs. Cooke for the first selection, which was a solo entitled, "They All Love Jack." For an encore the performer related an echo of a political meeting which took place in the province of Quebec during the recent election campaign. In this he narrated a Frenchman who spoke at the meeting mentioned in English in place of his native language.

The orchestra, consisting of piano, Miss Helen Wilcox; violins, Miss Ona Doxsee, Alex Shand, J. McKnight; and cello, W. Knight, then gave a selection.

Mr. Cooke again appeared in song giving "Bells of the Sea", encore, "Tum De Tum." A reading, "The house by the side of the road", was given by Mr. Cooke, piano accompaniment being played by Miss Carrie Doxsee. Another reading was given by Mr. Cooke, "That of an old preacher giving an account of how his old church members, bade him farewell when he gave up his charge." Another selection was given by the trio and Mr. Cooke closed the evening entertainment by giving a short address on the customs of the Indians.

Mr. Cooke was born, of Indian parentage, in the province of Quebec, living there until he was fifteen years of age, up until that time not being able to speak a word of English.

A musical trio was given by Miss Ona Doxsee, piano; A. Shand, violin; W. Knight, cello, followed the reading and Mr. Cooke then sang in his best voice, "His Bass Viol."

A silent recitation was thoroughly enjoyed when the entertainer imitated a bachelor trying to thread a needle and sew on a button; the latter seemed to be accomplished after numerous attempts, but on inspection it was found that the needle, instead of being seen on the thread, the end was on the back.

"The Blow Down" was sung by Mr. Cooke and was heartily encored, being followed by "Will You Marry Mary."

COAL SITUATION IS FAIRLY NORMAL

No Shortage in Some Ontario Towns.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—At question time in the House of Commons to-day, A. C. G. Dery, Conservative, Edmonton East, asked if the Government had heard that some Ontario municipalities were of the opinion that unless something were done to relieve Alberta coal for shipment to Ontario this week, Ontario would be confronted with a coal famine such as never before been seen in the province.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, replied that the Government's Coal Commissioner in Ontario had not reported any such grave conditions of things, that in Toronto at least one big coal dealer had said that the situation was fairly normal. He believed that in some points in Ontario there is probably going to be a shortage and he was getting a report on these facts at once.

The greatest vicissitudes of things equally empty is the vicissitude of sects and religions.—Bacon.

MONAGHAN YOUTHS HAD GOOD MEETING

Re-adjustments Will be Made in Dance Floor—To Have Sleigh Party.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 26.—The South Monaghan Young People's Club held a most successful and entertaining meeting on Wednesday evening last, and about fifty of the members were present.

The president, Roy Rutherford, was in charge of the meeting, and among the most important matters discussed was the remodelling of the floor in the dance hall. It was decided that the contract would be given to J. Lang & Sons and that the floor would be remodelled at once. H. Campbell and D. Rutherford were members of the committee appointed to oversee the job.

It was also decided unanimously by the meeting that the club should have a sleigh-ride and skating party during the coming week.

During the program the young folks spent an enjoyable hour in community singing, Miss V. White presiding at the piano.

A humorous reading was then given by Miss D. Hall, while a quartette was ably rendered by Misses V. White, V. Bradshaw and Messrs. D. Rutherford and S. Wood.

E. Barnard then gave a paper on debating, explaining the benefit of debating, the material for debating, the form, and the choosing of judges in debating.

A duet was also beautifully rendered by Mrs. W. Emberson and L. Tate.

The next meeting is to be held on Wednesday, January 3rd, and is to be a special meeting.

The young people are working hard to gain more members for the club, and already many new members have joined the live wire organization.

A choral society has also been organized in the club and the young folks are taking a great interest in attending the practices and joining in the songs.

Since the thaws of last week the young people of the village have been enjoying some splendid skating on the flats, where the ice is exceptionally good.

On Thursday afternoon last Thos. Smith sold his farm stock and implements by public auction. Mr. Noble of Hamilton township acted as auctioneer and both stock and implements sold at a good price.

Everything was sold with the exception of a new threshing machine and a tractor.

Miss M. Wood, teacher of the Brick School, S. Monaghan, is ill with typhoid fever.

A very interesting Epworth league meeting was held in the Union church on Tuesday evening last. The Christian Endeavour department vice president, John Porter, was in charge of the meeting, and the pastor, Rev. Foley, took the topic for the evening. He gave a very interesting talk on "Temperance". A Bible contest was also enjoyed, every one present taking part.

COBOURG CHURCHES ANNUAL MEETINGS

Three Are in Good Shape Financially and Otherwise.

COBOURG, Jan. 26 (Special to The Examiner).—Three of the Cobourg churches have held their annual meetings with in a week and reports from each were excellent. At the Baptist Church, under the ministry of Rev. J. N. Merton, all of the activities reported substantial progress, and there is an increase in membership. The Young People's League have started an innovation at the week-night services in "Bible Baseball," which is proving not only interesting but educative.

St. Andrew's Church

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Wednesday night. All reports were good, but those of the Ladies' Helping Circle and St. Andrew's Helpers were especially good. The session reported a considerable increase in the membership of the congregation and this, under the ministry of Rev. C. W. Goodwill, the pastor of Rev. C. W. Goodwill, the Sunday services were well attended. The report of the Board of Managers showed that practically $1,000 had been cleared off the principal of the mortgage debt of the church and that the revenue had increased during the year. The following managers were re-elected for a term of three years: Messrs. R. T. Hoho, John Kennedy, E. J. McArthur and Chas. McCallum.

St. Peter's Vestry Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Vestry of St. Peter's Church was also held, the rector, Rev. Dr. Boyle, presiding. Reports of the church wardens showed the affairs to be in a good condition with a substantial balance on hand. The different services of St. Peter's, including the west end as well as the east-end Sunday School, presented excellent reports.

The congregation re-elected Mrs. D. Denton as warden, and the rector appointed Mr. T. J. Henshaw.

The Vestry endorsed the proposal to raise an addition to the parsonage, to take the form of a sun-room with suitable accommodation and equipment.

Messrs. Harvey Noble and H. Shaw were elected lay delegates to the Synod.

PROHIBITION UNION CRITICAL OF DOMINON GOVERNMENT VIEW OF LIQUOR AFFAIRS IN CANADA

Infers That Federal Powers Lend Themselves to Sham and Hypocrisy.

PROHIBITION SUCCESS.

Would Bar Elevation To Legislature of Candidates Favoring Govt. Sale.

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—Opposition to the elevation to the Provincial Legislature of any candidate who favors Government sale of liquor for beverage purposes was urged by W. H. Aitchison, of Hamilton, vice president of the Ontario Provincial Prohibition Union, in his address at the opening of the Ontario Provincial Prohibition Union annual convention here today. Delegates were in attendance from all parts of the Province.

"In view of the well-night universal campaign against alcoholism and in view of the unquestioned economic and social success of prohibition in the United States," declared Mr. Aitchison, "it is difficult to understand the action of the Ontario Government in licensing bere saloons to sell 4.4 beer.

The annual report presented by Rev. John Bailey, secretary of the Union, made strong objections to the introduction of 4.4 beer. The report was also critical of the Dominion Government. It said: "So long as the manufacture and export of liquor is allowed and the federal government lends itself to the sham and hypocrisy practiced in the Customs Department in the matter of export, so long will the disgrace of rum running continue and the bootlegger get supplies by merely winking at the agents of the Dominion Government."

Oppose 4-4

The convention passed unanimously a resolution that it was opposed to the weakening of the Ontario Temperance Act by legislation passed at the last session of the Legislature increasing the alcoholic content of beer. The convention also went on record as being opposed to the sale of native wines. A further resolution asked that medical prescriptions for liquor be limited to one half pint instead of 40 ounces as at present.

Other resolutions passed were: "That the Canada Temperance Act be amended so that the manufacture of liquor for beverge purposes be prohibited in the provinces in which Provincial prohibition obtains."

"That the Federal Government be urged to abolish "home brewing" by refusing to issue permits for such purposes."

Pennants Convey Message To Peterboro' Citizens

History was made on the day that Nelson ran a bunch of flags to the masthead of his signal ship "Victory." Those who knew how to interpret the message spelled without difficulty the cabalistic symbols and read: This day England expects that every man will do his duty.

Tomorrow is Dollar Day. Hundreds of paper pennons strung in front of Peterborough stores are sending out their clarion call to those who can read and understand. Dollar Day means values. Dollar Day means sacrifice. Merchants have crowded their windows with countless articles which represent a saving to the householders.

If Nelson's sea dogs had failed to read his message—if they had been unable to sense the great appeal conveyed by those few words — England would have found herself in serious straits on that momentous day.

Peterborough people have been informed and from the experience of previous years they know the peculiar significance of Dollar Day. They cannot afford to ignore it.

CARD PARTY.

Sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral Sponsors Affair at Lyceum.

Under the auspices of the Sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral, a very successful card party was held last evening in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum. Over two hundred people were present, playing forty-two tables of euchre and five tables of bridge. Prizes for bridge were won by Mr. J. A. Sharpe and Miss Mamie McCarthy. Euchre prizes were won by Mrs. Ed. O'Toole and Mr. D. Leonard, with second prizes to Mrs. L. Riley and Mr. D. Condon.

Miss Margaret O'Brien had charge of the bridge tables, Mr. Thos. Turcotte of the euchre. General arrangements were in charge of the president of the Sodality, Miss Marion Hayes. Miss Marita Collins had charge of the musical programme, Miss Gladys Costello of the refreshments and Miss Mamie McCarthy of the decorations, which were carried out in the blue and white of the society. During the evening, a very enjoyable music programme was given, with instrumental selections by Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, Miss Lillian Hurley, and Miss Louise Leteilier, and vocal solos by the Misses Geraldine Collins, Ernestine McManus and Catheleen McCarthy. Accompanists for the songs were Miss Hurley, Miss L. Leteilier and Mr. C. A. Pethick of Toronto.

Mexicans Add Americans To Rubber Monopolists

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—(United Press).—American and British rubber companies are conspiring to raise crude rubber prices, according to El Graphico, which has published a statement from deputies representing the states of Chiapas, Oaxaca and Tobasco.

The deputies alleged that the conspirators have circulated false reports of the destruction by fire of many rubber plantations.

Foreigners interested in rubber here say Mexico is second only to the East Indies in rubber growing potentialities, but that high labor charges prevent exploitation now.

ADOPT NEW WALK.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The panther walk—product of tango and leopard-skin coats combined—has come to stay. All the poise of woman's body has been altered to achieve the slinky, svelte and silent glide so essential to chic.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

H. A. C.: You are naturally kindly and wish above everything else to serve those whom you love. But you do not always exercise the best judgment in loving and serving. Remember that others have not the same unselfishness as that which governs your actions.

Learn self-confidence, sobriety and self faith. You are magnetic but have not yet realized your own powers. Interest yourself in music. Make it a refuge from those disappointments in life that come to us all. Expect none of yourself and just a little less from others and you will not suffer so many small heartaches.

Do not associate with vulgar companions.

You will perhaps say: "It is too late to revise my life. I am growing old." Never say that, man. The young at heart are never old.

Remember that music will be a boon to you in many ways.

You were born on Thursday.

The date you ask about is a very good one for entering into new enprises.

S. C. G.: You ask when it would be advisable to change. That is the keynote of your character—whimsical, fickle and changeable to the last degree. And still you are right in desiring to make a change of occupation. There is something better for you in life than what you are doing now. Consider your change wisely—then stick to it. You will not want to do so, but stick—

You have unusual understanding and sympathy with others, when you choose to exercise that trait. And you have tremendous possibilities for good and for bringing joy to the lives of others around you—that is if you can learn before it is too late to practice self control and stability.

"He who dances to the devil's piping must pay the fiddler."

Your characteristics vibrate to no color hence your keynote is black, the absence of color.

C. R. H.: Conflicting elements guide your destiny. At times you are full of happiness and very light hearted and at others you are inclined to be gloomy and introspective. To conquer your own natural inclination to some mysterious ways is the work of a man. You should try to bring happiness and joy to others, but in doing so you will have to strive hard. Ingrained habits of many years are not easily uprooted.

Look for good qualities in others. Do not criticize. Examine the mote in your own eye rather than the beam in your brother's. "Those who bring happiness to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves."

Travelling and change of scene will help to keep you contented.

You were born on Friday.

You vibrate to any of the steel shades in color.

Groom: Naturally you have a very strong character, imbued with integrity, virtue and permanency, inspired by love, both personal and universal. But circumstances over which you have no control have caused you to look to others for guidance. And this is well. Do not rely on yourself alone. In union if it is the right type there is strength.

You have ability to face the circumstances of daily life and will succeed inasmuch as you co-operate with those around you—provided they are of a high type.

Your colors are red and brown.

W.D.: Life will at times be difficult for you. You have poise enough but you must remember that diplomacy is your watchword. You must succeed by cleverness rather than by force, and that mystical trend that disturbs your mind at times draws your attention from the practical side of existence. Instead of trying to drown it out, strengthen it. Make it your ally rather than your enemy. Do not strive for glory or renown—you will not attain them—but rather for a measure of self-contentment and influence through an increase in the spiritual side of your nature. This may appear far-fetched to you now but you will come in time to appreciate the workings of the unseen in your daily life.

You were born on a Thursday.

The date of which you enquire is past.

Varying shades or brick and purple will suit you best.

C. E. H.: Yes, you are quite well satisfied with yourself. But you will pay for your watchword. You must accept by everlastingly keeping at it, by plugging away at your job. Is it worth while for you?

How about your trend to religion? Are you smothering it under frivolity or are you going to let it have full scope one of these days? The time will come—perhaps soon—when you will have to choose between that life and the life of the world. If you choose the latter be careful of your companions.

Yes, you were born on a Saturday.

I regret that the date you ask about is past.

Any of the shades that border on steel will suit you admirably.

CHRIST CHURCH ANNUAL VESTRY

Rector Tells of Work Done During the Past Year.

SOCIETIES REPORT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 26.—At the annual vestry meeting of Christ Church, which was held in the Parish Hall Monday night, Rev. G. C. Clarke, the rector, presided, and J. P. Archer was elected vestry clerk. Mr. Clarke, who came to Campbellford in 1923, in his report on the conditions in the parish, said: That when he came here he knew very few of the people, but now he is acquainted with every one of them. Last year he had visited every family on his list at least once, and a number several times, as occasion required. He had delivered 122 sermons and addresses. There had been 15 baptisms and 21 had been confirmed. There had been two marriages and five funerals. There had been three deaths, Ernest Southern, Thomas Illife and Mrs. Ann Cassan. The congregation had been weakened somewhat by the removal of a number of influential members. The Sunday School continues to carry on its excellent work and the teachers are giving faithful service.

The choir now is a regularly organized body and so is in a position to take some of the burden off the shoulders. Harry Moore is president.

Memorial for Frank Linton.

Mr. Clarke stated that the Linton family had presented the church with an oak prayer reading desk, of handsome design, as a memorial to the late Frank Linton, who was a former official in the congregation. This desk, which is now in the warehouse ready for delivery, will soon be installed and will be dedicated by the Bishop of the diocese.

The confirmation class of last year had also presented the church with a literature table, which has been placed in the vestibule.

Rev. F. H. Hartley of Toronto conducted a mission here last Fall, something of an innovation and largely an experiment in the parish. Mr. Clarke said that while the results of such services were not always visible, he believed from expressions of appreciation that he had since their close and from enquiries as to whether Mr. Hartley was coming back, that the mission had been a success.

The Rector expressed his appreciation of the renovation of the rectory which has been made modern in every way and is a desirable place of residence.

Treasurer's Report

The report of the treasurer, A. J. Jenkins, showed that the total receipts for the year ending December 31 last were $488.81.

The reports of the different societies showed the following results

The Willing Workers, the report of which was read by Mrs. Neil Dickson, stated that the total receipts had been $1,305.21 and that the society has a balance in the bank of $728.94.

The report of the Women's Auxiliary, read by Mrs. (Rev.) G. C. Clarke, contained a detailed statement of the year's activities of this organization. The receipts were $210.08 and the expenditures totalled $208.05.

J. Reeve Newsome read the report of the Sunday School which showed receipts of $206.91 and a balance of $25.59.

The Junior Auxiliary, the report of which was read by Mrs. Agnes Moore, the secretary, stated that the amount earned was $51.27 and that the outlay was $43.45.

Miss Way Lang reported for the Little Helpers, a society that has always done effective work in the parish. This organization of juvenile workers now has a membership of 60.

Miss Ethel Bedford, secretary-treasurer of the choir, reported an increase of 11 members during the year. The receipts wre $102.99 and there is a balance on hand of $66.01.

J. P. Archer reported for the cemetery work, M. Sergeant for the Men's Bible Class, of which he is teacher, and Hylton Beatty for the Boy Scouts.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Treasurer—A. J. Jenkins.

Lay delegates to Synod — A. J. Jenkins, S. H. Neale, T. S. Baker.

Rector's Warden—A. J. Jenkins.

People's Warden—S. H. Neale.

Sidesmen — M. Sergeant, H. A. Lawrie, J. Ray, Roy Hardy, N. Alex. MacColl, Gerald West, Hylton Beatty.

Auditors — S. Bonnycastle and Charles Bedford.

The advisory board will consist of the wardens and the rector, J. P. Archer and Charles Bedford, former wardens, and the following who were elected last night: Major J. M. Bygott, T. S. Baker, and H. A. Lawrie. In addition to these the two newly elected sidesmen who polled the highest vote, M. Sergeant and Roy Hardy, will also serve on the advisory board.

Votes of thanks were tendered the following: All the officers and members of the different societies, to A. J. Jenkins for his services as treasurer, to M. Sergeant for his willingness to help in any branch of the work, to J. P. Archer for his services in connection with the cemetery, and to Hylton Beatty for his leadership of the Boy Scouts.

Miss Blanche Sergeant reported for the Girls' Auxiliary receipts of $63.08, and a balance of $3.87.

The average attendance at the Sunday School during the year was 112.

merely modest in making these enquiries.

Good fishing is one of the greatest attractions to an American tourist. I am told by those who are operating summer resorts that in many cases I am told by those who are operating tourists have been known to travel several days and nights continuously, arriving at their destination around five or six o'clock in the evening and in a half an hours time would be on the water endeavouring to catch their first fish. There is no limit to the delightful stories which are told by the American tourist on his return home, if he has been successful in catching a reasonable number of the finny tribe. In this regard I understand the Provincial Government is always ready to give every consideration to the replenishing of fish in our different lakes and streams, and consequently this is one of the things that should be taken care of by associations and persons interested.

The motor camp is something which up to the present I must confess I am not very enthusiastic about. However, in view of the fact that there is a demand for the motor camp and that it must be taken into consideration I feel that they should be strictly operated, licensed, supervised, a register kept and that nothing be allowed to take place that would be considered other than proper in our best hotels.

The beverage laws are a potent factor in connection with tourist traffic, and like many others, I must admit that apparently the present law is not entirely satisfactory and I am hopeful that before long such changes will be made as will be more in the interest of increased tourist traffic and more in conformity with the best interest of the people generally.

Town and city officials police and citizens should adopt a policy of welcome and courtesy. In the City of Peterborough police officers have been furnished with a goodly supply of cards and arrangements have been made with them that when they see a strange car in the city particularly an American car the owner be handed one of these one side of which contains a welcome from the Mayor an invitation to call at the City Hall and the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce and Motor League where every information and assistance will be given them in the interests of their visit while in the vicinity. On the other side of the card is a map showing the location of the different places of interest short runs from the city from five to fifteen miles the attractions at these points. This gives the tourist an opportunity of motoring out to these during the day and coming back to the city in the evening.

County Councils could be very effective in regard to assisting tourist traffic which is a source of great revenue to districts active in tourist accommodation as it produces a ready market for all products of the farm.

Inter-provincial arrangements tending toward a greater unification of traffic laws would be of great satisfaction to the stranger. For example, if speed laws of the different provinces and of the different municipalities were identical a stranger would have a greater feeling of security than he has at the present time. Many of our tourists enter Canada and travel through the different provinces and I believe the time is ripe for some uniform regulations in this regard.

Up to the month of October last year tourists from the U.S.A. brought $150,000,000.00 in revenue to Canada according to estimates of Government officials. This sum is equal to one-quarter of the revenue of the Dominion's wheat value and approximates the value of the annual mining output of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia combined.

More than 2,000,000 American automobiles it is estimated crossed into Canada last year up to that time. They carried approximately 9,000,000 tourists or one tourist for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

This in itself creates a home market for a huge amount of the product of the farm and garden, and it would be well for us if every municipal officer in Canada was aware of this fact.

The encouragement of Conventions in and to the Province of Ontario would increase motor travel to a marked degree and our organizations and associations could help to a very great extent this feature of developing our tourist trade.

Late fall and winter mororing should be ever on the increase on account of the color beauty of our trees and forests and the splendid opportunity for satisfactory hunting and later on account of our facilities for skating, ski-ing and tobogganing. Except in the Province of Quebec these attractions have not been developed or advertised. It seems to me there is no reason why Ontario, especially the sections close to the Border could not be developed to advantage and ultimately the revenue therefrom would find its way throughout the whole of the Province of Ontario.

All the features I have mentioned could be assisted to a greater or lesser degree directly or indirectly by Highways Associations. I have every reason to believe that the newly-formed Tourist Association of Ontario, if given the proper co-operation of district associations, municipalities, organizations, corporations, hotels and individuals, that it will fill a long felt want and bring to the Province of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada a very much increased tourist trade, which will assist not only the organizations and individuals mentioned but every man, woman and child, will produce a revenue which will help to relieve to a very great extent the burden of expense and debt which was inherited by us on account of the war.

I am hopeful that your organization will lose no opportunity of assisting in every possible way the Tourist Association of Ontario, which will no doubt directly work out to your own advantage.

The result is a compromise, the Italians carrying their point that the initial payments must be smaller than those later on, but the British obtained larger initial payments than those accorded to the United States by Italy.

GOVERNMENT TO CO-OPERATE IN ALLEVIATING DISTRESS IN COAL FIELDS OF NOVA SCOTIA

Ready to Supplement Action Taken By Local Government.

WON'T RAISE TARIFF.

Will Form Commission To Investigate Needs of Every Industry.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—The Dominion Government stands prepared to co-operate with the Government of Nova Scotia to alleviate distress in the mine fields of Cape Breton, if the people are in distress, starving," announced Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, in the House last night. "The Government stands ready to supplement the action that should and must be taken by the local government." He was, he added, communicating the Government's position to Premier Rhodes of Nova Scotia by wire at once.

The Government would assist in bringing to consummation the order for 120,000 tons of coal for the Canadian National. For the present, the Government did not propose to increase the tarift on coal or any other commodity, but within a few days the Government would name a commission whose duty it would be to investigate every industry in the Dominion.

Mr. Stewart's announcement came during the discussion which had supplanted the debate on the address. The day opened with E. J. Garland, Progressive of Bow River, reading a telegram that hundreds of men and women in the Alberta coal fields were on the verge of starvation. L. W. Johnston, Conservative of Cape Breton-North Victoria, followed by moving adjournment of the House to discuss conditions in the coal mining areas of Cape Breton. "The men want work, not charity," declared Mr. Johnston. "They want to be treated like human beings, and not slaves.

Criticizes C. N. R. Chairman.

Col. Thomas Chantley (Conservative) Pictou, said that Sir Henry Thornton, was ordering about 20 per cent. of the annual consumption of coal from Cape Breton by the Canadian National Railways. His recent action "was nothing but a gesture," the question of price for the National Roads' supply had not been settled yet, and those who sold the coal had been unable to get a definite understanding about it.

No mine operator wanted to 'bank' coal, because it meant a loss by shrinkage of about 50c a ton, but it was necessary that coal be piled between seasons of navigation if work was to be found for the miners and their dependents, whom Col. Cantley described as the "finest people on earth." He thought that Sir Henry Thornton, "this great importation from abroad, whom we have brought in to show us how to run our railways," should carry coal from Cape Breton to Montreal at $3.25 a ton, which would mean only a loss to the transportation companies of about a dollar a ton, and a total loss of only a few thousands of dollars.

Promise to Nova Scotia.

C. H. Cahan (Conservative), (St. Lawrence-St. George), said that Mackenzie King's policy in 1921, on which the premier had gained the solid support of Nova Scotia, had been that every pound of coal used by government enterprises should be mined in Canada and carried on Canadian railways, and coal used by other people in Canada should be transported from Canadian mines at cost. If that policy had been in force during the last four years Mr. Cahan thought the coal problem in Canada would be settled by now. So long as Canada was compelled to depend on the United States producers for most of their coal, so long would Canadians have to "bend the knee" to people who were now making unreasonable demands on Canadians, "and so long would Canada be unable to secure political economic independence from the United States."

Blames Government.

Hon. R. J. Manion (Fort William) said that Canada needed a policy which would ensure the use of Canadian coal in Canada. The Dominion however, could not get a policy of any kind when it had not a government of any kind. In the four years of its reign the government has been the worst government in the history of the world. It had done nothing at all to relieve the situation in the coal mines of Cape Breton and now that he (Dr. Manion) discussed the troubles of the Canadian coal miner, the supporters of "this so-called government" laughed at the whole thing.

Hon. Charles Stewart asked Dr. Manion to retract the suggestion that the government was laughing at the subject. Dr. Manion said the government had done nothing to relieve the situation, and "all they got was laughter."

E. J. Garland (Progressive - Bow River) asked what Dr. Manion's attitude was to a duty on coal, and how much.

Dr. Manion said that he would let the leader of the Opposition discuss the matter for himself. But he felt sure that if Mr. Garland really believed in the "principles of democracy" and had voted for the biggest group in the House, he would have got a coal policy which would have been a definite step towards the solution of the problem.

Would Force Purchase.

G. B. Nicholson (Conservative - East Algoma) [illegible] the duty of the House [illegible] solution instructing the [illegible] ional Railways to purchase [illegible] which would make it necessary for the Nova Scotia miners to work.

Mr. Macdonald, Minister of defence, interrupted to say that Sir Henry Thornton was willing to do it, but that it was up to the coal company to bank its coal throughout the winter.

W. H. Euler (Liberal-North Waterloo) also interrupted Mr. Nicholson to ask if he thought the Canadian National had a special responsibility.

Mr. Nicholson replied that it had, because it was the only railway which tapped the coal area and because the line had been originally built to carry coal. If the National Railway adopted the same policy as its competitor it would provide work for the winter months.

Maritimes Forgotten

O. B. Price (Conservative-Westmoreland) said that in the matter of railways, the Maritimes owed nothing to the rest of Canada. Those provinces had paid heavily and got little from the National Railways since the National Railways had been run by Sir Henry Thornton, the Maritimes had been forgotten, and practically backed off the map. "You can buy hotels in Paris and golf clubs, but the people living in suburbs in the Maritimes cannot get railway service."

Until the Government "wakes up to the idea" that her natural resources must be protected, Canada is going to keep sliding over into the United States." Dr. Price declared that millions of dollars were being spent in the United States today which should be coming into the pockets of the people of Canada. And orders should be given immediately for coal from the Cape Breton mines.

A. De Witt Foster

A. De Witt Foster (Conservative-Hants-Kings) declared that a situation such as this involving "starvation and hunger" ought to be dealt with promptly by members of the House. He believed that the conditions in the Cape Breton coal field had got out of hand through the late Armstrong Government in Nova Scotia, and the Federal Minister of Labor in the last Parliament. One of the chief planks in the platform of Premier Rhodes of Nova Scotia in last year's provincial campaign had been that he would effect a settlement of the trouble then existing between the miners and the company This promise Premier Rhodes redeemed.

"Human life is at stake," declared Mr. Foster, "Humanity on the one hand, as against politics on the other." It was the duty of Hon. Members of the House "not to play politics." The debate, he declared, should not close until the Government gave some indication in respect to the request now before it "in order that we may have some relief at the moment or as soon as possible."

Bold Policy Needed.

A. A. Heaps (Labor, Winnipeg North) described himself as a "Maritime righter" because he proposed to champion the cause of a very large section of the residents of the Maritime. He was in favor, he said, of any policy that would make it possible to market the output of Nova Scotia mines in competition with United States coal in Central Canada. It was not sufficient that the Canadian National Railways should order coal from these mines. The problem remained and the wider and bolder policy would have to be inaugurated if the problem was to be solved.

He had heard Hon. Dr. Manion remark that the Minister of Defence had sent troops to Cape Breton. Mr. Heaps was vividly reminded that a Government which Dr. Manion supported had sent troops to Winnipeg in 1919 to fight his fellow workers. He thought the member for Fort William might look to his own leaders before he condemned others.

"Besco" Brought Poverty.

Discussing the persistent Labor troubles in Cape Breton, Mr. Heaps said that he thought the source of the troubles lay nearly to Halifax and to Ottawa than they did to Cape Breton. A year ago the House had been promised that if the strike was settled, all the miners troubles would be ended. Today the most distressing conditions still existed amongst the workers down there. Mr. Heaps believed that "so long as Besco remains in Nova Scotia, the same situation is going to exist." He had been told on good authority that before the British Empire Steel Corporation came to some districts in Cape Breton, poverty had been unknown. Since that corporation came there had been one continual fight, with Besco fighting either with the Government, or with its employees. A year ago Besco had boldly threatened the City of Sydney that if the corporation did not get its way, the grass would grow on the streets of Sydney. Canadians must face the question of whether they were going to be bullied, or whether Besco was going to rule Nova Scotia or whether the people of that province would prevail.

Upholds Thornton

Why should Sir Henry Thornton be referred to so frequently during the afternoon, asked Mr. Heaps. He wondered whether or not the miners of Nova Scotia weren't merely a smoke screen from which to attack Sir Henry Thornton. "Instead of being attacked, he ought to be supported," said Mr. Heaps.

Sir Henry Thornton was trying to turn a railway which was a liability to the people of Canada, into an asset. How could he establish confidence in the Canadian National if he (Sir Henry Thornton) and his employees were at all times to be the subject of criticism in the House of Commons. Mr. Heaps said that he thought perhaps the greatest trouble with Sir Henry Thornton in the minds of some people today wae that the Canadian National Railway was becoming too great a competitor of the C.P.R. If anyone thought Sir Henry Thornton was not running the road properly, that person should get up and say so. Otherwise, he should not indulge in unfair criticism.

Miss Agnes C. MacPhail (Progressive, Southest Grey) commented on the "improvement" in the attitude of the present members from the Maritime Provinces toward the Cape Breton situation over that of the members in the last Parliament. The members representing the coal mining constituencies in the last Parliament, had apparently been quite indifferent. Some of them were now dispensing justice in Nova Scotia, she remarked.

BOY ASTRONOMER AMAZES SAVANTS

Has Apparatus For Guaging Stars' Movements.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 26.—Scientists in Denmark are amazed at the attainments of 16-year-old Bengt Stroemgreen, son of Professor Ellis Stroemgreen, director of Copenhagen's astronomical observatory. This budding astronomer has constructed an electrical apparatus which automatically registers the movements of the stars, thus saving astronomers long and patient watching through the telescope. By the invention the human eye is replaced by a photo-electric cell connected with a telegraphic receiver which measures the time of transit of the stars through the meridien. When only 14 years of age Bengt astonished the international astronomical world by writing a highly technical article on an astronomical problem.

Molded in the new silhouette, on tailored lines, this frock will be indispensable for general wear, to the smart and carefully dressed miss and small woman. Heather mixtures in the new blues, greens, buffs, wine-reds and copper, combined with a plain color for trimmings, would make one of the season's smartest frocks. Gold Dyed Fox Outlines This Evening Wrap of Black and Gold.

Dyed fur is finding its place in evening fashions, as well as those for Southern wear.

Fox dyed a golden shade makes the very attractive trimming for this straight line evening wrap shown above. The material is metal cloth, showing a gold and black design arranged in petal treatment.

Bands of narrow ermine, dyed in contrasting shades, are often seen on flannel frocks for the South.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

LAUNDRY POINTS FOR THE PARTICULAR WOMAN.

In this silken age there are many little dainty waists and undies that we cannot trust to the public laundries' doubtful mercy, or even to the more dependable home laundress. Particular women do their own.

Garments of crepe de Chine, georgette, rayon or Chinese silks may be safely washed in warm, soapy water and rubbed between the hands only. The soap should be white, or contain naphtha. After washing and careful rinsing in three waters, the garments should be folded in a clean towel or cloth and run through a wringer, or be lightly squeezed in the hands and hung in the shade, preferably in the house. When partly dry, they should be pressed on with a warm iron and the lace picked out with the fingers.

The delicate woolen garments need specially good care in washing. Use tepid water with white soap. Sometimes a little ammonia may be added to the water. Careful rinsing in the last water with a little fresh suds added will keep the flannels soft. These garments, after squeezing out the water, may be dried on a line or they be dried on a padded table and stretched to measure as they dry.

So many fabric gloves are worn nowadays that they must be washed at home frequently. Put the gloves into tepid suds; wash them quickly, squeeze out the water, rinse in tepid water and hang to dry.

Porgee and the woolen wash suits are often washed in bran water. A cupful of bran put into a muslin bag and steeped in two quarts of water for an hour or more, then strained on to a half cupful of shaved soap, makes the right lather. Soap bark dissolved in tepid water is excellent, also, to use in washing out black or dark-colored silk negligees.

Soft white felt hats may be cleaned by laying in corn meal for several hours, rubbing in the meal lightly. Brush when ready with a soft brush, and the dirt comes with the meal readily.

Silk stockings should be washed in tepid suds water and after rinsing should never be wrung, but pressed and allowed to drip dry, as wringing breaks the threads.

Nickle Instructs Magistrate To Inquire Into Warden's Death.

MADAWASKA, Ont., Jan. 26.—(Canadian Press). — Magistrate Chown, of Renfrew has received instructions by wire this morning from Attorney General W. H. There is one calling for which women would appear eminently suited, but in which, in practice, they do not engage. This is that porter to women's clubs. Anyway, all the prominent clubs both in America and Europe employ men in this capacity.

To a great extent women are barred from automobile and motorcycle racing in Europe. The Auto-Cycle Union specifically excludes women from racing, though permitting and encouraging them to take part in reliability trials.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1926

FASHION NEEDS.

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (United Press) —In olden times at a fancy dress ball The girls wore masks as part of a still. Today they Charleston and do queer jigs.

Replacing masks with colored wigs.

Milady no longer masks and lingers alone at a ball hoping that her beloved will eventually recognize her by the color of her eyes. Today she prefers to deceive him only by changing the color of her hair and so she wears a wig of some brilliant color such as orange, green, orchid or perhaps white, topping her own boyish features.

Often very bright colored wigs are dusted with powder to give a softening, pastel effect. A young lady at a recent ball in Greenwich Village, the Bohemian quarter of New York, wore a wig of sea-green hair, combed in huge pompadour effect. Another who was dressed in black velvet wore a henna colored wig and still another dressed as Pierette wore a gorgeous white wig, fitted with tiny flakes.

In London the Fashionables are wearing wigs made of glass, lace, bows, wool and leaves. Some of these novel wig effects are very flattering. And, since the opera fancy dress costume demands other than the bovish bobbed haircut, the wig is the thing! When one chooses to wear a wig for an occasion one should wear as eccentric a wig as possible and not merely try to wear a fashionable coiffure. False hair, these days, rather overpowers one since patches, curles, fetes etc., have been permanently discarded.

A wig that is unnaturally false, although dressed in the latest manner, becomes monstrous. Whereas a short, ruffled fuzzy bobbed wig of pastel shade sets like a halo upon the head of the wearer. It is then and the virtue is known as false. Tom Mac Murray has taken to the most effective type one can choose for the colored wig. And remember, that unless one wishes to look like a barbaric old woman one must choose a soft pastel color and not merely change from blond to brunette and vice versa.

THURSDAY CLUB.

The following letter was received by the Thursday Club from the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, also one from Mrs. Gossage, on behalf of the Red Cross visitors to the hospital.

Thirty parcels and about forty pounds of home-made sweets were sent to the soldiers at Christmas from the Thursday Club of Peterborough.

To Miss Edwards,
Rocklands,
Peterboro.

Dear Miss Edwards,—On behalf of the patients, we wish to thank the ladies of the Thursday Club for the wonderful Christmas parcels and home made candy. I gave them out on Christmas Day to those without friends and some badly disabled boys. They were all delighted and wished me to tell you how much the gifts were appreciated by them.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl nineteen years old, and I promised Bob a year ago to marry him. He says he is tired of waiting, but my parents object to me marrying so soon. I love Bob dearly. What shall I do? B. B.

B. B.: Talk the matter over with the young man, frankly, my dear, so that he may understand that it is your parents' wish and not your own, to postpone your wedding. He, too, can realize that you still are quite young and will understand how much better it is for both of you to wait until he is better able to provide for you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young man twenty years of age and I met a girl about a year ago. I asked her several times for a "date," but she would not make one. How can I gain her friendship? BILL.

BILL: This young lady has shown you that she does not care for your friendship, Bill, by refusing to make "dates" with you. You would not care to force yourself on her, would you? Then there is nothing else that you can do but forget about her.

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads—dissolve them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store and rub with hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe and sure method.

The postage stamps of the Irish Free State were designed by a 20-year-old girl.

Why Have Gray Hair?

Don't deceive yourself. No one really wants gray hair. The world accepts it as a sign that you are aging—and the world wants Youth.

Thousands of men and women whose hair was gray or becoming "streaked" have tried Kolor-Bak—and they are frankly delighted at the improvement it has made in their appearance.

For, with the aid of this clean, colorless liquid, gray hair regains its natural shade—not overnight as is so awkward and embarrassing when messy dyes are used—but so gradually that the change can scarcely be seen from day to day. Yet results often appear in a week.

Kolor-Bak has the added virtues of a tonic. It gives the hair a beautiful softness and lustre and at the same time routs dandruff. Try it. No sample of your hair is required. The same bottle may be used by everyone. And you can get your money back if desired results do not appear. Guarantee in each package.

Mother!

Be sure you get Pepsodent for child's teeth and gums

DO you want your child to have prettier teeth now, and better protection from tooth and gum troubles in later life?

Mail the coupon then for a 10-day tube of Pepsodent, free. See what leading dentists urge mothers to use as science's latest attainment in tooth and gum care.

You will notice a film on your child's teeth. That's a frequent danger sign—an invitation for tooth and gum troubles. The same stubborn film that you can feel by running your tongue across your own teeth. You must combat it. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight it successfully.

Film is the greatest enemy of tooth health. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it and imperil both teeth and gums. The acid that leads to early decay forms. Old-type methods failed to combat it. Men of science undertook to discover an effective combatant.

Now in Pepsodent, two new combatants are embodied—combatants approved by highest dental authority. It curdles the film, gently removes it; then firms the gums. It keeps the teeth whiter, cleaner, more sparkling. It is the modern scientific method for better tooth protection. Insist upon it. Get a tube today. Mail the coupon.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Nobody likes to be sick. It isn't any fun to suffer pain and to endure the discomforts of illness. But each of us must expect an occasional spell of sickness and must be prepared to endure it with bravery and patience.

Not all sick persons are angelic. On the contrary, it requires a great deal of patience to care for some ill persons. They are exacting and critical, insistent and ever complaining.

Each of us know how it feels to have the pain and agony of sickness. On this occasion we have forbearance and kindliness of heart. We are ready and glad to exhaust ourselves to give relief to those who suffer.

May I venture to advise those who are in beds of sickness, or who sometime, in going the way of all flesh, will come to beds of sickness? I want to suggest how helpful you can be in such an emergency.

The first lesson the sick person must master is that difficult one of submitting absolutely to the kindly dictation of the doctor and nurse. It is bad enough to be "bossed" when you are well, but when you are miserable and irritable and in pain, it is natural to feel you are entitled to have your own way.

But this is just the time when your way is apt to be the wrong way. This is the time when you must submit your mind and body to the loving friends who know better what you need than you can possibly know.

A doctor never prescribes for himself, because the very fact that he is ill undermines his judgment. His decisions under such circumstances are not trustworthy. For the same reason the sick person is not competent to direct the activities of the sick-room.

I am telling you about this now while you are well, so you will have it in your mind when you do get sick. If you will remind yourself of this advice then I am sure you will be a more comfortable patient. That isn't all—you will get well quicker if you cheerfully, or at least submissively, follow the directions of those who are in charge of you.

You must bear in mind that your nurse must have sleep and fresh air. Encourage her to take care of her health, so that she will be strong to care for yours.

Try to call for food and special drinks at a time when the kitchen is in operation. You know how it upsets you when for days at a time there is irregularity in meals, as well as untimely demands for service.

Dear friend, please take these suggestions in good part. I want you to be comfortable as possible and to get well quickly as may be. It isn't easy to advise the sick, so I am advising you while you are well. If you will follow this advice the doctor and the nurse will tell everybody you are "about the best patient I ever had!"

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS FINDS A NEW PROPHET.

My! How Doris did fret and fuss when her mamma asked her to he p with the work.

"I can't see why I have to work today, when tomorrow is cleaning day," she fussed. She slammed the door and made such a noise, Pussy Gray, her pet cat, who was asleep in the chair awakened, stretched lazily and began washing her face with her paws as fast as she could.

"Well, Pussy Gray," Doris laughed. "You must think this is Sunday the way you are cleaning up. You and Mamma both have mixed your days, I think. Mamma thinks it's Saturday."

"One must be ready for anything that might happen," mewed Pussy Gray. "You never can tell."

"Now, just tell me, what could happen on a rainy day, I'd like to know?" fussed Doris. "We won't have company on a stormy day like this. What else could happen?"

"Don't be too sure about the company part," said Pussy Gray, reaching back of her pretty ears with her front paw and rubbing her fur hard. "If you should ask me, I would say we were going to have company, rain or no rain, bef e the clock strikes the hour of twelve. If I were in your place, Doris, I'd do as namma says. I'd work first, and play afterwards."

rubbing, watching Doris out of the corners of her eyes.

Doris didn't hurry with the work, instead she pulled out her doll rags and began playing. Time slipped by and just before twelve, a great, big red car stopped out in front of the house.

Uncle Ben had come to take Doris and her brother to the show.

"Benny may go," said Doris's mother, "but Doris hasn't finished her work. She may go next time."

When the big red car pulled away it left a sad little girl on the steps of the porch. The rain had stopped and the sun was shining beautifully.

"Never mind, Doris," mewed a soft voice and Pussy Gray rubbed her soft fur against Doris. "You'll know better next time. Whenever you see a cat cleaning her face, you can rest assured you will have company before the day is over."

"I'll remember next time," said Doris, grabbing Pussy Gray up and kissing her. "It serves me right for not working first, then playing."

She ran into the house and never stopped until she had the place all cleaned up, then her mamma took her downtown with her.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27.

An eventful day is the forecast made from the long chain of very interesting planetary activities. A change, radical in its nature, may be expected, possibly making for new connections in business and in environment, taking one far from old affiliations and places. If carefully managed there should be substantial gain from this move, with increase of fortune and worth-while growth in business. Sign all papers with a degree of caution.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of important change, with solid growth and substantial benefits accruing therefrom. There is some prospect of an inheritance or gain through elderly persons or relatives, but all writings should be signed carefully. A child born on this day should be reliable, industrious and may attain to substantial position through its own application and splendid qualities of mind and character.

SAMUEL INSULL, OF ELECTRICAL FAME.

So slight are the threads of destiny that pull a life this way and that! On a bleak November evening in London a lad who was doing clerical work for the editor of Vanity Fair, to eke out his slender income of $2 a week, was waiting for a train to take him to his employer's home.

It was a long, monotonous ride and he bought a magazine to while away the time. It contained an article on the electrical achievements of Thomas A. Edison, then hardly known in Europe. It opened up wide new vistas of thought in the lad's mind.

A few days later he found himself without employment and turned to the "Situation Vacant" columns of a London newspaper. And destiny had definitely taken the lad in hand when he answered an advertisement in person and was engaged by Edison's London representative. He then and there made up his mind to equip himself for a real man-size job under the American electrical wizard.

He worked hard, mastering every detail—and waited. Edison had his eye on the energetic, ambitious lad across the sea, and finally a cable told him that he was wanted in New York. On February 28, 1881, Samuel Insull, then twenty-one years of age, first set foot on American soil.

His first day's work finished about 4 o'clock in the morning, but emulating Edison he soon learned to have a vast contempt for the clock.

But his yeoman service had its reward when, in 1889, various Edison manufacturing companies were consolidated and he became vice-president.

Insull continued in that position until 1892 when the General Electric Company was formed and he resigned to accept the presidency of the Chicago Edison Company. He found it a small concern with a total capital of $883,000 with only 4,000 horse-power capacity.

Insull took off his coat and soon demonstrated his constructive ability In 1907 the Commonwealth Edison Corporation was formed with Samuel Insull as president.

He is president, chairman or director of thirty-four gigantic concerns, extending over several States. Not a bad record of achievement for a lad who started with nothing. He has a 3,500 acre stock farm thirty miles from Chicago. That is his hobby.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Nobody likes to be sick. It isn't any fun to suffer pain and to endure the discomforts of illness. But each of us must expect an occasional spell of sickness and must be prepared to endure it with bravery and patience.

Not all sick persons are angelic. On the contrary, it requires a great deal of patience to care for some ill persons. They are exacting and critical, insistent and ever complaining.

Each of us know how it feels to have the pain and agony of sickness. On this occasion we have forbearance and kindliness of heart. We are ready and glad to exhaust ourselves to give relief to those who suffer.

May I venture to advise those who are in beds of sickness, or who sometime, in going the way of all flesh, will come to beds of sickness? I want to suggest how helpful you can be in such an emergency.

The first lesson the sick person must master is that difficult one of submitting absolutely to the kindly dictation of the doctor and nurse. It is bad enough to be "bossed" when you are well, but when you are miserable and irritable and in pain, it is natural to feel you are entitled to have your own way.

But this is just the time when your way is apt to be the wrong way. This is the time when you must submit your mind and body to the loving friends who know better what you need than you can possibly know.

A doctor never prescribes for himself, because the very fact that he is ill undermines his judgment. His decisions under such circumstances are not trustworthy. For the same reason the sick person is not competent to direct the activities of the sick-room.

I am telling you about this now while you are well, so you will have it in your mind when you do get sick. If you will remind yourself of this advice then I am sure you will be a more comfortable patient. That isn't all—you will get well quicker if you cheerfully, or at least submissively, follow the directions of those who are in charge of you.

You must bear in mind that your nurse must have sleep and fresh air. Encourage her to take care of her health, so that she will be strong to care for yours.

Try to call for food and special drinks at a time when the kitchen is in operation. You know how it upsets you when for days at a time there is irregularity in meals, as well as untimely demands for service.

Dear friend, please take these suggestions in good part. I want you to be comfortable as possible and to get well quickly as may be. It isn't easy to advise the sick, so I am advising you while you are well. If you will follow this advice the doctor and the nurse will tell everybody you are "about the best patient I ever had!"

DORIS FINDS A NEW PROPHET

My! How Doris did fret and fuss when her mamma asked her to he p with the work.

"I can't see why I have to work today, when tomorrow is cleaning day," she fussed. She slammed the door and made such a noise, Pussy Gray, her pet cat, who was asleep in the chair awakened, stretched lazily and began washing her face with her paws as fast as she could.

"Well, Pussy Gray," Doris laughed. "You must think this is Sunday the way you are cleaning up. You and Mamma both have mixed your days, I think. Mamma thinks it's Saturday."

"One must be ready for anything that might happen," mewed Pussy Gray. "You never can tell."

"Now, just tell me, what could happen on a rainy day, I'd like to know?" fussed Doris. "We won't have company on a stormy day like this. What else could happen?"

"If you should ask me, I would say we were going to have company, rain or no rain, bef e the clock strikes the hour of twelve. If I were in your place, Doris, I'd do as mamma says. SCOTS HONOR IMMORTAL BURNS AT 167 ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

Robert French Was Chairman and Rev. A. H. McConnachie Speaker.

HAGGIS AN' A'.

Biggest Attendance Ever Seen in Peterborough For the Affair.

Scots frae far and near foregathered in the Woodmen of the World hall last night to worship at the shrine of the immortal poet of their country, Robert Burns. In the words of the Chairman, Robert French, it was the largest gathering he had ever seen at a Burns' Anniversary in Peterborough, and he had seen a few of them. To the skirling of the bagpipes played by Piper A. Milne, the Haggis was carried around the hlla by Piper W. Petrie and deposited in front of J. Grierson who addressed it as only a Scotchman can, in the words of the immortal Robert Burns himself. The Chairman said that all kinds and all classes met and worshipped at the shrine of Robert Burns. He paid tribute to John Moyes the first president of the Caledonian Society in Peterborough, and who was present at the banquet.

Rev. Monsignor McColl.

Monsignor McColl, in replying to the toast to "The Twa Countries," stated that the two best countries in the world were Scotland and Canada, but would not like to say which of the two countries was the best. Scottish people, he said, were a remarkable people. They had exercised a wonderful influence on the British Empire. Scotchmen, he said, were proverbially successful, one reason for this being their educational system. They were willing to sacrifice anything in order that they might obtain an education and as a result they have trained minds. They practice self-denial. As youngsters they had to put up with hardships which helped to mould their characters for the future. Scottish people were to be trusted. No price is sufficient to make them betray a friend. They are a thrifty race as a great deal of their soil is barren, and they have naturally to be thrifty in order to maintain their families. We all know, he stated, that they raised a hardy and a sturdy race. One thing, he said, that he liked about Scotland was that she always remembered her great men. They don't forget the men who conferred honor and glory on their country. Coming to Canada, Monsignor McColl said we find that the Scotch had a great deal to do with settling the destiny of the country, as a result to-day you can even find Frenchmen named Gordon in the eastern part of the country. The highlanders, he said, were the first to scale the heights at Quebec. He was inclined to think that there were more Scotchmen or men of Scotch descent in the Houses of Parliament than any other nationality. If you do not find it so to-day it is because they are in the business world. Our country has a bright future, and the Scottish people contribute a great deal to its greatness. Sterling character and love of work, he said, cannot help but make them great in a country such as Canada.

Rev. A. H. McConnachie.

In reply to the toast, "The Immortal Memory," Rev. Mr. McConnachie said:—

In the course of political campaigns we usually hear something of the big interests, trusts and combines and vested interests that make for mopopolies. As a rule these are condemned as being unfriendly to the public well-being. However, I have no wish to discuss these matters to-night. I want to say a word for big interests of another kind. I believe that we should all take stock in Big Interests, big, human interests that elevate and enlarge the mind. For that reason I am devoted to Rabbie Burns. He is one of the Big Human Interests.

A great man, in any walk of life, is a great gift of God to the race. Someone has prayed that God would make no more giants, but rather elevate the race as a whole. Perhaps the day may come when we can do without giants, but assuredly it has not yet arrived. We need giants to elevate the race now.

Great scholars, teachers, preachers, poets, statesmen, organizers, financiers, all are needed to help the race upward. It is well to recognize the great while we have them and to do them honour.

We all begin life as hero worshippers. We mark the outstanding men of history, and of our own time and we secretly admire and wish to emulate the hero. "Heaven lies about us in our infancy." In youth we surround ourselves with heroes. It is a thousand pities that that glowing period ever passes. But usually it does. We lose "the vision splendid." Our heroes fade away as we submit to the rule of the commonplace. It is a tremendous loss. And it ought not to happen. "The vision splendid" should attend us all the way, making all of life great. Instead of that we lose the vision and we lose our heroes, and life becomes a dull prison-house. Hero-worship is discouraged, we become cynical, "every man has his price," we say; we lose faith in humanity. It requires a sort of new birth in later days to recover lost ideals. In the new creation, our heroes are restored and transfigured, and help to make our own lives more full and complete.

It is good to have our little gods. It is right to give them a niche in our hearts. It is possible of course to have too many of a kind and to waste our power of worship. So Emerson was provoked to say, "Heartily know when half-gods go, the gods arrive." In youth some of us had our little gods that came crashing down like Dagon in his temple and almost destroyed our faith in God and man. Losing the lesser lights we have found the greater that have stayed with us. We cannot make good without our heroes. By all means let us be hero-worshippers. That should lead to the worship of the greatest of all.

We are here to-night to celebrate the praise of Rabbie Burns—to recommend him as one of the Big Interests. Truly God made him in a great mould and invested him with power to move the world.

But the old, thread-bare question will be revived "is Burns a fit object of worship? Is it wise to advertise him and to sing his praise?" I am not here to defend him as a perfect man. He was far from perfect.

King David was a man "after God's own heart." But in his day, he was a greater sinner than Burns. He was guilty of the most criminal and selfish wickedness. But he repented and God accepted his repentance and he was forgiven. We sing the praises of King David, and we use his songs in worship with all his failings, he was a great man and a poet. Why not apply the same doctrine to Burns? If he sinned, he suffered and repented deeply. Why not believe that God accepted his repentance as he did David's? We do not condemn Israel's King to the blackness of darkness for ever because of the mistakes of his life. We remember the good and we use it, and we do well.

It is a peculiar, unwholesome kind of mind that dwells on the infirmities of Burns and is blind to his splendid virtues. Such critics are self-condemned. If they had more of Christ's charity in them and less of the Pharisee, they would speak lightly of the poet's failings. Even God forgets our sins and accepts our poor attempts after the ideal.

It is true that Burns did many things that he regretted. That only proves that he was human. It is not true that he was a habitual drunkard and a promiscuous lover of the baser sort. We do him a grave injustice when, in our ignorance, we judge him by the manners and customs of the twentieth century. Forgetting that he lived in the eighteenth. It is true that he wrote a good deal in times of excitement and mental agitation, that was unworthy of him. On his dying bed he was painfully aware of this. Had he lived longer, much that appears in print even today, would never have seen the light. But opportunity was denied him. Other great men have their faults hidden away from the public gaze. Rabbie's are all displayed in the light of day.

Yet here is the strange thing. While the fame of certain among the great, tends to decrease, the fame of Robert Burns goes on increasing, a century and a quarter, after his death. This is one of the high tests of greatness; the growing appreciation of posterity. Burns lives today more than ever. He enjoys not merely a second life; his influence extends beyond that.

In the Temple of Fame, there are many gods. There is Carlyle, for instance, a critic of Burns, not always friendly. But we are not drawn to Carlyle. His frigid virtues rather repel us. He lives in history, a figure worthy of admiration, but we are not drawn to him.

Burns is more alive today than ever and the hearts of men go out to him in love. So one might speak of Nelson and of Wellington, martyrs to duty, popular heroes in their day and still great in history, but they enjoy no second life. Burns measures up to this test splendidly. "To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die." Burns lives again in the lives of men today.

And the reason is not hard to find. He was a great human being, knowing all of life, its hardships and sorrows, its "crowded hours" of glorious experience, its failures and its triumphs.

He was no artificial product of the schools. A university education might have spoiled this great child of Nature. In him we get down to the bed-rock of reality and sincerity.

And so the heart of man goes out to Burns. He had a nature just like our own, and heart responds to heart. The best in the human breast goes out to the big-hearted Robert Burns, whereas we are often repelled by the ice-cold virtues of those who have been canonized as saints.

Burns was a prophet. He saw the dawning light of a better day, in which his message would bear fruit. Near the end, he said to his wife, "I'll be more respected a hundred years after this." It is not the case that he was ignored at that time. The best in the land were glad to correspond with him. But it is a fact that 130 years after his death we are getting to know him better and to appreciate his great work for humanity.

In his own life-time he was misunderstood. We are not surprised at that. Clearly he lived a century ahead of his fellows. (We say of Jesus Christ that He is ahead of all time. We will never overtake Him. He has light for all the ages.) It is only now that we are stepping out with Rabbie Burns into the freedom of being made in the likeness of God.

The poet's name is celebrated today more than ever because his message is better understood.

No doubt he is great as a poet, as the greatest of song-writers. We take that for granted and I pass over it lightly. To-night I want to say a word about his work for religion. I put that in the forefront. I believe that Burns was a great prophet and reformer; as Emerson says, "not Luther, not Latimer, struck stronger blows against false theology than did the poet Burns." Personally, I feel more than ever the debt I owe to Burns. The freedom we enjoy today was dearly bought by the poet.

It is safe to say that he grasped the lawardness of the teaching of Christ more clearly than the ecclesiastics who sat in judgment on him.

Wholesale condemnation is always wrong. There were some who tried to understand Burns and to do him justice in those days. There were liberals in religion then as now, progressives, men who followed the ever-increasing light. But for the main part, Scotland was in bondage to theologians who sacrificed to the better, of the Book and of the Creed, rather than to the Spirit.

We need not despise creeds. They have their uses. They may well mark the spiritual progress of an age. Thus, the Confession of Faith is man's attempt to interpret God in the Seventeenth century. It is a brave, logical document. At that time, the Protestant Church was still fighting for its life. Those were stern times. The Confession reflects the militant spirit of the age. But a creed is not valid for all time. A help to one age, it may be a positive hindrance to another. In Burns' time the Confession was more than a hundred years old. To not a few it was no longer a full, spiritual confession of their faith. A fuller knowledge of God made some of its dogmas impossible. They obscured the fair vision of God.

Burns was prophet enough to see how pulpiteers and ecclesiastics mystified the people and kept them in bondage, ringing the changes on the theological dogmas of the great John Calvin, such as God's Sovereignity, His Eternal Decrees, Predestination, Free-will, Effectual Calling, Reprobation, Total Depravity and Eternal Burnings. In the Eternal Purpose of God one might be damned five thousand years before he was born, as "Holy Willie" is made to say. This God "sends one to Heaven and ten to Hell, a' for His glory and no for ony guid or ill, they's dorn afore him." Or one might be elected from all eternity to be saved, independently of one's own choice or good works. "Holy Willie" was one of the elect!

"I bless and praise Thy matchless might
When thousands Thou hast left in night,
That I am here afore Thy sight
For gifts and grace
A burning and a shining light
To a' this place."

The same God made a difference between the children of the elect and of the non-ele t!

We are not surprised that Burns ridiculed the exponents of these crude ideas. They kept many good folk in the misery of suspense all their lives.

Again there was the doctrine of Total Depravity, "the corruption of man's whole nature." In human nature as we know it today there is nothing answering to that. No man is totally depraved. God appeals to the best in man. If there be nothing but sin, there can be no response.

These old ideas had their roots in a literal, slavish interpretation of the ancient Scriptures, and in a cast-iron system of theology. Calvin and Knox interpreted the stern God of their thoughts with relentless logic, but they left abundant room for the prophet Burns to show a more excellent way. Even in Old Testament times, the prophets brought relief to the people from the exactions of the priests. So we bless the name of Burns that he exposed these caricatures of truth and brought relief to many, and led the way to the freedom we enjoy today.

As a great teacher of the principles of democracy, Burns stands in the front rank. In this, too, he interpreted the mind of Christ, for Christ taught the value of the individual and that all men are brethren. The fairest vision of modern times is the brotherhood of man, of nations, which is helped forward by the League of Nations.

"The crest and crowning of all good Life's final star is brotherhood."

It has been suggested that Burns championed the cause of the common, ordinary man, because he himself was poor.

No doubt he was a poor man all his life, as was his father before him—not in abject poverty indeed, but never in sight of independant means. But to say that Burns was soured and embittered because of "the struggle for existence" is absurd. He was too great for that. He had a mind above money. What little he had he used carefully and wisely—generously when need arose. He was neither a miser nor a spendthrift. When he pleaded the cause of the common man he was inspired by a right noble spirit. He saw that "man's inhumanity to man made countless thousands mourn." He pleaded the rights of man as man. "All men equal before God and the law," was virtually his motto. "Why should a man bitter fare" he asks, and "A' men brothers." He felt the iniquity of the social, caste system as it existed then in Scotland. It is not unknown even to this day. The landlord, the titled "lord of the manor," the merchant prince still overshadow much of the country and village life of Scotland and England. To be in favour with the laird counts for a good deal in business and in other ways. The servile spirit is not yet extinct in the Old Land. William Burns (the poet's father) was a tenant farmer, and while he found it hard to make ends meet. And sometimes he had to listen to the "snash" of the factor (the landlord's agent)—who must needs extract the last cent, on him, if possible. How Rabbie resented the sway of the idle rich! He was a democrat by deep conviction and gave to democracy its noblest song:—

Is there for honest poverty
That hings his head an' a' that;
The coward slave!—we pass him by,
We dare be poor for a' that!
For a' that, an' a' that,
Our toils obscure an' a' that,
The rank is but the guinea's stamp,
The man's the gowd for a' that
What though on hamely far wi' dine,
Wear hoddin gray, an' a' that,
Gie fools their silks and knaves their wine,
A man's a man for a' that.
For a' that an' a that
Their tinsil show an' a' that,
The honest man, though e'er sae poor,
Is king o' men for a' that.
Ye see yon birkin ca'd a lord,
Wha streets and stores an' a' that,
Tho' hundreds worship at his word
He's but a coof—for a' that.
For a' that, an' a' that,
His ribband, star, and a' that,
The man o' independant mind
He looks an' laughs at a' that
A prince can mak' a belted knight,
A marquis, duke, an' a' that,
But an honest man's aboon his might.
Gude faith, he mauna fa' that.
For a' that, an' a that.
Their dignities, an' a' that,
The pith o' sense, the pride o' worth
Are higher rank than a' that.

Rabbie hailed the triumph of democracy and brotherhood, though it seemed afar off in his day.

Then let us pray that come it may,
(as come it will for a' that)
That sense and worth o'er a' the earth
Shall bear the gru an' a' that.
For a' that an' a that
It's comin' yet for a' that,
That man to man, the world o'er
Shall brothers be for a' that.

It was nearer in Tennyson's day when he "Dipt into the future:

It was nearer in Tennyson's day when he

"Dipt into the future
Far as human eye could see
Saw the vision of the world
And all the wonder that would be.
Fill the war-drum throbbed no longer
And the battle-flags were furled
In the parliament of man,
The Federation of the world."

Truly we do well to celebrate the praise of Robert Burns. He not only enriched the world with the greatest love-songs; he taught the worth of man as man and the value of true religion.

He is one of the Big Interests. To know him is to love him. There is no call to imitate his failings. Let us emulate his sterling qualities.

How heartily Burns would echo the sentiments of a brother poet of later days! "God give us men!"

"A time like this demands strong minds,
Great hearts, true faith and ready hands.
Men whom the lust of office does not kill,
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy—
Men—who possess opinions and a will—
Men—who have honour, men—who cannot lie.
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And scorn his treacherous flatteries, without winking,
Tall men, sun-crowned—who live above the fog,
In public duty and in private thinking."

JUBILEE VESTRY MEETING HELD

St. Luke's Church Held Fiftieth Annual Business Gathering.

REPORTS RECEIVED.

The fiftieth annual vestry meeting of St. Luke's Parish was held last night in the Parish Hall.

The Churchwarden's report for current expenses showed a slight deficit, but that for missions a balance to the good after all extra parochial expenses had been met. Suggestions as to how the deficit in the former case could be met were made and are to be discussed at a meeting of the advisory board to be held on the 8th of next month.

Splendid reports were presented from the Women's Auxiliary, Girls' Auxiliary, Junior Auxiliary, Women's Guild, Anglican Young People's Association and the Sunday School. Besides reporting a lot of work accomplished, each society closed the year with a balance.

Many repairs and improvements to the church property were made during the year. The Women's Guild undertook painting and paper ing in the Rectory, the A.Y.P.A. redecorating the interior of the church. A new furnace was placed in the church basement.

The Chancel Guild did not present a report, the Rector speaking of their valued work in looking after the altar and sanctuary and supplying flowers, specially mentioning the careful way in which the linen for the altar was kept.

The Rector nominated Mr. E. E. Lee, 29 Cricket Place, to be one of the two Churchwardens, and the vestry elected Mr. R. McKee, 546 Gilmour Street, to be the other. Mr. T. H. Adams, who held the office of Rector's Churchwarden for ten years, was personally thanked by the Rector for his faithful and efficient service while in office.

As the parish will be fifty years in existence on the 9th of July next, the question of suitably celebrating the 50th anniversary was left to the advisory board.

Votes of thanks were passed to the officers for the past year and also to the various organizations. Speeches commending their work and the clear, concise reports presented were made by Messrs. J. J. Turner, R. B. Rogers and Frank Adams.

Mr. R. B. Rogers was elected to the Charity Board, Mrs. Parsons to the Board of the Old People's Home, and Mr. E. A. Peck to the Nicholls Hospital Board. Mr. R. H. Parsons was elected Vestry Clerk.

At a subsequent meeting for the election of lay delegates to the Synod of the Diocese, Messrs. R. B. Rogers, J. J. Turner and T. H. Adams were chosen to represent the parish.

Rev. W. S. Edgar.

Rev. W. S. Edgar stated that he liked to meet his Scottish friends and hear again the delightful Doric. He said that the crowd present reminded him of a scriptural quotation, "The feeding of the multitude." It was wonderful, he said, the amount of affection that this humble son of Scotland had brought around himself. All over the world to-night men were meeting to celebrate his memory. The explanation of this, he said, was that Burns essentially was the poet of the heart and had touched the heart of humanity with his wonderful songs. In responding to the toast "The Absent Ones" the speaker divided them into three classes; 1st, those absent because of distance, secondly, those absent because of sickness or infirmity. These he said, although absent in the body were present in spirit. Thirdly, he said, there were those removed from this scene by death. Of them, he said, be it said that their love for Robert Burns and the inspiration derived from his writings inspired them to live better lives while with us.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, in a brief speech, in replying to the toast, "The Lassies" commented on the splendid programme that had been presented. He stated that he was proud of his scotch ancestry. There are more Scottish people, he said, in Canada and the United States than in Scotland itself. Their tenacity of purpose had placed them to the forefront wherever they went and it was all, due to the Scottish mothers who had denied themselves that their children might attain success. They have succeeded too, because of the type and character of the country where they were born. A nation, he said, stands on the plane of civilization exactly with the respect that it shows towards its womanhood and Scotch parents would always maintain the respect of their families as respect for others is part of their very being.

R. Gilmour.

R. Gilmour the retiring President replied to the toast "Our Club." He gave a brief history of the club and thanked those who had assisted him during his term of office. He made a strong plea for a larger Caledonian Club in Peterborough, and advised those present to boost the idea for all they were able.

Mayor W. T. Holloway.

In replying to the toast "Our City" Mayor Holloway stated that it was a mean trick to invite him there and fill him so full of "Scotch" that he could not talk. Of course he was referring to the people who were present and not to what might have been possible in days gone by. Sometimes, he said, you would meet people who were only too ready to knock this country or this city. Ten municipalities in the Province of Ontario, he stated, have refused to sanction any unnecessary expenditure. This, he said, was no sign of poverty but was an indication that the people as a whole were anxious to conserve in order that things might get on a saner footing. In concluding the Mayor stated that he was anxious to see Peterborough have an old home week in order that the people who had left the City might have a chance of coming back and seeing the city as it was to-day.

The following artists contributed to a programme of considerable merit, which was resplendent with Scotch songs and recitations. Every item was heartily applauded and encores demanded in no uncertain fashion. Miss J. Pattison, Miss Isobel Black, Mr. G. Reid, Messrs. Smith and Hendry, the Singing Scots, and W. H. Thompson. Miss Blanchard played the various accompaniments in her usual able manner.

THANK YOU!

The Peterborough Horticultural Society desires to express their great appreciation of the kind assistance at the lecture of Dr. J. R. P. Sclater, in the George street church; of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park for her solo; Mr. Charles Baker for his organ recital; the Peterboro Flora' Co., for their floral decorations; Mr. Chas. SPLENDID ADDRESS FROM REV. MR. TODD

Spoke To St. Andrew's Men's Association at Regular Meeting.

That the world owed much of its vaunted progress to the fact that men, called fools by their friends and enemies alike, lived their lives for the accomplishment of some idealistic purpose was the opinion of Rev. J. E. Todd expressed last night at the monthly meeting of the St. Andrew's Men's Association. Basing his address on an excerpt from the Bible—"Fools for Christ's sake"—Mr. Todd showed in his usual clear style that fools may not be as mentally incapable as they are depicted. Men quite naturaly object to being called fools but quite frequently some person fired with the zeal of his convictions leaps before the public eyes with some plan which he believes will benefit humanity. In payment he may be subjected to the derisive comments of the very people he hoped to aid; he is branded as a fool.

The Master, continued the speaker, might be termed a deep dyed idealist. One could imagine that people tapped their heads when He passed them on the streets. They possibly said He was a crank dominated by a crack-brained idea of saving human souls. Satan tempted Him by indicating what some would consider an easier road. He said that as Jesus had divine powers he might give the people bread and by doing so would win them to his cause. But Jesus resisted the temptation; He saw that His people needed more than food for the body.

Every youth in the beginning of his career must surely meet similar tmptations; must have offers of apparent short-cuts especially when those of mature years in the guise of friendship attempt to sidetrack them from their purpose. All truly great men at some time in their lives have been called fools. Abraham left his home to establish a dwelling place in a far distant land. He didn't know where he was going and was moreover leaving a good home. People must have derided him when he announced his intention. Caesar was called a fool when after much thought he decided to cross the Rubicon. He must have crossed a hundred Rubicons before he traversed the little stream in actuality. People said that Columbus, his men, and his ships would be lost; they would drop off the earth and never be heard of again. He lived to prove that he was right and everybody else was wrong. Mr. Todd concluded his address with a recital of Kipling's famous poem "If."

G. D. Carlisle, the president of the Association, occupied the chair. He commented briefly on the work which had been done by the members during the recent funding campaign. F. E. Kerr presented a very favorable report which chronicled the endeavours of the first three weeks of this month offering for comparison the figures for similar months, in other years. A great advance was indicated in all departments. At this juncture E. F. Reid assumed charge of the meeting and after deploring the absence of Mr. Marshall whose position he was filling he called upon Miss Fern Stenton of Mark street United church. Miss Stenton, accompanied on the piano by Victor Boorman, organist of Mark Street Church, sang two numbers which won the hearty approval of all present. "My Dear Soul," a composition by Wilfred Sanderson and "Little Brother's Lullaby," by Jan Broeckk, were those selected. A vote of thanks was passed to indicate the appreciation of the audience.

G. H. Roper recommended that a motion be submitted to the effect that the executive have power to arrange for the annual election of officers This was approved and passed.

Rev. J. W. Gordon desired the sanction of the association for the proposed plan to obtain from members of the congregation suggestions which would be of assistance in the general administration of the church. This was granted. Mr. Gordon then told of certain matters dealing with the rink which he, with the help of another, had succeeded in establishing. He wanted no pay for his own services, but thought that the other person was deserving as he had been without employment. After a brief discussion, it was disclosed that the resources of the association were nearly depleted. A collection taken forthwith enriched the exchequer by some $19.

The meeting was brought to a close by tendering a vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Todd and to the ladies who had prepared the luncheon.

AROUND THE CITY

The First Aid Class at the Y.M.C.A. had a final lecture last evening in preparation for the examinations which will be held on Wednesday evening of this week. This class is made up of representatives from the factories and plants of the city and has been coached by Dr. Yelland. Dr. McPherson will be the examiner.

Chimney fires still continue to give the firemen trouble. Yesterday afternoon and this morning they received three calls but no damage was caused. The calls were as follows: 54 James Street, 481 Albert Street, and Turnbull's Store.

Two cars collided at noon to-day at the corner of Hunter and George streets, with the result that some damage was done to fenders and paint. One car was that of J. H. Vernor, who was proceeding east, while the other was a Pure Bread truck, owned by a Lindsay firm, and driven by W. J. Monerlef, which was proceeding south.

The man who thought a buggy was good enough

In the old days, a solid, conservative citizen might sniff and tell you he didn't read advertising.

He didn't think so much of the horseless carriage, either. The telephone was newfangled, and an insult to the United States mails.

As for radio, aeroplanes, wireless photography—if they had been born then, he probably would have thought them a bit immoral.

But he's changed. He's been educated. His point of view has been made broader and more modern. He has been civilized—by the automobile, the telephone, radio, advertising.

Every single one has opened up new paths for him, taught him new things. Advertising, especially. Advertising tells him the newest things to wear, the best things to eat. Advertising tells his wife how to make a home up to date and attractive. Advertising tells him the prices to pay for things he buys, saves him from the old-fashioned ways of doing business—helps him live well, keeps him modern.

Advertising can help you. The advertisements in this newspaper are here to tell you many things that make life more comfortable, more interesting, happier. Read them faithfully. They'll keep you abreast of the times. They'll prevent you from becoming the type of old fogy who—sniff!—doesn't read advertising.

Advertising is the key to modernity

BASKETBALL

By THE CAPTAIN

NO. 12—CENTER ON DEFENSE

Don't ask to get jump the other fellow or fulfill the duties of an offensive player unless you're ready to follow up. You must also be able to play a defensive game against four opponents whether your team-mates are on the expand or not.

Be able to get loose and take the ball on

...ers or they may find themselves incapable of putting the proper combinations effectively. Then is when your speed and ability to dodge or hard knocks will be especially tested.

If your man is not getting the ball, either because of your inability to out-jump the other fellow or because your other players are being watched closely, be sure you are careful that the rival center doesn't get loose.

Unless you're in the play to score and either take or make a pass for a shot for better play in front of your man. Don't let him edge you out and dash to his net. Stay between him and the basket so that the ball is in the other team's possession.

Of course, if any player breaks away clearly to you that you can reach out your arm and effect a clean interception of the ball, do so. If the rival center is any other member of the team shoots for his goal on a long shot throw up your arm but don't let anyone to contest with him. The move is more to throw off his aim than to block the shot.

When the ball is near the other team's basket watch for any chance you get to take one of your height. Naturally being a center you will probably be either the tallest on your side or able to jump higher than any other member of your team. Make use of your height at the same time play the game the same as any player would play for defense.

ROUGH GAME IS HAMILTON VIEW

Rowing Club Disappointed Their Supporters—Showed Nothing Here.

NOT ROAD TEAM

HAMILTON, Jan. 26.— Rowing Club officials are at a loss to account for the strange reversals of form shown by the Senior team in the games away from home, and in spite of their reluctance in accepting such a thought, they are gradually becoming convinced that the team cannot play away from home.

In every game away this season the Oarsmen have been beaten by substantial majorities. Scores of 8 to 1, 12 to 1, and 10 to 1, have been registered against them, strangely different from the rather close scores which have been chalked up in the games here.

On Saturday night Peterboro swung the axe and ran in ten counters against the Scullers, while holding the latter to one lone counter. Even the Peterboro fans were surprized, for they figured that any team that could hold Osgoode Hall to a 5—4 score would have more than ordinary success against the Petes, who were previously shut out by the Lawyers.

"It looks as if the team cannot play when they get off their own ice," Bob White said yesterday. "While we were badly outplayed at Peterboro, there was no reason for such a margin, and I cannot conceive how the team changes form so quickly. In the game against Osgoode Hall here, the squad looked fairly smart, but they showed absolutely no form at all in Peterboro."

The Peterboro team, White stated, didn't have to show anything out of the ordinary to stop the Scullers. The Oarsmen were bad in every department. Smith and Galbraith both admitted after the game that they were at fault on a number of the goals scored by the opposition, and the front line was very weak. Goudie didn't turn in anything like the exhibition he showed against Osgoode Hall here, and Harris had to be relieved frequently by Kirk.

"Our boys carried their sticks high all night," added White, "and they got away with plenty owing to the laxity of the referee. Harry Batstone. Peterboro showed a lot of wood-chopping, also, and they were not penalized nearly as often as we were. Goudie got a bad crack across the nose from one swung stick during the game, and several of the Peterboro players were injured in the routh play."

Poor Official

Batstone, according to the local official, failed to prove his worth as a referee. He showed a tendency to favor the Petes and allowed considerable rough play to go unchallenged. However he is not the only official the Oarsmen have complained about this season. Lou Marsh is the only official to render complete satisfaction to the Oarsmen this season.

ANOTHER NEW YORK ARENA FOR SPORTS

Plans Reported for a $3,000,000 Structure.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—H. C. Caldwell, described as a consulting engineer and prominent hockey arena designer, is in the city conferring with several "butter and egg" men, with a view to completing the details of the construction of another mammoth sports structure is this city, states Frank C. Casale, in the New York Telegraph. The proposed building will seat 30,000 persons, and the cost will exceed $3,000,000, it is stated. It will be designed to meet the requirements and necessities of hockey, boxing, skating, etc.

"Caldwell has been prevailed upon to consider a proposition to organize a new major international league, which is likely to get under way some time next year," the writer says. "Only big cities will be admitted to the circuit, the idea being to parallel its status and calibre to that of the present National Hockey League."

E. J. Livingstone, of Toronto, is at the head of the new project, it is stated.

ONE GOAL TIE AT NEW YORK

Montreal Maroons and Madisons Battled 20 Minutes' Overtime.

THRILLING GAME.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—Montreal's marauding Maroons and the New York Americans put on the most thrilling spectacle of the National Hockey League season in New York last night, but although 20 minutes overtime was run off the one goal tie could not be broken. Fighting back shot for shot, attack for attack the Madisons raised themselves to a fighting pitch that the Montreals could not batter down.

The last 10 minutes was real fast hockey. C. Tuck getting the draw passed the puck to Defosey who rushed down the side and passed back to Tuck who shot but Foley saved. IMPRESSIVE WIN BY HELEN WILLS Defeated Second Best Woman on French Courts in Tournament.

STRAIGHT SETS

CANNES, France, Jan. 23. (Canadian Press). — Suzanne Lenglen alone remains between Helen Wills and the tennis championship of France. The California girl yesterday, after a strenuous battle in the finals of the Metropole tournament, defeated Mlle. Vlasto, who ranks No. 2 among the women tennis players of France, by a score of 6-3, 7-5.

On Saturday she defeated Mlle. Contostavos, ranking No. 3. She now has no other opponent worthy of her racquet until she meets the mighty Suzanne.

Miss Wills' victory was easier than the score indicates; she played well within her best form, letting the French girl lead the attack until threatened, then herself applying a little more skill and power and winning with plenty in reserve.

Miss Wills won the first two games; then her opponent evened matters, later bringing the score to 3 all, but the United States champion ran out three games and won the set.

Pressed in Second Set.

Things looked dark for the Californian in the second set, with Mlle. Vlasto leading 5-3. Then again super-coolness and fighting spirit were revealed and Miss Wills took four games, the set and the match.

It was thought by experts that Miss Wills made a mistake in playing exclusively to her opponent's backhand, which she believed to be as weak as in 1924, when the American girl won over her in the Olympic. She showed her adaptabilities, however, later by smashing every ball to the base line corners and running Mlle. Vlasto weary. The French player was so tired after the match that she was unable to go on with Mlle. Lenglen in the finals of the women's doubles, and she requested that this be postponed until Tuesday.

Jacques Brugnon, France, who had defeated G. H. Mayes in the finals of the men's singles, 3-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, also begged to be excused for the mixed doubles.

The spectators, deprived of seeing the great Lenglen play, staged a miniature riot and demanded their money back.

JUNIOR HOCKEY.

GENE SARAZEN—APOSTLE OF PRACTICE

Sarazen

From the time I began playing golf I have never failed to watch all of the leading players closely and to note how they make their shots. Nobody knows it all and I have taken something from the game of at least 10 of our star golfers, including Hagen, Hutchison, Barnes, Aleck Smith, Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Jesse Guilford, Bobby Jones and others.

The mechanics of my golf swing are entirely my own. I worked out the stroke to my own satisfaction in hours of diligent practice. In fact, hard work and plenty of that is what has enabled me to win. Tournament play, the teachings of George Sparling and watching others have helped.

I cannot too strongly emphasize the importance of practice. I realize that in some respects it is drudgery.

But consider these few facts: It takes from two and one-half to three hours to play a round of 18 holes. In that round you will not hit more than 18 drives, nor more than a dozen of each of the other shots in the ag. In an hour of plain, simple practice you can hit 30 shots at least with each club in your bag.

HAVELOCK SURE TO WIN GROUP

Campbellford Would Have To Win Twice in Railway Town.

RAILROADERS WON.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 26. — The Havelock Intermediates practically cinched group honors in the Trent Valley League when they defeated Campbellford here last night by 4 goals to 2. It was Campbellford's second defeat on home ice at the hands of Havelock, and the local boys would have to win both their remaining games in Havelock to tie up the group.

The game was not as thrilling as the first encounter between these teams except in the last period. When "Norm" Heayans' boys pressed the Havelock gang hard trying to even up the score. They scored once on a nice combination between McArthur and Cowell, "Jack" doing the shooting and missed several others by the narrowest of margins.

The checking was very close and it was seldom the puck carrier got very far before losing possession of the rubber.

Havelock was without Quinn, their big defence man, and Hooper was pulled out of the nets to fill his place. Davidson took Hooper's place between the sticks and the shift apparently didn't weaken the invaders in the least. Davidson turned in a smarter game in goal than Hooper showed in the previous encounter and Hooper was just as good as Quinn out in front. Hooper served the only three penalties of the game and scored two goals, by being in the right place at the right time. He followed Charlie Brennan down on rush, and when Brennan was chased into the corner Hooper camped in front of the net, and "Charlie's" pass out came right to him, and he slammed it home, for the only score of the 1st period. He got the other at the start of the third by batting in the rebound of Jack's shot.

Doug Brennan got the other two Havelock counters both on individual rushes, the locals finding him a very hard man to stop. He was the pick of the railroaders, and relieved the situation many times by brilliant rushes down the ice, when his team mates failed to make an impression.

Blue was about the most useful player wearing an orange and black jersey. He had the best of the majority of his encounters with Brennan and he and McArthur seemed to be about the only ones who had any success checking the Havelock star, when he had possession of the puck.

"Bill's" goal to tie up the game in the second period was a nice effort. He carried it behind the net around Brennan and Hooper and flipped it into the corner of the net. McArthur, although nursing a sprained wrist turned in a very useful game, the Havelock snipers finding him very hard to get around. It was hard luck more than anything else kept him off the score sheet in the last period. All the boys gave all they had to win but it wasn't enough. Havelock deserved their win in both encounters and with another Brennan or Wright at centre ice would take a lot of beating.

Campbellford—Fox, goal; Flint, r. defence; McArthur, l. defence; Blue, centre; Lebrash, r. wing; Cowell, l. wing; Rouselle and Ayrhart, subs.

Havelock—Davidson, goal; Hooper, r. defence; Brennan, l. defence; Jack, centre; Wright, r. wing; Brennan, l. wing; Liang and Armstrong, subs.

Referee, Jack Nesbitt, Campbellford.

Hockey fans sure have a heavy program for this week. Belleville Hydro clashing with local Hydro tonight. Wednesday night the Town league gets under way with two games, the Hydro taking on the Outlaws and Menie battling the Campbellford Cloth Co. in the other fixture.

Friday night the High School holds sway when it will try to reverse the decision with the much improved Desoronto team.

VISITING CURLERS.

Two Millbrook Rinks To Attend Peterborough Bonspiel.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 26. — Two rinks of local curlers went to Peterborough to-day to compete in the annual bonspiel from which, last year, they were successful in bringing home the Matthews-Blackwell Cup. Those going this year are: H. J. Grassett, W. G. Sayles, W. E. Ball, R. H. Edmunds, skip; W. Whyte, W. G. Hetherington, J. N. McGill, J. Steele, skip.

R. H. Edmunds' rink, in addition to the trophy mentioned, won the Carew Cup from a rink of the Granite Club, Toronto, but lost it again within two weeks to Stouffville, when the game was played on the home ice.

OSHAWA, Jan. 26 (Special to The Examiner). — Three Oshawa rinks of curlers left for Peterboro yesterday evening to take part in the bonspiel which opens on Tuesday. The following are the names on rinks:

C. Ashley, lead; Bob Henderson, second; F. E. Hare, vice; C. E. Hare, skip.

T. Fisbleigh, lead; Dr. F. L. Henry, second; A. M. Germond, vice; C. H. Peacock, skip.

J. H. Cooper, lead; Geo. Southwell, second; A. G. Lambert, vice; L. O. Clifford, skip.

What most of us would do if we got rich suddenly is—nothing.

THE DELIVERY.

As you begin fourth step, start your back swing, releasing left hand simultaneously. Then bring arm forward and, as left foot comes in contact with floor, let ball go.

Be sure and keep ball far enough away from body as you prepare to fire. If you don't it may brush against you, losing all sense of direction. A "brushed" ball is one of the biggest alibis I know.

Little or no follow through is necessary. A quick snap of the wrist is all that's required. It may look a bit jerky. But it isn't, unless, of course, you make it so.

If using a hook or curve, swing your body slightly to right as you let go. If using a straight ball (which I advise beginners to do) hold pretty much of an even or "square" position.

Watch your wrist movement especially. An improper turn of that member and direction is lost. Be sure you have the proper foot forward as you let go. If you don't you'll be lucky not to have ball go into gutter.

Tomorrow: Type of Ball.

WIN FOR MADOC FROM LEADERS

Fast Marmora Team Beaten 4 To 3 in Overtime Game.

PLAYED AT MADOC.

MADOC, Jan. 26.—The third game between Marmora and Madoc was played in Madoc yesterday evening. Madoc staged a big comeback and beat the League leaders 4-3 in ten minutes' overtime. During the major part of the first period Madoc kept the play all around the Marmora goal, until at last Bond broke through, and in a lone rush drove the puck into the Madoc net for the first score. The period ended with the score 1-0 in favor of Marmora.

In the second period there was fast play up and down the ice, Madoc trying hard to tie up the score, but at the close of the period the score was still the same as in the first.

In the third period Marmora rushed the Madoc net and slipped in another past Lenahan, making a score of 2-0. Watson, Madoc's redheaded woodpecker, who had been playing a great game all night, then put Madoc on the score sheet. Then Marmora retaliated with another one, Berry being the lucky man. Another thrill followed when Boy Blue scored for Madoc in another lone rush. Pudge Moon then succeeded in making a name for himself by scoring the tying goal. The period ended with the score tied, 3-3.

Both teams returned to the ice with a "do or die" spirit when entering upon the ten-minute overtime play, Madoc fans yelling for the boys "to bring home the bacon." The first five minutes ended without a score. The teams changed goals. The suspense held until one minute before closing time, and it looked as if another ten-minute period would be necessary, when Watson drove the puck into the Marmora goal for the deciding count. The game ended with the score 4-3 in favor of Madoc.

The game was refereed in a very satisfactory manner by Mr. Jackson of Peterboro, who imposed numerous penalties on both sides. Both teams were inclined to mix it as there is keen rivalry between them.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today was extremely dull, there being no demand from the United Kingdom or Continent for supplies.

A steadier feeling prevailed in the market for storage eggs and prices were unchanged. The movement was steady owing to the fact that prices for such are 10c per dozen lower than fresh eggs, but notwithstanding this fact buyers are not disposed to take hold freely and sales were principally in broken lots. The receipts of eggs were 277 cases, as compared with 807 for the same day last week, and 311 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The receipts of butter were 132 packages, as compared with 143 for the same day last week, and 121 for the corresponding day a year ago. The feature of the trade was the much stronger feeling that developed in the market for Townships pasteurized creamery and prices scored an advance of 1c to 1 1-2c per lb., which was attributed to the fact that stocks of such in first hands have been reduced to a pretty low level. There was a fair amount of enquiry from both local and outside buyers for supplies and towards the close of the day 43c per lb. was bid for one car of No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter and refused, while a sale of car lot of Western pasteurized creamery was made at 43c per lb. for shipment to Toronto, and smaller lots of Australian pasteurized creamery were made at 42 1-2c per lb.; Townships No. 2 pasteurized creamery was quoted at 41 1-2c to 42c per lb., and current receipts at 40 1-2c to 42c per lb.

The receipts of cheese were 38 boxes as against 32 for the same day last week, and 17 for the corresponding day a year ago. The export trade in this department was reported quieter owing to the fact that there was little enquiry from buyers, but as supplies on spot have been reduced to some extent of late the feeling was steady and prices were unchanged.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.86 5-8.

Sterling cables $4.87 1-4.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—A firmer tendency is becoming evident on Canadian egg markets, low price levels have resulted in increased consumption. This has been particularly evident in British Columbia, with the result that fewer eggs are arriving in the East from that province.

Toronto — Fresh scarcer, with firmer undertone. Some dealers are short of supplies. Official quotations are unchanged, but a reaction to higher levels is looked for. Storage stocks show no improvement.

Montreal—Egg marke is taking a firmer undertone as result of increased consumption. Prices are unchanged over the week-end.

Winnipeg—Dealers paying country points, extras 40, firsts 32, seconds 22. A car of British Columbia fresh has arrived on the market; storage prices unchanged and stock and to dispose of.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (Canadian Press).—With the United States visible supply of wheat reported today cut down 2,050,000 bushels in the last week, a much larger decrease than was looked for, wheat buying developed notable breadth this afternoon and brought about a sharp rally from an early decline. As a result, wheat values closed firm, 7-8c to 1 3-8c net higher, May (new) $1.71 3-4 to $1.71 7-8, and July $1.49 to $1.49 1-4. Corn finished at 3-8 to 5-8c advance; oats unchanged to 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Such a big curtailment of available domestic supplies of breadstuffs gave something of a scare to speculative traders who previously had been sellers of wheat. Friends of higher prices were also stimulated to active purchasing, and from the lowest point yet reached of late, $1.68 3-4 for May, the market climbed more than 3 1-2c a bushel and finished at near to the day's top figures. Before the advance began, however, numerous standing orders to sell out and thus stop losses on the part of holders had been forced into action.

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

The annual business of de-fatting Mr. George Herman Ruth is now on in full steam, with the exhaust wide open and the suet valves gurgling the spring song from Rubberstein.

The Babe is about to perform his yearly miracle of changing a balloon tire belt line into a baptismal ring.

This is the time of the year the Slambino sheds abdominal parts and torso accessories with a free and easy fluency, asking no quarters and accepting no hardwood nikels.

This operation offers further proof of the unique position the gifted hot dog masticator enjoys in American life and literature ....Who other than the Babe could command a monopoly of headlines on waistlines.

It has been said you put up a good front to get by in this world ....But when George Herman puts up his front nobody can get by.

A lot of bill posters seem to think success has gone to the apple-crusher's head but you know better when you have a minute study of the architectural outlines of the Ruthian bay window.

The real reason the Babe decided to give up his farm in Massachusetts was that his re-ruffled midriff cast such a shadow that the barnyard fowl always thought it was evening time and refused to come down off the roosts.

The Babe uses a spectacular system in melting off tonnage, relying principally on press photographers, newspaper reporters, and a bland faith in the sappiness of what is quaintly labeled the human race.

There are some calloused souls who do not care whether the Babe weighs 347 F.O.D. Flint, Mich., or even less as the crow flies ....But these people, unfortunately, are in the minority.

When you hear the Babe is fit as a fiddle you know they mean a bass fiddle, with rear compartment space for pianos, freight cars, steel filing cabinets and Hungarian wrestlers.

Everything Set For Big Ski Run Wednesday Night

The following is the course planned by the field committee of the Peterboro Ski and Snowshoe Club for Wednesday night's hike.

Leaving the Y.W.C.A. at 7.30 sharp, the party will journey down Aylmer Street to Charlotte Street, west on Charlotte to Monaghan Road, and south on Monaghan Road to the field south of Prince of Wales School. Any members residing in the West-End of the city may join the party on their way out instead of meeting at the Y.W.C.A. Refreshments at the club-house following hike. It's up to you, make it a wow!

ANNUAL OPEN BONSPIEL STARTS TO-DAY WITH 46 RINKS ENTERED

Dr. J. N. Harvey Makes First Draw of Peterboro' 'Spiel.

TWELVE ICES.

Millbrook Rink Boasts Oldest Players—82 and 71.

Favored with a special dispensation by the weather man, the bonspielers got under way this morning after Dr. J. N. Harvey, the only skip representing Orillia, made the official draw. Previous to that event, W. G. Morrow, donor of the Morrow trophy, which is the present storm centre of play, briefly welcomed the visiting curlers and wished them luck. R. F. Downey, president of the local club, also joined his voice in welcome.

This year there are 46 rinks listed for the contest, 17 representing Peterboro. Keene, Oshawa and Lindsay have each contributed four rinks. Thirteen clubs from "outside" have contributed jousters for the lists. Last year there were 52 rinks at the 'spiel, which started on February 3.

Twelve ices are being used: seven at the Curling Rink and five at Brock Street. The ice was seldom better, and the games are being watched with keen interest by those not numbered in the opening draw. Number 3 ice was the first on which play was started, J. Sedgwick of Peterboro and Dr. C. Laidley of Lindsay marshalling their forces and weapons in record time. Number one was occupied soon after, J. J. Moore of Keene and E. L. Bowes of this city being the opposing skips.

The Millbrook rink boasts the oldest players, with J. Steele, 82 years of age, and W. Heatherington, 71.

Lakefield has an aggregation which they call "The Old Farmers' Rink," with players aggregating 234 years. The youngest skip, who also pilots the youngest rink of curlers, is L. W. Rye, of Peterboro.

The following is a list of the clubs represented and the skips who are engaged in the bonspiel play:

Bobcaygeon—A. E. Bottom, R. Nicholls.
Colborne—Ira Edwards.

Corbett Denies Making Challenge To Fight At 60

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. (Canadian Press).—James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world, never issued a challenge that he would fight any man in the world sixty years of age when he himself reached that age.

Corbett revealed this yesterday when asked concerning the challenge hurled at him by E. J. Rankin, seventy-three-year-old farmer of Nampa, Idaho.

"I don't know Mr. Rankin; never met him; and I never made such a foolish challenge," said Corbett who is now appearing in vaudeville here.

WELL KNOWN STARS WITH THE PADDLERS

Parkdale Will Send Strong Team Into Action Against Petes.

The biggest crowd of the season will be at Brock Street Rink Friday night when the Parkdale Canoe Club will clash with the Petes in a Senior O. H. A. game. The fine hockey played by the homesters against Hamilton, coupled with a knowledge of the fact that the Paddlers are a hard checking outfit, who will be more formidable here than at the arena, is creating great interest in Friday's contest, and the reserved seat plan, which goes on sale at Bert McLeod's to-morrow morning will be quickly snapped up. The Paddlers have some well-known stars, including Ernrie Collet, star goalkeeper; Mose Lount, one of the best stick-handlers in the O.H.A.; Don Jeffrey, "King" Cole, formerly of Stratford; Frank Sullivan, pinch-hitter of the old Varsity Allan Cup-holders; "Scotty" Cawkell, all-round athlete ace; Shrimp Morris, formerly of Aura Lee. Last year it was demonstrated that several of these cracks played better hockey at Brock Street than they did in Toronto, and the fans have not forgotten that the Paddlers won here last year 1 to 0.

The Petes, however, are confident that they can turn the trick and knock Parkdale out of the first division. A win Friday will leave the home talent pretty close to the top of the heap.

RED HOT GAMES IN CITY LEAGUE

Place in Play-off Stake in To-morrow Night's Bill of Four Games.

HOW TEAMS STAND.

To-morrow night at the Brock street arena, the City League Teams start the second lap of the race for city hockey honors. St. Andrew's juniors meet St. James, who performed the unexpected feat of trimming St. Peter's last Friday night, and there may be another upset. Raybestos and St. Peter's are down for the opening junior contest. These teams failed to break a tie when they first met. The battle to-morrow night is one for second place and a chance in the play-off between the first and second teams for the championship and the House of Hobberlin trophy. This fine trophy is on view at Bert McLeod's drugstore.

The fur will fly in the Senior contests. Brinton's, who toppled DeLaval from first position, face Raybestos, who will be fighting for a place in the play-off. Crescents, who play DeLaval, must win or become anchored in the cellar.

The League standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Brinton's	2	0	1
DeLaval	2	1	0
Raybestos	1	1	1
Crescents	1	2	0

Junior Series.

PRAISE FOR "SHRIMP."

Owen Sound Paper Says Fans Delighted With His Play.

The Owen Sound Sun-Times has the following to say about Harold "Shrimp" McDougall's play in a recent game:

"'Shrimp' McDougall delighted the fans with a great display of hockey all night. The 115-pound Peterboro product was all over the ice checking, grabbing up loose pucks and shooting during impossible scrambles. He poked his way through the smallest gaps to take pot shots and drove more at the nets than any two players on the ice. His goal in the second period was the prettiest seen here this season. On his rush he lost possession of the puck at the defence but he dashed through and secured it again, romped around back of the net and poked it into the corner."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Theatre

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE IRON HORSE

Another of those out of the ordinary epic dramas of the screen, a fit companion to "The Covered Wagon" and "The Pony Express Rider," is "The Iron Horse," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week. It is one of those pictures which re-create the beginnings of things and take the watchers of this generation back to the stirring days when this continent was in the making, the days of "The Iron Horse," the first locomotive that snorted its way across miles of unblazed trail. It tells a tale of toil and achievement and brings to the mind, as no written words could ever do, the deeds of long dead men. Like "The Pony Express Rider," this picture has a curious habit, like one of the old-fashioned novels, of jumping from subject to subject without much apparent relevance. The hero, for instance, pitches headlong down a precipice and is last observed in a precarious position which suggests that he will not be a member of the cast for some time to come. Then the action shifts to another scene, and presently the hero comes walking into the picture again, apparently as well as ever. It is a jerky type of picturization, but effective, giving what would be called in music a staccato atmosphere to the scenes. Perhaps this is intentional, to creat the illusion of swift-moving action.

"The Iron Horse" is exceptionally interest-holding. The inclusion of color in some of the scenes gives an odd touch. The jolly engineer, guiding his snorting steed over shining rails while Indians try to rope it, rampant smokestack, is filmed in a smoky blue, as are the galloping redskins.

Romance weaves its way through the story of "The Iron Horse," which is the history of the laying of steel across the continent with the final wedding of the rails of the Union Pacific and the Central Pacific on May 10, 1869. The horny-handed, rough-looking toilers of the tracks play a conspicuous part, with special prominence given to the "three musketeers," Slattery, Casey and Mackay. George O'Brien is the hero, a figure like one of Zane Grey's men, and the pretty Madge Bellamy is the charming heroine. The pallid-faced Jesson and the dark-skinned Baumon, the latter the renegade "Two Fingers," are notable presentations also.

The struggle to lay the rails of the two tracks is the keynote of the picture, and the atmosphere of conflict against natural and human forces is wonderfully carried out. The tension of the trial of brains and brawn and the menace of the Indians, constantly harrassing the workers, is drawn fine right to the last moment. One of the interesting items in the presentation is the character of the subtitles, fitting in also with the atmosphere of the piece. "Yer St. Columbus found this country, but our St. Patrick has to make it," is the taunt of Casey to the dark-hued Italian foreman, when the latter hesitates about riding forth against a band of Indians, and there are some forceful bits in the conversation of Judge Hailer, the owner of "Hell on Wheels," and the dispenser of primitive justice.

Humor and romance, bits of heart interest, throw-backs to the forgotten days when men struggled against the forces of nature for a living, abound in the story of "The Iron Horse".—Jeanette.

GEOLOGY IS HOBBY OF AUTHOR OF 'THE WANDERER'

Maurice V. Samuels, who wrote the story of "The Wanderer," the screen narrative of the Prodigal Son, devotes his spare time to the study of geology. His office in New York City is full of charts and books which describe the earth's "strata and lodes." If there is one thing which occupies a place in his heart next his love of wife and writing—it is an earnest devotion to geology.

Mr. Samuels got his idea for 'The Wanderer' from a play which he adapted for David Belasco in 1915. It was a German version of the Prodigal Son parable, written by William Schmidtbonn. Belasco asked him to elaborate on it and write a play that "would knock their eye out."

Ernest Torrence, Greta Nissen, William Collier, Jr., Wallace Beery, Tyrone Power and Kathlyn Williams are featured in the leading roles of the production which was produced for Paramount by Raoul Walsh, who made "The Thief of Bagdad."

The picture, which is the most lavish screen spectacle of recent years, opens a 3 days' run on Monday next at the Capitol Theatre.

AT THE REGENT

GREAT AUDITORIUM USED FOR SCENE IN "PALACE OF PLEASURE"

One of the sequences of "The Palace of Pleaure" at the Regent theatre called for the staging of part of the opera "Carmen." It was fitting, therefore, that the most celebrated center of the stage art, the great Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles, should be selected to stage the scenes.

This immense theatre, seating five thousand persons, might have been housing the season's premiere of the Metropolitan Opera Company on the night chosen by Emmett Flynn, the Fox director, to stage his "Carmen." A brilliant audience, critics of newspapers and leading periodicals, actors, actresses and the complete Philharmonic orchestra — all were there to add genuine color to the occasion.

Two hundred and fifty persons took part in the production on the stage.

This stage scene is probably the most complete of anything ever caught by the motion picture camera..

AT THE GRAND

"THE GORILLA."

A unique and appealing combination of laughter and thrills has made "The Gorilla" one of the most popular successes produced in recent years. Popular is here used in the sense that the play has a universal appeal, for varying populations have all seen "The Gorilla" and found it good entertainment. Donald Gallaher and James W. Elliott will present "The Gorilla" at the Grand Opera House for one night, Saturday, February 6.

Ralph Spence wrote the play and Walter F. Scott staged the production. Mr. Spence has gathered together all the most effective situations used in mystery plays for several generations, sifted them, selected the best and then turned them loose on the audience. The result is as fine a mystery play as ever saw production. But, Mr. Spence went further and, by deft craftsmanship, he turned the whole thing into a burlesque, and while retaining the thrills so inoculated it with laughter that "The Gorilla" immediately became unique and unusual. Messrs. Gallaher and Elliott are sending for this engagement the same fine company which was highly praised by the critics in Boston and Philadelphia. Any one who has seen "The Gorilla" will say that no funnier, no more thrilling, play has ever been produced. It will be one of the great treats of the present season. Get your tickets early as word of it has been long current among play-goers.

BEATEN IN GAMES.

The Rev. W. S. Edgar, who represented Peterboro in the Dominion checkers tournament, was elected president of the Dominion Association at the annual meeting held towards the close of the competition in the Central Y.M.C.A., College Street, Toronto.

SHIPPING MORE ALBERTA COAL

C. N. R. Will Accept 25,000 Tons More at $7.00.

TO RELIEVE EAST.

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—In response to representations which the Provincial Government had made through Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, the National Railways have recognized the seriousness of the fuel situation in Ontario, and are prepared to ship another 25,000 tons of coal from Alberta at a rate of 87 a ton, which was the rate granted on an experimental shipment of 25,000 tons drawn earlier in the year. The decision of the National Railways to make this concession was communicated to the Government yesterday.

The National Railway is prepared to undertake the movement as soon as the details can be arranged between Ontario and Alberta. The shipment will be handled through dealers in Ontario from whom orders will be accepted. The Government is controlling the situation so that the price for the coal will not be higher to the consumer than $13.50 in ton lots, or possibly $14.00 in ton lots if bagged.

VOL. LVII., No. 22 — PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1926 — PRICE THREE CENTS

CONSERVATIVES STOLE TWENTY SEATS HON. G. N. GORDON ASSERTS ADDRESSING TORONTO LIBERALS

"Inaugurated New Form of Bribery," Says Former Cabinet Minister.

MEIGHEN ENVIED.

Rogers, Bennett and Others Seek Leadership of Party.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—"It is a general opinion in the House of Commons that the Government will be able to carry on this session. My own belief is that they will be able to do more than that—possibly for two or three years," declared Hon. G. N. Gordon, speaking to the Liberal Club at luncheon Tuesday on the present situation at Ottawa, "and Mr. Meighen will not be the next Prime Minister. I am satisfied as to that.

"There has been considerable call for another election in some quarters," the speaker went on, "but if we dissect and analyze it we see that it comes from various considerations. That in the Globe the other day was possibly a natural one and possibly the editor thought it proper, but if he had considered all the elements that call would not have been made. Of course, the Globe has said that it is not a party organ and that its views are merely its own and the suggestion must be considered in that light.

Now Upward Trend.

"The Mackenzie King Government went in at a time when the full effects of the bumper crop in the West had not been felt. There was still the cry of hard times and unsettled conditions were creating dissatisfaction. The upward trend in business has put the Government in a better position and I have little doubt but that they will be able to carry on.

"Time is on our side and is working with us. R. S. White has done everything he could to defeat Meighen and yet he now sits within a few feet of him. Bell and Cahan refused to endorse his policy yet they are sitting in splendid isolation waiting for something to turn up. Others like Rogers or Bennett are willing to accept the leadership of the Conservatives but Mr. Meighen is not willing to give that up.

"There is no doubt that there is dissension in the Conservative party and as time goes on it will be worse. With all their effort they have only got one foot in the door and are only able to look in and see what is going on. I am satisfied that they have made their greatest effort and cannot do better than they have done," said Mr. Gordon.

"Mr. Meighen has boasted about having a popular majority," the speaker went on. "He has no such thing. In Ontario at least twenty seats were stolen from us in the last election. The Tory party inaugurated a new form of bribery. They went out into ridings all over the province and hired an automobile for twenty-five dollars a day with which they covered every street in the riding. I saw the returns of one Tory candidate the other day and the whole amount he had stated as his expenses. I am prepared to say did not cover the money spent on cars for him."

"It is not as bold as the former system used when the Tories would go out and hand a man something, but it is widespread and effective."

Influenced By Strike.

"Every Patenaude candidate in Quebec ran as opposed to Meighen. He has not the right to count one single vote from that province. In the maritime provinces, the vote was largely influenced by a strike which took place a couple of years ago. The Tory party went on the platform and said that that trouble had occurred because the Liberal Government in power at the time had not handled the situation as they should have.

"Now another strike has taken place, and the Rhodes Government appoint a commissioner which has said that the starving miners are getting too much money and that their wages should be lowered so that the British Empire Steel Company can pay bigger dividends.

"The result is that no decent laboring man with any sense of fairness will support an organization of that kind and the tide which brought it in will sweep it out at the next election."

To Work Together.

Mr. Gordon expressed his belief that the Progressives could work along with the Liberals in the coming session. "They have just as high standards of morality, ability and public speaking as any other party," he said. "There are a few extremists among them, but the majority are as anxious to carry on government properly as any other men in parliament.

"Their point of view is possibly different because they come from the plains of the west and some perhaps do not appreciate the industrial conditions. Generally speaking, though, their policy is ours."

Mr. Gordon stated as his belief that Mackenzie King will have at least four or five thousand of a majority in Prince Albert, if opposed. The riding is intensely Liberal, he added.

Need for a better organization was urged in the conclusion of the address. "In the last election we had good platform men who were also good organizers. For the Cabinet Ministers' defeat there is little explanation except that they neglected their own ridings to help out in weaker districts. I have no doubt, though, that when the time comes for the next election we will be given a proper and sufficient working majority."

NOW, HONESTLY—

You haven't been to a movie or a show for weeks.

Gosh, how you hate movies. Think they give you a headache. Imagination, most likely, but it's a good alibi.

Just sticking around the house—and you enjoy it.

Been out all day, among people, and you're satisfied to settle down and loaf in the evening.

But, how about the Mrs.? When she's reading the paper, just watch her.

Betcha she turns to the movie, or show ads.

Take the hint, old man. She'll get a kick out of it—and that ought to give you a kick, too.

STEAMER CREWS STILL IN DANGER

Rescue Vessel Lost Two Men in Brave Attempt.

SEAS STILL HEAVY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—The fate of 54 men, members of the crews of the British freighters Antinoe and Laristan, which have been floundering in the storm for the past three days, was still in doubt today.

Six men of the Laristan were rescued yesterday by the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, but 24 men are still aboard the stricken vessel. The United States liner President Roosevelt, which has lost two of its crew in efforts to give succor to the Antinoe, was still standing by today.

Seas Still Heavy.

A wireless message from the liner Bremen said that a northwest gale still was raging and because of the heavy seas it was impossible to launch lifeboats. The Bremen was still standing by the disabled liner Laristan, awaiting an opportunity to take off the remaining 24 men of the crew.

DRY CANDIDATES MAY BE PLACED

Prohibition Union Will Enter Men if Not Satisfied With Party Nominees.

TO BE ORGANIZED.

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press). — Ontario prohibitionists, meeting 1,000 strong in Massey Hall, yesterday afternoon, by a large majority approved the sub-amendment, calling for the appointment of a committee of ten to survey the province and to take aggressive action in the matter of temperance candidates in the next provincial election. It empowers the Ontario Prohibition Union to place a straight prohibition candidate in the field in cases where a party candidate cannot be endorsed by the union.

This decision came in the form of a second amendment to the report of the political actions committee. By approving the sub-amendment, the convention lost the chance to vote on the main amendment calling for the placing of "straight prohibitionist candidates in all constituencies in an attempt to secure more vigorous action in Parliament and in the Legislature." The political actions committee recommended that its policy as adopted during the year be continued.

The union requires all candidates, either for Federal or local houses, to declare that they shall place temperance principles above party loyalty in all cases, because prohibition legislation is interpartisan. In order to assure victory the committee recommends further that provincial ridings should be divided into twelve or more districts, with an organizer in each.

SCOTIA TROUBLE DUE TO NEGLECT BY GOVERNMENT

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Premier of Legislature, Says Maritimes Neglected.

WIRES TO OTTAWA.

Asks For Duties on Imported Coal and Steel. Products.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 27. — Canadian Press. — "I have not heard from Hon Mr. Stewart nor from any other member of the government today, nor yesterday, nor any other day this year, nor have I heard from anybody in any way connected with the government," said Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Premier of Nova Scotia, on Tuesday afternoon, when shown an Ottawa despatch stating that Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, had telegraphed to Premier Rhodes, a statement of the Do'nion Government's willingness to assist in measures for the relief of suffering in the Cape Breton Coal areas. "I may say further," said Premier Rhodes, "that the only information I have regarding the matter mentioned in the Ottawa despatch is what I have seen in the newspaper."

While in receipt of no other advices regarding the attitude of the Canadian government towards the —situation in Cape Breton which was discussed at length in the house of Commons Monday, Mr. Rhodes sent a telegram to Hon. Charles Stewart, outlining the situation from the view point of the provincial government. In this telegram Premier Rhodes declared that Nova Scotia had assumed the entire burden of responsibility in relieving the situation of want and unemployment that had developed in the Cape Breton coal areas to the great detriment of prosperity in the province as a whole. He said the conditions in Nova Scotia were the effects of a "general cause," and because the cause is the "grave neglect of the Maritime Provinces by the Federal Administration."

The telegram concluded with a request that the good faith of the Federal government be shown by instituting coking plants, an equable freight rate to Quebec and Montreal, imposition of duties on imported coal and imposition of duties on imported iron and steel products, to prevent unfair competition with the Nova Scotia product.

THE WEATHER.

This morning the weather was mild with indications of rain or sleet. The temperature was at 20 degrees. Much colder is on the way. A year ago this morning it was 19 degrees below zero; two years ago this morning it was 28 degrees below; and a year ago to-morrow morning, "Whew!" it was 36 degrees below. That day was "Dollar Day."—W. P.

Many Happy Returns, Mr. Young!

That Dollar Day has an appeal that is hard to resist was evinced today when George Young, 569 Park Street, stepped into the office of The Examiner, paid his subscription to The Weekly Examiner, and demanded his blanks, so that he could have a guess as well as the rest of the people.

Of course, that in itself is nothing remarkable, as most discriminative people do things of that nature, but in this case the gentleman in question was probably the oldest person participating in the contest. Mr. Young was born in Edinburgh in May, 1830, making him 95 years old. He came to Canada when he was four years old, and has resided in Peterborough for the last 20 years. Mr. Young stated that he had made a practice of sending his son in the West The Examiner for a number of years, and hoped that he would continue the practice for a few more.

Like other shut-ins, Mrs. Gillett is finding the radio a source of entertainment and company, the sermons broadcasted on Sundays making up for inability to attend public worship in person.

For over seventy years Mrs. Gillett has resided in Millbrook and her life history is largely interwoven with that of the community.

TELEPHONE RATES INCREASED IN NEW SCHEDULE FILED AT OTTAWA

Present Rates Revised By Regrouping of Exchanges According to the Number of Telephones in Each Town or City.

SUBMITTED TO RAILWAY COMMISSION.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—Increased telephone rates for exchange service are, on the whole, called for under a new schedule of rates filed by the Bell Telephone Company, with the Board of Railway Commissioners late Tuesday afternoon.

The new tariff, it is stated, is somewhat on a different basis from former ones, and is a revision of existing rates by a re-grouping of exchanges according to the number of telephones located in each city, town or municipality.

Each unit office of the Bell Telephone Service is understood to be furnishing information to its subscribers, showing the prevailing and proposed rates in the particular exchange area in which they are located, and the effect of the change contemplated by the new schedule.

Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London and Windsor will, it is intimated, be affected by an increase in rates under the proposed tariff; while a decrease will accrue to subscribers in Quebec City, should the new schedule become effective. Generally speaking, the increase on business telephone service is, under the new tariff, in excess of that on residential telephones.

J. E. MacPherson, vice-president of the company, contends that the schedules are calculated to provide the necessary revenue for the maintenance of a high grade service. While they contain increases averaging about 12 per cent. there are also decreases designed to iron out certain inequalities referred to by the Railway Commission at a former hearing.

Peterboro Group.

The following flat rates per month are proposed for Belleville, Chatham, Galt, Guelph, Kingston, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Oshawa, Owen Sound, Peterboro, Sarnia, Sault Ste Marie, Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, Stratford, Sudbury and Copper Cliff, St. Thomas, Three Rivers, Welland and Ridgeville:

Two-party line, business $3.00, residence $2.00.

Rural party line, business $2.35, residence $2.00.

In respect to Barrie, Brampton, Brockville, Collingwood and Dunnroon, Cornwall and Grimsby and Winona, Lachine, Leamington, Lindsay, Midland, New Toronto and Islington, Oakville, Orillia, Pembroke, Port Colborne (Port Credit, Cooksville, Streetsville and Clarkson), Simcoe, Smith's Falls, St. Hyacinthe, St. Johns, St. Lambert, Tillsonburg and Brownsville, Weston and Woodstock, the proposed flat monthly rates are:

One-party line, business $3.25; residence $2.25.

Two-party line, business $2.50, residence $1.85.

Rural party line, business $2.10, residence $1.85.

Extension station, business 80c, residence 55c.

Exchange areas having from 500 to approximately 1,000 stations and population generally of 6,000 or less are assessed, under the new schedule, at the following flat rate per month:

With respect to exchange areas having from 1 to approximately 500 stations and population generally of 6,000 or less, the flat rates proposed per month are:

One-party line, business $2.50, residence $2.05.

Two-party line, business $2.00, residence $1.85.

INSURANCE TO PROTECT CITY IS CONSIDERED BY COUNCIL

Last Year's Insurors Demand That Someone Sand or Clean Streets.

PRICES SUBMITTED.

Committee Names To Investigate Standing of Company Bidding Lowest.

Insurance to protect the city in the event of any person being injured on the streets of the City, was discussed at a special meeting of the City Council last night, and the matter was finally, on motion of Aldermen Greene and Cotton, left in the hands of a committee consisting of Aldermen Phelan, Ackerman, and Denne. This committee will look into the standing of the Globe Accident and Liability Company, which could not be found in the Insurance list, although several other Globe companies were listed, and this company's agent submitted the offer of a policy at the lowest figure. The committee will also see to the protection of the City until the February meeting of the Council, which is next Monday evening.

Most of the companies whose agents sumbitted prices made the same price, $8.00 per thousand of population. The Zurich Company, which carried the insurance last year, quoted a lump sum of $1,500, but asked for the City's new by-law to be amended requiring the citizens to clean off or sand their walks. It was the opinion of Alderman Ackerman and City Solicitor Wearing that this would mean that the company would include either the city or the property owner as a third party in settling any claims which might arise.

While the meeting was called for the one purpose, other urgent matters were dealt with. Alderman Hancock was given authority to have some repairs made at the incinerator and to have some shelving put in the vaults at the City Hall. A letter asking the city to advertise in the Municipal Number of Canadian Machinery was received. Authority was given, at the request of Alderman Fife, to the City Treasurer to issue a check for the 1926 licenses for the Board of Works cars.

Stronger Bonds Of Empire Urged By Prince Of Wales

LONDON, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press Cable).—Closer co-operation between Great Britain and the Dominions in the matter of Empire settlement was urged by the Prince of Wales, speaking at the Australian - New Zealand luncheon club Tuesday. The Prince said that the great migratory stream must benefit both the over-populated Old Country and the Dominions "with their vast virgin regions of possibilities immeasurable if populated and developed."

The Prince welcomed the formation in the Church of England of an organization for the furthering of Empire settlement and hoped that other churches could participate, but he urged that the work must be all-embracive and whole-hearted. "I should like to see more well-to-do people settling on the land overseas as a difinite career," the Prince stated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNUAL MEETING

Local Council, O.R.E.C., Met Yesterday at St. Paul's.

HEARD ADDRESSES.

The annual convention of the Local Council of the O.R.E.C. was held at St. Paul's Sunday school yesterday afternoon. The convention was opened at 3 p.m., by a devotional period in charge of Mr. John Edgar. The subject of religious education other than that taught in the regular Sunday schools, was presented by Rev. Dr. Webb. He explained the methods of organizing schools for religious instruction. These were classified under summer vacation school, which would be carried on under proper leadership for five or six weeks in the summer vacation, and daily religious instruction, either given in connection with public schools or carried on by the churches after school hours. Both of these methods are in practice in a large number of centres in the United States and in quite a few places in Ontario, and they meet with good success. The problem of teacher training was presented by Rev. Ferris, General Secretary of the O.R.E.C. He explained the different methods in practice in the various Sunday schools, and urged upon the city Sunday schools to endeavor to establish training classes for their teachers.

Reports were given from the various city Sunday schools, and they all showed that Sunday school work of the city was in a very good condition. Mrs. S. Carver gave a very fine report on the elementary Graded Union of the city. This covers all Cradle work, primary and junior work in connection with the Sunday schools.

At 6.15 the supper was served by the ladies of St. Paul's, with the assistance of the representatives from the other Sunday schools.

The nominating committee brought in its report and the following officers were appointed for the coming year:

Past President: Mr. John Edgar.
President: Rev. N. McLeod.
First Vice-Pres.: Mr. A. B. Gates.
Second Vice.: Mr. O. Steer.
Sec.-Treas: Mr. McCannon.

A vote of appreciation for the services for the last five years of the retiring president, Mr. Edgar, and the retiring treasurer, Mr. Robertson, was passed by the convention.

The convention assembled in different departments under the leadership of Rev. Dr. Webb and Rev. Mr. Ferris and the problems of the various groups were discussed. The convention re-assembled in the Guild Room and listen to an inspiritional address given by Rev. Dr. Webb.

ALL SAINTS' PARISH RECORDS GROWTH

Large Increase in Numbers —Progress in Every Department.

The annual vestry meeting of All Saints' Church was held on Monday night in the Parish Hall, when an unusually large number of the members was present.

The Rector's report indicated that last year was one of growth and increased activity. The number of communicants increased from 411 on Easter Sunday, 1924, to 549 on the same day last year. Progress was being made in every department of the church life, and it has been particularly gratifying to see a beginning of several much-needed repairs and improvements.

The Churchwarden's statement showed receipts for general parochial account of $8,819.07, a considerable increase over the previous year. The most gratifying increase of all was the additional $670 received through the duplex envelopes. The books had to be closed with a deficit of $832.54, as compared with a deficit a year ago of $385.00, but this is more than accounted for by a payment of $500.00 off the principal of the mortgage and the heavy and very expensive repairs postponed, but now fully completed. The outlook is bright and the spirit of the congregation optimistic for a steady advance in 1926.

The missionary accounts show a very large increase. The budget called for $844.27, which was met in full, and further payments were made to Wycliffe College, $120 for our own student, $25 voted to the U. C Bible Society, and $10 to the C. of E. Deaconess' Training Home, still leaving a large cash balance.

All the societies of the parish gave encouraging reports and showed a definite interest in the church needs and various programmes of constructive work undertaken. They all show substantial balances on hand.

The Churchwardens for 1926 are C. Lacheur, re-appointed by the Rector, and T. Percy Hooper, elected by the congregation. A special vote of thanks was passed to the retiring people's warden, R. J. Bolton, whose untiring efforts during the last two years have contributed so much to putting the church finances on so secure a footing.

The total liabilities of All Saints' Parish at January 1st, 1926, are $16,650, which at 7 per cent. lays a very heavy burden on the congregation, and one which will tax the resources of the parish for some time to come.

REPORTS TO COUNTY COUNCIL

REPORT OF CHAIRMAN OF BOARD OF MANAGEMENT, HOUSE OF REFUGE, 1925.

It is Statutory that this report be made to the succeeding Council, and in doing so I am endeavoring to comply with the Act.

You will observe that the net payment for 1925 was $13,309.80, and the net levy made by the Finance Chairman $12,017.03, or $292.77 over estimate. But you will also observe that as it so happened at the close of 1924 there was $2100.00 current liabilities unpaid whilst, at the close of 1925 there was $1006 liabilities current, unpaid, so you see 1925 covered $1094 more liabilities of 1924 than were left for 1925 to be covered in 1926.

As before stated, changes in management, creates certain confusion that requires extra and careful attention, but I have this to say that as far as your Board could ascertain, the management at present appears to be satisfactory.

There are some of the inmates who are getting very feeble and require kind and thoughtful attention. They seem to be attended to properly. It was necessary to send two of the afflicted to the Hospital and the attention administered could not have been obtained at the House of Refuge with probably more cost.

The Heating System seems to require close attention in order to get the best results and I would recommend that subsequent Councils could vest in the Board authority to carry the same into effect.

There are 2 work horses at the place at present and I would strongly recommend the building of a barn in order to keep a limited number of milk cows and store roots in such basement that seem necessary for the maintaining of hogs and cows in winter months.

There is pasture for at least 6 cows and a reasonable number of hogs and renting is out of the question.

Improvements the year 1925 were viewed by you at the last Fall Session.

Your Board request me to thank all for assistance and confidence.

Respectfully yours,
J. F. BRECKENRIDGE,
Chairman.

Mrs. E. E. Harvey and Miss Marion Harvey are in charge of the invitations.

ROBBERY WAS MOTIVE.

Detectives Say Marshall Was in Dire Financial Straits.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press)—Robbery, not blackmail, was the motive behind the killing of Anna May Dietrich, by David L. Marshall, chiropractor, in the opinion of authorities working on the case. His confession, in their belief, that she had tried to blackmail him, was fiction.

Marshall, the detectives said, had nothing to be blackmailed for. They declared their investigation had revealed him to be in dire financial straits.

UTILITIES HELD REGULAR MEETING

Adjustments and Hearing of Complaints Form Principal Business.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission held its regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. The matter of giving the Trent Canal permission to pass 35 cubic feet of water through the stream that runs from Thomson's dam to the waterwork's property was referred to the City council with the recommendation that it be granted, along the lines suggested by E. H. D. Hall, the Commission's solicitor.

A deputation composed of Messrs. A. Stevenson and Denne, representing the Little Lake Cemetery Company, asked if the Cemetery could not be placed on a flat rate as they were afraid that the meter recently installed would make their charges prohibitive. E. F. Mason, Chairman, explained that while the Commission looked upon the Cemetery as being a municipal affair, all the manufacturers, churches and large consumers of water were placed on meter. Mr. Matthews suggested that they try the meters for a year and see how they came out and if they were found prohibitive the Commission could go into the matter then. This suggestion was adopted. The deputation was granted a new fixture for the standard that stands in front of the entrance to the Cemetery.

A letter was read from the Secretary-Treasurer of the Clinic asking for an adjustment on its lighting charges. It was resolved that no action be taken in the matter and that Mr. Henderson explain conditions to the Clinic officials. A letter was read from the President of the G.W.V.A. asking the Commission to place two of the G.W.V.A. flags on its Aylmer street property. It was decided that two flags be purchased, one for the sub station and the other for the office building.

After considerable discussion it was decided that an inspection would be made immediately, and that all commercial consumers notified that empty sockets are charged for on the same basis as if they had lights in them.

The City Engineer was authorized to spend up to $400 on the trimming of trees.

The Engineer's report on the McDonald Lumber Company's claim was read and his recommendation that the charge for the stable and mill be cancelled from October 31, and that the charge for 14 horses be substituted was adopted.

Those present were: E. F. Mason, Chairman; W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., and Gordon S. Matthews.

PAPER FIRM SELLS LIMITS IN STATES

Economic Pressure Forcing Mills Across the Border.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—What is considered another indication of the capitulation of the paper industry in the United States to the economic situation which is forcing the industry out of this country into Canada, is the sale, just completed, by the International Paper Company of its Waterville timber tract of 20,000 acres at Waterville, N.H. The property was disposed of to the Woodstock Lumber Co. at a price close to $1,000,000, it was announced by the company today.

MARITIME SPEAKERS HOLD FORTH DURING DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS

F. P. Quinn, of Halifax, Declares Himself a "Maritime Righter."

"TORY PROPAGANDA."

Says Wm. Duff, of Queens, Lunenburg, in Reply To Quinn.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press)—The debate on the address dragged through another day in the house with the division still apparently a week away. Maritime speakers held a large part of the sitting.

F. B. Quinn, Conservative of Halifax, declared himself a "Maritime righter." He described the new grain elevator at Halifax as a political sop. Had there been the slightest sincerity in the building of the elevator, said Mr. Quinn, arrangements would have been made to supply grain to the elevator when it was completed.

Entirely Favored Besco

The commission appointed by Premier Rhodes had brought in a report which had not contained a word in favor of the miners. Every item was for the benefit of Besco. The report had skated over the most important of all—the capitalization of the company.

The entire question would never be settled properly until the coal operators realized that the cost of production in some mines was too high. Regarding the order of the Canadian National Railway for coal, Mr. Duff said it was unfair to the railway company. It meant that lumber companies and car manufacturing companies would feel they had a right in times of depression to insist upon orders from the Canadian National Railway. Mr. Duff suggested that he might if he wanted to be unfair, demand an order from the railways for his own fisheries. It was a bad principle and it the attitude of Monday was pursued, it could not be expected that Sir Henry Thornton or anyone else could bring the National Railways out of the hole.

Mr. Duff said that the Government of the day had to its credit reduction in both the customs tariff and the sales tax. Charges of extravagance and reckless expenditure made against it by Conservative members were unfounded. The junior member for Halifax complained of an expenditure of a million dollars on the Halifax elevator. The Conservative Government, however, had wasted $15,000,000 in cutting the City of Halifax in two, so that Tory supporters could sell their property at five times its value. He was surprized at charges of extravagance coming from supporters of a Conservative government.

"Are you going to take the grain there in bags?" asked Mr. Duff. "The member from Halifax says that the elevator is not necessary."

Mr. Quinn interjected that he had said nothing of the kind.

Elevator is Used.

Mr. Duff insisted that he was quoting Mr. Quinn correctly. Mr. Duff added that already 500,000 bushels of grain had been handled by this elevator, although it was only completed in November.

Mr. Meighen asked if it was not a fact that the grain mentioned by Mr. Duff had been stored in the elevator because of a wreck and not because it had been shipped to Halifax.

Mr. Duff replied that he had seen it reported in the Halifax newspapers that 500,000 bushels, in addition to the quantity stored from the wreck, had been handled by the elevator.

From 1911 to 1921 Mr. Duff said, Nova Scotia had had nine members on the treasury benches of the Conservative Government, but not one ever raised their voice to discuss Maritime rights.

Tory Propaganda.

A. Beaubien (Progressive, Provencher) interrupted to ask what precisely were the Maritime rights.

"Wholly Tory propaganda," declared Mr. Duff. "If the Tories had been elected, we shouldn't have heard anything about them," he added.

Mr. Duff advanced arguments to show that the Conservatives and not the Liberals were responsible for placing the Intercolonial Railway under the management of the Canadian National. He was still speaking at 6 o'clock.

Mr. Duff proceeded with his discussion of the circumstances surrounding the Government's acquisition of the National Railway. The Conservative party, he said, had increased the national debt of Canada by $2,340,000,000. Of this $75,000,000 had been paid to McKenzie and Mann for common stock of the Canadian Northern Railway, which Sir Henry Drayton had declared to be not worth one dollar. Mr. Duff believed that if the Liberal party had been in power when the Government took over the roads which now form the Canadian National Railway, the cost would have been about half what the Conservative party paid.

Senator Reed's Policy

Mr. Duff read from Hansard of the 1920 session to prove his contention that the then Minister of Railways (Senator J. D. Reid) gave such answers to questions asked him in the House, as indicated clearly that the Government of that day intended to take no action to ensure the use of Canadian ports for the export of Canadian products carried over Canadian railways. It was at that time, said Mr. Duff, that Maritime rights had been dealt a severe blow. There had been a tacit recognition that Portland, Maine, would continue to be the ocean terminal of the Grand Trunk Railway. Mr. Duff also contended that more Canadian grain had been exported via United States ports under the Conservative regime than under the present Liberal Government.

There was too much governmental interference with private business in this country, Mr. Duff went on. Private enterprise was frequently stifled. If any man in the Western Provinces wanted to build an elevator in the United States it was not for anyone to dictate to him what his business ought to be. The Government had done everything possible to put Canadian grain through Canadian ports, but talk of stopping grain going through those ports was ridiculous, for the United States could retaliate by forbidding passage of their goods through the parts of Canada. That trade was larger than generally believed.

The theme of the subsequent speech by G. R. Geary, Conservative of South Toronto, was protection as a policy of the Conservative party. He quoted lines from "In Flanders Fields," and added, "Fifty years ago the torch of protection was lighted by the Conservative party and faithfully and loyally it had been handed down from one to another until today it shines as a beacon light and a guide to the people of Canada, burning strongly as ever."

BACKACHE GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Tried simple home treatment and pain stops

An aching back is often the result of tired, over-strained muscles, and can be given quick and complete relief with a very simple treatment.

"I had such a backache I didn't know what to do. Relatives a New York woman. "I looked through my medicine cabinet to see if I could find something to help me—and there was a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. I used it, and in half an hour I was better. The next day I went to a big engagement party. Now when anyone has a pain, I say 'use Sloan's.'"

The marvelous effectiveness of Sloan's is due to its stimulating effect that it has upon the circulation. Straight to the aching tissues, it sends a healing flood of fresh new blood —clears out the trouble—kills the pain.

So pleasant and clean to use, too. Don't rub. Just pat on gently and you will get immediate results. All druggists—35 cents

FEW AT EUCHRE.

Stormy Night Held Down Attendance—Ten Tables Played.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 27.—The progressive euchre held on Friday evening in the I.O.O.F. Hall, under the auspices of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, drew a smaller attendance than usual, owing to the stormy night and the state of the roads. Very few from the country were able to accept the invitation to be present, and only ten tables were in use, the usual number being thirty and over.

Nothing was lacking, however, of the good time always looked forward to when the Rebekahs are hostesses. Play continued until 11 p.m., when a beautiful lunch was served, and a number remained after the supper hour for further enjoyment with cards and dancing before the gathering finally broke up.

The first prize for the ladies went to Mrs. F. W. Smith (wicker jardinier) and for the gentlemen to Mr. Walter Harkness (box of cigars). Mrs. Edgar Fallis received the consolation, and Messrs. R. I. Fallis and H. Jordan had to cut for this award, the latter winning. Kewpie dolls made suitable prizes in each case.

Two Students Give Pledge To Cease Propaganda.

LONDON, January 27. The Vice-Chancellor asserts that the propaganda was specially directed towards Indian students, which is strenuously denied by the Indians themselves.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ARTHUR HELSON.

WARKWORTH, Jan. 27.—Mr. Geo. Helson, Sr., received word on Sunday of the death of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Arthur Helson of Moose Jaw. Mrs. Helson's death was caused by an operation which she underwent the first of last week.

JAMES CURRIE.

STIRLING, Jan. 27—In the death of James Currie on Sunday evening after an illness of a few hours, Stirling lost one of its prominent citizens. Mr. Currie had owned and published the Stirling-News Argus for over 40 years. He had reached the age of 83 and seemed to be enjoying the rest which he had earned by long and faithful public service. Although Mr. Currie was a staunch Liberal no one would know that such was a fact by reading his paper. He leaves to mourn a widow and four daughters. Mrs. Frappy, River Valley; Mrs. Stevens, New Mexico; Mrs. Lindenfield and Miss Mae, at home.

He was for years the active secretary of the Stirling branch of the Bible Society, and a member of St. Paul's United Church, where the funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, under the auspices of Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F., of which deceased had been a member for nearly forty years.

MRS. WILLIAM MOORE.

NORHAM, January 27. — Sarah Dodge, widow of the late William Moore, passed peacefully away at the home of her son in law, Mr. John Diamond, at 8 a.m., on Monday, following an illness which extended over several months. Mrs. Moore was in her 90th year and had been in failing health for the past six or seven years, becoming noticeably worse during the past few months. About two months ago she suffered a slight stroke from which she had recovered to almost her usual strength, but ten days previous to her death was taken with a second attack from which she failed to rally. In religion Mrs. Moore was a Methodist, and for many years a devoted member and regular attendant of the Norham church. Her great affliction was deafness, from which she suffered for some twenty-five years, but which she bore through these years with patient and Christian fortitude.

She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Frederick of Warkworth, and Salem of New York state; and one daughter, Mrs. John Diamond. The funeral will take place from her late residence at 2.00 p.m., on Wednesday.

ALLOWANCE BOARD DOING GOOD WORK

43 Beneficiaries in Durham County Since Passing of Act in 1920.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 27.—A meeting of the Mothers' Allowance Board for Durham County was held on Friday morning in the Town Hall, Bowmanville, the Chairman, F. W. Galbraith of Port Hope, presiding. Miss J. M. Bury, Investigator for Durham, Northumberland, Peterboro City and County and Prince Edward Island, was an additional member present for the occasion.

A report presented by the Secretary, Mrs. A. L. Nichols of Bowmanville, showed eight new beneficiaries added during the month of December, 1925. Durham County has had a total of 43 beneficiaries since 1920, when the Act was first passed, and now has 22 receiving aid from this source. A comparison with Northumberland County shows that 69 mothers have received this aid since 1920, and there are 30 beneficiaries at the present time. The commission, in its fourth annual report, the latest available, states that 4,129 homes in Ontario benefited from the Act, having a higher standard of living, and in these homes over 12,000 children have been given larger opportunities for health, education and proper development from every standpoint. Only a small percentage of the mothers need constant supervision, though the Investigator, in her official capacity, must visit each home in her district once every three months, oftener if circumstances make this imperative. An encouraging feature is found in the fact that nearly 93 per cent. of the beneficiaries are of British birth, 68.7 per cent. of that number being Canadians, leaving practically only 7 per cent. as naturalized Canadians.

Over 500 members on the local boards throughout the Province serve gratuitously, and render decided aid in the administration of the Act.

PLAN TO DOUBLE NEW YORK HYDRO

State Power Board Proposes Greater Use of Waters.

SOME AT NIAGARA.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Proposals for the extensive expansion of New York State's hydro-electric resources designed to net a total development of 4,000,000 horse power instead of 2,000,000 that is now being generated, are incorporated in the annual report of the State Water Power Commission filed with the Legislature.

Projected plans call for the use of a greater amount of water at Niagara Falls than is now being diverted, the development of the rapids in the St. Lawrence River within the boundaries of the State, greater use of surplus waters spilled from the Barge Canal and development of the latent power in the interior streams of the State.

Estimates of cost of the proposed Niagara development places the total expenditure at about $30,000,000. The development would consist of a tunnel under the east bank of the lower river from the Maid of the Mist pool to the end of the rapids, it being asserted that water diverted through this tunnel would not in any way affect the scenic qualities of the Falls.

WEDDING BELLS.

WALKEY—HAM.

WELCOME, Jan. 27.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Wm. Beebee, Morish, on Saturday afternoon by Rev. D. R. Clare when Miss Lillie Ham became the bride of Mr. Fred. Walkey.

The bride wore a pretty gown of brown satin and was unattended. A sumptuous repast was served at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Walkey left on the afternoon bus for Toronto amid showers of confetti and congratulations.

The guests were: Mrs. McKenzie, Toronto; Mrs. W. Meadows, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Walkey and family, Newtonville; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Walkey and daughter, Newtonville; Mr. Walkey and Mr. Harold Beebee, Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beebee, Baileboro; Mr. W. Beebee and Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Beebee, Morish; Mrs. Clare, Welcome, and Master Justin Hall.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Belsham, 128 Lipton street, Winnipeg, on Thursday evening at eight-thirty o'clock, when their only daughter, Audley Elsie became the bride of Frederick John Lockyer of Moose Jaw, Sask.

The ceremony took place in the living room, which was effectively decorated with palms and ferns. At the appointed hour the groom and his groomsman, Mr. Neville Belsham, took their places with the officiating minister, Rev. E. F. Church.

The bride, proceeded by bridesmaid, Miss Helen Campbell, and little flower girl, Miss Donna Lightfoot, entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Flora Patterson. Her beautiful wedding gown of white cut velvet over ivory satin was caught at the side with a rhinestone and pearl ornament. The neck and sleeves were finished with single strands of rhinestone trimming. Her veil of embroidered tulle was held by a bandeau of rhinestones and pearls, caught at each side with a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a bridal bouquet of Ophelia roses, orchids and lily-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid wore a gown of Nile green satin prettily draped with gold lace and finished with opaline pearls. A model hat of green and gold completed her costume. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses. The little flower girl wore a dainty dress of white organdie, and carried a basket of rosebuds, orange blossoms and fern.

During the signing of the register Miss Jean Henderson sang "Because." Her gown was of powder blue beaded georgette. She wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses. Miss Flora Patterson wore a gown of peach georgette, trimmed with blue forget-me-nots, and a corsage of roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lockyer received their guests, after which a buffet luncheon was served. When the bride had cut the cake, she slipped away and changed to her travelling costume which was of green fallia, trimmed on the side flares with wide bandings of grey fur. A Charleston turban of green and silver completed the costume. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome silver mesh bag, to his groomsman, a gold seal ring. The bride's gifts were: To her bridesmaid, a white gold bracelet set with diamonds; to her flower girl, a sterling silver bangle; to Miss Flora Patterson, a dinner ring, and to Miss Jean Henderson, a fountain pen.

GIVING PETERBORO A BLACK EYE.

Within the past few days Peterboro has been full of rumours relating to wholesale failures among the city's business houses.

While the list of victims varies somewhat, yet the names of a number of well-known firms, some half a dozen or more, are being freely bandied about as among those who have "gone to the wall."

One local business, it is true, has had to make a re-arrangement of its affairs, but the stories of a host of assignments is made out of whole cloth, and so fast is the list of failures added to that it is almost impossible to issue denials quickly enough to keep pace with the rumours.

Where these stories originate it is impossible to say, but once placed in circulation there seems to be no speed limit so far as their repetition is concerned.

It is obvious that reports of this kind not only do immense damage to the firms unfortunate enough to be mentioned, but does harm as well to the whole community.

To have it go out through the country, as it is bound to get out if people continue to circulate stories of this kind locally, is to give Peterboro a black eye from which it will take some time to recover.

Citizens should be very careful about the authenticity of news of this nature before they pass it on to their neighbors; the thoughtless promulgation of pessimistic rumours result in unnecessary embarrassment and difficulty for business men, and create in the minds of outsiders a very erroneous idea of conditions in Peterboro.

THE SAFETY LEAGUE.

The amount of educational work along safety first lines that is done by the Ontario Safety League has grown year by year, and has assumed such proportions that the Examiner is sure its readers will be surprised at the figures just published in connection with last year's campaign.

The literature distributed by the Safety League in 1925 included 7,000 special street car bulletins, 55,400 industrial bulletins, 84,900 traffic and electric railway bulletins, 360,000 motorists' cards, 65,000 special bulletins, 132,000 school bulletins, 188,000 letters to parents, 31,325 circulars, 11,274 safety calendars and 10,000 special cards and reports.

In all the league circulated over a million pieces of literature in a systematic effort to prevent fires and accidents, and this, of course, does not represent all its activities, inasmuch as the organization also used motion pictures, lantern slides and other methods of propaganda to reach the public and to preach the doctrine that the vast majority not only of fires but of accidents can be prevented by ordinary care.

Much of this literature is inevitably wasted, for there are, unfortunately, many individuals who either fail to read the warnings or to be impressed by them.

A large amount of the seed must, however, fall on fertile ground, and every advocate won for safety first methods is a contribution toward the general safety.

The Ontario Safety League has been in existence for twelve years, and its efforts each year have increased until this task of warning the public against the penalties of carelessness has developed into a huge business, as the figures quoted above show.

ONTARIO'S LIQUOR BUSINESS.

Any firm that had a turnover of $5,014,000 and could show a yearly profit of $833,000 surely could fairly be considered as doing a fine business.

However, when the turnover represents the amount of liquor sold by Government vendors in one year in a supposedly dry Province, there is room for a reasonable doubt as to whether or not this showing deserves commendation.

Ontario last year sold over five million dollars worth of liquor to the people of this Province, $34,000 worth more than during the preceeding year, and this in spite of the Government's action early last year in reducing the number of prescriptions which physicians could issue from 50 to 30 per month.

It is perhaps too early to judge of the effect of this amendment as it was in force only about half the year, and may possibly result in a slightly smaller volume of sales, but it is more than likely that the chief result of the change has been greater pressure brought to bear upon doctors who had not been using their full allotment of prescriptions each month.

The amount of liquor sold through the Government dispensaries indicates that either that the audity which the Ontario Temperance Act was supposed to cause in Ontario is being ameliorated to a considerable degree, or that the health of a good many people of this Province is in a peculiarly precarious condition, yielding only to treatment in the form of alcoholic liquids.

When the cost of home-brew ingredients in added to this $5,014,000 expenditure in the Government's dispensaries, Ontario's annual liquor bill will run into a pretty sizeable sum, and the amount of alcoholic beverages consumed in this legally dry Province each year must reach a huge total.

ROBERT BURNS.

The place that the Scottish poet, Robert Burns, fills in the world strengthens with the years. Around every twenty-fifth of January people meet in every clime to testify that the Immortal Bard lives in their memories. No man who ever lived has so many memorial statues in so many lands or has received so many tributes to his genius. He has won the highest offerings of praise from such men of genius as Goethe and Emerson, Wordsworth and Byron, Carlyle and Mathew Arnold, and from eminent critics of every nation. It is said of Lincoln's Republicanism that it was "of the same spirit as the Gospel of his favorite Burns," and Colonel Ingersoll, Lincoln's bosom companion and orator in the anti-slavery campaign, worshipped Burns and kept upon his library table two beautifully bound volumes of Shakespeare and Burns which he called his Bible and his Hymn Book. Ingersoll made a pilgrimage to the lowly birthplace of Burns in Scotland and wrote the following lines in the famous cottage:

"Here lived the gentle, peasant prince,
The loving cottar king,
Compared with whom the greatest lord,
Is but a titled thing.
'Tis but a cot roofed in with straw,
A hovel made of clay;
One door shuts out the snow and storm,
One window greets the day,
And yet I stand within this room
And hold all thrones in scorn;
For here beneath the lowly thatch,
Love's sweetest bard was born."

President Garfield realized: "That rising above the trammels of birth and poverty, Burns spoke to the nameless class of laboring men throughout the world while Kings and Nations listened in amazement. Genius is not confined to lands or latitudes, Burns belonged to the world."

T. P. O'Connor (Tay Pay) says of Burns: "What man has written so eloquently and so touchingly of all that makes life beautiful and good in the home and in the heart? We ever remain the debtors who will never be able to pay him the debt we owe."

Just glance at the poem, "For a' That," and acknowledge the genius of the man who, over a century ago, had grasped the truth that leading men are trying to carry out in the League of Nations:

"Then let us pray that come it may,
As come it will for a' that,
That sense and worth o'er a' the earth,
May bear the gree and a' that,
For a' that and a' that,
It's coming yet for a' that,
That man to man the world o'er,
Shall brothers be for a' that."

While the poet-prophet's prophecy, the grandest of all, that "man to man the world o'er shall brothers be and a' that," is not yet fulfilled there is an unshaken faith in humanity that it is coming yet "for a' that."

Consider the intensity of Burns and his love for men and women, even for the lowest! Who can ever forget his magnificent plea for charity which is contained in the last two stanzas of his address to the "Unco' guid?"

"Then gently scan your brother man,
Still greater sister woman;
Though they may gang a-kennin' wrang
To step aside is human.
One point must still be greatly dark.
The moving why they do it;
And just as lamely can ye mark
How far, perhaps, they rue it.

"Who made the heart, 'tis He alone
Decidedly can try us;
He knows each chord—its various tone,
each spring its various bias.
Then at the balance let's be mute,
We never can adjust it,
What's done we partly may compute,
But know not what's resisted."

No one ever wrote a better plea for the gospel of Christian forgiveness than this. It should be remembered by all in the hour when tempted to pass judgment on our fellowmen; the more frequent exercise of its spirit would make the world a sweeter place to live in.

To speak of the poet's life would be incomplete without mention of his passionate love for his country. It colors all his poetry, it emerges at every turn. From "Scots wha, hae'" to his wish:

"That I for dear auld Scotland's sake
Some useful plan or book might make,
Or sing a song at least."

it shines steadfast and unaltered. His pride in his native country never leaves him; and this patriotic pride touches a chord in every Scotsman wherever he may be. His thoughts go back to the Old Country and in his dreams he sees once more the purple hills and the little cottage nestling in the hollow, as down the glen comes a maiden, fair as the spring; something rises in his throat and with a rush the old song surges upon his heart:

"We twa hae paidled in the burn,
Frae, morning sun till dine,
But seas between us braid hae roared
Sin' auld lang syne."

Had Burns only written such words as these he would have deserved to live for ever in the hearts of his countrymen.

Although it is one hundred and sixty-seven years today since Burns was born, we are impressed at this distance of time with the wonderful vitality of his immortal work. We are reminded of the truth of the poet's own prophetic estimate that he would be more thought of one hundred years after his death than he was during his lifetime:

"Time but the impression stronger makes
As streams their channels deeper wear."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Province of Quebec had the biggest revenue in its history last year, and also spent more money than before, thus proving that Governments do not differ from individuals.

For two nights in succession S.O.S. signals from sinking ships upset the whole scheme of the international broadcasting tests. The right-of-way through the air was given to the mariners in peril, a much more important thing than the hearing of music sent across the Atlantic.

Twenty-nine rinks from outside rinks is the best possible endorsation of the Examiner's reference to the fine reputation of the Peterboro bonspiel.

Ontario shouldn't have to wait much longer to find out whether or not Premier Ferguson has a new liquor policy. The Speech from the Throne should answer that question.

The international broadcasting tests supply a new excuse this week for staying out late.

A problem that will have to be decided by the City Council before long will be the matter of motor bus franchises.

A Few Doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup May Stop That Cough

Mr. Frank D. Comeau, West Bathurst, N.B., writes:—"I had a very bad cold and cough that settled on my lungs, and I thought that I would never get rid of it.

One day a friend spoke to me about your wonderful remedy, so I sent and got a bottle of it, and after the first dose I took I got relief, and by the time I had finished the bottle I was completely relieved of all my trouble."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A MOTHER'S CREED.

There is a young man who is making good. He has a keen mind and a strong character. Recently his mother was emptying his pockets to help him change his clothes quickly.

"That letter will interest you, mother," he said, referring to one about his work. But it was another paper she opened—a yellow rumpled sheet—a note she had written him when he was eight years old, the first time he had been separated from her. It breathed the thoughts and prayers of all true mothers, yet she had forgotten she had ever written it.

The young man was embarrassed for a moment when he saw what she held. Then he said, "That is my most priceless possesion. I am going to carry it in my pocket as long as I live. Just the consciousness that I had that message in my pocket, and that it came from your heart has steered me straight most of the time."

That mother's message which her boy carried in his pocket until he became a man was this:

"Get up when called in the morning. Wash before dressing. Brush your teeth.

"Wash your face and hands before going to the table.

"Be obedient. Remember the world would be crushed if it did not obey the law of God, and you must suffer if you do not obey it.

"Be truthful. Only cowards lie, and you are not a coward.

"Be kind. It is the greatest gift in the world. Don't forget to do some kind act every day.

"Remember that your father is a gentleman; in his absence it is up to you to prove it. A gentleman is clean and kind and truthful and quiet.

"Have a good time. Remember that I love you with all my heart. Say your prayers and ask God to keep your heart brave and true and your body well for Your Mother."

EDITOR

RADIO TROUBLE.

Editor Examiner:

In the vicinity of a few hundred yards of Smith and Water streets there are three radio sets that are causing a lot of trouble to others through turning the rheostat on too full, that causes the receiver to be a transmitter, and oscillations occur, or plainer speaking, a continous squeal is received by other sets. There is nothing to be gained by having the rheostat on too full, in fact a lot to lose as the batteries are being run down fifty per cent faster, and the life of the tubes the same. When a slight knock is heard in your receiver turn your stat back a little and you will receive all volume that your set is capable of giving, and no interference to others. I am sure that this trouble has been purely accidental on the part of these radio fans. The dealers are more to blame for not explaining how to tune a receiver. Thanking you for the space.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—A dead set was made on prices Monday by the exporters, who found it necessary to buy lower to meet the Old Country markets. Rogers & Maybee bought 460 steers, bulls and heifers and the steers and bulls averaged 25 cents a cwt. below last week.

For a small bunch of heavy steers $8.50 a cwt. was paid, but few loads made as high as $8 a cwt. Bulls cost $4.50 to $5.50 and heifers $7 to $7.50. Trade was not too good again today and prices were certainly no better. While Monday's export cattle were lower the poor quality accounted for part of the drop in price. One good load of export steers sold this morning at $8.25 a cwt. and all the export heifers went at $7 to $7.25 a cwt. Export and choice cows were steady, but medium to good cows were down 25 to 50 cents a cwt. Any good to choice handyweight butchers were 10 to 15 cents a cwt. below last week, but cattle only just warmed up were bid 50 cents a cwt. lower.

The light calf run is keeping this market in a firm condition and the outlet to Buffalo is still open. Top calves were 14 cents and all good calves 12 cents a pound and up. Two cars have been shipped to Buffalo this week.

Complaints are general about the poor quality of lambs coming in at present. Sellers call the market weak, but any good lambs of acceptable weights are selling for 14 cents for ewes and wethers, and 11 cents for the bucks.

The American markets have firmed up on hogs and packers' buyers concede a steady market today at $13 a cwt. f.o.b.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).— There was some demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Canadian Western barley and as the prices bid in odd lots were in line with exporters' views. A little business was transacted, but on the whole the maket was quiet.

The only business of importance transacted in the cash grain market was the sale of a few loads of No. Canadian Western barley at 3 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, c.i.f. Bay Ports. The demand for oats was of a very limited character and the market for Ontario and Quebec oats was weakened at a decline of 1 cent per bushel.

The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was steady at $3.30 to $3.40 per bag of 90 lbs., delivered to the trade.

Although Ontario shippers were firmer in their views for strictly fresh eggs and asking more money an easier feeling prevailed in the local market and dealers generally reduced their prices 1c per dozen. A fair amount of business was done in a wholesale jobbing way.

The tone of the market for storage eggs also was easier and prices scored another decline of 1c per dozen, which was attributed to the continued somewhat limited demand and the pressure of holders to sell. The receipts were 2,223 cases, as against 1,257 for the same day last week, and 232 for the corresponding day a year ago. Of the total receipts yesterday two cars were received from British Columbia.

Potatoes Off 25c.

The feature of the potato trade was the easier feeling that developed in the market, and prices have been reduced 25c per bag. Sales of car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at $3 to $3.25 per bag, and Quebec varieties at $2.75 to $3 per bag of 90 lbs., ex-track.

The receipts of butter were 78 packages, as against 2,051 for the same day last week, and 31 for the corresponding day a year ago. The strength which developed in the situation on Monday was more than maintained and prices scored another advance of 1-4c to 1-2c per lb., which was due to the steady increasing demand for supplies of Townships pasteurized creamery for domestic account and the somewhat limited offerings as stocks of such are now held in few hands.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—Arrivals: 1,440 cattle and calves; 1,200 hogs; 18 sheep and lambs.

Indifferent demand characterized trading on the cattle market here today. Top butchers were selling from $4 to $4.25, with the lower grades ranging between $2.75 to $3.75. Stockers and feeders declined fractionally.

A firm tone dominated the hog market. Thick smooths sold up to $13.10, and select bacons $14.35.

Lambs scarce up to $11.50, while no definite price range was established for sheep.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—With the appearance of a fair volume of export buying and keener activity of millers and shorts, a strong tone was imparted to the wheat market here today. May delivery was relatively the firmest position, with an advance of 2 1-8c at $1.57 1-8. July closed at $1.55 3-8, and October, $1.37, both reflecting moderate gains.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (Canadian Press).—Big shrinkage of expected supplies went hand in hand with rising prices today in the wheat market here. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 3-4 to 2 1-4c net higher, May, new, $1.73 7-8 to $1.74 and July $1.50 1-4 to $1.50 3-8. Corn finished 5-8 to 7-8c up oats at 1-8 to 1-4 gain, and provisions ranging from 2 to 5c loss, to 5 to 7c advance.

Unmistakeable strength began to develop in the wheat market almost from the outset and continued to be evident throughout the day. The top figures reached came in the final hour, with May at $1.74 5-8, just 5 7-8c above yesterday's bottom level. With reports at hand that the great bulk of the Canadian crop had already been moved off the farms and that the total yield in Canada had been officially over-estimated 5,000,000 bushels, speculative buying here soon took on a broadened volume, and received further help from higher quotations, both at Liverpool and Winnipeg.

Announcement that a British authority had cut down his estimate of the Argentine exportable surplus 16,000,000 bushels, added impetus to the wheat buying movement here. World's available supplies today showed a decrease of 2,835,000 bushels for the week, reducing the aggregate to 21,520,000 bushels less than was the case a year ago.

A Statement to the Subscribers of

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada

WE have filed with the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada new schedules of rates for exchange telephone service.

These schedules call for increased rates for service, and provide for some decreases. They correct inequalities in present schedules. They are designed to distribute the charges in the fairest possible way, according to the service rendered.

These new rates are necessary because—

[1] We must earn a reasonable rate of return on our property. The growth of the business within the last few years, particularly in the lower rate party-line residence service, has had the effect of materially reducing net earnings per telephone;

[2] Large additions to plant at prices practically double pre-war levels, have greatly increased fixed charges;

[3] The rate of depreciation adopted as a temporary measure after the hearings before the Board of Railway Commissioners, is now known to be inadequate to protect the investment.

The demand for telephone service is continuous. We are planning extensions and betterments for the next five years, which are estimated to cost $87,000,0

To obtain from investors the money to finance this large programme, the credit of the Company must be maintained.

We invite your careful reading of the booklet "Telephone Service and Rates," which has been mailed to subscribers. It shows the necessity for rates which, while safeguarding the community's telephone service, will produce revenues sufficient to pay proper wages, our 14 [illegible] fair return to those who [illegible] our stock, and maintain the efficiency of the enterprise.

LINDSAY ATTORNEY TO ATTEND INQUEST

J. E. Anderson To Represent Crown Where Trappers Died.

LINDSAY, Jan. 27. — County Crown Attorney Anderson, whose jurisdiction covers the Counties of Victor and Haliburton, has been requested by the Attorney-General's Department to attend the inquest at Whitney on Friday, which will inquire into the cause of the death of Sergt. Billingas and his guide, Joe Stringer, whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of a shack in Clyde Township, Haliburton County. This township is just on the border of Haliburton and Nipissing Counties. It is sparsely settled, and Lindsay hunters, as well as others who have been engaged in lumbering operations in that section, are well acquainted with the spot where the double tragedy occurred.

CITIZENS DEMAND FIRE PROTECTION

Proud of Their Assets, But Think Old Pump Has Outlived Usefulness.

OMEMEE, Jan. 37.—The residents of Omemee are proud of their paved streets, cement sidewalks, hydro lights, beautiful homes, large stores, and their industries, but they feel there is one other very necessary equipment for the village and that is an efficient fire fighing apparatus.

For a number of years the only way the citizens have had of fighting a fire was by a hand pump and hose operated by eight or ten men. While this pump has given good service in the past, the village council and citizens feel it has outlived its usefulness, and accordingly Reeve W. D. Stinson called the citizens to meet with the council on Tuesday evening in the Council Chamber to discuss fully the matter of fire protection. There was a representative number of citizens present, and it was the unanimous opinion that an efficient outfit of both chemical and water equipment should be purchased.

A representative of a Western Ontario firm was present and addressed the meeting and was asked many questions. A citizens' committee consisting of R. Bradley, S. J. Mackey and H. Lamb was appointed to take up the matter with the council and no doubt before many months pass, our village will have another asset of which the people will be proud.

PROTEST INCREASE.

Cities and Towns Asked To Object to Telephone Rate Raise.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—(Canadian Press).—An effort is to be made to have every city and town in Ontario, and also in Quebec, if possible, join in a protest against increased telephone rates, for which an application will be filed with the Board of Railway Commissioners today by the Bell Telephone.

This was decided upon by the Executive of the Union of Canadian Municipalities which met here Monday.

DISCUSS TEMPERANCE.

Rev. D. R. Clare Presented Resume of Situation Prevailing To-day.

WELCOME, Jan. 27.—The Young People's League of Welcome Church held a regular meeting on Thursday evening. Over fifty were present, in spite of bad weather conditions.

The Citizenship Department had charge of the meeting. Mr. Ernest Ramsay gave the topic on "Temperance," followed by a talk by the Rev. D. R. Clare on the grave situation regarding temperance in Ontario at the present time.

The Missionary Department won the largest number of points that evening.

A recreation hour followed.

WHEAT POOL OF GREAT VALUE TO WEST'S FARMERS

Three-quarters of Seeded Area is Now Under Contract.

POULTRY POOL.

Is Being Organized — Saskatchewan Grain Growers Meet.

SASKATOON, Sask., Jan. 27—Geo. F. Edwards, president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' association, told the delegates to the 25th annual convention of that body Tuesday that the last year had been a notable one in many respects. Among the points stressed in his address were the following:

The wheat pool completed its first year of operation, and returns were so satisfactory that, at the present time, 73 per cent. of the actual seeded area in the province is under contract to the pool.

Progress had been made toward a fuller measure of co-operation between the wheat pool and the co-operative elevator company.

Poultry Pool

The poultry pool was in the process of organization, and the convention would be called upon to consider a report on the question of livestock marketing.

The executive had done "all that was possible" in following out the instruction of the last convention in connection with amalgamation with the Farmers' union of Canada. Mr. Edwards announced that the delegates would be asked to decide whether they would go into a joint convention with the Farmers' union to "consummate this most desirable object."

Bad Practice

From the experience of the provincial elections, held June 2, and the federal elections, October 29th, had been proven that "the practice of holding elections either in seeding or in harvst time should be discontinued."

The president declared in his address that it was "high time that the fiscal policy of the country should be one under which agriculture can function without any hampering restrictions," in stead of the one which has prevailed in the country for the last 40 years, "where the primary industries have been discriminated against."

Rural Credit Scheme

Mr. Edawrds expressed satisfaction that the speech from the throne gave indication that the Hudson Bay railway would be completed, and that the government intended to bring down a rural credit scheme.

Mr. Edwards expressed regret that the Crow's Nest rate agreement had been done away with and stated that in the new rate strucure "consideration should be given to the rights enjoyed under the Crow's Nest agreement, and that there should be some compensation to the west of the rights it has been compelled to relinquish."

System Out of Date

Turning again to federal politics, Mr. Edwards declared that the two-party system was out of date, and that the situation at Ottawa, while it may be unsatisfactory to some for certain reasons, "would result in a great deal of good by giving the representatives elected in the various parties an opportunity to show a great deal more of the spirit of co-operation, tolerance and good will than has been shown in the past."

"Undoubtedly, the people of Canada are looking to their representatives to carry on the government and conduct the affairs of the country in a business-like way, without too much regard being paid to party advantage," he continued.

Statesmanship Needed

"It is not a time for playing party politics, but rather a time for exercising statesmanlike qualities, for we cannot afford the expense of another election, nor have we any assurance that if such took place it would create any material difference in the situation."

Commenting on the fact that Saskatchewan sent only six Progressive members to parliament instead of 15, as in the last parliament. Mr. Edwards said: "I am not arguing in favor of partisan support of the Progressive or any other party, but trying to illustrate the point that it is not very difficult to get us as farmers to rally around something which may appeal to our imagination at a given time, but that it is a great deal more difficult to keep us loyal sufficiently long to enable the institution to accomplish for us what we desire and what it could accomplish if loyally supported."

LICENSE BOARD SHOWS SURPLUS

Total Profits For 1925 Were $833,000—Less Than Last Yetar.

MORE LIQUOR SOLD.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—(Canadian Press).—After meeting all salaries and other expenses, the Ontario Board of License Commissioners has earned for the Province during the past twelve months the net sum of $833,000, this amount representing the profits of the sale of liquors through Government dispensaries. The figures have just been compiled by James Hales, K.C., Chairman of the License Board. The total sale of liquors during the year is given as $5,014,000. As compared with the figures of the preceding year, the figures announced yesterday were interesting in two regards—that they showed a slightly lower net profit, although showing a slightly higher volume of sales.

For the preceding year the profits of the dispensaries reached $867,000, and the volume of sales reached $4,976,000.

NO RESPECT TO CIVIC SYMBOL

So Mayor of Oxford Begins Effort To Teach Meaning To Youth.

IGNORED BY ELDERS.

LONDON, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Mayor of Oxford, Reverend John Carter, who is not actively engaged in the ministry, resents the lack of respect the townspeople show the city mace when they fail to uncover their heads when it passes before them. The Mayor yesterday initiated a series of visits to schools where the boys were directed to file past and salute the mace.

His Worship announces his intention of having an escort of Boy Scouts or Girl Guides accompanying the mace on great occasions. What His Worships proposes doing to those elder citizens who persist in ignoring the emblem of authority is unstated.

An authority on ceremonial says that he has never heard of any recognized custom of saluting the mace. "People should certainly uncover when regimental colors go by," the authority says, "and it is obviously courteous to uncover to any mayor; but to salute the mace? Well, it's profoundly respectful."

DENIES WATER IN BESCO STOCK

Commission's Recent Report Silences Persistent Falsehood.

MINERS BELIEVED.

MONTREAL, Quebec, January 27.—Canadian Press. — The "Besco Bulletin," the publication of the British Empire Steel Corporation, has the following to say regarding the capital structure of the British Empire Steel Corporation:

"The capital structure of the corporation and the relation of the physical assets of the several companies to the total share capital have been constantly and consistently misrepresented. Day after day, and year after year, the story of the tremendous over-capitalization was repeated and the miners were told that the real reason for any proposed reduction in wages was the desire of the corporation to pay dividends on its millions of watered stock. The report (of the Duncan Royal Commission) consigns these stories to the limbo of the fairy-tale.

"It shows that every dollar of the capital stock of the British Empire Steel Corporation issued and in the hands of the public, and every dollar of the preferred stock of the constituent companies, and every dollar of bonds outstanding against their properties is represented by a dollar of cash actually invested in those properties.

"No consideration, however, is given to the possibility of depreciation or of appreciation in the values of these properties, which as the president informed the commission in his evidence, have been appraised at practically double the value shown on the books of the companies."

Good Health In Old Age!

AS WE grow older the body needs more and more help in warding off sickness. Sleeplessness, loss of appetite, impoverished blood, loss of vitality, all show that the body needs help in restoring the vital energy it is using up, and before health returns this vital energy must be restored.

Medical research has definitely proved that one of the causes of a run down condition of the body is a shortage of certain mineral elements, including iron, potassium, calcium, sodium and phosphorus, and until a sufficient supply of these minerals is restored to the body, good health is impossible. Wincarnis contains every one of these elements in addition to other health giving ingredients and in a form in which they are most rapidly absorbed into the blood and carried to every part of the body to be converted into vital force.

Wincarnis has been recommended by over ten thousand physicians in cases of nervousness, anaemia, sleeplessness, and the general debility that accompanies a run down body. For fifty years this strength giver and nerve restorative has brought new life and happiness to weakened men and women.

Buy a bottle of Wincarnis today from your druggist—try it and see the difference just a few days will bring.

"But constipation is serious, Grace"

"Not so long ago I was like you—headaches a good deal of the time, sleeping badly, and the least bit of housework tired me out. My complexion too, was bad.

"Finally, I went to see Dr. Farman. He showed me that it was constipation that was back of my troubles. He said that it was a very serious thing because poisons from clogged waste matter were picked up by the blood and carried to every body organ. And if I didn't correct it in time I might become a victim of one of those terrible organic diseases.

"He made me drop laxatives altogether, changed my diet, and put me on Nujol. I don't think I've ever felt better. I sleep well, my headaches have disappeared, and you can see for yourself what an improvement there is in my skin. Nujol has done wonders for me."

Nujol Works Like Nature

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It is neither a food nor a medicine. It does not gripe. It is gentle and natural in its action and is prescribed by leading medical authorities.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly, in accordance with the directions on each bottle. As Nujol is not a laxative, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin the perfect health that is possible only when intestinal elimination is normal and regular.

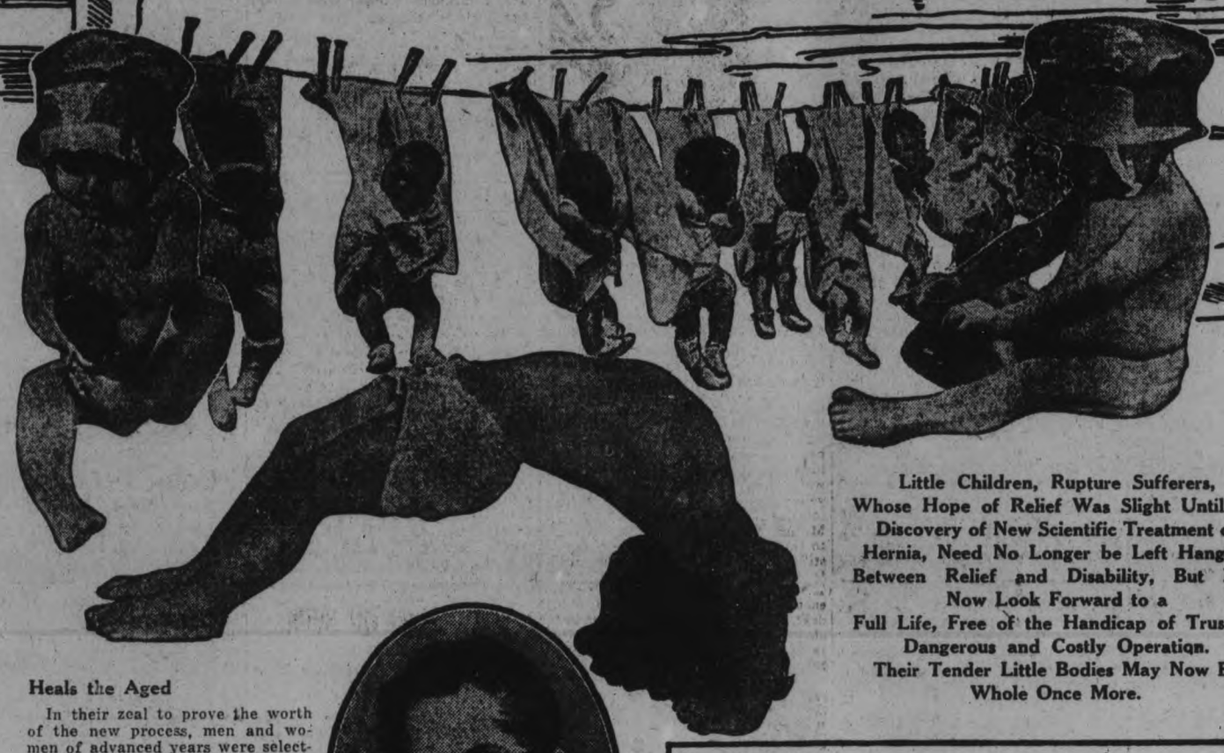
Rupture Can Be Healed

Science Finds

And Without Operation, Delay or Danger

New Discovery Seals Rupture—Masters Human Scourge Which Defied Doctors for Ages. Thousands Tell of Benefits. Safety and Cleanliness Assured.

Try This New Way FREE



So Light, Small and Comfortable is the New Rupture Appliance, It Can Not Be Noted Even When the Wearer is Clad in Tights. Several Dancers, Sufferers from Rupture Due to the Unusual Exertion, Have Been Healed by New Discovery.

Little Children, Rupture Sufferers, Whose Hope of Relief Was Slight Until the Discovery of New Scientific Treatment of Hernia, Need No Longer be Left Hanging Between Relief and Disability, But May Now Look Forward to a Full Life, Free of the Handicap of Truss or Dangerous and Costly Operation. Their Tender Little Bodies May Now Be Whole Once More.

Strains of Unusual Positions, Mean Nothing to Rupture Sufferers Now, as Science Has Perfected a Remedy for Rupture Which Even During the Healing Stage Does Not Interfere With the Body Actions.

Rupture can be healed.

Medical science, endless investigation, combined with modern inventiveness has devised a method which actually heals rupture. For ages, the healing of rupture, or hernia as it is known medically, has been the aim of countless physicians and surgeons.

Investigations into the ills and body afflictions of ancients, disclose that in days, when history was noted on tablets of stone, rupture was known and even then priests of that time, were aimlessly trying to effect a cure. Trusses, as the implements which hold or retain the rupture are called, were in use at that period in history, but like the modern truss they held the rupture but failed to assist nature in healing the wound.

The ancients' attempts at healing were mere gropings, as they knew nothing of the circulation of blood and its effect on body tissue and body growth. The various phases of growth were mysteries which they were unable to fathom. Since Sir William Harvey, an English scientist of the early century, discovered that blood really circulated through the body, sending life-giving materials to all parts of the human system, the path of the rupture scientists has been more easy to follow.

They attempted to find, if possible, some method of retaining the rupture safely, yet something which would allow free circulation of blood and not irritate the edges of the hernia or rupture and which would heal the tear.

Assists Nature to Heal

This has been done. Experiments carried on for more than 30 years has resulted in the perfection of an appliance, light, safe, comfortable and clean, which assists nature and really heals the rupture. An additional improvement has been made; the entire appliance, which weighs less than two ounces, can now be washed in water or antiseptics, eliminating all body odors, irritations and causes of skin blistering. The announcement was withheld for some time, so that thousands of experiments which had been carried on in all sections of America, Holland, England, Canada and Germany could be investigated and the condition of these observed at frequent intervals.

These investigations have been made and it has been found that a great number of cases have been successfully treated. That the good effects have been permanent is attested by letters written by the people themselves and sent to the offices of those who perfected the new rupture appliance. These included people in every walk of life, people who make their living by hard work, where strains, heavy lifting and constant muscular effort is necessary. Others include society women, working women and women in moderate circumstances. The successful treatment has been general in all classes.

Heals the Aged

In their zeal to prove the worth of the new process, men and women of advanced years were selected and their experiences recorded. A probe showed that even in this class, a great number of permanent benefits had resulted, where the patient followed closely the instructions of the experts.

To really understand what this great discovery and these years of experimenting and testing mean to humanity, it is almost necessary that a full description of the new method be given. Like all inventions and discoveries of science, its method of healing is based on logic and upon a keen knowledge of the subject.

A rupture or hernia, as it is known in medical science, is literally a tear or a separation of the muscle fibers in the walls of the abdomen. This separation is caused by a heavy strain, a violent jerking or unusual exertion. The fibers separate and allow a portion of the intestine to protrude through the opening. This results in a small knot or knob on the wall of the abdomen.

Before the investigation, which resulted in the discovery of this new method of healing, there were but two courses open. A physician or surgeon could be called and an operation performed or the patient or sufferer could seek some sort of comfort from a truss, which pushed itself into the rupture opening, keeping the protruding intestine inside the body.

The operation was expensive and dangerous, with the outcome a doubtful thing.

All the surgeon with his knife could promise to do was to bring the edges of the torn section together and sew it, then await the action of nature and allow growth to renew the torn sections.

Truss Prevents Healing

If the truss was called into service, the hard leather knob was forced into the tear, where constant irritation wore thin the edges of the wound and the hard pressure prevented proper blood circulation. The sufferer was forced to resign himself to a lifetime of rupture suffering, never free from the harness of the truss. No hope was held out by scientists, that his rupture would ever disappear, although many manufacturers of appliances contended that such a thing was possible; scientific investigation showed that it was impossible to heal the rupture as long as the heavy pad was being pushed into the rupture opening, separating the edges

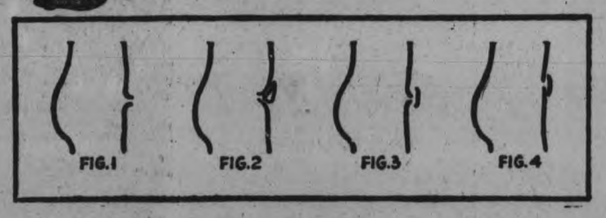
The heavy springs in the usual truss pressed into the body, many times injuring the kidneys and causing unrepairable damage to the back, where the heavy steel pressed into the tender nerves, centered in the spinal column. Besides this, so cruel was the old-fashioned truss, it was impossible to sleep in the apparatus, with the result that, in sleep many times, the rupture "came out" and even a doctor was unable to replace it. When this happened, an immediate operation was necessary if the life of the patient was to be saved. Peritonitis would result in 24 hours if the rupture strangulated or could not be replaced. The old truss was not washable; it caused skin irritations and the dirt which accumulated caused a feverish condition which retarded the healing.

The great number of rupture cases among small children and babies made necessary some method which would eliminate forever the pushing pad, the dangerous operation and heavy steel encircling the body, injuring the delicate nerve centers.

Experiments Bear Fruit

The experiments resulted in the discovery and perfection of the Brooks appliance. C. E. Brooks, a resident of Marshall, Michigan, was ruptured. He was not a doctor, but he was a well educated man. Rupture causes and rupture cures became his hobby, and after many years he developed the appliance which now bears his name.



The outline Drawing of a section of the abdominal wall, shows the New and Old Way by Which Rupture Was Treated. Until the Present Discovery a Heavy Pad or Knob was Used, It Forced Itself Into the Rupture Opening Retaining the Rupture But Making Healing Impossible.

He soon found the deficiencies of the truss—the things it did to retard healing. So he developed an appliance which did everything which the truss failed to do. With reverse logic he invented the rupture appliance which resulted in the many benefits narrated.

Can Be Washed Daily

His appliance, built scientifically and recommended by physicians and doctors in all sections of the world, lays—not pushes—on the rupture. Small, light, clean, safe and comfortable, its soft velvet-like air cushion of hygienic rubber retains the rupture and at the same time tends to bring the edges of the tear together. The action of the small oval is to gently close the wound, and in this way allow growth. Nature, when assisted, soon repairs the damage wrought in the injured side and the result is relief for the sufferer. The washable, sanitary feature, so necessary if healing is expected and health assured, was incorporated into this new invention.

He eliminated at once all metal springs and hard, unyielding pads. Soft washable material encircles the body and acts as a support for the small oval. There are no features in the newly perfected appliance which do not work for the benefit of the patient. Every movement of the body results in the edges of the wound being brought closer together, reversing the action of the old style which constantly forced the edges of the wound apart.

It is so light, so comfortable that it can be worn even while asleep, so that night and day, asleep or at work, the rupture is being healed.

Thousands Relieved

It is no wonder then that so many people have been healed by this new discovery. A volume of letters began to flow into the offices of the inventor as soon as this method was available. People who thought they were destined to wear a truss all their lives or submit to a dangerous operation, reported benefits in a few months, while successes with small children were regular occurrences.

To ascertain the truth of the reports of permanent help by the use of the new invention, a check was taken over a period of years and letters written to hundreds who had worn the new device. The answers were amazing—the number of cases healed astounding. Hundreds, literally thousands, torn for years by rupture and weakened by its effects, had gained freedom from all devices by the consistent use of the new invention.

In a letter to the inventors, Mrs. Thomas Scott of 11637 125th street, Edmonton, Alta., Canada, said:

"One year ago I bou ht your rupture appliance for my little girl, who was three years old. She is now four and the rupture hasn't bothered her since I put the appliance on.

"I surely am very thankful to you and you may use this letter, as it may help some other worried mother."

An amazing example was reported by C. H. Campbell, a carpenter, 75 years old, living at Freeport, N. S., Canada, who had been ruptured many years. He said:

"I am pleased to inform you that I do not need anything in connection with the appliance, for I have not worn same for the last nine months and consider myself healed of rupture.

"The rupture has not troubled me for the last four years—thanks to you and your invention. It was a God-send to me, for the doctor said there was nothing for me but the knife. I am seventy-five years old and work every day at my trade as a carpenter. You are at liberty to use the above statement in any way you choose."

A brief period healed E. W. Brown of Norwich, N. Y., who states:

"I discontinued wearing my appliance about six weeks ago and am happy to say that my rupture is entirely healed. Was examined by my doctor and pronounced well. Considering my age, 61 years, think this is wonderful work.

"Cannot express to you just how grateful I am, for up to the time I commenced wearing your appliance was miserable every minute."

Steel Trusses Fail

As proof that spring trusses failed to do the work while the more modern Brooks appliance made possible benefits which even a doctor pronounced positive, the letter from Albert Foote, P. O. Box 177, Sterling, Mass., said:

"Gentlemen: I wore your grand rupture appliance for one year day and night, after which I underwent a doctor's examination. He stated I was completely healed. This examination was mad in December, 1921, and I haven't worn the appliance since and have had no trouble.

"I suffered from a double rupture and had used spring trusses for six years without help."

A further proof that the benefits are permanent is verified by John Clark, Roan Mountain, Tenn., R. F. D. No. 2, Box 84, who said:

"Your rupture appliance has surely benefitted me—I have been well for two years.

"You may use my name and this letter in any way you wish, for I feel very grateful."

A sad case was disclosed when a man writing from Peoria, Illinois, gave the following statement. His name was withheld out of regard for his grief. It gives a striking example of the dangers of rupture, especially where the old-fashioned spring truss is used. The application of the new Brooks appliance might have resulted in saving the man's life. The letter from his son follows:

"Dear Mr. Brooks: I am returning the rupture appliance for refund, as father died from strangulated hernia the day before it came.

"We tried two years ago to get him to order one of your appliances and cannot help but feel that if he had done as we wanted him to he would have been spared."

Thousands Benefitted

On file in the offices of the company are thousands of letters, telling of the cures effected by this new invention, and many of them full of thanks and gratitude for the treatment which they had always thought impossible or too dangerous to attempt.

So convinced are the people who now make this new invention that it will heal rupture and bring instant relief they will allow a ten-day free trial of the new appliance. In ten days, they believe any rupture sufferer can tell whether or not it is satisfactory in his or her particular case. If it fails to give the comfort that they feel it should it can be returned.

Free Trial

The financial standing of the people who make this newly perfected appliance is above reproach. They give as references, banks, ministers, physicians and express companies in their city or in practically any large city in the entire nation.

"To gamble with rupture," said a prominent scientist, "is to gamble with life itself. Trusses hamper the wearer, they many times ruin the health of children for life. To secure an appliance which retains and at the same time assists healing is wonderful and means much to mankind."

To obtain this appliance the readers of this paper can write to Brooks Appliance Co., 1152 State St., Marshall, Mich., and it will be sent for free test trial. Fill out the coupon below and mail it today. To delay may mean permanent ill-health or even worse.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A lady from the State of Washington wrote me a charming letter and then forgot to sign her name. The only way to reply to her is to do as she suggests and write on "nerves." She says there are thousands who read my articles who "suffer from nerves."

I hope the lady does not think they suffer this way just because they read my writings—!

Of course, I am joking, and I want to say at once that I fully agree with the lady. There are thousands of persons in every State of the Union who suffer from nerves.

Every sort of machine gets shaky if it is neglected. An abused automobile rattles and sounds as if it would fall apart. A neglected typewriting machine won't "track"—the letters are out of alignment. The best of furniture must be watched to make sure it does not get into bad repair. At the end of every run the locomotive must be overhauled.

When a human being gets out of alignment and rattles and shakes, we say the trouble is "nerves."

Did you ever feel as if you could "jump out of your skin."

Did you ever want to cry if somebody pointed a finger at you?

Did you ever feel out-of-sorts or swearing, or wanting to laugh your head off?

Did you ever feel out-of-sorts with your family, your sweetheart, your friends, your associates, the street car conductor, and everybody you had occasion to see?

Did you ever hate yourself, your job and all the world?

If you did, you had "nerves."

Nobody can be happy and normal if the mind and body are overworked. You can't go on without being overhauled and tightened up at regular intervals. You will get shaky, uncertain and undependable if you don't take time for repairs.

If you are always going out, change your program. Instead of going to a dance or a restaurant, go to bed as soon as you get home. Surprise and gratify your tired nerves by several hours of extra sleep on several successive nights.

If you are bored with your work and your family, go to a good show or to the movies. Frequent changes of this nature will soothe and help you.

Instead of running out during a ten-minute lunch period for a sandwich, take a congenial friend and spend an hour and a half in talking "light nothings." It will clear your brain.

Prevent nerves by refusing to be bored. Remember that change of work is play. Don't permit yourself to get run-down by neglecting rest and refreshment, proper food, exercise and fresh air.

If you have "nerves" there is something fundamentally wrong with one or more of your organs or else you are neglecting the simple rules of hygiene.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

MRS. L. C. G. Q.—My clothes irritate a scar I have on my abdomen. What salve or liquid would you advise me to use on it?

A.—I would suggest that you ask the doctor who operated on you to prescribe the necessary treatment.

* * *

M. L. O. Q.—Would you advise the removal of a cyst from behind the ear?

2.—Would it, if unmolested, cause any trouble?

A.—It is usually well to have any growth removed before it increases in size. However, your doctor is the best one to advise you.

2.—It might become enlarged and be more difficult to remove.

CONTRASTS

A PAMPERED PEKINESE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—This is the story of the death and burial of Ping Pong.

Down in sunny Florida it was that Ping Pong died. The end came at 11 years— a ripe age for a Pekinese.

That Ping Pong should have died in sunny Florida was but in keeping with the sunny life he had lived. For Ping Pong had lived in luxury.

Never once did he have to wonder where his next bone was coming from.

His devoted mistress, Mrs. S. Mead, wealthy society woman of New York City, had prepared for him the choicest of delicacies.

Ping Pong went south with Mrs. Mead every winter, and came back north when the hot winds blew.

But this winter, at Palm Beach, Ping Pong seemed dis-spirited. He seemed to have lost interest in life, somehow—even in a life surrounded by every canine comfort.

Mrs. Mead took him to a hospital, for an operation.

This revealed the need of a second operation.

Ping Pong was cared for with the utmost tenderness. Mrs. Mead rented an extra room in her fashionable hotel, at $15 per day, so that Ping Pong might have complete rest and quiet.

But Ping Pong died, nevertheless.

Mrs. Mead gave up the Florida social season, and with Ping Pong's body, hastened back to New York.

At Hartsdale Canine Cemetery, Ping Pong was laid away in a beautiful and elaborate coffin. His grave was blanketed with flowers. Many friends of his sorrowing mistress paid their last respects. His death, burial and attendant expenses amounted to more than $1,500.

There will be a tombstone for Ping Pong in the spring. The burial plot always will be well cared for.

Ping Pong died and was buried as he lived—with dignity and elegance.

AND A PUNY CHILD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—This is the story of the death and burial of Rosetta Felig.

Rosetta died in the back room of a dingy apartment on Mulberry street. She was 11 years old.

By selecting the most inexpensive coffin which the undertaker offered, and taking advantage of free burial privileges in one of the less pretentious cemeteries, her people kept the funeral expense down to a total of $55.

They miss Rosetta out on Mulberry street. For despite her lack of the advantages which children of more fortunate birth enjoy, Rosetta was bright and smiling.

Undernourishment was the cause of her death, apparently; undernourishment and lack of sunshine and fresh air.

The mother had known for several years that Rosetta was ailing, but there was little she could do about it.

The Feligs couldn't move from the dingy Mulberry street tenement out on Long Island, or over in Jersey, or up in fashionable Westchester county, where sunlight and fresh air are plentiful, just for Rosetta's sake.

So Rosetta, still smiling, still caring for the other Felig children as much as possible, still friendly with all the other "kids" in the Mulberry street neighborhood, got worse and worse, and finally died.

Her last illness lasted about a week.

The mother wept quietly because there couldn't be a nicer funeral. But nice funerals are expensive.

The casket cost $24, a pine box $10, a car to the cemetery $12. And though the burial plot was free, it cost $1 to get a permit and $8 to have the grave dug.

The neighbor children supplied the only flowers. There was a pretty bunch of these, though they were wilted somewhat.

So Rosetta died and buried as she had lived—in deprivation and shadow.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

WHY WILLY WOODPECKER HAS A RED HEAD.

"Oh, me! Oh, my!" sighed Willy Woodpecker, when he caught a glimpse of his flashy red-top in a shiny tin can. "I can't see why all woodpeckers have to wear red caps. I certainly had mine."

"Why, Willy Woodpecker! You ought to be ashamed of yourself," cried his mamma. "Here I have been trying for days to teach you youngster how to fly, and then you stop to criticise the way I dress you. I'll have to tell you the story my great grandmother used to tell. Maybe that will make you like your red head a little better."

"Then please tell it," cried Willy Woodpecker, and he called his brother and sisters, who gathered up close to their mother on the edge of the barn.

"Well," drawled Mother Woodpecker, "in the first place, a long, long time ago, all woodpeckers had lovely white heads. Then one day, while a dear little Mother Woodpecker was sitting on her nest waiting for her eggs to hatch, a great, big, black snake crawled up the trunk of the tree and out on the limb where the little nest was fastened. He poked his ugly black head over the side of the pretty nest, and poor little Mother Woodpecker was so excited that all the blood rushed to her head. A tiny vein burst and dyed her pretty, white-feathered head a beautiful, bright, red. Well, that horrid old snake was so frightened at the sight, he didn't take time to crawl out of the tree. He just let loose and fell down on the stones under the tree and broke his neck.

"Don't Be Silly."

"The little Mother Woodpecker flew to the stream and tried to wash the red from her head, but it wouldn't come off. It had dyed the pretty white head a bright red.

"The next day while she was sitting on her nest another black snake poked his head over the side of her nest. The sight that greeted him so frightened him, he, too, dropped out of the tree and broke his neck. Instead of a nest full of white heads five bright, red-headed, yellow-mouthed, fiery looking creatures screamed at him. Well," continued Mother Woodpecker, "from that day to this, anyone belonging to our family still wears a spot of red on his head. It acts as a protection against his worst enemy, Mr. Black Snake. So, Willy dear, don't be ashamed of that red head of yours, it has kept you from being eaten a good many times. Don't be silly and wish it something else."

"Is that the reason old Black Snake ran down the tree this morning? Did our red heads frighten him?" Willy Woodpecker asked. Then, I hope mine gets a brigh scarlet."

"That's the way," chirped Mother Woodpecker. "Be content with what you have. Come now, spread your pretty wings for a long fly and follow me."

Mother Woodpecker sailed off towards the meadows and all her babies followed her. That was the last time he ever heard any of them complains about their red heads.

FIRST AID HELPS

HOW TO TAKE AN OBJECT OUT OF THE EYE.

By Dr. Hugh S. Cumming.

One of the most frequent questions is, "How may one remove cinders and other foreign bodies from the eye?" Ordinarily, it is a very simple procedure to remove a loose particle, but simple as it is, few people except doctors and nurses know how to do it.

If the foreign body is embedded in the tissue of the eye consult an oculist. Delay in such cases is dangerous.

Suppose the foreign body is loose, simply floating around on the surface what should be done?

Clean Hands.

First, be sure your hands are clean. Remember that germs are both invisible and ubiquitous. Get the best light you can obtain and first expose the inner surface of the lower lid by placing the thumb just below the affected eye, pulling the lid downward, directing the patient to look up. Look carefully for the foreign body on the inner surface of the lower lid or on the lower part of the exposed eyeball. If you find it, remove it by wiping gently with the cotton on the end of a match.

Foreign bodies are most frequently found lodged on the under surface of the upper lid and to locate and remove them, you must turn the lid wrong side out. This is easy to do and easy to learn how to do, but you can learn only by doing it.

How It Is Done.

Here is how it is done. Face the patient, tell him to look down and to keep looking down. Grasp the lashes of the upper lid with your thumb and finger and hold them firmly, but do not pull. With your free hand, take a small pencil or match or a similar smooth object and press gently on the upper part of the lid, lifting the lower part of the lid outward and upward. The lid will turn inside out and the foreign body will usually be easily seen.

A little of a saturated solution of boric acid may be dropped into the eye with a medicine dropper after the foreign body is removed.

TEARIN' IN.

There's a heap of satisfaction for the man who swings to action when he has a job that really should be done. He's the live and snappy stepper who has got the brand of pepper that can make the hardest labor turn to fun.

Has no time for lazy frettin', as to where he will be gettin', 'cause his time is taken up with tearin' in. Frets and fumes are only brewin' for the man who's shy on doin', and is just a bit too lazy to begin.

After all, where life will find us quite depends on what's behind us, and a man is what he makes himself, I guess. I you've left a trail of shirking, in the place of honest working, well—you can't expect to reach to much success.

All we've got to do is learn to know the proper one to turn to, and the proper one is you, it's safe to say. Though we're all created equal, after that our own sweet sequel quite depends on things we're doing, day by day.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

LED. Your are strong individualistic in your way of living and of thinking. You will be successful in matters involving business and finance, but do not allow you aptitude for such things to mar your manifest destiny, which is toward marriage and a home, with all it implies. If you come to the turning point where you have to choose between a career and a home, take the latter. You will not regret it. And when you do, turn all your talents to the task of creating a real, peaceful abiding-place for your husband and children.

Yes, you were born on a Sunday.

The day of which you ask is one on which you must exercise much care and forethought to avoid disagreeable complications. Be passive. Make no important moves or decisions on that day.

Either gray or scarlet, a diverse range, are colors which will suit you best.

ROGER. If you follow out the destiny planned for you, you will have a very worthwhile life. Do not allow the dark things of the world to ever influence you. Remember that you mean something in the world, or will later on, rather, as you are too young yet to have even begun to realize your destiny. I do not promise you overmuch material success or advancement, your guiding star does not prophesy this for you. But you may, if you so will it, have a rounded and fine existence, replete with help for others and satisfaction to yourself.

Marry young, that is, as soon as you feel that marriage can be afforded. And choose a partner who will be peace-loving and gentle. Repose and comfort for yourself, and helpful service to others, will come of a union of this type.

But, remember, stand clear of the dark, sordid things of the world.

You were born on a Monday. The day of which you enquire is one on which to take advantage of every opportunity.

Your colors are orange, gray, scarlet and heliotrope.

MERT. You should always remember that in union there is strength. Co-operation should be your watch word. Do not try to stand alone in important matters, and do not, on the other hand, try to influence the lives of others.

You will make most success in enterprises that have to do with the mental side of life. Science or business also appeals to you.

You were born on a Tuesday. I am sorry that the date you enquire of is past.

The colors best suited to your temperament are opal, in varying shades of gold and blue, also canary and shades of tan and buff.

C. E. O. Yes, life is somewhat tangled up for you at times. Why have you chosen to develop the mental side of your existence when you should have set about strengthening the physical? Get into something where you can create and use that tenacious force of yours to better advantage.

Do not be so sensitive—try to conquer this feeling that others may be striving to harm you. Speak to the good in others, and good will come back to you. And cultivate loyalty to your friends. You are changeable.

You were born on Monday.

The day enquired about is one to approach with caution. Do nothing on that day that has not been considered carefully and well.

Blue and green are your colors.

GEE. You should never strive to stand alone in any important matter. Associate yourself with others in important enterprises and choose your companions wisely, because those around you will influence your whole life.

You like music and fine arts and should, with practice, excell in some branch.

Do not worry about little things and do not grieve if you are sometimes misunderstood.

In marriage, if you choose your partner wisely, you will find your happiness. A girl born in April, August or November would make an ideal mate.

You were born on Monday.

I regret that the day you enquire about is past.

Gray and scarlet are your colors.

ITALIANS ABROAD TO BE MUZZLED

Drastic Punishments For Those Who Defame Country.

ROME, Jan. 27.—(United Press).—King Victor Emmanuel next Thursday will sign the bill providing drastic punishment for Italians engaging in "anti-national" activities abroad. The bill then will become law.

By a vote of 101 to 46, the Senate passed the bill Monday, and it already has passed the Chamber. Loss of citizenship, as well as confiscation of property in the more serious cases of infringment, is provided by the measure. It is designed to muzzle Italians who live outside the borders of Italy.

Among the arguments produced in favor of the bill was that of Senator Rocco, who said some Italians in the U. S. had defamed their country while the Italian Debt Funding Mission was negotiating in Washington last fall.

SUPPER ENJOYED.

Concert and Oyster Banquet Under L.O.L. Auspices Was Success.

BETHANY, Jan. 27.—The annual oyster supper of L.O.L. No. 1022 was not as well attended as formally, owing chiefly to the stormy night and the epidemic of colds throughout the village and surrounding country. The supper, however, was abundant and the oysters appetizing, and greatly enjoyed by those who were able to attend. The program was given across the street in the Town Hall and was an old-time concert by home talent, consisting of choruses, solos, readings, recitations, dialogues and several musical numbers. It was a fitting ending to an enjoyable evening.

BELIEVES FATHER LURED TO DEATH

Son of Grafton Credit Manager Outlines Crime Vividly.

NO MOTIVE SHOWN.

GRAFTON, Ill., Jan. 27.—(By John Howard, N.E.A. Service, Special).—In an interview with James Rand, son of the Grafton credit manager who was found dead under mysterious circumstances, the supposed crime is vividly outlined, but no motive uncovered.

Henry Rand, the dead man, was 55 years of age, and left his wife and two children, Janet and James. The latter celebrated his 27th birthday on the day his father was found dead.

"I believe," James Rand said, "that my father was lured to this hotel under some false pretenses, probably by telephone call to his office. I think that the man who registered as H. A. Jones of New York was in this room waiting for my father to come. When father did arrive he was barely seated before he was struck on the head and knocked unconscious. Then whoever hit him turned on the gas, shut the window, and walked out, locking the door behind him."

Mr. Rand had no comment to make on the finding of a woman's handkerchief in the room. It bore no name or mark, but was heavily perfumed.

VOLPI OBTAINED BETTER TERMS

Not Fully Known Yet, But Expect British Will Be Disappointed.

PAY AN ANNUITY.

LONDON, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—Great Britain and Italy have come to a settlement on the Italian war debt.

As yet, the exact terms of the settlement are not known. It seems to say, however, that the British taxpayer will be greatly disappointed, as it is understood that the terms Count Volpi obtained were even better than the terms granted to Italy by the United States.

It is believed that the main lines of the settlement provide for a payment of an annuity of £4,500,000 for 62 years, the annuities commencing forthwith, but possibly with some slight relaxation the first year.

NINE HOUR JUMP.

PORTO PRAYA, Cape Verde Islands, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—Spanish aviators yesterday completed the second stage of their flight—from the Canary Islands to Porto Praya—on their transatlantic air voyage from Spain to Argentina. Commander Franco and his fellow airmen negotiated the flight from Gando Bay, Canary Islands, to this point in about nine hours.

England is Slipping! Yeah?

(By Milton Bronner.)

LONDON, Jan. 27.—England is done, England is slipping, England is busted.

Of late various Cassandras, sitting on the wall, have made these dire prophecies and have repeated them so often that all the world is beginning to believe them. But it's the bunk.

England is having a bad time what with high taxes, big debts, much unemployment and poor export trade. But all these things are the natural result, the aftermath of a great war in which the nation puts its all. Nevertheless, England is still one of the richest countries in the world. There are oodles of money here and the people who have it can afford to spend it. Proofs?

The sale of high priced autos has been tremendously increasing.

The restaurants in the big hotels have never done better.

The champagne dealers all report a prosperous year.

The men, whose job it is to purvey to the well to do, have within the past year opened some of the most luxurious night clubs in all the world and these places are packed to the doors.

TIGER CLEMENCEAU in his eighties doesn't become mellower. He sticks persistently to his hates. The other afternoon he went to the Hotel Lutetia to call on an old friend who was ill.

He had to wait impatiently while the huge elevator slowly came down with a load of peop'e. One of them, obvious y a Russian of some importance, judging by the respect with his entourage treated him, came out of the "ascenseur" first. Seeing Clemenceau, he made a profound bow. All the rest of the fur-coated men did likewise. The Tiger gave no sign. The elevator man whispered to Clemenceau:

"It is M. Lounatcharski, one of the big men of the Soviet."

"The devil take him," growled the Tiger.

GUNNAR GUNNARSSON, a well known Icelandic author, wants to put a big new republic on the map of Europe—nothing less than the United States of Scandinavia. It would comprise Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Greenland and Spitzbergen. Recently in the Jutland provinces of Denmark he has been addressing large gatherings on his favorite theme. He proposes, as soon as the European situation has become more settled, that an inter-Scandinavian committee be formed to be composed of politicians and leaders in all Scandinavian countries. Their object would be to draw up plans for a republic in which all the present kingdoms and possessions would have their rights safeguarded just as our individual states have in our mighty country.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestents

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestents, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 28.

Rather conflicting conditions must be predicted from the opposing stellar forces dominating this day. All manner of difficulties and complications may be developed, but the mind should be fit to cope with many intricate problems if kept in a calm and collected attitude. Through foresight and proper application the menace of loss of substance and employment may be disposed of. Make changes carefully and beware deception; also check extravagance.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year calling for all their foresight and good management in order to circumvent dangers of loss in substance and position. Hasty moves, extravagance and treachery may be elements of undoing, but the mind should be equipped to cope with these doubtful states. A child born on this day may be inclined to be personally extravagant, with a leaning toward show and display. This may lead to loss and make it difficult to get ahead, although generally it should be well equipped mentally.

WHISKEY CAPTURE.

Halifax Vessel With 1,200 Cases Aboard.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 27.—Captured after a thrilling chase early Tuesday off Montauk Point, the schooner America of Halifax, N.S., with 1,200 cases of Canadian whiskey aboard, was being taken to New York by the coast guard patrol boat 129, for action in the federal court.

The 129 sighted the schooner in the darkness as she hovered near the Long Island shore, waiting for speed boats to take off her cargo, valued at $100,000. The vessel sighted the coast guard boat at almost the same time and started out to sea, but was overtaken before she reached the 12-mile limit.

The captain and crew of 12 men were placed under arrest.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen years old. Three and a half years ago I was in love with a young man nine years older than I. Since I broke our friendship he continued to write me. Would it be wise for me to answer his letter?

Should I send him my photograph?

WORRIED L. R.

WORRIED L. R.: The young man is certainly persistent, my dear, and if you feel that you would like to renew friendship with him it would be perfectly proper for you to answer his letters. Do not send him your photograph, but write him a friendly letter, indicating that you are willing to be friends again and sorry that you ha been so rude as to not answer his letters.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I was recently visiting in a city not far distant and had several "dates" with a young man who was very attentive.

I did not get to say good-bye to him as he did not know I was leaving so soon, and nothing was said about our corresponding.

Do you think it would be quite proper for me to write to him?

WHAT'LL-I-DO.

WHAT'LL-I-DO: Write this young man a gracious note, thanking him for the attentions that he showed you while you were visiting in this city. If he cares to continue the correspondence, he will answer your note.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

In Paris it is now the fashion for women to have the rims of their spectacles colored to match their gowns.

THE SNOWBIRDS

By Juanita Hamel

Two of a kind! Yet one is perched on the branch of an "ermine hung" tree, and the other sitting at the wheel of her smart little roadster. Both snowbirds, loving the clean whiteness of the feathery flakes and the glint of the sun on the gleaming sparkles of the diamond-studded landscape. In truth, they are part of the very landscape themselves—one in the soft white feathers which blend so well the snow's softness; the other in her soft warm white furs which frame so becomingly the piquant loveliness of her adored face. But beneath the seemingly cold exterior, beats a heart as warm and tender and shy as the tiny flowers and grasses that one finds beneath the snows and ice of the winter day. And the song of the one is echoed in the heart of the other. And it's the sweet, true song of love that the snowbirds trill, to fill the earth with their warmth and loveliness.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A SMART CAPE-COAT.

Madame has taken great interest lately in the new vogue for capes.

"Capes allow such diversity of treatment," I heard her explaining to a client today. "They may be short or long. The cape may appear only at the back, or it may show at either side, with the back of the frock or coat left plain."

"Then you advise a cape-coat for me?" the client queried.

"It is the newest thing I can recommend at the moment," Madame assured her.

"I've noticed that most of the women I've seen lunching at the smartest restaurants have chosen frocks or coats of tweed," the client remarked. "They are so effective I should love to have one."

"Tweed is just the medium for a cape-coat," Madame said. "Let me show you an idea I have for one."

She made a hasty sketch with her pencil on a pad, while she sent one of the girls upstairs for a sample of the new tweed she is showing.

"Oh, how perfect!" the client exclaimed when she saw the finished sketch.

It was indeed just as attractive as could be. Madame had made the coat with a small collar that came well up around the neck, and at the back the cape was cut in an inverted V, the V being stitched down to the back of the coat.

"You see, this gives the effect of the seamed insets which are so very smart," Madame explained to the client. "So often a garment of plain fabric will have no trimming at all, and rely altogether on the use of seamed insets for its trimming."

This Tweed Coat Features Cape and Stitched Inset Yoke for Novel Trim.

The girl came back with the samples of tweed, and the client chose a very soft one, in brown and tan, the smartest color possible for her, with her light hair and brown eyes.

"You must have a soft velour hat, of tan, with a creased crown that is high at the back," Madame told her.

The hat was chosen from the millinery department, and the client departed, happy in the knowledge that her finished outfit was sure to be ravishingly becoming. And I, too, thought the coat such a charming design that I have sketched it here in my diary. It's such a practical thing that I'm going to get some tweed and have one for myself, for it makes a stunning motor coat.

FASHION NOTES.

By Hedda Hoyt.

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (United Press).—No divorce between the cape and coat is issued for the early Spring season since cape and coat have joined together and become one! Cape-coats, as they are called, are already springing into prominence. Most capes are set on the coat with a deep yoke effect, the cape extending to the wrists or fingertips. The coat may either have sleeves or be sleeveless with openings at the sides for the arms. Again the cape itself may be tacked together at the sides affording a sleeve effect. A stunning fur wrap of cape-coat design appeared on the Avenue this week and here the skirt portion was made of tan-dyed ermine while the fingertip cape was of caracul dyed in matching shade. Several cloth coats and ensembles, coats of soft, greenish shades are appearing with capes trimmed in gray chinchilla or squirrel.

How short should the jumper jump?—It is said that jumpers jump from one length to another, from hip length to finger tips, and even to knee length. Since jumper frocks are all the rage this year one must decide upon a becoming length for one's figure. The slender miss looks well in finger-tip length jumpers which fit snugly over slender hips. The matron looks best in jumpers which extend within a few inches of the hem of the skirt as they are slenderizing. Other figures find wrist-length models more flattering. Possibly the wrist-lengthed types are the best ones to choose when one is in doubt since either of the longer models is a bit trying on most figures.

W. H. G. ARMSTRONG LODGE IS FORMED

In Memory Of Orangeman Formerly of Peterboro.

TORONTO, January 27.—As a tribute to the memory of the late Most Worshipful Bro. W. H. G. Armstrong whose services to the cause of Orangeism in Canada were responsible for much of its progress during the past 35 years, a new branch of the Orange tree, to be known as the W. H. G. Armstrong Memorial L.O.L., No. 3001, was instituted in the County Orange Hall on Monday night.

The new lodge starts with a charter membership of 40, including 12 Past Masters. It will be under the jurisdiction of the Centre District Lodge, and will meet in the County Hall. The ceremony of institution was under the direction of Thomas J. Booth. Immediate Past District Master, who was assisted by District Master Walter Creech and District Officers John V. Marks, Thomas Leopard, James Jennings, W. J. Davis, W. J. McNally and C. H. Spooner.

As soon as the officers were escorted to their stations, several handsome presentations were made which will make it unnecessary for the new lodge to purchase a single article of paraphernalia. Mrs. W. H. G. Armstrong presented the lodge with a beautiful set of ebony gavels. M. L. G. and Cecil W. Armstrong gave a complete set of officers' collars, with gold jewels attached.

The song that was popular a few months ago, referring to the fact that certain gentlemen of the fruiterer profession had none of a specific kind of tropical herbaceous plant growth left, formed the solution to the first word in Tuesday's crossword puzzle contest. Some people advised Pa and Ma to get their dollar day bargains, while others started off with a general "Hi!" but the people who remembered "Yes, we have no bananas" figured it correctly when they wrote:

"YES! YOU MUST GET YOUR SHARE OF DOLLAR DAY BARGAINS.'"

It was a close race. There were many entries just one word out, but of course there was only one correct solution.

City Winners

Dorothy Woodcock, 371 Bethune street; (7.40 p.m.) .

Gordon Dearborn, 675 Bethnue street; (8 p.m.)

Country Winners

Violet Eason, Crawford's Grove; (9.45 a.m.)

Henry Miller. Smith tp. (10.15 a.m.)

There was only one other correct solution handed in from the city, and up to the time of going to press there has been no third correct from the country. Mrs. Lottie Buller, 383 Aylmer street, handed in the correct message at 9.20 last night, an hour and twenty minutes after Gordon Dearborn.

Other Messages

Birdsall provided a trio of close answers, Bessie Shearer and Mrs. Thomas Shearer suggesting "Yes! Get your eyes on dollar day bargains of city!" and Mrs. Margaret Faux urging "Yes! Get your share of dollar day bargains up city!" Miss Frances Hynes, R. R. 3, sent in "Hi! You get your share of bargains on dollar day!" Jack Telford, R. R. 1, was very close with: "Yes! You get your share of bargains on dollar day!" Mrs. F. G. Allen, 571 Harvey street, suggested: "Hi! You get your share of city dollar day bargains!" Margaret Mulvehill, 301 Maitland avenue, was original with: "Hi! You, spur up. Get your city dollar day bargains!" Mrs. A. W. Clysdale, 168 Brock street, expressed the same idea thus: "Hi! Spur up—get your share of bargains dollar day!" And Mabel Bacon, 202 Edinburgh street, also thought spurring was necessary: "Hi! Spur up; get your share of dollar day bargains!" Mrs. Simmons, 250 Euclid avenue, was only one word out: "Hi! You must get your share of dollar day bargains!" Others who had this same solution were: A. G. Herring, 176 Dalhousie street and Mrs. W. E. White, Yonge street, Claraday. William Murray and Vera G. Wagar, both of 273 Park street, handed in "Bargains! You must get your share on city dollar day!" "You! Must get your share of dallar day bargains!" is the suggestion of street, and Joe Huard, 423 Drsicoll terrace, came around at ten minutes past six with "Hi! Pete, get your eyes on the dollar day bargains." S. Brodie, 599 King street, took a chance at 6.30 on "Yes! You get your share of bargains on dollar day!" A. Roy Girven, 475 Mark street, handed in as his solution: "Hi! You get your eyes on city dollar day ad!" R. Budd, 231 Hunter street, and Jean Hurl, 473 Mark street, had the same suggestion: "Hi! Get your share of bargains on city dollar day!" Two others had the same solutions: Joseph O'Brien, 552 Harvey street and Adam Woodcock, 247 Waterford street, with "You! Must get your share of bargains on city ads!" Karl Blewett, 286 Harvey street, suggested: "Yes! You get your share of city dollar day bargains!" Arthur Stinson's hint was "Hi! You get your share of dollar day bargains!" And three gave the solution as: "Hi! You get your share of bargains on dollar day!" They were: Archie Inch, 94 Bennett street; Dorothy Gavine, 194 London street; and Howard Allison, 593 Bethune street.

Advice Was Taken

Whatever form the advice took, hundreds of people accepted it and came up town today to participate in the values offered in the dollar day stores. This semi-annual event has become an institution in Peterborough, and is looked forward to with universal interest.

This crossword puzzle contest was something extra this year, and the results of the regular contests of the merchants and The Examiner will be announced later.

RABIES SPREADING THROUGH MOSCOW

Packs of Wolves and Dogs Cause Spread—Man Killed By Wolves.

MOSCOW, January 27. Canadian Press. — Five persons are dead in Moscow from rabies caused by the bites of animals suffering from hydrophia.

The disease is spreading owing to a plague of wolves and vagrant dogs and cats in the city and surrounding area.

One man has been torn to pieces by a pack of wolves in the outskirts of Moscow.

Eat and— Be Happy!

THE highest laws of health demand of us that we get as much pleasure out of our meals as possible. We ought to insist on savory food because it is the flavor that makes the dish agreeable, thereby stimulating the flow of digestive juices.

And yet—many today are using artificial flavoring extracts made from coal-tar chemicals. Imagine!

For true flavor—crystal-pure—use Shirriff's True Vanilla. Here's fragrant strength which comes right from the tropical vanilla bean itself. Once in the cake the flavor stays in. Just think—6 drops of Shirriff's True Vanilla equal 18 drops of artificial vanilla made from coal-tar chemicals.

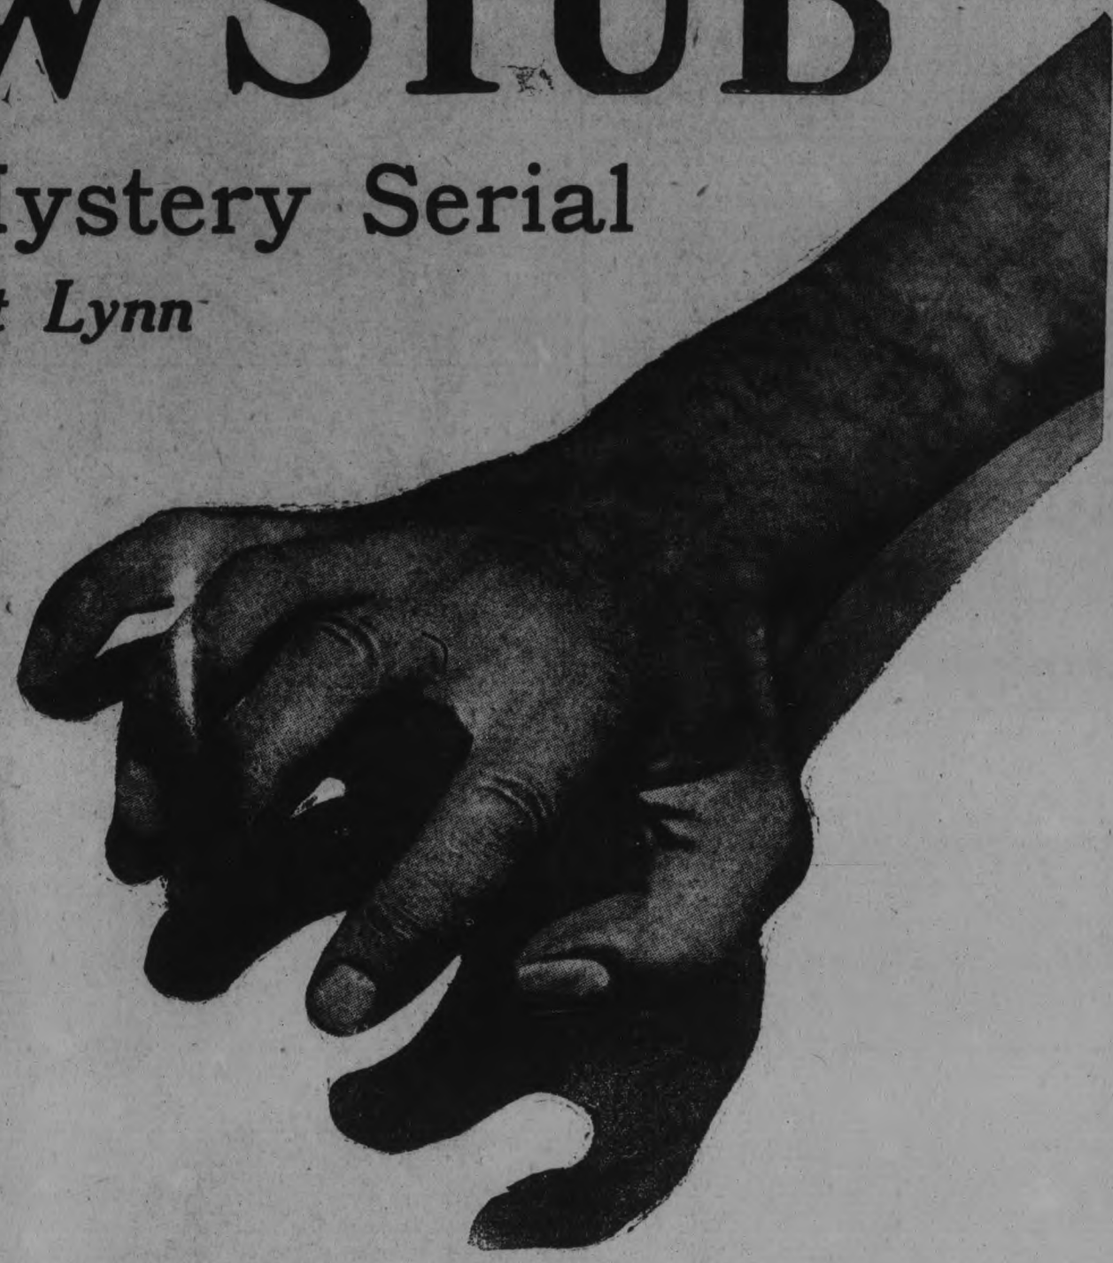
A Gripping Mystery Serial

By Ernest Lynn



THIS is a story for the entire family. It concerns ordinary, everday people. Its action might take place very natnrally in your neighborhood, even in your own home.

The men folk are going to devour this one. It has adventure and thrill and mystery to it.

And as for the women and girls, bless their hearts, there's as engrossing a romantic plot running through the action as they'll find in many a day.

The outcome of the love situation will be as breathlessly anticipated by them as the pulse-quickening solution of the crime mystery will be awaited by the men.

Although the main theme has to do with the solution of a very mysterious murder, the author does not make heroes of criminals. [illegible] hide the story from the juvenile members of the household.

HELPFUL HINTS by GOLFING STARS

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE)

JIM BARNES—GRIPPING WOOD AND IRON CLUBS.

BARNES

There is no difference in the method of gripping except that ther emay be a few minor changes between the grip for a full stroke and for a very short chip shot or the like. But I do recommend a somewhat tighter grip with the fingers for long iron shots than for a swing with wooden clubs. The reason for this is: A player generally uses an iron club where distance is any consideration, largely because the ball is lying a bit too closely for a wooden club. And in such a case a rather tight grip is needed to carry the club-head through. Don't confuse this, however, with any tightening up that will result in making the wrists stiff, which will be sure to spoil the stroke.

Then, of course, the grip for a niblick shot from a sandtrap or even from heavy rough needs to be tighter. Here the need is more urgent. It is necessary either to plow through the sand or else drive the club-head through thick, heavy grass.

LEEDS TEAM IN STRONG PLACE

Race For English Soccer League Pennant Is Very Close.

BURY A CHANCE.

Can Huddersfieldd win the English league pennant for the third year in succession

The campaign is a long way from being finished, but indications are not lacking that the Yorkshiremen will be there or thereabouts when the final whistle sounds.

For consistency, the Leeds road crowd need doff their hats to no team. Today they are perched right on top of the table, grouped with Arsenal and Sunderland in the matter of points but Huddersfield has a game in hand, and, therefore, is entitled to the premier place.

That the battle for the title is again going to be a strenuous one has been evident for months. First one team would jump into the lead, and then the other. The Gunners were out in front for several weeks, but they struck a snag at Liverpool on Saturday, which proved their undoing.

The Sunderlnd team has disappointed its friends on several occasions this season, but never more so than on Saturday at Bramall lane. Such a score as 4-1 was not looked for. The Roker park brigade cannot afford to lose many more games and still remain contenders.

It is now almost certain that the championship will go to one of the three teams mentioned, with Bury having an outside chance, and maybe a little better.

The struggle at the foot of the table is just as keen as the one going on at the top. Burnley and Notts County this week share the cellar, with 20 points each, but other teams with big reputations are not far away. Blackburn Rovers, Manchester City, Cardiff City, West Ham Leicester, Leeds and Liverpool have all reason for anxiety.

Indications point to the promotion of Derby County and Sheffield Wednesday. The pair have been running a neck-to-neck race for months, though strong opposition may be expected from Chelsea, South Shields, Middlesbro and Oldham.

Bradford, in the northern section of the third division, is having matters pretty much its own way, but there is yet time for Rochdale to catch up on the leaders.

The struggle is more even in the southern section. Only four points separate the first four teams. Plymouth has been out in front for months, and this team, along with Bradford, are the more likely candidates for the second division next season.

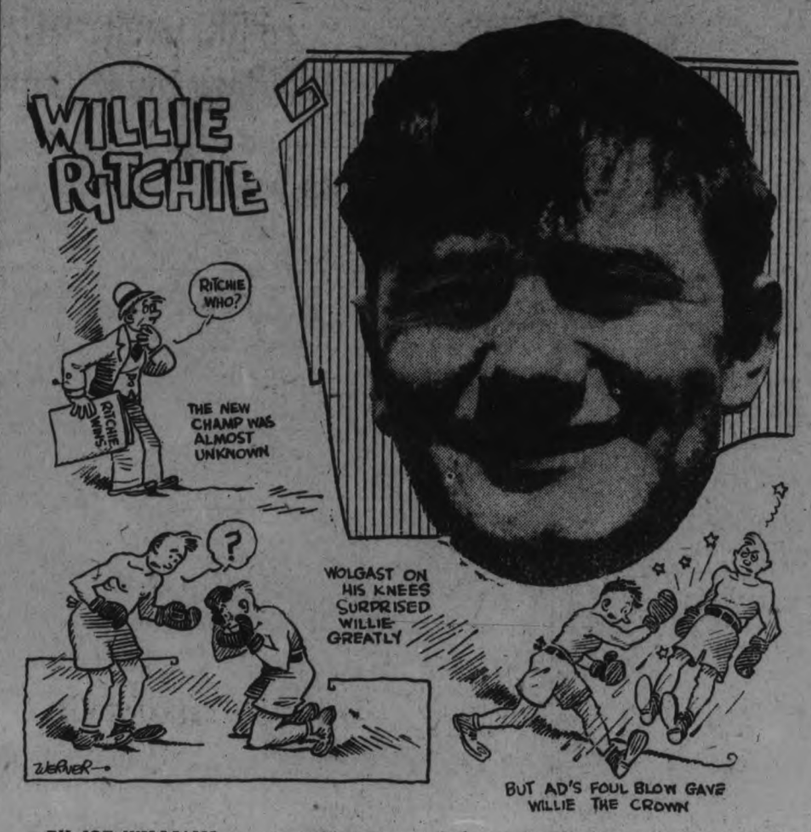
HAYMAKERS THAT MADE HISTORY



BY JOE WILLIAMS

Willie Ritchie won the lightweight championship of the world by defeating Ad Wolgast in 16 rounds Nov. 28, 1912, at Daly City, just beyond the municipal confines of San Francisco.

It is written in the books of pugilistic history that Ritchie was awarded the championship on a foul by Referee Griffin. Theoretically this is true, but actually Wolgast was as thoroughly "out" as was any battler who ever relinquished his honors via the knockout formula.

The outcome of the struggle was a stupendous surprise. Ritchie was a little known fighter at that time. Indeed, when the story of his triumph came singing over the wires from the west his name did not even appear in the record books.

For this reason skeptics in the east were inclined to discredit the San Francisco youth's victory and the fact that he was awarded the title on a foul did not help his case any. The eastern attitude was that it was "one of those native son things."

All of which was, of course, unfair to Ritchie, who was as fine a right-handed puncher as the lightweight division ever knew and whose win over Wolgast was as clearcut and deserving as if he had knocked the Cadillac (Mich.) German absolutely cold.

Wolgast had the better of the early rounds. Coming to his corner at the end of the sixth round the champion boasted: "Watch me get this guy in the next round. I'll jab him to pieces." He talked so that he could be heard half way to the main doors. He was that type of youth.

But Wolgast did not get Ritchie in the next round, or the next, or still the next. Instead he began to fade and it was clear to all when the gong sounded for the twelfth that he was a beaten champion.

The thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth rounds were all alike, with the game, bull-doggish Wolgast bending gradually under relentless savage pummeling, and all the while snarling vulgarisms at his tormentor through split, blood-flecked lips.

Came the sixteenth and the finish. Ritchie landed a right to the jaw and the champion dropped to his knees. The sight of Wolgast on the floor seemed to hold the younger antagonist in a trance, and he made but faint-hearted effort to renew the attack when Wolgast arose and staggered around,

Wolgast, with uncertain legs and swaying shoulders, lumbered toward Ritchie. It was here he committed the foul which cost him his title. With one violent physical effort he swung both fists into Ritchie's groin and the 'Frisco taxi cab driver fell to the canvas, his features writhed with pain.

Without an instant's hesitation Referee Griffin pushed Wolgast away, helped Ritchie to his feet, and held the stricken battler's glove aloft, proclaiming a new title-holder in the (then) 133-pound division.

COMPETITION IS IN SECOND ROUND

Both Primary Competitions Have Narrowed Down to Sixteen Rinks.

WADDELL TO-DAY.

Last night's games in the Peterborough Curling annual bonspiel brought the competition down to sixteen in each of the two primary competitions. Some good games were recorded, while on the other hand some very one-sided scores were compiled.

Play started this morning between twelve outside rinks and twelve local rinks in the first round of the Waddell Trophy.

CANADIENS WIN FROM ST. PATS

Final Score Was 6-3—The Better Team Won.

FIGHT AT BOSTON.

MONTREAL, Jan 27. — Canadian Press. — Montreal Canadiens defeated the Toronto St. Pats by 6 to 3, in a scheduled contest of the National Hockey League here last night. The game was featured by a scoring bee in the third period when the Canadiens ran up four goals, while St. Patricks responded with 2. Canadiens registered twice and St. Patrick's once in the first frame while the second went scoreless. Canadiens were distinctly the better team.

Ottawa 8; Boston 2.

BOSTON, January 27. — Canadian Press. — The league leading Ottawa Senators trounced the Boston Bruins here last night 8 to 2 in a game that had all the features of professional hockey, including a fist fight on the ice after the finall bell.

Only in the final period were the Bruins dangerous, and then their desperate efforts served only to bolster the Ottawa team. The lead was never threatened.

It was Clancy who contributed the added feature of a fist fight. Late in the game Herberts had threatened him with his stick in an argument near the Ottawas' goal. As the teams left the ice at the end Clancy stepped from the box and struck the Boston player. In a second both teams were engaged, and it required a posse of Arena police to unscramble the mess.

MENIE TEAM READY.

Play at Campbellford Cloth Co. Wednesday.

BURNBRAE, January 27. — The Menie hockey team held its first real work out on Monday evening at the Hoard's rink. The rough ice at one end of the sheet hampered the teams somewhat but in spite of this some fast hockey was played. All the regulars were on hand, and when the team faces the Cloth Works crew on Wednesday evening they will line up as follows:

Daniel, goal; Hay and Shilinglaw, defence; Rannie, Hume and Linn forwards. Eagleson will be the main sub, and at the practice on Monday night he picked a team from those present to play against the regulars.

There was no lack of material and one dozen different men were in action at stages of the practice.

C. Gunning, H. Rivington, S. Little were all good with several others showing promise. The regular team worked well and the forwards combined for several shots; the fact that they only scored twice in twenty minutes of play says volumes for the work of Whalen, the junior goalkeeper. He played a real game in the nets stopping attacks single-handed on different occasions. Rev. C. Daniel, regular goalie, is well pleased with the team and predicts that they will make things interesting.

A bad chimney fire at M. T. J. Ketcheson's on Friday evening last gave Menie a thrill for a few minutes and kept the men busy.

BASKETBALL

By THE CAPTAIN

NO. 13—SELF-PROTECTION IN SHOOTING

Knowing how to protect yourself while shooting for the basket will save you many times from probable injuries as well as permit your team to realize the most from its scoring possibilities. This applies to shots from any position on the court.

There is little likelihood of an opponent charging into you on sho you might "peg" from mid-floor either because no teammate is open or because your team is behind with the time left. Rise slightly with the ball anyway. This will help make the shot easier and will lessen the force of any charge he might make.

One hand shots under the basket are better any time than two-hand tries. This gives you one hand free to keep in front of you and protect yourself from being shoved into a wall, the backboard uprights or the backboard itself.

It also leaves less opportunity for your opponent to stop you. You'll know or will be able to sense when opponent is about to push or prevent in some other way your getting clear shot at the basket. In one hand shots use the arm on the far side of the guard. There is less target presented by one than two arms.

Practice one hand shots under basket. Lay the ball in the hand and as you leap upward, swing it against the backboard so that it angles against the bank rather than attempt to stay on the floor and push it up.

SCORELESS TIE IN TWEED GAME

Best Game Ever Played Between Stirling and Tweed.

STRENUOUS PLAY.

TWEED, Ont., Jan. 27 (Special) —A goaless draw after thirty minutes overtime was the result of the second meeting of Tweed and Stirling on the latter's rink on Tuesday evening. The game was fought at a great pace throughout and both goal keepers were kept exceedingly busy. The nearest approach to a score came in the third period when Dr. Dales found the net in a rush, the goal being disallowed for offside. There were about 700 persons present and the game was unanimously declared the best ever played between the two teams. Penalties were few which reflected well on the sportsmanship of the two team playing at so strenuous a pace. Line-up:

Tweed—Goal, H. Wager; r.d., Brown; l.d., A. Geraldie; centre, R. Houston; r.w., Dales; l.w., R. Goudie; subs, G. Geraldie, F. Geraldie.

Stirling—Goal, W. Sulin; r.d., W. Whitty; l.d., W. Tullod; centre, J. E. Ackers; r.w., E. Wallace; l.w., P. Acker; subs, M. McGee, H. Ingram.

Goal umpires—Tweed, W. Fisher; Stirling, J. Butler.

Referee—B. Jackson, Peterboro.

BOWLING with the CHAMPION

Jimmy Smith

TYPE OF BALL.

I advise the beginner to start using straight ball. It's far easier to control. He can shoot it for the centre or on the right side, letting it work into the pins.

A hook or curve ball is generally considered a more destructive delivery. If a hook is used it should be what is known as a working hook; that is, a half-speed ball along the right side of the alley, working it so it takes the curve as it nears the pins.

Don't use speed. At least not at first. Speed doesn't really knock down any more pins and it kills the hook because it doesn't give it a chance to work. A half-speed ball allows the wood a chance to work as the ball cuts through.

Remember this: that great speed is not necessary to success. This is contrary to the general thought, I know. But some of the most famous bowlers use a slow ball; others prefer a half-speed one.

It takes quite a bit of practice to master and control the hook. And until you're sure you've done so, stick to the straight ball.

Tomorrow: The 1-3 Pocket.

CANADA CERTAIN OF STANLEY CUP

Also Expects To Carry Off N.H.L. Honors This Season.

OTTAWA IN LEAD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—With the Ottawa and Montreal sextets firmly entrenched in the first two positions in the National League and the Canadiens making a great bid to come in under the wire in third place, Canadian hockey critics are now expressing confidence that not only will the Stanley Cup competition be fought out among Dominion teams, but the play-offs in the National League as well.

Under the rules prevailing in professional hockey the teams finishing second and third at the close of the regular league schedule will engage in a play-off, the winner meeting the first-place team in another play-off to determine the League champions who will then meet the Western League champions, determined in the same way, for the Stanley Cup.

Canadian experts believe that little short of the most startling upset in years can prevent the Ottawa Seniors and Montreal Maroons from finishing one-two, and while Pittburgh is regarded as a dangerous foe for third-place honors, the Dominion critics nevertheless are confident the Canadiens will demonstrate their superiority in the final stretch.

The Senators, by their amazing work during all of the present season also have been installed favorites to win the final play-offs for the League championship, although some of the Canadian writers are not overlooking what happened two years ago when the Senators made a similar runaway race for first honors only to fall before the Canadians in the play-off. The Canadians that season, after an indifferent start, followed their triumph over the Senators by winning the Stanley Cup in the series against the Western champions.

The best chance of the United States to gain a place in the Stanley Cup competition, Canadian critics believe, lies in the West where the Portland Rosebuds, the only American entry in the Western Canada League, are making a great bid for honors. The Rosebuds are now running second to the league standing Saskatoon Sheiks who are enjoying a fairly comfortable margin. The Portland sextet, however, is being hard pressed for the place and two Canadian teams are close enough to displace the United States entry in a few games. These are the Vancouver and Edmonton teams.

The fighting for the honors in the Western League rest solely among these four as the other two teams in the circuit are hopelessly out of the running. One of the surprises of the season has been the disappointing showing of the Victoria Cougars, the present world champions and holders of the Stanley Cup. The Cougars have found it almost impossible to hit their winning stride of last season and with only four victories to their credit out of their first fourteen games apparently have no chance of even working their way up to third place. The Calary Tigers are occupying sixth and last place with only two victories to their credit in their first dozen games.

MOVIGRAPHS

GAINER, BUT SHE PROVES TRUE BLUE

Anna Q. Nilsson

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—In "Too Much Money," First National adaptation of Israel Zangwill's play, Lewis Stone essays a comic departure from his usual role of dignified and restrained urbanity.

The opposite poles of the social scale are linked in the piece by Stone rebellion against the effect of too much money on the gadding activies of his wife, Anna Q. Nilsson, and their threatened happiness. In fantastic revolt the husband assigns his entire belongings to a family friend so that he may plausibly place the wife in secluded lodgings and have her all to himself.

But his device becomes a lamentable, comic and dangerous boomerang when his trusted "friend", Robert Cain proves unrelnable, covet ing her the fortune and the wife.

While Stone keeps up the now loathsome pretense by clerking in a tenement district delicatessen store and serving as janitor in their cheap lodgings, the wife stands by like a good sport. Eventually she prevents the suave villain from decamping with the fortune after he has revealed and sought to take advantage of the hoax.

His many friends in Peterboro have been delighted to hear of the promotion of Mr. W. A. Somerville, who has just been appointed general manager of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation on account of ill-health of Mr. Charles Juby. Mr. Somerville, who is a son-in-law of Mr. Wm. Irwin of this city, has been a frequent visitor to Peterboro, and is well known here.

EXPECT HELP OF FANS TO-NIGHT

City League Has Fine Bill and Games Should Be Patronized.

Tonight's games in the City Hockey League will start at 6.30 o'clock, one-half hour later than usual, so as to allow the Senior O.H.A. team the use of the ice.

Good weather conditions, a splendid sheet of ice, and the assurance of four interesting games, should bring out a large number of fans. The league is doing a good work and is deserving of support, if for no other reason than the efforts put forth to develop the younger players.

From the senior teams, it is hoped to select a strong lineup for an intermediate team to play in the next O.H.A. round.

The schedule for tonight is:

6.30—Raybestos vs. St. Peter's.
7.30—St. Andrew's vs. St. James'.
8.30—Brintons vs. Raybestos.
9.30—Crescents vs. De Laval.

CAPACITY CROWD FOR GAME WITH PARKDALE TEAM

Seats Selling Fast For Friday's Senior Fixture.

BOTH NEED A WIN.

Loss Practically Means Elimination of the Paddlers.

Good ice conditions are promised for Friday night's big battle with Parkdale and both the Petes and the hockey fans are naturally elated. The Paddlers are a hard checking crew and the homesters were not anxious to clash with them on soft ice.

Friday's game will be a real battle. The Parkdale crew must win to stay in the running, as they have already lost two games and cannot afford to drop a third, while the Petes need a win to keep pace with Osgood Hall and Kitchener. Both team will, therefore, be out to the last notch to win and the game should easily be the best of the season.

The plan opened today at Bert McLeod's, and there has been a rush for passeboards, indicating a capacity crowd on Friday.

WILL OVERRIDE CANADA'S CLAIM

Expected That Senate Committee Will Favor Waterway to Gulf.

BIG DIVERSION.

WASHINGTON, January 27. Canadian Press. — Canada's protest against the proposed nine foot channel from the Lakes to the Gulf on the ground that it would mean the diversion of 10,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan, has aroused keen interest among the members of the special committee of the Senate which is studying that proposition.

The committee is waiting a report from army engineers, now investigating lake levels, before officially announcing its findings, but the indications are that it will favor the waterway despite the protest of the dominion.

Peterborough's Proposed New Telephone Rates

Small Increase in Business 'Phone Partly Offset By Decrease in Residence 'Phone Rate.

In another column of this issue the Bell Telephone Company announces that it has just filed with the Board of Railway Commissioners a new schedule of rates for exchange service, for which the Board's approval is asked.

Manager W. R. Northgrave has given the following particulars of the proposed changes as they affect the Peterboro Exchange:

	Present Monthly Rate.	Proposed Monthly Rate.
Business Service.
Residence Service:
Individual line	$3.08	$3.75
2 party line	$2.46	$3.00
Individual line	$2.57	$2.50
2 party line	$2.05	$2.00

"In the case of Peterborough exchange," said Mr. Northgrave, "the proposed rate exchanges are largely in the nature of a readjustment to bring local rates into line with our new schedule. By far the greater number of telephones in use here are residence instruments and the effect of the small reductions in rate will be to encourage the further development of residence service. The result of such development is of course to enlarge the scope of the business man's service making his telephone of ever increasing value to him. We feel that this continued expansion in his market afforded by increasing residence telephones, is a very profitable offset to the moderate advance proposed for business service.

In Peterboro last year, Mr. Northgrave said the Bell Telephone Company expended $60,000 in new development, and this year an appropriation of $70,000 has been set aside.

COUNTY COUNCIL TO RAISE GRANT

Roads and Bridges Committee Recommends Increase To Townships.

The scheduled meeting of the County Council was held this morning in the County Building. Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting of 1925 and the first meeting of this year, J. C. Strickland, as chairman of the committee to report on the standing committees of the year, was read and approved. J. F. Breckenridge presented a comprehensive report on the House of Refuge.

The Council then adjourned to go into a committee of roads and bridges. The grant of $100 each which has formerly been allowed to Burleigh and Anstruther, Chandos, Galway and Cavendish, Harvey and Belmont and Methuen, was recommended to be raised to $150. Messrs. Flood and Middleton were appointed to look after Chemong bridge, while Messrs. Flood and Parker were named to look after Gannon's bridge.

A visitor at this morning's session of the County Council was C. Cobin, of Tessier, Saskatchewan, formerly of Kinmount, and representative for many years of the townships of Galway and Cavendish. For the past four years Mr. Cobin has been a councillor in the western municipality, where his home is situated and has been honored by an appointment for a further term of two years.

Outside of twelve years, during ten of which a commissioner, governed the affairs of the county, Mr. Cobin represented Galway and Cavendish between the years of 1891 and 1916.

PULP COMPANY BUILDS RAILWAY

Spruce Falls Co. Lets Contract For 60-Mile Line in Limits.

PRIVATE ROAD.

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—Contracts have been let, it was learned locally yesterday, for one of the largest individual development projects to be undertaken in Northern Ontario for some time—no less than the construction of a 60-mile railway from Kapuskasing to Smoky Falls at a cost of around $15,000,000. The Spruce Falls Pulp and Paper Company, holders of large limits from the Ontario Government, are sponsors of the probject and by the terms of the contracts which they have let the road must be in operation by the end of the 1928. The road will connect with the Transcontinental at Kapuskasing. Its primary purpose will be to bring out timber for a pulp mill which the Spruce Falls Company is about to erect at Kapuskasing. This mill will have a daily capacity of 500 tons of newsprint and will be one of the very large ones of the north country. In addition to furnishing supplies for this mill the railway will be used to carry in supplies needed for the power development at Smoky Falls, which the Spruce Falls Company is also undertaking.

No Dominion or Provincial charter will be taken out for the railway, which will be operated as a private line running through the limits which the Spruce Falls Company owns. The contractors for the road are Messrs. Beatty Morrow of Kapuskasing and Toronto. Already the contractors are commencing to team in their supplies on sleighs.

TOM MIX TANGOES IN HIS NEW PICTURE "THE YANKEE SENOR"

Popular Western Star Refuses to Use Double in Scenes Where Dancing is Required

It's a different sort of photodrama that Tom Mix will present to his host of admirers when he comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow in "The Yankee Senor."

His role is that of a civil engineer who accepts an assignment to build a railroad spur from the Mazilla mines to San Jose, a well-night impossible undertaking, owing to the climate and labor troubles. The task is further complicated when Luke Martin, an American renegade, crosses the border to create trouble in the camp and incidentally steal the company's payroll. However, even when deserted by his workmen, the builder refuses to abandon the job.

Things begin to happen when the bandits attack the camp and need fear that there will be an of thrills. Mix saves the pay stampeding a corral of horses mules which leads the bandits to believe the drove of stock is a troop of native cavalry.

The plot is rather a complex affair, involving a mysterious stranger who tries to keep Mix out of his heritage, a Spanish senorita who falls in love with him, an American girl who renounces his love and some more-than-ordinary thrilling adventures in which Tony, the wonder horse, has a part.

BUCK JONES HAS REAL ACTION PICTURE IN "THE DESERT'S PRICE"

Latest Effort of Western Star Is of Sort that Made Him Popular.

"The Desert's Price," the William Fox production starring Buck Jones which opens at the Regent Theatre Thursday, is a thrilling Western picture, full of action and surprising situations that hold one tense from the first flash to the last.

Buck is cast as the handsome young owner of a large cattle ranch. He returns from the East to find his cowhands under suspicion of killing sheep belonging on a neighboring ranch. Then through some clever detective work on his part the real culprits are discovered and peace is restored between the ranches.

There are also some thrilling exhibitions of horsemanship, one in particular where Buck rides an unbroken cow-pony and wins a wager from the two Martin brothers, who have bullied the neighborhood for so long.

RIVAL FORCES HOLD PARADES

Fascists and Communists March on Kaiser's Birthday.

POLICE CONFIDENT.

BERLIN, Jan. 27 (United Press) —While Germany was split into two camps on the occasion of the ex-Kaiser's birthday, wild rumors circulated today here of impending violent clashes.

Monarchist Fascist organizations were parading their forces. Simultaneously, the Communists and the Republican "Reichs Banner" organization were massing their followers to demonstrate against the proposed delivery of vast properties to the Hohenzollerns and other former royalty of Germany.

The police took elaborate precautions against trouble and claimed to be confident that the day would pass safely.

KAISER'S BIRTHDAY IS PASSED QUIETLY

Many Messengers Brought Floral Offerings—Crown Prince Absent.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27. Canadian Press. — The black and white Hohenzollern banner floated over the turrets of the former Kaiser's residence here to-day in honor of his 67th birthday, and a constant stream of messengers entered bearing baskets of flowers tied with Dutch and German colors. A number of visitors arrived in automobiles.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27. United Press — Wilhelm celebrated his 67th birthday without the expected presence of his son, ex-Crown Prince Wilhelm, a fact which gave rise to reports that the Dutch government at the last moment had preevnted his returning to Holland.

KLALIFF OF THE KU KLUX KLAN REPLIES TO EXAMINER LETTER

Says "Tolerance" Was Mistaken in Statement on Holidays.

GIVES AUTHORITY.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—When his attention was called to the letter recently published in The Examiner, signed "Tolerance," in which a denial was made that Ascension Day was a Roman Catholic holiday and the claim made that it was a Protestant holiday, Dr. J. H. Hawkins, Imperial Klaliff of the Ku Klox Klan made the following statement:

"In the Universal Hand Book, published by The John C. Winston Co., Toronto, and under the heading 'Public Statutory Holidays in Canada,' Ascension Day is listed as a holiday only in the Province of Quebec, which by the way is the only Roman Catholic Province in the Dominion.

By looking at the calendar published by practically any bank or trust company in Canada, you will find Ascension Day listed as a holiday in Quebec only.

In the Manual of Christian Doctrine, published by John Joseph McVey, Philadelphia, Penna., in 1923, and listed by the Roman Catholic Church as a 'Course of Religious Instructions' (This being, by the way, the 40.h edition of this work). You will find on Page 538, under Christian Feasts the following: 'What is a Feast. A feast, in general, is a day of public rejoicing, chosen to honor some personage, to commemorate some event, etc.' Page 548: 'What is the Paschal Season? It is the time which begins with the Alleluis on Holy Saturday and ends with the Sunday after Penticost.' 'What are th Principal feasts of the paschal season? The feasts of Easter, the Ascension and the Penticost.' Page 549 'What is Ascension Day? It is the feast on which the Church celebrates the triumph of Jesus as He went up to Heaven, in the sight of his disciples, forty days after his resurrection.' 'How should we celebrate the feast of the Ascension? We should: 1st, Rejoice in the glory of our Lord's humanity, a glory merited by His humiliation and His death; 2nd, Thank Him for going to Heaven to prepare a place for us, and to be our advocate and mediator with God the Father; 3rd. After the example of the Saints, despise earthly goods and long to go to our heavenly home.'

"In view of the above quotations taken from the acknowledged works and texts of the Roman Catholic church, I have no correction to offer to my statement that Ascension Day is a Roman Catholic holiday, and if the party who wrote this letter and signed his or her name as "Tolerance" is as well posted in the inner workings of the Roman Catholic Church as I happen to be, he will not again make the error of denying that Ascension Day is a holiday of the Roman Catholic Church, and so observed throughout the Catholic world."

Dr. Hawkins further stated that he had no desire at any time to enter into any controversy over the religious faith of any person sor persons, but his public statements are made only after full deliberation and proof not from the opposition faith but from the published works of the faith in question, and he is at all times prepared to back every statement made.

TWO HYDRO TEAMS PLAY FAST HOCKEY

Final Score Between Belleville and Campbellford Was 6-6.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 27.—With Colonel Watt, acting as chief engineer, the local Hydro employees engaged their fellow-employees of the Belleville district in a whirlwind game of hockey at Covert's Arena last night, and the result was still in doubt when the players skated off the ice at the end of he last period. Each team had scored six goals, and as some of the players voltage was very low, they decided to settle the issue at some future date and in the meantime have their lightning arresters recharged.

The game was full of thrills, and spills, and what some of the boys lacked in hockey science, they made up for in courage and determination. Johnston and Cowell were the best on the ice, but the pair were watched very close and seldom had a chance to do much damage, in close, and Hibbard took care of all the long shots in fine style.

A large crowd witnessed the struggle and thoroughly enjoyed the slam bang affair after the game the Belleville boys were entertained at a banquet in the parish hall.

British Freighter Lost With Twenty-Five Of a Crew

HEROIC RESCUE OF TWELVE BRITISH SAILORS FROM CRIPPLED FREIGHTER BY U.S. LINER AFTER SACRIFICE OF TWO AMERICAN SEAMEN IN FOUR-DAY SEA FIGHT

Were Taken Off Helpless Ship During Lull Last Night in Worst Atlantic Storm in 35 Years—Splendid Chapter of Gallantry.

ANOTHER BRITISH FREIGHTER AND CREW OF 25 BELIEVED LOST OFF NOVA SCOTIA

Six Picked Up By German Steamer Tuesday in 90-Mile Gale and Snow—Only Wreckage Found on Wednesday Morning.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press)—The four-days' heroic struggle of the United States liner President Roosevelt to rescue the crew of the stricken British freighter Antinoe in mid-Atlantic, has ended in triumph.

At midnight last night, under a bright moon that lit up the sea, the 13 remaining members of the crew of 25 were rescued from the wallowing freighter, whose doom seemed imminent momentarily. Twelve men had been rescued late yesterday after the President Roosevelt had stood by the freighter for more than 72 hours in one of the most savage storms ever encountered in the Atlantic.

The rescue, Captain Fried said, was made by a manned lifeboat from the President Roosevelt. He listed his casualties to date due to rescue attempts as two men, lost in the first trial to reach the Antinoe, and five boats, three of which were sent floating toward the disabled vessel unmanned and were capsized.

The Laristan Tragedy

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press) — Death prowled the waves last night as the worst storm to rake the Atlantic in years continued in full force and reaped a human harvest.

Bits of wreckage bobbing in a gale-frenzied sea gave tragic evidence that the British freighter Laristan, with a crew of twenty-five men, had been pounded to pieces in the heavy seas which have held her helpless and at bay off the coast of Nova Scotia for two days.

All hope for the Laristan and her crew was abandoned yesterday afternoon when the north German Lloyd offices in New York received a wireless from its steamer Gremen, saying:

"In a storm with heavy seas and blizzard, saw Laristan last Tuesday, 12 midnight; Wednesday at 9 a.m. some wreckage was found floating in water, and as nothing more was found of Laristan, it is assumed steamer sank."

Six of Crew Rescued

The message was signed by Captain Wurpts, of Bremen, who has stood by the broken Laristan since the storm swept down on her. Tuesday the Bremen held the driving snow and 90-mile gale at bay long enough to pick up six of the Laristan's crew, and was prepared to make another effort yesterday.

The message to the steamship offices indicated the task was hopeless and another wireless from the Bremen received at Halifax said she had abandoned the search.

While the wireless operator aboard the Bremen was tapping out the final chapter of the Laristan's losing fight, another on the United States liner President Roosevelt was writing in staccato code the story of that vessel's efforts to aid the crippled Antinoe.

The sea forced both the Bremen and the President Roosevelt to play waiting games in their attempts at rescue. Lifeboats sent to the Antinoe, and to the Laristan before she disappeared were smashed or capsized. Lines could not reach them. The President Roosevelt lost two men sent out in a lifeboat on Monday.

Freighters Helpless

Both the Antinoe and the Laristan were without lights, their engines helpless, wallowing in waves 40, 50 and 60 feet high. Their wireless voices were stilled. At nights and during the darker hours of the storm, the rescue ships in touch with them with searchlight fingers, assured that there was life aboard only when the lights picked up figures of men clinging to the decks.

That had become a four-day story when it became light enough for the President Roosevelt to take up the dreary task again yesterday morning.

"We still standing by Antinoe," said her first terse message.

"Have lost fourth boat in the last attempt to take off crew," she added. Though the messages did not say so, it was assumed ashore that after the first rescue attempt in which two lives were lost the other boats had been sent out unmanned. Other messages said they capsized before those aboard the Antinoe could reach them.

Launch Fifth Boat

"We expect to launch fifth boat, manned immediately," came next. "Hope to have crew off Antinoe soon."

At the offices of the United States lines, earlier messages were received from Captain George Fried, of the President Roosevelt, saying the ability of the Antinoe to stay afloat another day was "very doubtful." Captain Fried has been standing by her more than three days. At his home office it was said he will stay there until all are saved or the ship sinks.

The Antinoe is handicapped by her cargo, which is of wheat, subject to swelling when wet. She was bound from New York to Queenstown when the storm caught her. The lost Laristan was bound from Swansea to New York with a cargo of coal.

Meanwhile, four other ships, buffetted by the gale, straggled into port Wednesday, two days late. One was the Leviathan, the crack steamer of the United States line.

Worst in 33 Years

The adjectives which Captain Wurpts of the Bremen, and Capt. Fried, of the President Roosevelt have been too busy to broadcast, the Leviathan's commander, Captain Herbert Hartley, hollow-eyed after his worst battle in thirty-three years, supplied.

"It is one hell of a storm," he said. "The worst in my time."

It was the Leviathan's thirty-fifth voyage and her slowest—seven days, ten hours and nine minutes. Capt. Hartley, his officers said, was off the bridge for only two hours' sleep during the trip. Sunday, when the storm was most fierce the Leviathan made only 78 miles. The day before she made 438. The passengers did not suffer over-much, however and the only damage was a twisted rail. A baby was born on ship during the storm.

Others in Storm Area

The other ships which came in yesterday were the Columbus, of the North German Lloyd, the Zeeland, of the Red Star, and the Regina, of the White Star. A giant wave tore away twelve feet of the Regina's bulwarks amidships Saturday and flooded three staterooms.

Thirty ships, from New York or bound to New York from other ports were still in the storm area last night. The Aquitania was due here today, two days late, and the Caledonia, due Friday, wirelessed yesteray she could not make it before Saturday.

30 Ships Menaced

The President Roosevelt has lost half her ten lifeboats. She left New York with 215 passengers and 300 officers and men.

Thirty ships from New York or bound for New York from other ports, are still in the storm area. Four others docked here yesterday, among them, the Leviathan. All were two days late.

Well Done!

LONDON, Jan. 28 (United Press).—The rescue work of Captain Fried of the President Roosevelt for the British tramp steamer Antinoe brings praise today from The Daily Express.

"It is an epic of American seamanship and American chivalry," said the paper, "which moves every British heart. The gallant comradeship of the American captain and sailors commands admiring gratitude. They are upholding the noblest traditions of their race and ours."

NOW, HONESTLY—

Dissatisfied, huh?

Lots of things you want, that you can't have and it sort of upsets you.

Yet, after all, how foolish.

None of us can have everything, and besides, half of the fun in life is wishing for things.

If you could have everything, you couldn't wish for anything, an' lookit the fun you'd be robbed of.

Whatever you've got, maybe it's best—so make the best of what you've got.

Bedroom Plays Are Out Says American Publisher

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (United Press).—The American people are tired of bedroom plays and books. Not classing the books as to their literary merits but simply their popularity with the reading public, George Palmer Putnam, publisher, said the time has arrived for salacious literature to make its bow and exit gracefully.

Bedroom plays and bedroom novels are not good business," Putnam said, in an address here last night. Looking at the question coldly commercially, it can be said that such plays and books are not as profitable as others."

Putnam said the price of the average novel would remain at $2 and criticized agitation to reduce it by referring to the rise in price in recent years of theatre tickets and sheet music.

No "Wicked Hip Shaking" For Italy's Poor

ROME, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Italy has declared war against jazz dancing of that variety known as "wicked hip shaking," and as a consequence raids on more or less questionable dance halls are frequent. Dance halls of the de luxe variety are not being bothered. They are too expensive for any but rich natives and tourists.

ITALY TO PAY $1,323,000,000 WAR DEBT TO BRITAIN IN 62 YEARS

Total Sum Agreed Upon is Less Than Half of Italy's Original Obligation to Great Britain—First Payment Feb. 15.

ANNUAL INSTALMENT $20,000,000

LONDON, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press)—Italy has settled her war debt to Great Britain by agreeing to pay roughly £4,000,000 annually for 62 years, a total of £272,250,000 ($1,323,000,000) This was revealed yesterday by publication of the terms of the agreement signed by Count Volpi, Italian minister of finance, and Winston Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The agreement provides also for Great Britain's concurrent re-payment of the gold deposited by Italy in the Bank of England in 1915, amounting to £22,000,000, as security for war loans.

The total Italy must pay is in effect less than half her admitted debt of £592,000,000 ($2,877,000,000) and the terms accorded by Britain therefore are regarded more generous than those Italy obtained at Washington.

Schedule of Payments

The first payment, £2,000,000 is to be made on February 15, next. Thereafter installments are to be paid according to the following schedule:

£4,000,000 annually for two years; £4,250,000 annually for four years; and thenceforth £4,500,000 annually until the final year, when a payment of £2,250,000 will close the account.

Italy's £22,000,000 gold deposit against the war loans will be repaid beginning in fiscal year 1928-29 in eight installments of £1,250,000 each and after these eight years in annual installments of £191,000 until September 15, 1987. Great Britain will pay no interest on the Italian gold. Italy's payment to Britain will be semi-annually, on March 15, and September 15.

In obtaining immediate payments Great Britain has obtained an advantage over the United States settlement with Italy, since the United States has to wait several years for the installments to begin and the grade of rising payments is lower.

No Relief to Taxpayers

The agreement, which was signed yesterday, the fruit of two weeks of negotiation promises very little benefit for the British taxpayer, for the creditor has agreed to terms almost 50 per cent. under its original demand, and the payments receivable from Italy will make very little difference in the Briton's income tax rate.

The settlement was made with the approval of the cabinets of both signatories and will be ratified almost immediately by the governments.

On the face of the agreement Great Britain is living up to the offer contained in the famous Balfour note, that she would only ask her creditors to re-pay an amount equal to the £33,000,000 a year she must pay the United States. According to the suggested proportions of the Balfour note Italy would have to pay £1,000,000 more a year than she has just agreed to pay. If the French government honors M. Caillaux's tentative agreement to pay £12,500,000 a year on account of France's debt to Great Britain, even with reparations payments of £10,000,000 a year from Germany and with another £4,000,000 annually which the minor war debtors are expected to pay, the British tax-payer still will have to pay about £2,000,000 each year out of his own pocket during the next sixty-two years.

Britain's Sacrifice

It is pointed out that even if Great Britain is able to receive approximately £31,000,000 from these sources to meet her United States annuities of £33,000,000 she will have sacrificed half the capital owed her and interest on her debts for many years.

BELGIAN KING FOLLOWS AFOOT REMAINS OF CARDINAL MERCIER

Silent Capital Receives Its Dead and Albert is the Chief Mourner For Church Dignitary Who Showed He Could Be Prelate and Hero, Too.

HONORED BY NATION AND THE WORLD.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Belgium said farewell to Cardinal Mercier today. With King Albert as chief mourner, following the coffin on foot, the body was borne to St. Gudule Cathedral through the streets of the capital amid the tolling of bells, the booming of minute guns and the strains of funeral marches played by massed army bands.

It was a silent, mourning city through which the Cardinal's body, brought here from Malines to receive the nation's tribute, was borne. Street car and vehicular traffic had been stopped since early morning and schools and business establishments were closed to allow all to participate. The body is being taken back to Malines this forenoon with simpler ceremonials, and tomorrow the interment will be held at St. Rombaut's Cathedral.

She has five children. His steamer went down in the North Atlantic yesterday. Mrs. Littlehale still thinks it possible that her husband might be among the six rescued but shipping men here say he could hardly have been among the six saved as the code of the sea requires the skipper to remain aboard until the last. He was a sailor for 37 years.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus

DISABLED VETERAN AND FAMILY REGARDED DRIFTERS IN DURHAM

Thomas Sheppard Died of Neglect Near Garden Hill.

WIDOW'S WOE.

PORT HOPE, Jan. 28.—Upon a broken-down bed, in a house near Garden Hill, north of here, where the wind whistled through the crevices, Frederick Thomas Sheppard, a sixty-year-old British soldier of two wars, who bore the thrust of a German bayonet and carried pieces of Hun shrapnel to his grave, one of which cost him an eye, died, on Jan. 7th, in utter neglect.

At the death bed sat his wife and four children, the youngest fourteen months old. She had fought against destitution and starvation for four months to have the husband and father, whose last words to his wife were: "Don't let the kiddies go to the Home, if you can buy them bread. God will find you a friend."

Might Have Saved Him.

Sheppard's death was attributed to sciatic-rheumatism, but it is doubtful that he would have died had he been removed to a hospital and had been accorded proper food and necessities for such a case.

In a province that has its Soldiers' Aid and Mothers' Allowance Commissions and with so many charitable organizations, it is difficult to comprehend why Sheppard was permitted to lay in his bed, though he has medical attention without being removed to proper surroundings, and that the family still must continue to face the spectre of starvation that gradually draws closer to their little frame dwelling, almost wtihin the shadow of a church steeple.

Neighbors Give Aid.

Men and women of Garden Hill have met some of their wants, especially Rev. J. M. Crisall, of St. Paul's Anglican Church, at Parrytown, but those who should have acted to bring the case to a head have not done so. Representatives of the Township Council have furnished medical funds, the Children's Aid here has inquired, the Salvation Army at Cobourg has inquired, the local Mother's Allowance Board has inquired. But most of these organizations have merely looked in at the home, asked a few questions, shook their heads—and done nothing.

Served in South Africa.

Ill-fortune appears to have followed the steps of the Sheppard family during the last few years. Mrs. Sheppard says she and her hubsand were born in London, England. Deceased was 61 years old this month, while Mrs. Sheppard is 41. Her husband, she says, first came to Canada with his parents when he was about nine years old. They remained on a farm near Toronto for about two years, and then returned back to England, where she says Sheppard joined the British Army. She does not recall the name of the unit he joined, but she states he served in the South African war.

Papers regarding Sheppard's military career were burned in the Haileybury fire, Mrs. Sheppard states, but she recalls he had several medals, one with a green ribbon, which was apparently the good conduct medal. She does not recall the regiment he served in, but believed it to be the Queen's Own Rangers. She says he was called to England at the outbreak of the war in 1914, and was apparently an Imperial reservist.

"He served four years and eight months and came back a cripple," she said. "His arm was useless, his ankle shattered, and he could scarcely walk. I heard him talk about Vimy Ridge, and I believe that is where he lost his eye. He had about five medals, all of which were lost in the fire."

Career In Canada.

They were married in London 17 years ago. After a year there, they came to Canada, arriving in Toronto with 25 cents between them. On the way over on the boat, she declares, they spent all their money, and on arriving in Toronto they both obtained employment at an hotel, where she worked as a waitress and her husband as butler. In a year, she says they had saved over $400 and their parents in England sent them each $100.

They then moved to a farm near Barrie, where they worked for three years, sold out and proceeded to Haileybury, later going to a piece of land near Englehart, which, she says, her husband received as a land grant for his services in the South African war. His brother, Joseph Sheppard, also received a piece of land for his services in the war.

Gradually they worked to clear the land, and had established a comfortable living with farm implements, five cows, a hundred chickens, a team of horses and a place to live in. Sheppard also worked at drawing tan bark, and their funds had risen to $1,700.

Then came the fire that ravaged Haileybury and district. Mrs. Sheppar relates that she had her three children—the youngest of course, was born later—away from the house, taking dinner to the men fighting the fire, when the wind suddenly veered, and razed the Sheppard home, with everything including their total savings of $1,700. Her brother-in-law, Joseph Sheppard, his wife and seven children were burned to death, she states.

Adopted New Employment.

After the fire, they had the team of horses, which had been with the fire-fighters, and the waggon, and they drove from Englehart to North Bay, where, with five other destitute families, they secured shelter in a church shed through the good graces of a Presbyterian minister. Later they secured a house at $4 a month, and Sheppard managed to eke out a living by hauling lumber at $1 a cord over a nine mile route. Some weeks, she says, he managed to make $10. Things became worse and he sold one horse for $100 to buy bread, but still kept the other horse and a lighter waggon.

Sheppard then commenced to make wicker chairs, something he had learned to do in South Africa during the war, she states. John Sheppard, another brother, then tried to help the family by having them hand over the horse, and title to the farm near Englehart, and he advanced them $800 in order to purchase a ton truck. He suggested Sheppard should make a load of wicker chairs, start on the road and sell them.

Took To the Road.

In April, they started out from North Bay, with a tent, a load of chairs and very little to eat. Mrs. Sheppard relates they proceeded to Ottawa, Pembroke, Kingston, thence east to Port Hope and north to Pontypool. They had managed to sell chairs on the way to buy them necessities.

"Often I have had to go out before breakfast with the oldest boy to sell a chair for $1 so that he could get something to eat," Mrs. Sheppard releated.

Sheppard was first taken ill at Ottawa, during the early summer. Mrs. Sheppard declares she urged her husband to see a doctor. This he refused, thinking he could shake it off, and continued gradually growing worse. Last September, they got as far as Millbrook, where they erected their tent in a pouring rain, and here Sheppard lay for two weeks suffering from sciatic-rheumatism. No one went to see them nor offer aid.

Too Ill To Go On.

They remained there until Sheppard determined they should again be on their way. Then he could not crank the truck, and the eldest boy and his mother finally cranked it, helped Sheppard into the driving seat and started off. On the 11th of September they got to the gate of their present abode, when Sheppard all but collapsed, the truck was stopped and seeing the vacant house on the property of Mr. Thoms, on a hill overlooking Garden Hill, they went in, later arranging to rent the house from Mr. Thoms for $2 a month.

In Dire Straits.

When some of the neighbors visited the house, Sheppard was lying on an old door as a bed, with no bedding, and very little food in the house. A truck dealer here was communicated with and purchased the truck, that had been a home for the family, for $400. This money stood between the family and starvation, consequently it was spent sparingly.

Rev. Mr. Crisall then took an interest in the family and through the Anglican Young People's Association food was sent to the house. At Christmas time, Mr. Crisall and his friend took baskets to the home, and have repeatedly provided them with necessities. A stove was purchased through the work of T. G. McClung, village blacksmith, who collected $8 from those in the village, and Dr. A. C. Beatty, the village physician, was called in. Through the months of September and October and on through the late fall and early winter, Sheppard lay in the house, gradually growing worse.

War Experiences.

Dr. Beatty said: "Sheppard often told me of his war experiencpes. He had lost one eye, I believe he said, in the last war at Vimy Ridge. He had a bayonet wound in the left arm, part of his nose had been shot off, and part of his upper lip had been removed through wounds. There were several marks of shrapnel wounds, one on his hand, and a number on his body. He often talked of having drilled soldiers, and for some time he had apparently been on an instructional staff."

Township Attitude.

The Township of Hope has paid, it is learned, a medical bill of less than $40 for attention given to Sheppard, but it is openly admitted here that last year's council considered that the family "were drifters", had arrived in their jurisdiction by accident and should not have been accorded much consideration.

The Mothers' Allowance Board, it is learned, has hesitated to do anything, owing to the fact that Mrs. Sheppard cannot produce her marriage certificate. This she explained was burned in the fire, but her statement has not been accepted by the board.

Mother and children alike were scantily clad for such a house and winter weather. The two eldest have

She Couldn't Sleep Heart Was So Bad

Mrs. J. D. McClintock, Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes:—"About a year ago I was greatly troubled with my heart.

I could not sleep at night, and was so nervous I imagined that I could see everything in the room moving, and would have to turn on the lights before I could get to sleep.

After having read of your

MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS

H. & N. Pills have been on the market for the past 32 years; all dealers sell them; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

POLICIES CONDEMNED

In the opinion of Lloyd George, says the Welsh wizard, is acknowledged to have been a first-class blunder, bearing all the worst defects of the Churchillian character. Mr. Winston Churchill's stock is now lower than the French franc. The rushing of the gold standard, for going to the village for milk for the baby, and bread, and to draw the water from the creek, a quarter of a mile away. The two youngest cannot go out for they have no warm clothing.

Food in the house consisted of a part loaf of bread, a piece of butter, a bit of sugar and a small piece of bologna, which had been purchsed for the eldest boy so that he might be fed to go to school.

Distressing Prospects.

From the proceeds on the sale of the truck, Mrs. Sheppard still has about $100, but this is carefully conserved because, when that is gone, only the House of Industry and the Children's Shelter is in sight.

"What will you do when that is gone?" Mrs. Sheppard was asked.

"I'll have to give the children over to the home, and go to the home myself," was the reply. "I don't want to do this but there is nothing else in sight for me."

Coal this winter has cost Mrs. Sheppard $53. The coal-dealer called not long ago to collect $2 owing. She handed him the bill but, after a moment's hesitation, the dealer handed back the bill with the remark: "Here, I understand you have been hard up."

When her husband was to be buried, she states a member of the Township Council visited her, requesting that she pay $25 toward the cost. She finally agreed to this, but it has not been collected yet.

"People do a lot of taking that they are going to do something, but when it comes to doing it, you have to do it yourself," said Mrs. Sheppard.

ALNWICK RETAINS FORMER OFFICIALS

Council Rejects Lower Bids For Positions.

ROSENEATH, Jan. 23.—Alnwick Township Council held a special meeting in the town hall on Saturday evening to appoint an assessor and tax collector for 1926. There two appointments were laid over at the first meeting for applications. There were two applications for each job; for Assessor, Austin Lean at $70, and Andrew Brown at $65; and for Tax Collector, M. Davey at $50, and D. J. Varcoe for $45. The first-named in each case was the previous official.

Both received considerable discussion but finally the council were unanimous in the discussion that it would not be wise to take down the old officials and take a chance on new ones for the matter of $5, and so Austin Lean received the appointment of Assessor, and M. Davey will collect the taxes for 1926.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE JANUARY MEETING

Cavan Ladies Met at Home of Mrs. R. Matchett.

CAVAN, Jan. 28.—The Cavan Women's Institute held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. R. Matchett, on Thursday afternoon.

There were thirty-two present; twenty-three members and nine visitors.

The vice-President, Mrs. D. J. Hunter conducted a very interesting meeting which opened by singing "The Maple Leaf," Mrs. Ray Syer, presiding at the piano.

The usual routine of the meeting followed. The roll-call was responded to by the quotation of some economy wrinkles.

Correspondence was read from the Department and other sources. One letter was read from a member of a family where a box of "Christmas good things," had been sent, to help out, as the children were all confined to their home with whooping cough.

It was decided to have a summer delegate, and notice to this effect was to be sent by the Secretary to the District Secretary.

The programme committee for the next meeting was appointed—Mrs. A. Kennedy and Mrs. E. Syer.

The lunch committee for the next meeting will be—Mrs. J. Swain, Mrs. Seeney, Miss Touchbourn and Mrs. Howson.

Mrs. Harry Tinney invited the Institute to hold the February meeting at her home.

The programme then followed.

Miss Eileen Hunter, with Mrs. Totten as accompanist, sang a solo "Let us be happy while we may."

Mrs. Robert Howden, read a paper containing several resolutions which had been passed at the Women's Institute convention which was held in Toronto. This paper caused an interesting discussion.

One of these resolutions had concerned the matter of means provided for safety on the highways.

This brought up the matter of a danger spot at the corner in Cavan village. In the fall there had been two accidents there from cars colliding. Fortunately neither caused much injury to the occupants of the cars. It was decided to ask Cavan Council to draw the attention of the County Road Superintendent, to this place in order that a silent policeman or other signal might be placed there.

A paper was read by Mrs. Staples, entitled, "Is neighbourliness dying." In this paper, it was suggested that modern conveniences such as the telephone, the radio, the car, etc., were spoiling "the old-fashioned neighboring."

A discussion followed this.

The suggestion by a member, "that we should hold a social evening and charge a fee" was discussed; but it was decided to postpone this until a later date.

A lunch was served by a committee of ladies and a social time enjoyed, until the sleighs came to take thos present home.

Among those present were, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Mrs. F. M. Staples, Mrs. H. Tinney, Mrs. Ray Syer, Mrs. Margaret Matchett, Mrs. A. Kennedy, Mrs. Sisson, Mrs. R. Howden, Miss Eileen Hunter, Mrs. J. C. Swain, Mrs. C. Carr, Mrs. Jas. Kennedy, Mrs. E. Syer, Miss A. Kelly, Mrs. Rowen, Miss L. Syer, Mrs. Milligan, Mrs. D. White, the Misses Lily and Dorothy Pudsy, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. R. S. Staples, Mrs. J. Perrin, the Misses Maude and Blanch Moore, Mrs. Totten, Mrs. E. Armstrong, Mrs. Howson, Mrs. R. Matchett.

Cavan Women's Institute was well pleased with the results of the entertainment, under their auspices, in Cavan Community Hall on Wednesday evening.

The programme provided by Mount Pleasant Institute was much enjoyed by a good crowd. The hall was well filled; sleigh-loads came from Millbrook and other points.

The proceeds were between forty and fifty dollars.

The play which showed "A Women's Institute meeting, as it should not be conducted," was very entertaining. The parts were well taken and the costumes were truly surprising, and caused much amusement.

The musical part of the programme was exceptionally good.

On Tuesday evening January 19, the Cavan Rural Telephone Company held its annual meeting in the Cavan Community Hall.

The president, Mr. Archie Kennedy was in the chair.

There was an attendance of about thirty.

The following directors were elected for the year 1926.—W. Nill, J. C. Swain, W. Pritchard, A. Kennedy, A. Tinney and J. Perrin.

James Kennedy was appointed Managing Director, D. J. Hunter Sec.-Treas. and J. Newton, Auditor.

The financial report for the company was very satisfactory. A dividend of six per cent. was paid to the shareholders.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vance, Franklin, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fallis on Thursday.

Mr. Jas. Paul drove in to Peterboro' on Friday.

Col. and Mrs. Earchman spent a few days this week guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. Edgar Fallis.

Mrs. Huggins, Miss Thelma Huggins and Baby Jim, are guests of Mrs. Huggin's brother, Mr. Harry Lang. Their home is in Manitoba and they are spending the winter with Ontario friends.

Mrs. McClung, Garden Hill, visited Cavan friends this week.

Mr. Richard Matchett attended the U.F.O. oyster supper at Centreville on Thursday evening.

Mr. Huxley, Peterboro' was at Mr. Jas. Paul's ohme on Thursday.

There was a sleigh-riding party of the Cavan Centre Young People, on Wednesday evening, on Matchett's Hill. This is one form of winter sport available in any community.

THE NEW WARDEN.

Congratulations are due Reeve W. T. Curtis of Havelock in the honour conferred upon him by the County Council in unanimously selecting him as Warden of Peterboro County for the present year.

Warden Curtis has been a member of the County Council for a number of years, and has done good service in that capacity, as well as in his position as Reeve of Havelock.

The citizens of that village will be delighted that the task of acting as presiding officer over the deliberations of the county body has fallen to one of their number, and their confidence in the ability of Warden Curtis to make good is evidently shared by his fellow-members of the County Council, who have chosen him for the responsible position without a ballot.

He will have the backing of a good Council, many of them veterans in the county service, and a year of efficient and economical administration should be the result.

THE LATE ROBERT STUART.

News of the death of Mr. Robert Stuart, formerly treasurer of the Quaker Oats Company and one of the best known members of the executive of that company has been received with genuine regret in Peterboro.

Mr. Stuart always had a warm corner in his heart for this city, and along with the late Senator Cox was probably the individual most responsible for the original location of the company's plant here.

Certainly it was largely due to his influence and to his interest in Peterboro that the Quaker Oats Company decided to rebuild in this city after their plant had been destroyed by fire.

His connection with Peterboro was more than a mere business one.

Mr. Stuart was an ardent sportsman, and in this city he found a number of warm friends with whom he delighted to spend a week or two at Ketchecum Lake where the beauty of the scenery, the excellence of the fishing and the pleasant associations with sportsmen of his own stamp always appealed to him.

Although not a resident of this city, Mr. Stuart did much for Peterboro, and his passing will be mourned by citizens in general, and especially by those who had learned to appreciate the geniality and amiability of the former treasurer of the Quaker Oats Company.

Their sympathy will go out to Mrs. George A. MacDonald of this city in the great bereavement she has sustained in the death of her father.

THE DRY CAMPAIGN.

That the next Provincial campaign will be a hectic affair, complicated by the entrance of a new political party into the fray, is indicated by the action taken by Ontario prohibitionists in session at Toronto.

The Ontario Prohibition Union has been empowered to place a straight prohibition candidate in the field in every riding where a party candidate cannot be endorsed by the Union.

The convention came close to doing more than that, for there was a proposal at first to place a prohibition candidate in every riding.

The policy adopted by the prohibitionists will give the party candidates a chance to declare themselves upon the question of prohibition, and if none of them return a satisfactory pledge a standard-bearer carrying the prohibition flag will be nominated.

It is easy to see that under such conditions there will be various combinations of candidates in the field, with Progressives standing an excellent chance of dry endorsation in rural ridings and straight prohibitionist candidates competing wherever there is no party candidate considered worthy of support.

If the Ontario Government goes to the country on a Government control policy it does not require much imagination to see that a combination such as is outlined would prove very formidable opposition; in fact, the prediction of dry leaders that a challenge of that kind to the electors would result in the placing in power of a prohibition-Progressive party might not be far off the mark.

RESTS WITH THE INDIVIDUAL.

When committees were being struck in one of Ontario's cities an Alderman objected to being put on the Cemetery Committee, says the London Advertiser. His reason was that there was nothing to do in such a capacity; he had entered public life with the idea of "doing something" and was not going to be denied.

It may be in that particular centre there is nothing for the Cemetery Committee to do. If such is the case then the committee should be discontinued.

In another city not far distant, some eight years ago an Alderman was appointed to the Cemetery Committee, the same sort of a position presumably that the other Alderman refused this year.

The position on the Cemetery Committee had never been sought after, because it had always been regarded as one which gave no opportunity for effective or satisfactory work. But this Alderman took the position, took it gladly and thanked the members of the Council for the appointment.

That year he went to work. He knew there was a good-sized man's job to be done. The cemetery grounds were beautified, the fences all put in perfect repair and painted. Relatives of those who rested in neglected graves were asked to do their part in the general scheme of improvement. Broken or tumbled-down headstones were repaired and put in shape. At the close of the season it was a matter of common consent that the Cemetery Committee had done by far the most outstanding work of the year.

The same idea is possible of very general application. Every appointment can be made a great opportunity.

There is an agitation among the spinsters of Germany to have a leap year week each year. The call to arms dies hard in that country.—Brantford Expositor.

MAKE CANADA INDEPENDENT.

Leaving all political consideration out of the question, isn't it time we Canadians were grappling with the full problem with a whole-hearted determination that will win through to a successful solution?

Here we have the absurd situation that while the coal miners of Nova Scotia and Alberta are on the verge of starvation because there is no work for them, the people of Ontario are close to a fuel famine because the United States anthracite fields upon which they depend for their fuel are tied up by the miners' strike.

Canadians east and west of us are starving because there is no enough market for Canadian coal to keep them at work, and in between are we other Canadians suffering from lack of fuel!

Surely the difficulties that stand in the way of fueling Canada with Canadian coal and thus keeping Canadian miners at work and keeping at home the many millions of dollars we have been sending over to the United States operators are not insurmountable if the problem is attacked with sufficient vigor and intelligence.

The Ontario Government has succeeded in inducing Sir Henry Thornton to transport another 25,000 tons of Alberta coal into this Province at the $7 test rate, at which the first 25,000 tons were carried.

So far, so good; that will be a material help in dealing with the present fuel emergency.

But it does not supply a permanent solution to the bigger question of how Canada is to be made independent so far as her fuel requirements is concerned.

That question challenges our politicians, our business men, our citizenship generally, and the time has surely come to develop a Canadian policy that will settle this problem effectually and in the national interest.

POINTS FOR PARENTS.

Much has been said locally about the need of closer co-operation between the school and home, between teacher and parent, and this problem has been attracting attention in many other centres.

In New York, for example, there is an organization known as the United Parents' Association which has issued a number of suggestions to parents, and the Examiner feels sure that many of these apply to Peterboro and could with benefit be followed here.

Many of the difficulties which beset children could be avoided if their parents understood the schools better and realized how much their co-operation helps, the association believes, and accordingly it sends out the following:

"Arrange the breakfast and lunch hours so that there is no rushing at home or at school.

"Encourage punctuality and regular attendance, not permitting trifles to interfere.

"See that the children are dressed simply, neatly, modestly and suitably, in accordance with the weather.

"Insist upon children under fourteen having at least ten hours sleep.

"Find out how much time should be devoted to home work, and see that it is faithfully done.

"Provide a quiet place for home study, with good light and ventilation. Prevent interruptions as far as possible.

"Show an interest in the children's school work, athletics and other activities.

"Visit the classroom during Open School Week, and at other times, for a better understanding.

"Do not criticize the teachers or school at all within the children's hearing. Always hear both sides of every question and ask the teacher about it.

"Instil in the children habits of obedience and respect for authority.

"Picture the school as a happy, desirable place rather than as one children should dread.

"Keep in mind that the school offers unlimited opportunities to those who take advantage of them, parents as well as pupils.

"Plan to meet other parents in the school. It will help you understand your children better. Mothers should arouse the interest of fathers in the school activities and get their co-operation.

"If there is a parents' association in your children's school, join it. If there is none, why not form one? Intelligent co-operation brings splendid results to all."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The modern dollar day is a much better institution than the old-time dollar a day.

There is to be no contest in Prince Albert. Mr. King thus escaping all the inconvenience of a winter campaign. A February election in Saskatchewan would be far from being a joke.

Wise and Otherwise.

The weather man could vacate now and leave a few weeks supply of colder predictions.

Everything's so funny. When a man goes aboard ship now he isn't on the water wagon.

What is so rare as a ton in January?

Girls kiss and make up 'cause it rubs off.

Hurrah! The old man comes home to supper, kisses the good wife, brings the kids something, comments on a wonderful meal, and tells the Mrs. "We're goin' to a movie tomorra night." Great stuff—but what's he been doing?

Clothes make the man . . . earn a lot of money when they're his wife's.

Humanity's Bromides: "I'll never forget the time, etc." "I thought I'd die." "Why, the same thing happened to me."

Employer (who has just fired a man): "What do you mean, you've always held your own with us?"

Just Ousted: "Well, I didn't have anything when I came here—and I've still got it."

One is born every minute. That's why some of the towns larger than this are larger than this.

When one says she suffers in silence she may mean that when she is in silence she suffers.

Figures don't lie—not in short skirts.

If you want to cut a figure, make it the cost of living.

We're all content with our lot—if it's a whole lot.

If, in the future, husbands would tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth — wives wouldn't believe them anyhow, on account of the past.

My sympathy today goes out to the husband who distinctly heard his wife say, "You are the blight of my life," when for ten years he thought she was saying "light."

They fed the kitty catnip and
It licked up every bit.
My golly, there's no wonder that
It threw a catnip fit.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WHAT IS A BOY?

He is a person who is going to carry on what you have started.

He is to sit right where you are sitting and attend to those things you think are so important when you are gone.

You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they will be carried out depends upon him.

Even if you make leagues and treaties, he will have to manage them.

He is going to sit at your desk in Parliament, and occupy your place on the Bench.

He will assume control of your cities and nation.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

BY WAY OF EXPLANATION.

The Editor, The Examiner:

There has been some exception taken to advertising our wood as O.T.A. WOOD, consequently we fell obliged to make an explanation. Our opinion is O.T.A. when applied to wood used for fuel purposes, is more correct than the word "DRY" because it is generally admittd that even in the O.T.A. there is the odd wet stick. However, the meaning of the letters to us is "Oak, Tamarac and Ash", in other words "Mixed Dry Wood."

SANITARY ICE SUPPLY.

ABOUT THOSE "ELMS"

The Editor of The Examiner:

In your issue of yesterday appears an article by Citizen, in which he regrets the removal of three elm trees—grand, stately, century-old.

It would seem that Citizen refers to trees recenty cut at the corner of Water and McDonnel Streets. If this be so, he shows a fine regard for age, and a love of beauty, but not an intimate knowledge of forestry.

These trees were not elms, but acacias. They were not virgin trees, the acacia not being indigenous in this district, and were not century-old, longevity not being a characteristic of this tree. They were planted by man's hand, perhaps a half-century ago. They were not 150 feet high, only one rejoicing in the dignity of half that height.

These trees were not primarily cut for fuel. The frequent dropping of branches during the past season indicated decay, and on boring for test one found their reputation was finer than their character. With many regrets they were cut down because unsound in heart and limb, and thus a menace to property and possibly to life.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—A slight improvement in the demand for fresh and choice butcher cattle gave a little better tone to the market all round. Prices were holding steady at this week's earlier decline of 25c, and for a few of the choicest fresh cattle a shade better. There was, however, a carry over of about 900 cattle from the previous markets, and though these are gradually cleaning up, the process is still a little slow.

In the small meats sections prices were unchanged.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—A slightly unsettled feeling wa sevident in some Canadian egg markets today although for the most part conditions are steady. Montreal reports a slight weakness as does St. John, N.B.

Toronto—Local situation on fresh eggs is firm and unchanged. Storage conditions are still in bad shape.

Montreal—An easier feeling prevailed on the local market and price decline of 1c was general.

Winnipeg unchanged.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.86 5-8.
Sterling cables $4.87 1-4.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for grain in the Montreal market today showed no improvement whatever and exporters generally reported business decidedly dull.

There were no further developments in the local egg situation, the undertone to the market for strictly fresh if anything being steadier at the late decline noted owing to an increased demand, and in a wholesale way sales of 25 and 50 case lots of extras were made at 43c per dozen. The jobbing trade was also reported rather more active and a fair business was done in extras 45c, first at 40c, and seconds at 35c per dozen.

A steadier feeling also prevailed in the market for storage eggs and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 1,087 cases, as compared with 1,019 for the same day last week, and 560 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The receipts of butter were 37 packages as compared with 109 for the same day last week, and 24 for the corresponding day a year ago. The undertone to the market for Townships pasteurized creamery butter continues strong and prices are steadily tending towards a higher level on account of the fact that stocks on spot have been reduced to such an extent that it is now claimed nothing is available except No. 1 grade, which is held in few hands for which 44c per lb. is now asked with latest sales at 43 1-2c per lb. There was some demand from outside buyers for supplies, and sales of fair sized lots of Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery were made at 43 1-4c to 43 1-2c per lb., but the volume of business on the whole was smaller than it has been of late and the market was quieter. Owing to the above wholesale jobbers have marked their prices 1c per lb to 45c per lb. for 1 lb. blocks, and it is expected that they will make another advance of 1c per lb. before the week closes.

The export cheese trade was reported quiet and spot prices were nominally unchanged, with early makes quoted at 21c to 21 1-2c per lb., and current receipts at 17 1-4c to 17 3-4c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (Canadian Press) — Wheat underwent something of a reaction today, after recent sharp advance. Profit taking sales on the part of holders became lively, and new buying failed to provide a quick outlet. Wheat closed unsettled, 1-8 to 1-2c net lower, May, new $1.73 5-8 to $1.73 3-4 and July $1.50 to $1.50 1-8, with corn 1-2c off; oats 1-8 to 3-8 to 1-2c down and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 12 cents.

Minneapolis reported good flour business overnight. On the other hand, fresh advances in price here disclosed that plenty of May wheat could be had at $1.75 a bushel.

Declines that ensued carried wheat prices down 2 1-2c from the top figures, but then demand from previous sellers developed, and the market came back a full cent from the low point. Meanwhile, receipts of spring wheat were larger, and it was asserted that millers had backed away from the offerings, refusing to pay better than May price for the best spring wheat. A Chicago mill received some spring wheat from Minneapolis. Nevertheless, premiums at Minneapolis were firm to 1 cent higher.

Corn and oats followed the price changes in wheat. A leading trader contended that corn at present is in the same position as liberty bonds would be at $80 a hundred.

UNITED STATES SENATE BY 76-17 VOTE APPROVES ADHERENCE TO WORLD COURT

Reservation Disclaiming Connection With the League of Nations Must be Accepted by 48 Nations as Condition of U. S. Entry.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—United States adherence to the world court was approved yesterday by the Senate. The vote on ratification was 76 to 17.

This was 14 more than the necessary two-thirds vote.

Ratification was supported by forty Republicans and thirty-six Democrats, while fourteen Republicans, two Democrats and one Farmer-Labor senator voted against it.

The ratification resolution as adopted contained the reservations drafted by the court's supporters, reasserting the nation's sovereign rights and declaring it accepted no legal connection with the League of Nations.

These reservations apparently are acceptable to President Coolidge, but they must be accepted also by the forty-eight nations already members of the court before United States membership becomes effective.

A score of other qualifications, offered by the court's opponents, were voted down by overwhelming majorities.

While many of the reservations were considered of minor importance, at least three of those rejected were given outstanding recognition.

One proposed by Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, which was rejected, 69 to 22, with several court supporters voting for it, would have provided that the judgment of the court could not be enforced by war "under any name or in any form whatever."

Defeat New Court Plan.

The reservation known as the Moses substitute, which was the old Pepper plan reported by the Foreign Relations Committee, and would have called for the setting up of a new court without any connection with the League, was rejected, 72 to 21.

By a vote of 73 to 20, the Senate turned down the reservation proposed by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, under which the British Empire would have been given only one vote in the League Council for the purpose of electing court judges.

DEALERS CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

B. C. Tomato Growers Said to Have Been Cheated.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 28. — (Canadian Press). — At yesterday morning's session of the trial of 53 Western Canada fruit and vegetable firms, charged with conspiracy, J. C. McRuer, K.C., Crown counsel, continued his address to the jury, reciting specific transactions in support of the Crown's contention that British Columbia growers had been cheated out of money due them for fruit and vegetable shipments.

Dealing with tomato shipments from Vancouver Island, Mr. McRuer said that on one shipment from Mayne Island the Mutual Vancouver, Ltd., contracted with the grower to handle his output on a commission basis of five per cent. On one lot the company sold number one tomatoes for $4.50 a crate and reported to the grower that the sale price was $3.00. Number two grades were sold at $4.00 and the grower got $2.25, while number 3 grade sold at $3.00 and he got 75 cents. The account sales sheet recited the figures, he said, and the company charged a commission of five per cent. on the smaller price: in that way the company concealed the higher price.

Several additional transactions of a similar nature were outlined by Mr. McRuer, who concluded his address shortly before court adjourned.

LINDSAY CATTLE SALE.

$145 the Top Price For Herefords.

LINDSAY, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press). — $145.00 was the top sale price at the eighth annual sale of the Victoria County Hereford Breeders' Association held yesterday. This was Gay Lass, 231st, with bull calf at her foot, the property of A. A. McDonald, Kirkfield, who had other top notchers at the sale. Prices were a good average, with the well filled cattle selling well. The buyers showed appreciation of fashionable blood and good condition.

No One Really Wants Gray Hair

There are thousands today who, for reasons beyond their control, have hair streaked with gray. They realize, too, how this handicaps them both socially and in business. But these people will not resort to mussy "dyes" because of the embarrassment of such an instantaneous change.

They do not know, perhaps, that thousands of men and women like themselves use Kolor-Bak—a marvelously pleasant liquid which is so gradual in its action that the daily effects are impossible to detect. Yet results often appear in a week.

Kolor-Bak, while it has no color in itself, oddly has the power to restore gray hair to its natural shade. It also has the merits of a tonic, giving the hair an exquisite softness and lustre besides thoroughly routing dandruff. And it is as easy to use as water. Better still, the same bottle can be used for any gray hair. Make the test. If desired results do not appear, your money will be returned. Guarantee in each package.

RAILWAY COSTS BURDEN PEOPLE BY DUPLICATION

W. F. MacLean's Annual Discussion in Commons of Railway Problem.

TARIFF FALLACY

John Evans, Progressive, Says It's Frame-Up Against Agriculture.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 28.—(Canadian Press.)— Canada's railway problem received some attention from speakers during continued debate on the address in the House of Commons Wednesday. M. F. McLean, Conservative member for South York, advocated amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, unnecessary duplication of lines, with consequent waste of millions, would thus be eliminated, he said, and the new system would be equipped with a great steamship service operating on the two oceans. He told the House that hte time had come to sink party feelings and get together to solve the railway problem. The railways, he believed, were willing to discuss a proposal for consolidation.

C. R. McIntosh, Liberal member for North Battleford, who preceded Mr. Maclean, emphasized the importance of the Hudson Bay railway. It was a short route for Canadian products to the markets of the world, he said. Parliament, he thought, should lose no time, once the government made provision for completing the road, in approving it.

Tariff a Frame-Up.

From the Progressive seats, John Evans, member for Rosetown, Sask., called the tariff "a diabolical frame-up between manufacturers and politicians." He estimated that the Canadian people would lose a quarter of a million dollars this year through the tariff.

Hon. J. W. Edwards, Conservative member for Frontenac-Addington, occupied the few remaining minutes before adjournment and will continue to-day. He charged Mr. Evans with insincerity. The member for Rosetown, he said, had stated in a speech that the government was "wallowing in corruption" and yet he had supported it in the recent division.

Mr. Evans said that agriculture had been the one great producer of wealth in this country. It was the only industry which had advanced since 1913 and whatever prosperity the country enjoyed today, was traceable to agriculture. Tariff was a fallacy, "a diaboli-

60,000,000 YEARS OLD.

Manitoba Professors Guess Fossil's Age.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Experts at the University of Manitoba who have examined a fossil discovered at a depth of 20 feet in the Tyndall Quarries, Manitoba, estimate its age at 60,000,000 years. The fossil, which is known as the "tribolite" is a long-extinct water creature, something like a crab that crawled at the bottom of the large sea, that covered the prairies millions of years ago, scientists say.

QUEBEC BUDGET BY JACOB NICOL WELL BALANCED

Provincial Treasurer Estimates Surplus $246,839 in New Fiscal Year.

INCREASE IN DEBT

Revenue for Province $23,368,229—Sees Bright Year Ahead.

QUEBEC, Que., Jan. 28 (Canadian Press.)—Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, bringing down the budget in the Quebec Legislative Assembly yesterday, informed the House that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927, the estimates of ordinary revenue are $23,368,229.48, $23,121,389 for ordinary expenditure, and the estimated surplus $246,839.

The revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1925, was $25,021,328, and the ordinary expenditure $23,629,390, to which is added $648,802 of extraordinary expenditure paid out of ordinary revenue, making the surplus $743,156. The actual ordinary revenue for the past year was $5,100,107 more than estimates and expenditure was $4,615,272 more than estimated. Cash operations during the year 1924-25 were: On deposit at commencement of year $2,455,044, and outstanding warrants $1,146,918. Total receipts from all sources during the year, that is, from July 1st, 1924, to June 30th, 1925, were $47,407.

Funded Debt Increases.

On the 30th June, 1924, the funded debt outstanding was $74,065,226.27; on the 30th June, 1925, it was $81,944,926.27.

The net balance of funded debt at 30th June, 1925, is $5,724,303.24 more than the net balance of funded debt at 30th June, 1924. This increase is accounted for by new loans issued, plus other loans increased, less loans redeemed and investments on account of sinking funds.

Mr. Nicol commented as to the general situation:

If it be true that no man liveth unto himself, it is far more so, when the dictum is applied to a province. The conditions here are dependant largely upon the general prosperity of Canada, and of the na

LIFE COMPANY MAKES RECORD

Continental Annual Report Shows Big Gains for 1925.

ASSETS INCREASED

The twenty-sixth annual report of the Continental Life Insurance Company records rapid development and expansion of it's business. The gain in business in force was the largest ever made and the company has now $26,818,703 in force. New business almost touched the seven and a half million mark—considerably the largest amount ever issued by the Company.

Assets of the Company increased by over $333,000 and now stand at $4,648,353. The large sum of $457,087 was paid to policyholders of which one sixth was by way of dividens on policies.

While the general tendency of interest rates is lower, that of the Continental increased to 6.42% on their invested assets.

A point of special note is the very low mortality experienced by the Company—only 38% of that expected. This speaks well for the care shown in the selection of risks.

Large increases in income—reserves and other important figures augurs well for the future growth and earning power of a Company which is to be congratulated upon the substantial position shown in it's latest report.

"The only complexion aid you need"

Why be content with an imitation complexion? Why not have a real one, that will stand any test and cost you next to nothing to maintain?

The way to get and keep such a complexion — radiant with the glow of youth and health — is to work not from without but from within. And the easiest, the cheapest and the most effective means to a healthy body in a healthy skin is the "little daily dimeful" of Kruschen Salts.

It's all a matter of the blood stream. Keep that pure and clear, and your cheeks will reflect the soft glow of health, your skin will always be fresh and dainty. But if you allow impurities to collect in your system, the result will be seen in a blotchy complexion, lack-lustre eyes, weariness and depression of mind and body.

Cleanse the blood stream once and for all by starting and maintaining the Kruschen habit of health — the habit of the "little daily dimeful." You can't taste it in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea, but every day it does its appointed task gently and efficiently. It removes all the waste matter that has been clogging and poisoning the system, purifies and refreshes the blood, makes you tingle in every fibre with a new health, new vigour, new joy.

Remember — it's the little daily dimeful that does it. Start the healthy Kruschen habit now, and acquire, at the cost of a half a cent a day, a real complexion such as the most expensive cosmetics cannot imitate.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The ingredients of Kruschen Salts are necessary for healthy life. Your body must, of necessity, obtain these ingredients from somewhere, or you could not live. Normally, your system should extract these vital salts from your food — meat, bread, fruit, vegetables, milk, eggs, and so on; but, as a matter of fact, owing to impaired digestion, errors of diet, overwork, anxiety, worry, sedentary occupation, and many other causes, your system does not extract from food the correct proportions of these essential life-giving salts.

And what follows? Depression, headaches, or constipation, or disordered liver, or inactive kidneys, or rheumatism, or gout, or sciatica, or lumbago, or eczema — many of which arise from excess of Uric Acid, which is the cause of more trouble than many people suspect. Besides cleansing the body of impurities gently, surely, and painlessly, they possess a wonderful power of giving new life and vitality to the countless millions of cells, of which every body is composed. Flesh, blood, cartilage, bone, brain and nerve are all made up of cells, and every cell requires one or more of the numerous constituents of Kruschen Salts for its healthy life. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day — 160 daily doses.

Motherhood

WILL the little stranger laugh and gurgle—or cry distressfully? Baby gets health from mother. Breast-fed babies are best fed, and therefore happiest and healthiest. "Ovaltine" lays the foundation of baby's health, by building up mother's health.

"Ovaltine" is super-nourishment—delicious to take and easy to digest. It also contains in concentrated form and in perfect proportion the rich, body-building and vitalizing elements of fresh creamy milk, eggs, barley malt, and cocoa. It contains all the essential vitamins, in correct ratio.

"Ovaltine" should be the daily beverage until baby is weaned. Better still, if commenced several months before the birth. It ensures an abundant supply of rich milk, and enables the mother to maintain her strength under the strain which birth and nursing throw upon her system.

CHAIRMEN OF COMMITTEES ARE NAMED BY COUNTIES COUNCIL

Business Hardly Started Yet Owing To Time Taken in Choosing Committees.

MANY DELEGATIONS.

All Wednesday Afternoon Was Taken Up With Hearing Them.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, Jan. 28.—The chairmen of the various committees of the Counties Council were elected Wednesday afternoon as follows:

Finance—Reeve Wood, Millbrook.

Roads and Bridges — General chairman, Reeve Bedal of Brighton Township; Chairman for Northumberland and County, Reeve Clarke of Cramahe; Chairman for Durham County, Deputy-Reeve Wight of Darlington.

Schools—Reeve Hess of Hastings.

Contingencies — Reeve Holdaway of Port Hope.

County Property—Reeve Elliott of Bowmanville.

Legislation and Bylaws — Reeve Baker of Darlington.

Agriculture—Deputy-Reeve Wight of Darlington.

Deputy-Reeve Wight was the only member to draw two chairmanships and he is, besides, the only deputy-reeve to be placed at the head of a committee. Deputy Reeve Nelson could have been given a chairmanship, but he thought that the Wardenship for 1926 was honor enough for Percy Township.

It has for some years been the custom to make up the runner-up in the Wardenship race, chairman of the important committee on roads and bridges. Reeve Davidson was offered his choice of the general or the Northumberland County chairmanship, but he preferred to serve in the ranks this year.

The road commissioners for 1926 are Warden McCubbin, Reeve Bedal and Deputy-Reeve Wight. The members of the board of management will be elected Friday by the Council in open session.

Hardly a Start Made.

The Council has hardly got started in the transaction of business. There was delay in the selection of the committees owing to some of the reeves insisting that more time should be taken for this work.

The entire session Wednesday afternoon was devoted to hearing delegations and none of the committees had held a meeting up to the evening of the second day. It is possible that the work of the this session will not be finished before Saturday.

Children's Aid Society

W. J. Bickle, president; Dr. Dailey, manager of the Children's Aid Society, and Rev. Fr. T. S. Boyle of Cobourg asked the Council to continue the grant of $350 a month for the upkeep of this organization, each of the three speakers explaining the good work that is being done. The society now has the oversight of 250 children, and the only steady income is the monthly grant from the Council. The request of this delegation was referred to the finance committee.

District Representative Heard

District Representative Smith of Northumberland and District Representative Patterson of Durham asked the Council to appoint an agricultural advisory board, such as have been stablished in other counties, composed of a representative farmer from each township, to confer with the district representative with regard to their work. The members of the board would be paid, the remuneration to be fixed by the Council, for two meetings a year, with an allowance for mileage travelled. The Agricultural committee will deal with this matter.

John D. Hayden, requested an increased grant for the three county hospitals of Cobourg, Bowmanville and Port Hope and submitted a printed statement showing the number of patients cared for and the amount expended. Last year the total outlay was $47,614 and the 1482 patients treated paid in only $35,390. Each patient costs the institution in which he or she is treated, $3.47 a day.. In the past 11 years the Counties Council has made grants to the three hospitals of $17,500, equal to the cost of half a day's stay for each patient. In 12 years the three hospitals have spent $623,000 in buildings and equipment and caring for the sick.

Mr. Hayden said that the hospitals are now in a position to perform operations and to treat diseases as well as any similar institution in the large cities. He made special reference to the improved lights in the operating rooms and the x-rays apparatus.

A. A. Bain, representing the Globe Indemnity Company, offered to insure the counties against loss by accidents on the highways under their jurisdiction, the premium on such a policy to be $600 a year. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

It was stated that in the past seven years accidents on the highways in the two counties have only cost $250.

When the Council adjourned at 4 p.m. the majority of the members visited the hospital where they found everything in the first class condition represented by Manager Hayden.

Care should be taken that the punishment does not exceed the guilt; and also that some men do not suffer for offenses for which others are not even indicted.—Cicero.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Builds Up Weight in Three Weeks

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been underweight—or how much under-weight you are, "ironized yeast" tablets are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks' time. If they fail get your money back.

Sold by druggists, at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

Lawyer's Play Receives Very Severe Criticism

SUNSPOTS MAY AFFECT RADIO

"Static" This Week Ascribed to Solar Disturbances by Scientists.

TO INVESTIGATE

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Atmospheric disturbances which have played havoc with electrical communication over a wide expanse of the Dominion during the last few days, will be a subject of investigation by a committee of Winnipeg scientists, electrical experts and other authorities. The committee will launch upon its task during the present week.

Violent disturbances have proved a great annoyance to radio fans to scientists here, the forces of into scientists heer, the forces of interruption are traced directly to the sun.

"We already have proof here that sunlight interferes with radio transmission. Experiments have shown that the sun kills or weakens long waves and broadens short waves," D. P. R. Coats, superintendent of CKY broadcasting station of Winnipeg, declared in commenting on the recent disturbances.

Dr. C. N. Bell, who has devoted much of his life to the study of this particular question, points out that the atmospheric congestion has coincided with the appearance of peculiar spots on the sun. He firmly believes the phenomena to be closely correlated Aurora, or static, as the mysterious force is more commonly known to the radio world, will now be tackled with a serious effort to reach a solution of its vagrant pranks. The Manitoba Telephone Company and the two electric utility companies of Winnipeg will co-operate in the research undertaking.

THREE CHILDREN AND MOTHER DIE

Five Persons Perish in New York—Paralytic Rescued.

SEVERAL SAVED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Fires in New York took five lives yesterday.

In one fire, a mother and her three children died. In the second, a man, who was suffering from injuries he had sustained in a robbery only a short time ago, was buried to death.

The dead are:

Mrs. Anna Falta and her three children, Anthony, aged 7; Helen, aged 3; Anna, aged 8 months.

George Kissen, aged 51.

Mrs. Falta and her children died at their home in East 109th street. A man passing by saw smoke coming from the building. He called police and firemen. When the firemen arrived they ran through the building, warning one family after another. Finally, they came upon William Falta, the father, groping his way through smoke outside the family apartment and painfully burned.

Asleep When Found

Police and firemen broke into the Falta apartment and carried from the burning room, then smoke filled, Mary, aged 14, and William, aged 5, both of whom were asleep.

In an adjoining bedroom they found Everett, 12, and Joseph, 8, both of whom were slightly burned, but still alive.

From another room they rescued Mrs. Mary Falta, grandmother, and Mary Bochowitz, an aunt of the children.

Next they went into a bedroom. They found the fire appartentiy had started there, and in it Mrs. Falta and three other children were found dead in their beds.

Their bodies were brought out, and the fire soon extinguished. Police believe the fire started from a gas heater in the mother's bedroom.

Paralytic Rescued

Almost at the same hour fire broke out in the apartment occupied by George Kissen, who was confined to his bed recovering from a beating he suffered recently when attacked by hold-up men. Unable to leave his bed, he was found dead from fire and smoke when his room was reached. This fire was in a basement apartment.

In an adjoining room Kissen's wife, Mary, a paralytic, was found in her bed and carried out, near suffocation.

M'CREA HEARS FISH PROBLEM

Hoop Netting Condemned in Petition Presented to Minister.

VISITED KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—After hearing all afternoon the pros and cons of hoop net fishing, Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines and Fisheries for Ontario, said the problem was a hard one to solve but promised serious consideration, saying that he would take the matter up fully with his colleagues and with the Deputy Minister, D. McDonald, who accompanied him. The sitting was held in the Dairy School and several bodies were heard through their representatives, besides a large number of individuals. The chair was occupied by A. M. Rankin, M.P.P. for Frontenac.

A petition with 750 signatures, was presented by Mayor Angrove of Kingston, asking for the establishment of hatcheries in Frontenac for the purpose of replenishing the stock of game fish in local waters. Mr. McCrae didn't hold out much hope that the petition would be granted, owing to the cost. He said, however, that the hatcheries now in existence might be enlarged if their present capacity was unequal to the demand. The Minister defended the hatcheries against some criticism that had arisen at the meeting, claiming that good results had been obtained from them.

In reference to complaints that there were not enough game wardens and fishery overseeers in the province, Mr. McCrae said that there were now 60 full time officials at work and that he was ready to appoint as many deputies, without pay of course, as were required.

Protest Hoop Netting.

Resolutions were submitted from the Frontenac County Game and Fish Protective Association, the Boards of Trade in Kingston, Ottawa, and Smith's Falls, and from the Kingston Retail Merchants' Association, protesting against hoop netting, which they claimed was having a prejudicial effect on the tourist trade, as it was depleting the game fish which so many tourists were after.

On the other side, many fishermen were heard, and they declared emphatically that they took only the coarse and scavenger fish, leaving the game varieties alone.

Three members of the Ontario Legislature: A. W. Gray, Leeds; C. W. Hambly, Lennox, and J. F. Hill, East Hastings, expressed the opinion that the fishermen were honestly carrying on their calling. All three defended hoop netting if confined exclusively to coarse and scavenger fish. Mr. Rankin said that if net fishing were abolished it would work a hardship on many men who depended on it for a livelihood and besides, their equipment which represents a large sum of money, would be a total loss.

Last evening Mr. McCrae and Mr. McDonald were the guests of the Council of the Kingston Board of Trade at an informal dinner at the Frontenac Club.

cal frame up between manufacturers and politicians" and agriculture had to bear the entire load. If protection had been honestly stated during the last forty years, scarcely a protectionist member would have been returned to the House at the last election.

"Advocates of protection in Canada to-day do not believe in their own policy," he declared. Protection prospered on the "blood of others." Agriculture was impoverished "because our manufacturer is not standing on his own feet."

Small Industries Cornered.

Mr. Evans declared that every small industry in Ontario "has been cornered by fair or foul means." Small businesses in the Maritime provinces had been closed out so that these provinces had become "hewers of wood, and drawers of water for this industrial area situated between Montreal and Windsor."

This year Canada would probably export more per capita than any country in the world, yet the farmers, the actual producers of this wealth, would remain as before. He estimated that the Canadian people would be "filched" this year by $250,000,000 by the protected interests through tariff. The tariff, he said, was manipulated secretly by orders in council and by negotiations with manufacturers, and it was all designed to make the consumer pay.

Mr. Evans argued that tariff stability could not be built on oppression. Canada must cease from putting the consumer at a disadvantage to preserve "an industry which cannot stand a breath of fresh air."

A Free Trader.

Several Conservative members questioned Mr. Evans about his attitude to the tariff and asked "are you in favor of free trade?"

Mr. Evans replied "Certainly I am."

Canada was "a hard country to govern" only so long as class creed existed, as long as the groups, which made parliament declined to mind their own business and stop interfering with the others.

Government must not be reduced to a "plunderbund" preying upon any section of the country.

QUEBEC BUDGET

tions with which Canada is trading.

"There is doubt that there were many clouds in the industrial sky of 1924. They showed but slow signs of disappearing in 1925, but the latter part of the year revealed bright spots and many believe that 1926 will be in Canada the best year we have had since the close of the war.

More Dairy Business.

"Quebec has had an excellent crop. It has sold more butter and cheese than for several years past and at better prices, and the sale and price of cattle have also greatly improved. Altogether, agricultural Quebec is much better now than it was a year ago, and the signs are that conditions will further improve.

"Quebec's second industry, pulp, has greatly prospered since last year. The figures given by the mills show a large increase in the sale of both paper and pulp, and the proposed new mills and expansions in existing plants are an indication that those engaged in this industry have an abiding faith in Quebec.

"The mining and lumber industries have also greatly improved in our province, notwithstanding the fact that the latter industry is meeting with strong competition from the outside."

The Treasurer congratulated the Liquor Commission on its showing. He denied that prices were too high. The profits of British Columbia were $3,037,100, with a population one-quarter below Quebec, which had net profits through the commission of $4,134,665.

LUTHER WIELDS DISSOLUTION CLUB OVER REICHSTAG TO-DAY

Empowered By Hindenburg To Dissolve House If Vote Adverse.

SOCIALISTS QUIET.

Two Persons Wounded in Clashes on Birthday of Ex-Kaiser.

Staff Correspondent.)
(By Frederick Kuh, United Press

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—President Von Hindenburg has signed a decree authorizing Chancellor Luther to dissolve the Reichstag in event of a vote of lack of confidence.

Armed with this club, Luther went to the Parliament today ready to use it if the Opposition won. The ultra pan-German Folkist Party introduced a resolution demanding that the Government cease payments under the Dawes plan and devote the same to relief work.

The handful of Folkists (Volskische) also demanded that Germany do not enter the League of Nations in view of the Allies' failure to keep their Locarno promises.

The Socialists decided to abstain from voting on the question of confidence, thereby leaving the fate of the new Luther Cabinet dependent on a few votes.

Classes between Communists and Monarchists yesterday on the occasion of the ex-Kaiser's birthday, resulted in the serious wounding of two persons.

BALDWIN TELLS OF IMPROVING TRADE PORTENTS

Say Dominions Have Had Good Harvests in Past Season.

SPENDING POWER UP.

Empire Must Hold Together or British Trade Will Be Ruined, He Says.

LONDON, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—In the course of a rallying speech at Sunderland, concluding a three-day platform campaign, Premier Stanley Baldwin yesterday said that history did not hold a single instance of democracy holding together an Empire. "Yet if the British Empire doesn't hold together," he said, "quite apart from everything else, so much of our trade goes with it, that we will probably be ruined."

The Premier gave several instances of improving trade portents like the fact that 50 new silk companies have registered in Britain since the imposition of the silk duties.

"In Canada they had a great harvest, their spending power is increased, and their mining industry is flourishing. Therefore, we may expect increased trade from these quarters," the Premier said. The same held good regarding Australia and India, while even in China, the Premier said, trade was showing remarkable resilience.

He re-entered the place immediately, leaving the door open and it was still open when the police rushed the cabin yesterday afternoon. One of the bullets fired had entered Smith's side. The body was found crouched behind a packing case with a rifle in the left arm.

St. George's Anglican Church was shown to have a favorable balance on hand by the statement read by the people's warden, R. W. Butler, at the annual vestry meeting held on Monday evening. The contributions toward the diocesan allotment have been increased during the past year and the church has paid its assessment in full. The Rev. J. L. Hughes presided.

The following officers were elected: People's warden, R. W. Butler, re-elected; Incumbent's warden, A. J. Arnott, re-elected; sidesmen, Messrs. Moscrop, Sims, H. Wilson, and Ferguson; lay delegate, Messrs. Arnott, Sowden and Ferguson. Reports were read as follows: W.A., Mrs. Brown; Ladies' Guild, Mrs. Brown; Sunday School, Mrs. Andrew; A.Y.P.A., Mr. Hughes.

In his report Mr. Hughes spoke of the various activities of the parish during the past year. He mentioned those who had been taken by death, and asked those present to stand for a moment in silent prayer. Mr. Hughes spoke of the assistance of the various organizations and expressed appreciation of their work. He thanked the Wardens for their co-operation in the past year.

After the meeting had been closed refreshments were served and an informal discussion of the work of the church was held.

C.G.I.T. CONFERENCE.

Second Annual Meeting Held at Y.W.C.A.— 125 Present.

The second annual Canadian Girls in Training conference was held at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon and evening, with over 125 leaders and girls in attendance.

The conference opened with Mrs. J. A. McKone, the president of the local Girls' Work Board, in the chair. Miss Bonna Mills, National Girls' Work Secretary, of the United Church of Canada, addressed the girls, leaving with them the C.G.I.T. slogan, "As a Canadian Girl in Training, under the leadership of Jesus, it is my purpose to cherish health, seek truth, know God, serve others, and thus with His help, become the girl God would have me be."

At 5.15 the meeting was divided into six groups for the discussion of girl problems, led by Miss Mills, Mrs. McKone, Mrs. (Rev.) Mackinnon, Miss Brownscombe, Miss Anderson and Miss Storey. After a picnic supper at six, all assembled in the gymnasium for games.

The conference reassembled for the evening session in the Green Room. New songs were sung, splendid reports of the past year's work were presented by the secretaries of the various groups, and Miss Mills gave an inspirational address, centering her remarks around the thought of what C.G.I.T. could stand for in developing the four-fold life. C.G.I.T. could mean Courage, Gladness, Interest and Truth, so necessary in the well-developed girl's life.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Taps."

Wheat Scores Advance Brought By Big Buying

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press)—Despite a downturn at the opening today, wheat values quickly scored an advance. Aggressive buying on the part of houses with Eastern connections was largely responsible for the strength which developed. The opening, 1-2 to 1c lower, May 172 3-4 to 173, and July 149 3-8 to 149 1-2, was followed by a rise to well above yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats were firm, sympathizing with wheat. After opening unchanged to 1-4c up, May 84 5-8 to 84 7-8, Corn reacted a trifle and then made material gains. Oats started unchanged to 1-8c off, May 44 3-8 to 44 1-2, sagged somewhat further and later showed a slight advance all around.

Provisions were weak influenced by lower quotations on hogs.

Smelters Leads Market With Many Other Gains

TORONTO, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press)—Gains were recorded this morning on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Consolidated Smelters was the market leader and after opening strongly moved forward 7 3-4 points from yesterday's closing quotation to 200. Gains of more than one point were registred by Brazilian at 88, Brompton 28 1-2, F. N. Burt 62 3-4, and Winnipeg Railway 52 1-2, Canada Steamships preferred and Crow's Nest each advanced 1 to 61. Dome Mines was up 35 cents to 17.80. Mackay and Twin City were the two stocks to record declines, the former dropping one at 136 while Traction issue was off 2 at 75.

Toronto Change Volume Lighter; Dome Rises 25

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 28 (Canadian Press)—The volume of trading on Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was considerably lighter this morning and price changes were small. The demand for Dome Mines continues and this morning the stock gained 25 cents at 17.75. Wright Hargreaves was the only other gold stock to show an appreciable advance, gaining 5 cents at 8.65. Losses incidental to realizing sales were recorded by Kirkland Lake at 114, Teck Hughes 3-44, and Beaver 75 each losing 4 cents. Vipond was off 3 cents at 1.93.

New York Prices Recover With New Strength To-day

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 28 (Canadian Press)—Stock prices made a further recovery in today's market, which was featured by the resumption of pool operations in a number of food, chemical, farm implement, copper and public utility issues. Easy money rates continued to provide the ground work for the advance. Ready absorption of offerings of short traders helped to revive the waning bullish enthusiasm. Sugars and Oils gathered strength on reports of stiffening commodity prices while the revival of merger and recapitalization rumors infused new strength into a number of specialties.

BLIZZARD REMINDS OF OTHERS' NEEDS

Cases of Suffering in Peterborough Require Immediate Help.

When the icy wind is whistling around the house corners these nights and you gather closer about the register or the radiator, do you ever think of the men and women and little children who haven't any fuel in their homes. And perhaps they haven't many clothes either or much food. Of course, there is always the City Relief, but there are people who do not apply to the city for relief until privation has ground them down to the last resource.

There are four new citizens of Peterboro who will come into the world very shortly in four homes of the city, and there is nothing for the babies or the mothers. No comfortable layettes, no happy preparations, no expectations of joy over the event. In one home, an expectant mother was found the other day lying on a straw tick covered with old potato sacks, with no sheets or pillows.

Have you any shoes or boots in your clothes closets or attics that have not seen the extreme of wear? They might come in handy for the children who are running around cold homes, bare-footed, and a pair of stockings would help out considerably in most of these cases also. There are many children who are staying away from school these days because they have not the necessary clothing for their feet.

Two men came out of the hospital the other day with nothing but cotton underwear beneath their old clothes. And one has a family in a house where there is no wood and little to eat.

These are not fictitious cases. They are real, bonafide men and women and children. "Father out of work and mother sick" is the explanation in many homes, and it is a sufficient one.

Perhaps you have a few things that would help out in these cases, or a little money that would be quite well used by the Big Sisterhood, who are looking after many cases of privation and poverty in the city. The Police Station will gladly receive any donations of clothing, food or money, and they will be well expended.

Greater interest is being manifested in the Standing Field Crop competition by the farmers each year. Last year there were 23 entries for fall wheat and 16 for oats, for which $150 was distributed in cash prizes. The main object of this competition is to improve the quality of the grain, and to rid it of noxious weeds; already the prize-winners have opened a market and disposed of many bushels for seed. It was unanimously decided with the help of the government and county grants to hold the competition this year as in previous years.

Maids and Old Maids.

By Hedda Hoyt.
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (United Press).—Recently I received a letter from a young girl who complained that her mother objected to "flapper clothes" and forced her to dress like an "old maid." It made me think a bit. There are no old maids these days according to the old meaning of the word.

Unmarried women are usually working women who mean something to this world and who have far more to do in life than pet cats. They are well-dressed, self-assertive persons who haven't the time nor the inclination to be ingrowing. They are not to be scoffed at. Old-maidism is a state of mind and the business person is too busy to get in that state of mind.

The only old maids I know, if I know any, are married women who have grown intolerant through lack of contact with the outside world. I have seen men with old-maidish minds.

Speaking from a fashion writer's viewpoint, I should say that women who cling to long hems, numerous petticoats, ratted hair and to the same styles year in and year out, are old maids at heart whether married or single. There are many such women and I have seen them ridicule other women of their age for wearing youthful clothes. Nine times out of ten an elderly woman looks and feels far better in snappy sports clothes than she does in soft, matronly garments which seem to shout "this old lady is wearing me to soften her crow's feet." Middle-aged women look mighty attractive in clothes designed for their daughters. If such a person is of the tailored type, she will look better in stylish tweeds with natty felt hats than in prim tailor-mades.

A prim mother cannot afford to force her own standards of dress upon her modern daughter. It is simple enough to side-step dress questions by accepting a happy medium in skirt-lengths, hair-does, etc. Clothes are a very vital part of one's life. We are living in an age where old-maidish styles are taboo. To be prim without being chic is to be freakish. We must accept fashions as they come, modify them to our individualities and rattle along with the vast majority of women who set the standards for us.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl sixteen years old, and met a young man one month ago whom I loved at first sight. There is another girl between us. If it were not for her he would call on me. Tell me how to let him know I love him

LITTLE FLIRT.

LITTLE FLIRT: Some persons whom we meet we seem to "fall in love with at first sight," but you can only know through continued friendship whether you truly care for him or whether he returns your affection. Go about with others and try to be pleasant and attractive. The young man will notice you in spite of this other girl and may ask to call.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens, and I have been going with a nice young man three years my senior. But my parents won't allow me to see him any more. We are engaged, but my parents do not know it. Would it be right to keep our engagement a secret and marry without my parents' consent?

BLUE-EYED BEAUTY.

BLUE-EYED BEAUTY: Seek other friendship with girls and boys for a while, my dear, and wait until you are older before thinking of marriage. Your parents have your best interests at heart and are doing what they think best for you. You would not want to keep your engagement a secret, or marry without your parents' consent, I am sure, because that would only bring disappointment and trouble.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens and I come to you for advice. A short while ago I met a very attractive young man at a dance. He made a date with me for a following evening. During this time I was told by some of my friends that he was not of very high character and I immediately broke the date with him. Since then I was told by some people who know him well that he is a very refined young gentleman. I am very perplexed as I like him real well.

Please, dear Annie Laurie, tell me what I am to do. I remain,

SONYA.

SONYA: If you like him, you had better try to find out something more about him, and then be governed by your own judgment, rather than the gossip of acquaintances, as to how you shall treat him. Possibly the first remarks made about him to you were inspired by jealousy, then again, they may have been given in a spirit of friendship. You can best judge of may have been given in a spirit of that yourself. Why not give him a chance, at least? Go out with him a couple of times and see how he conducts himself. If you broke an engagement made with him, you might ring him up and ask him to drop around some evening.

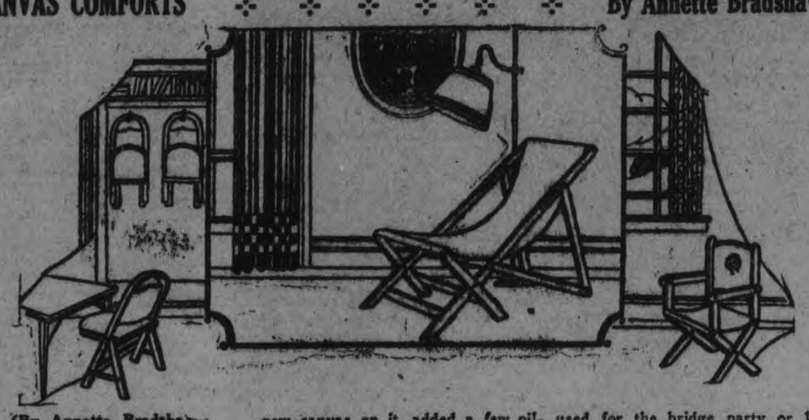
CANVAS COMFORTS

By Annette Bradshaw



(By Annette Bradshaw.)

Have you ever thought that instead of storing away the canvas chairs which you have used during the summer for your porch and on your motor picnics these may be utilized as a wonderful advantage as a part of your regular furnishings?

A very clever woman of my acquaintance discovered this when she wanted a comfortable chair for the living room and her budget did not permit of the purchase of the kind she really wanted. An old steamer chair that had been used on the porch gave her the inspiration. Remembering the many happy hours she spent in it, she dragged it down from the storeroom, and after giving the frame several coats of varnish, she tacked new canvas on it, added a few pillows and placed it in her living room with a reading lamp beside it. And the chair problem was solved.

This started a resurrection of canvas chairs. Several small folding chairs of the arm variety which had been used on motor trips, were given coats of paint to match the different rooms, and then were very cleverly decorated with the decalcomanias that are so easy to apply and so popular for decorative purposes.

These may be used in bedrooms or playrooms or perhaps even in a living room to fill an empty corner. These are particularly welcome where space is crowded as they may be folded and put in a closet when not in use.

The small folding chairs may be used for the bridge party or kept handy, together with a folding card table, for the use by the children for their lessons in the evening. These too, may be kept in a closet and only brought out when necessary. This will save much space and give adequate accommodations for bridge or card parties, or even for use for the afternoon tea.

The chairs and tables may be decorated to match any color scheme. They are particularly effective when the canvas is painted and decorated with the gay decalcomanias. And in these days of small apartments they are indispensable as they may be used only when needed, and one can have beauty of furnishing without cluttering the rooms with useless or superfluous furnishings.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE CHATS ABOUT A SMART FROCK.

The lull in business that we manikins had long been looking for at Madame's arrived a few days ago.

"It's not that I'm unpatriotic," Pam explained. "I want Madame to do more business than any designer in town, which I'm sure she does, but I do want to have a few idle moments between calls so I can get some sewing done for myself."

Pam referred to Madame's generous custom of allowing us models to sew on things for ourselves behind the scenes when we aren't too busy.

"You must want to make yourself a dress," I commented.

"How did you guess it?" Pam flashed back.

"Come ahead," I urged. "Tell me what you have in mind."

"Well, if you must know," Pam began. "I have an idea for what I think is going to be a stunning frock."

Pam needed only one invitation to unfold her plan, and she began to explain:

"I got tired haunting the sales for a frock that looked different, so there was nothing I could do but plan to make it."

As she spoke she went to one of the shelves and took down an interesting-looking package. It proved to be several yards of awfully pretty beige wool crepe.

"I never like a cloth frock of anything heavier than wool crepe," Pam explained. "They get so hot indoors."

Then she repaired to another corner and brought forth a sketch pad, which she handed to me.

"I saw a very pretty cloth frock sketched, with darker trimming bands and tiny dark buttons.

"What's your trimming?" I asked.

"Brick colored woolen cloth, cut out and appliqued on," Pam answered.

Then she went on to explain that the buttons were covered with the same brick colored wool and that the two narrow panels applied at each side of the skirt were sewed down only at the top, so they could swing free.

"Very attractive design," I said. "I think you were wise to design your own frock and make it, for anyone who can do that can have more distinctive things every time."

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

The woman who is tall and slim need not bother herself too much about losing her slim lines. Even if she takes on a bit of weight, she usually has height enough to carry this weight, this being, of course, within a certain restriction.

The shorter woman, however, finds herself in a different position when it comes to considering her relative slimness. If she is very short, say around five feet, she has reason indeed to bestir herself when she finds that she is gaining more than her normal weight. The woman whose height is a few inches over five feet also finds this true, for a few extra pounds are sure to make themselves known.

Now there are numbers of women who simply take matters in hand and reduce these extra pounds in the most sensible way possible, which is by diet.

No longer can any woman "get by" with the statement that she simply cannot reduce. Everyone knows that the amount and kind of food we eat goes directly into making flesh and bone. The sensible way, then, is to reduce our diet, avoiding the most fattening foods, and, if we keep up these dieting measures, we are sure to lose some of our extra flesh.

Now, if you start to lose your flesh as soon as you find that you are gaining more than your average amount, so much the better. However, if you have let yourself gain far too much, you can reduce just as surely, if you will but decide on your proper diet and stick to it. In addition, I advise that you walk at least one hour a day.

The most common foods which produce fat are bread, butter and potatoes. If you are really in earnest about losing your extra weight, I advise that you eliminate these three. However, you may eat whole wheat bread for breakfast. The one hundred per cent whole wheat is the least fattening, and two thin slices of this, toasted, will amount to no flesh at all.

Peas and all beans except string beans are also fattening. Avoid these, as well as all fried meats and all gravies.

Drink plenty of water between meals, and when you take your hour's walk, walk briskly and breathe deeply. Go at it in earnest, and do not idle along, but walk with a purpose.

Of course, you should aviod sweets and desserts, for everyone knows how fattening these things are. Fruit is an excellent thing to take instead of dessert.

GREEN VEGETABLES ESSENTIAL TO HEALTH.

Spinach is in the front rank of healthful vegetables. All green vegetables should be as fresh as possible, spinach being no exception. Spinach is classed among the non-starchy vegetables, is refreshing to the system and adds needed salts to the diet. One peck of spinach after trimming and washing in the proverbial seven waters, will yield after cooking and mincing a pint and a half, sufficient for four people. For a peck of well-washed spinach, have ready a saucepan in which a teaspoonful of salt and three quarts of boiling water are mixed. Put in the spinach and boil ten minutes, then turn into a colander and drain well. Mince very fine, add two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter, pepper and salt. Reheat in a buttered saucer or frying pan, and turn into a hot dish. Smooth in mound shape and garnish with sliced hard-boiled egg.

Spinach Salad.

Wash the salad and trim the stems from the leaves. Use about three pints. Mince onion fine and mix with the spinach. Just before it is time to serve Garnish with highly seasoned cream cheese balls.

Creamed Spinach.

Wash, cook and mince the spinach the same as in the first recipe. Have ready a cream sauce made with plenty o butter and garnished with a chopped hard boiled egg and a tablespoonful of well-washed capers. Turn the sauce over the spinach after it is moulded on a hot vegetable dish.

Buttered Lettuce.

Wash carefully four heads of lettuce that is too coarse fo salad. Cook in slightly salted water ten minutes; drain and chop coarsely. Reheat, adding salt, pepper, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and a teaspoonful of sugar. Serve on a hot dish garnished with halved deviled eggs. The cooked lettuce is also good served with a white sauce made with, or without, meat stock, or cream sauce with diced fried bacon in it as a garnish.

Salsify (Oyster Plant).

Wash, scrape and drop the roots into three pints of cold water with a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of vinegar and two tablespoonfuls of flour to keep it from turning black. Cook for thirty minutes. When done,

TOYS WHICH EDUCATE

Have you a toy-cluttered nursery, or one where toys have been carefully chosen and housed? Educators are giving a great deal of thought to this important subject. Parents of the past favored quantity more than quality. Thinking parents of today favor the "do-with" toys. These toys are developers which aid the child to think and do.

No matter what the outlay is for the gorgeous doll, we find often that the plain indestructible doll with simple clothes that may be taken off and put on is the one the child loves best. for it has human interest. The marvels are really more pleasure to grown-ups.

Most children love the clay for modeling. They soon learn to make a lot of things with it and work out ideas of their own. They also like crayons with plenty of coarse paper to work with. Sewing cards, puzzles, mosaic blocks, clay blocks, alphabet blocks, wooden animals and figures, all these things find greater favor and last longer in interest than do the more expensive mechanical toys.

Some Attractive Toys

Another mistake which is too frequently made is having too many things at one time. We might borrow here a Japanese idea and put away a certain number of toys to be brought out [illegible] as fresh treats, while others are retired. The rainy day apron, for instance, with its numerous pockets filled with treasures, is a treat. This would not be so were it an every day visitor. Its rarity is its charm.

Older boys love a tool chest, and as they master the use of its contents and begin to make things they are delighted and absorbed in the work of creation. Big girls appreciate a doll house when they are old enough to make curtains and bedding and arrange the furniture. In so doing, they develop their own taste and ingenuity. It is the pleasure of creating with their own hands that fascinates and amuses.

Books are always a joy, if well chosen. One should read the book carefully first, after having studied the child. Children get attached to stories and like to hear them again and again.

Doll dishes should never be too fine or expensive. The little dishes made of enameled ware are dainty and durable for the wee ones and save many tragedies and tears.

Spool work with gay worsted has gone through several generations and is as popular as ever today. Though lamp mats are out of fashion, the youngsters now make rugs for the doll house out of gay strips.

Making scrap books is another fascinating pastime that never grows old. Blunt pointed scissors and a paste pot, pictures cut from the various funny sheets, magazines or pictures that can be bought for a small outlay, will be a joyful amusement for children.

The nursery that is filled with things to do is the happy one. Ideas are the most valuable things in the world, and they are cultivated and fostered by the right toys. Ideas formed in this way are often the foundation of fortunes in days to come.

Menus for the Family

Breakfast—Tangerines, cereal, thin cream, scrambled eggs, rye muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Noodle soup, toasted rye muffins, peach butter, milk, tea.

Dinner—Roast beef, Yorkshire pudding, mashed potatoes, gravy, parsnip fritters, fruit salad, cocoanut macaroons, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Yorkshire pudding is a delicious addition to roast beef. It should not be used often enough to become an everyday affair but occasionally as an especial treat. The serving of the Yorkshire pudding in this particular menu makes a dessert quite unnecessary.

Yorkshire Pudding.

Two eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, beef drippings from roast.

Mix and sift flour and salt and put into mixing bowl. Make a well in the center of the flour and add the egg, unbeaten. Stir, gradually mixing in the flour from the sides. Aed the milk a little at a time, beating to keep smooth. When about half the milk is used and a thick smooth batter is formed beat well for ten minutes. Beat in the rest of the milk. Cover and let mixture stand for at least one hour. Thoroughly grease a shallow pudding pan with drippings from the roast beef. Heat pan and drippings in the oven. While heating the pan beat the batter hard with a slotted spoon. Pour into the pan which must be hissing hot and bake for 15 minutes in a very hot oven. Reduce heat and bake 20 minutes longer. Cut into squares and serve at once.

Easy Lessons in - AUCTION BRIDGE

New Series by WYNNE FERGUSON

Author of "Ferguson on Auction Bridge"

Copyright 1925 by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 30

One of the charms of auction is the peculiar fact that interesting hands have a habit of coming up at the most unexpected moments. You will be playing along for hours and only normal hands will be dealt and then a puzzling hand will come up, one that invites discussion and a more or less wide difference of opinion. Auction players everywhere love to talk over hands and the so-called "post-mortem" is as much a part of the game as the play and bidding itself. The "unexpected" is really auction's greatest charm and because of the infinite number of hands possible, this unexpected element always will be present.

It really is remarkable that good players, even in the same group or club, differ so radically in their theory of bidding. Such is the case, however, and it is really a tribute to the greatness of auction as a game. The individual element has so far prevailed and as long as it does auction will retain its popularity. To really enjoy a game or competition of any kind the player likes to feel that he is as good as the next one, that he has an even chance, and auction certainly offers that attraction.

Hand No. 1

Hearts — A
Clubs — Q, 9, 7, 6, 4, 3, 2
Diamonds — K, Q, 7, 6
Spades — A

If it were the rubber game and no score, what would you bid with the foregoing hand? The proper bid is one club. It is too unbalanced a hand to justify a no-trump bid, and yet it is too strong to pass. The only other alternative is a bid of one club.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — K, J, 9, 7
Clubs — Q, 10, 9, 6
Diamonds — A, 7, 5
Spades — A, 6

Y / A B / Z

Score, YZ 20, AB 0, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump, A doubled, Y passed and B bid two hearts. Z bid three diamonds, A three hearts, Y four diamonds and all passed. What should A open? This hand is a perfect example of a trump opening. A's proper opening is the ace of diamonds, followed by the seven. He has the other three suits well protected and in each of them he would prefer to have the suit led to him. The high bidding of his opponents indicate that A's partner cannot have a trick in trumps so the trump lead cannot lose and the other element of a proper trump opening is also present.

Hand No. 3

Hearts — Q, J, 8, 7, 4
Clubs — 8, 6
Diamonds — K, 10, 8, 4, 2
Spades — K

Y / A B / Z

Hearts — A, K
Clubs — K, 7, 4
Diamonds — J
Spades — A, J, 9, 8, 6, 4, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade, A passed, Y bid two hearts and B passed. Z bid two spades, A passed, Y bid three diamonds and B passed. What should Z now bid? Y's bid of three diamonds is questionable. After Z's rebid of spades, Y should figure that his singleton king is a valuable asset and that there is a better chance for game in spades than in diamonds. After his bid of three diamonds, however, Z should not hesitate to bid three spades. There is a much better chance for game in spades than in hearts. He is almost certain to get a club opening, just the one he wants, for it is the only suit that hasn't been bid. All in all, the three spade bid seems preferable to [illegible] the only other alter...

Problem No. 15

Hearts — K
Clubs — K, Q, 9
Diamonds — J, 8, 5
Spades — K, 5

Hearts — none
Clubs — J, 8, 7, 6, 5, 3
Diamonds — 7, 3
Spades — J

Y / A B / Z

Hearts — 8, 7, 5, 3, 2
Clubs — none
Diamonds — 10, 6
Spades — 9, 7

In this hand spades were trumps and Z was in the lead. How can he play the hand so that he and his partner can win four of the nine tricks against any defense?

Answer to Problem No. 15

Z should lead the seven of spades, Y winning the trick with the king. Y should now lead the king of clubs. If B trumps with a low spade, Z will overtrump with the nine of spades and lead the deuce of hearts. B must now lose two heart tricks. B's best play at trick two is to trump with the queen of spades. Z must then discard the nine of spades so that B cannot force him in the lead. No matter how B now plays, YZ are bound to win three more tricks. Note that if Z doesn't discard the nine of spades when B plays the queen, YZ will only win three tricks. Suppose Z discards a heart. B should now lead the king and queen of diamonds, the ace of hearts and then his last spade. Z is forced to win this trick with the nine and must now lead the eight of hearts. B should allow him to win this trick. B must now win the next two heart tricks. Played in this way YZ can only win three tricks. The problem is thus noteworthy in that Z must discard a trump in order to avoid the lead and thus gain a trick.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

Solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

C. C. C.—You are peace-loving, even-tempered and kind, with much charm and affection, but you lack initiative and efficiency. You were meant to bring joy and happiness to life for others and those around you. You are inclined to be nervous and dissatisfied at times, always wishing to do something else, and are also prone at times to whine and scold. If you allow your cheerful, better nature to rule you, you may become a tremendous power for good.

You are disposed to go to extremes and should cultivate moderation in everything. You will reach your highest development by being lovable, and thus attracting everything to you. Cultivate patience and never murmur at small things, as this practise will increase with years. Be careful of your throat and lungs.

Important undertakings should be commenced in April or August, and Friday will be found the most successful day of the week.

You were born on Monday.
Your colors are gold and white.

A. A. A.—You are naturally inclined to the bright side of life. You are fond of pleasure and good cheer and can bring joy to yourself and others, if not influenced by your companions. You are diplomatic, and will find the easiest way the one in which the velvet glove is used rather than the mailed fist. Service has been the watchword of your life for many years.

Do not talk too much and guard against vulgar companions. A certain amount of travel is essential to your well-being. You are not careful enough of yourself, your health or your possessions. You frequently mislay your belongings and those of other people.

You were born on Monday. Your color is black, the absence of all color.

Important undertakings should be commenced in May or June, and preferably on Saturday.

S. H.—I do not pretend to read the future, and therefore cannot answer several of your questions.

You are a natural leader and carry this trait to excess at times in dealing with those around you. On the other hand also, you have the faculty of bringing cheer to your companions and of making them happy, as well as yourself. This faculty should be cultivated most.

You are not exceptionally robust but are usually in good health. Avoid worry above all things. You are not careful enough of what you eat in the way of rich food.

Do not be too set in your own opinions or too generous with money and do not allow inconstancy to spoil your fine nature. You are likely to have good judgment, and should follow your own intuitions.

You were born on Sunday.
The day you ask about is past.
Flame and soft blue are your colors.

B. B. B.—You have always had a certain amount of charm for those around you, but have inclined to be somewhat changeable. You have always too, liked the mystic and occult and have lived a somewhat reserved and retired life. You should not give way too much to morbid thoughts. They have an effect on the young life growing up around you.

Seek good cheer and cheerful companions and do not allow disease to gain a hold on you, as medicine is slow to act in your case. Guard against hoarding money.

You are proud and upright and love your home and its surroundings.

You were born on Monday.
Pink is very becoming to you.
You will be most successful in undertakings begun in February and September, and Monday is your best day.

M. Y.—You have much physical power, with creative force and tenacity to a degree. Guard against coarseness and materialism. The way for you to achieve success is rather by cleverness than by force, but you may not always remember this, as your tendency is to get what you want by strong measures. Diplomacy should be your watchword, and the combination should make you a very successful man in time. "The strongest and the weakest people in the world" describes your type quite well.

You are sincerity itself and will be happily married. Remember that honesty is an essential to success of any kind and do not allow materialism or indolence to warp your fine nature. Think carefully of your future, select a path along the line of your own particular talents, and then—follow it.

Yes, you were born on Sunday.
Your colors are blue and green.

B. L.—You are capable of much, but you have not yet achieved your destiny. Attainment in science or business might be yours, even yet, if you would bestir yourself and drive from you the hampering strings of change and uncertainty. And you lack the necessary elements of self-esteem to go ahead with any rapidity. You are careful and methodical in your habits, although inclined to be restless. You talk too much for your own good.

You should guard against association with vulgar and uncouth companions.

You could fill a position of trust, such as that of accountant, cashier or bookkeeper, with success.

Learn self-confidence, sobriety, stick-to-itiveness and self-faith, and attack your work with courage and vim.

You are not prudent in the choice of friends.

You were born on Sunday.
Your colors are tan and buff.

Ex.—Life is just a little uncertain for you. By natural inclination, you are full of joy, and fond of good cheer and pleasure. But you are not making the most of your capacity for good. At times you are whimsical and fickle to the last degree. You will destroy your best talents and advancement by jealousy, and, although you would be a great deal more successful and happy if married, you will not marry young. Your fickle, inconstant nature will prevent you from being happy, perhaps forever, and you are one of those unfortunate individuals who desire only the affection which you cannot have.

You could have a wonderful life, but the task of controlling your own capricious nature will not appeal to you as necessary, and you may live to see your friends fade away one by one under the blight of your tormenting unreliability.

If you marry, choose a December mate. He will best be able to cope with your vagaries.

Black is your keynote in color.

You were born on Thursday. The day of which you enquire, a Wednesday, is one on which to obey the behests of superiors and to engage in hard work.

Eb.—Yours is a peace-loving, gentle nature. Artistic and philanthropic enterprises will appeal strongly to you. You will make an ideal husband, one in whom your wife can have reposeful security and confidence.

Material success will come to you only through hard work-keeping at it without much let-up. But you must learn that you have been endowed with a fine nature. Do not mar it by criticism. Know your own faults and do not expect perfection in others. Reach out a helping hand.

Your surroundings should always be neat, tidy and comfortable, as order and harmony influence you to a great extent.

Chemistry and music have an attraction for you.

Be very careful of what you eat, particularly when you are excited or angry. Avoid quarrels at all times.

You were born on Tuesday.
The day of which you ask, Sunday, is very favorable to new undertakings.
Your colors are orange and grey.

H. J.—You have a strong, creative nature but are inclined at times to forget the feelings and rights of those around you. Unmarried, you will only find success through hard work. When you marry, exercise diplomacy and forget that you want always to have your own way. The velvet glove, rather than the mailed fist, is the secret of success.

You are practical and executive-minded and apt to forget that others are not so keen intellectually as you may be. When angry, you are often cruel. Guard against this.

Your happy expectations will be realized if you learn the art of self control and cultivate the faculty of not seeing little things which annoy.

Have grit, and pluck and good cheer, and you will be happy and make those around you happy.

Do not be everlastingly busy.
You were born on Tuesday.
The day you ask about, Sunday, is one on which you may safely embark on a new enterprise.
Your color is flame in all its moods.

A. R.—The general keynote of your character is change and uncertainty, and you will never attain happiness until you conquer the vacillating element in your character. You lack "stick-to-itiveness" and are inclined to be restless. You have mental and physical force that need to be wisely directed.

You are fond of responsibility but are inclined to be too modest and to lack self-esteem. If happily married, you would make your home a beautiful place. You need a certain amount of travel to keep you fit.

Do not give way to melancholy. Conquer all "blue" feelings, and remember always that you can make a success of your life by attacking everything you do with courage and vim.

Cultivate the society of men.
You were born on Monday.
The day you ask about is past.
Your color is pink—all shades.

J. M.—You are naturally active and strong, but are inclined to wish to lead and sometimes disregard the rights of others. Naturally, you should make a wonderful helpmate, but there are times when you fail to exercise all the sympathy and understanding of your husband that is necessary, because you are too self-centered.

You make an ideal "homekeeper," but resent any direction of your ways, and have to be let alone to follow out your own ideas. You are able to inspire others to good, if you will only remember that you are not always infallible, particularly in your habit of taking dislikes to people without real cause.

Fate has made you a leader, if you make the most of your naturally kind-hearted, sympathetic, magnetic nature.

You were born on Wednesday.
The date you mention is past.
Your colors are all the variations of flame, ranging from orange and yellow to misty blue.

C. A. G.—Yours is a fine character and one of integrity and uprightness. You love your home and like it to be handsomely furnished, but you are not particularly fond of exertion. You should strive constantly for poise, look for the good in people, and learn to control your likes and dislikes, which are very strong at times. Success would never come to you except through exceptional hard work. Monday will always be your best day.

Do not forget your health—it needs care at all times. Do not allow your fondness for your children to mar it. Remedies will be slow to act with you, so do not allow any disease to obtain a hold upon you.

Seek cheerful companionship at all times, and do not try always to lead. Conquer your sensitiveness as much as possible. People do not really mean to hurt your feelings.

You were born on Saturday.
Your colors are red and brown.

A. Y.—The question you ask really sounds the keynote of your nature, which is a nervous dissatisfaction with the thing you are doing, and a restless desire to do something else. You might succeed in the occupation you mention, but you would also make a good nurse. Your present occupation is not suitable for you, but think very carefully before changing. It is quite likely that you will become dissatisfied if you change also.

The thing for you to do is to try and conquer that inborn restlessness of yours, also your tendency to whine and scold. Cultivate patience and silence and in this way you will come to realize your manifest destiny, one of achievement, although perhaps not of a material kind. Marry a man who was born in February or November and never whine at him.

You were born on a Friday.
You vibrate to black, the absence of color.

A. H.—You are attractive, but rather undependable. You are ambitious and talented, particularly in a musical way. Your life should be one of service to those whom you love, but it is unlikely that you will carry this out. Only in this way, however, will you find happiness. It is a question with you, and you are at the age when life may lead two ways, whether you will allow your natural tendency to change and vacillation to rule your future years or whether you will do your duty to those about you.

You should resolve to be mistress of your own destiny and make the most of your original ideas and magnetic qualities. Self control and stability are two qualities that you should practise at all times. Do not worry over things that may never happen.

You were born on Saturday.
Pink in all its shades is your color.

E. T.—To you will not come any great measure of glory or renown and new enterprises will not appeal especially to you, and material success will only come to you through everlastingly plugging away at your job. But you are a conscientious worker and, if you guard your health, will win success. Do not eat rich, highly seasoned foods. Your stomach is not fitted for them.

You have good judgment and people will like you, but you have a tendency toward the mystical that should not be encouraged to any great extent.

You will do best when you remember that action is better than dreaming, criticism is not constructive, expectation, if strong enough, often leads to the realization of an ideal, and those who are most successful reach out and take what they want from life.

You would be best in a city.
At all times, control your temper.
You were born on Tuesday.
The day you enquire about is past.
Your colors are steel and brick.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

I was in a barber chair the other day, when the manicurist asked me what to do to get fat. She said she went away for a Summer vacation for no other reason than to take on flesh. She gained twelve pounds, caught cold and, in a week's time, slipped back to her original weight.

This young woman told me how much she eats to get fat. "In spite of all the food I just stay thin," she cried.

It is natural to suppose that if, to relieve over-weight you should eat less, by increased eating you would surely take on flesh. Unfortunately, this is not the case.

There are other factors than food. The amount of exercise, the activity of the ductless glands and the quantity of oxygen in the blood, are important considerations.

Placid and quiet persons are far more likely to take on flesh than are active ones. Many thin people are nervous, their feet and hands are never still, they fidget and fuss, they are human examples of almost perpetual motion.

The fat producing foods are likewise the energy producing foods. Fat is put on the body by taking in more starch, sugar and fat than is necessary for the immediate needs of the system. The surplus, the excess above the body requirements, is stored away as fat.

Since fat and energy come from identical sorts of foods, you can see that the more energy you waste, the more the surplus will be reduced. Indeed if you run around and fuss and fidget enough, you can easily wipe out the surplus and may, indeed, create a deficit. In the latter event, you will use up all the fat, starch and sugar you eat, and, in addition, there will be a call upon the scanty fat supply which is tucked away somewhere in your body.

That is what happened to the manicurist. The fever she had and her restlessness burned up her little supply of surplus fat. So she is thin as ever, and, if she doesn't control her wasteful use of energy, she will be thinner still.

Most thin persons do not breathe deeply. You cannot be plump and well nourished unless an abundance of oxygen is taken into the lungs. Deep breathing exercises and the formation of the habit of habitual deep breathing are essential to proper nourishment.

Your doctor will advise you about the ductless glands. He may see fit to prescribe something to help them if they require it.

Of course, a proper quantity of well-chosen food is necessary for your well-being. Cream, butter, nuts, starchy fruits and other fat producing dishes will add to your chance of plumpness, provided they agree with your digestion.

Think over what I have said, and see if these suggestions do not apply to your needs.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

WHEN THE TABLES ARE TURNED.

Bobby was so tired when he returned from the pond, he tumbled into the hammock to rest before dinner.

"My," he yawned, "that fellow I caught this time was a peach of a frog. I shut him up in the water bucket to show him to Daddy, before Mamma cooks him."

"So," yelled a shrill voice in Bobby's ear.

Bobby jumped; there on the hammock at his very ear sat the largest green frog he had ever seen. Mr. Frog blinked his great big eyes, waved his front foot and the whole hammock was filled with big green frogs.

They grabbed Bobby's legs and arms and held him fast.

"My! What a fine pair of legs," croaked the large green frog. They are fit for a king's meal."

"Maybe so," sobbed Bobby, "but please let me go, Mr. Green Frog. Don't take me away from Daddy and Mamma. Please let me alone."

But the green frogs paid no attention to Bobby's crying. They wound cattails all around him, then carried him to the pond where he had been all day.

Every time Bobby would squirm, one of the green frogs would pull his leg and laugh.

"You can count yourself lucky we don't carry you up-side down like you did our brother," croaked the large green frog. "I'm sure if you boys were treated the same way you treat us, you wouldn't be so anxious to catch us."

"What a Fine Pair of Legs."

"But I never have harmed you fellows," cried Bobby, struggling to get away.

"Certainly you haven't," croaked Mr. Green Frog. "But you have stolen our brother. How will your Mamma and Daddy feel when they find we have taken you away from them? We'll make a pie out of you."

"Mamma! Mamma!" screamed Bobby, and down he rolled out of the hammock to the ground.

His Mamma came running out, and how she did laugh when Bobby told her about his dream.

"He's the finest green frog I've ever caught," said Bobby, as his Mamma peeked into the bucket. "Frog legs are good, but I'm going to put him back in the pond. Maybe his mamma is crying this very minute for him." Kissing his mamma, Bobby ran to the pond and set Mr. Green Frog down on the grassy bank.

He looked at Bobby, gave a croak of thanks, then plunged into the pond.

"I'm sure, Mamma," Bobby laughed at the dinner table, "I'll never go frog hunting again. I never thought how things would be if the tables were turned. I'll never catch another green frog." Bobby was as good as his word, for he never went frog hunting again.

RADIO ENGINEERS MUST BE CAREFUL

Operator Burned When Eyeglass Touched Live Wire.

Quite recently it was reported in the press that one of the engineers of broadcasting station WIBO was severely injured through coming into contact with a high tension wire during the evening program. The operator's injuries were sustained when the gold frame of his eye glasses came into contact with a live lead. The frame of the glasses fused immediately and the wearer was severely burned by the resulting arc. It was necessary to close down the station temporarily before he could be released. Commenting on this accident in the current Radio Broadcast magazine, Carl Dreher, well-known broadcasting engineer, relates some of the precautions that should be observed by engineers of broadcasting stations.

"This unfortunate occurrence should be a warning to other broadcast operators who have so far escaped" he writes, "Familiarity breeds contempt, and men who handle high tension machinery every day are apt to forget that contact with it at the wrong time may prove fatal. Particularly with the higher powers and voltages which are coming into use in broadcasting, additional precautions are in order. One good trick is to work on the equipment, as far as possible, even when it is shut down, with only the right hand, leaving the left in the hip pocket on that side. The logic of that is the fact that if one is caught, the current will pass down the right side of the body to ground, instead of through the relatively low resistance arm-to-arm path which includes the heart rdgion, the great splanchnic ganglion and other primary nerve centers and organs. "Secondly," Mr. Dreher advises, "Never lay a hand heavily on a portion of a circuit which may be alive, without first flicking it lightly with one finger, which will give you a chance to disengage if there is anything wrong. The same precaution should be used in connecting two wires which may cause a short-circuit. Incidentally, the arc following a short circuit, if the potential difference is not too high, may be blown out with a puff of breath. Thirdly, every station should contain red fibre signs, 'Man working on this circuit—do not close,' or some similar formula, to be attached to open switches when an operator is working on a 'killed' circuit. These tags should be signed, and the rule is that no one but the man who attached the tag may remove it. Fourthly, keep away from the sets when there is a local lightning storm. And finally, all operators should be familiar with first-aid practice and methods of resuscitation, and in the larger stations it is a good thing to have a drill along these lines regularly once a month."

TWO TIE GAMES IN CITY LEAGUE AS TEAMS START SECOND SERIES

St. Andrew's Struck Snag in Progress to Hobberlin Junior Cup.

TIED WITH ST. JAMES'.

Brintons Again Tie Raybestos, While Crescents Swamp De Laval.

There were several surprises in the City League's offering of four games last night and the fans who attended got their fill of thrills and fast, exciting hockey. First, St. Peter's, after scoring one goal in each of their three games, scored an extra goal and it was enough to beat the Raybestos team for the Cathedral team's first win of the series. Then St. Andrew's boys started out like a bunch of dubs and only a return to their usual form in the last five minutes enabled them to pull up even with St. James' in a two-goal tie.

In the senior series the leading Brintons, favored to beat Raybestos after their good showing against De-Laval last week, struck a snag and, although thy had more of the play, were barly able to pull out with a tie score. Then Crescents stepped into the De Laval team and beat them up badly, leading at half time, 4-0, and at full time 5-1.

Altogether it was a most satisfying night's sport, except to the rabid fans of the beaten teams, and it repeated the opening night's result of two tie games, although in only one of the games did the same two teams break even.

St. Peter's 2, Raybestos 1.

St. Peter's juniors shook the one goal jinx that has been pursuing them and scored two against Raybestos last night. Two were enough to win as the Brakemakers scored only one.

First Period.

Having about three fourths of the play, only weak shooting kept St. Peter's from secoring more than one goal in the first period. Play was mostly in the Raybestos end and Wolfe scored the only goal from a scrimmage.

Second Period.

Each team scored once in the second period. The winners scored the first, which was disputed. Kennealey shot and the puck bounced up on top of the net. Bouncing off, it hit a Raybestos player and bounced out. The Brakemakers started to press and Mein made some good stops, until a fast one from Starr's stick fooled him for the last goal of the game. The teams

Raybestos—Goal, Golden; defence, Swanger, Corkery; centre, Starr; wings, Chambers, Graham; subs, White, Williams, Carroll.

St. Peter's—Goal, Mein; defence, Carroll and LeBarr; centre, Richea; wings, Kennealey, Jones.

Referee—Thirnbeck.

Penalties—Graham and Rishea.

St. Andrews 2, St. James 2.

The second game was full of thrills. St. Andrews simply could not get going until late in the second period and managed to tie the game just before the final gong rang. The first period had hardly got going when Calladine (St. James) went down the ice, shot from outside the defence, picked up the rebound and slammed the puck past Gillespie for the first counter. Both sides missed many chances through not playing combination. Heal (St. James) saved from a mix up in front of the St. Andrew's goal. With about five minutes to go, St. Andrews) scored their first counter making repeated efforts to pull the game out of the fire. Hall (St. Andrews) coresd their first counter from a scrimmage. With only 3 minutes left, the puck was shot over the boards. Time was still going on and it looked liked a sure victory for St. James. The puck turned up, however, and Marshall obtained possion, bringing it down the wing, passing it to Nixon who scored, sewing up the game.

The line ups were as follows:

St. Andrews—Goal, Gilespie; defence, Sowden and Marshall, centre, Hall; wings, Allen and Nixon; subs, Robertson, Roberts, Mowry, Jennings.

St. James—Goal, Payne; defence, Ashmore, Calladine; centre, Heal; wings, Cribbs, Austin; subs, Moffat, Seabrook, Lockhart, Kitchen.

Refere—Thirnbeck.

Raybestos 2, Brintons 2.

Raybestos and Brintons repeated their performance of the opening game by playing at tie game, the score being 2-2. The second period with both teams fighting to break the tie, was specially lively.

First Period.

Brintons had most of the play but Raybestos outscored them 2-1 in the first half. The Carpet making forwards outfooted the Brakemakers but the latter shot better and handled the puck better. The game had hardly sarted when A. Williams scooped in a shot on a pass from Batten. The Brintons then pressed and a rush by McMartin counted when he gave Wes White a pass in front of the net. Then Batten took a pass from the corner and shot through a maze of sticks and legs to beat LeBarr for the last goal of the period.

Second Period.

Hardly had play started when Cripps evened the count for the Brintons and from then on play ranged from end to end. Danny White was chased for a cross check and Le Barr came out to discuss the matter with the referee. Cox invited him to take a rest too, and Jimmy McMartin went in goal. He handled his only shot with ease. After that Butcher served a penalty and then Coursey got one because he forgot to send Ike Batten off when he relieved him, leaving seven men on the team for a minute. Coursey had hardly returned when he was checked by McMartin and the two started to use their fists and sticks. They were chased for the rest of the game. The teams:

Brintons—Goal, LeBarr; defence, Lackey and McMartin; centre, Rose; wings, Cripps and King; subs, D. White, W. White and Whibbs.

Raybestos— Goal, LeGras; defence, Helson and Coursey; centre, Batten; wings, A. Williams and Butcher; subs, C. Williams, Thornton, Wright.

Referee—Cox.

Goals— Williams, Batten, W. White, Cripps.

Penalties—A. Williams, Butcher, Coursey 2, Rose D., White, LeBarr, McMartin.

Crescent 5, De Laval 1.

Crescents struck their proper stride in the last game of the City League schedule last night and swamped the De Laval team by the score of 5-1, leading at half time 4-0. The losers were outclassed from start to finish and their speedy forward line of McDougall, Dundas, and Williams, usually so effective, was completely baffled. Every player on the Crescent team played well, both offensively and defensively, while Hall in goal turned aside a great many shots and foiled some attacks that looked sure to count.

First Period.

The Crescents started the attack from the first gong and the game was not far advanced when Mahood scored on a pass from Maudsley. A moment later Mahood supplied the pass for Milloy to score, and then Collins went down and collected a tally. Mahood made his tally two when he slammed in a rebound from Rishea's shot that hit high on the end of the rink. The teams skated off with the count 4-0, and the period had been all Crescents.

Second Period.

The Separator boys gave their supporters a little encouragements at the start of the second period, especially when Williams shoved a hot one past Hall to replace the goose-egg on the score sheet. The lead was soon restored to four, however, when Maudsley scooped one in which fooled Ward completely. Both teams attacked furiously from then on but could not bulge the twine, although both goal keepers were called on to make some good stops.

Crescents—Goal, Hall; defence, Holland and McDougall; centre, Mahood; wings, Maudsley and Milloy; subs, Rishea, Jones and Collins.

De Laval—Goal, Ward; defence, Marchen and Ashmore; centre, Williams; wings, Dundas and McDougall; subs, Kingdon, Smith and Evans.

Referee—Cox.

Goals—Mahood 2, Maudsley 2, Collins, Williams.

Penalties—Rishea, Mahood, Jones.

BOWLING with the CHAMPION
Jimmy Smith

THE 1-3 POCKET.

Aim for the 1-3 pocket. That's the "groove" between the head pin and the first one in line on the right. A perfect hit makes a strike almost a certainty.

Seldom is a strike made when the head pin is missed. But many a strike is chalked up when the ball hits the head pin full, a hit that is usually considered a possible split.

At any event hit the head pin. That's the most important thing. It's preferable to hit the head pin full rather than miss it entirely. You've at least got a chance for a strike.

Practice shooting for the "groove." A bowler likes his strikes in the same way a ball player does his hits. Like all things, it takes practice. But keep trying and be patient. Just keep everlasting shooting for the 1-3 pocket until you get so you can hit it pretty consistently.

Remember, at the same time, not to endeavor to plough into the wood with all the speed you can muster. A half-speed ball will suffice; in fact, the beginner will perhaps make better headway by using a slow ball, especially while trying to master the 1-3 pocket shot.

NEWARK RINK NEXT.

$2,000,000 Arena Project is Announced.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—The successful debut of hockey at the New Madison Square Garden has stimulated interest in other cities in this district. Only recently Jersey City announced its intention of building a costly sport arena, and now the Inter-State Recreation, Inc., of Newark, N.J., has announced its intention of building an arena costing nearly $2,000,000.

The Newark arena will occupy an entire block, it is announced, and will have two skating rinks. Hockey will be featured. It will be accessible from New York in twenty-four minutes, and will seat 12,000 people.

Major A. P. Simmonds, minister sportsman of this city, took a prominent part in forming the final decision to undertake the construction of the Newark arena, and associated with him are Newton A. K. Bugbee, State Controller, and Platt Adams. Both are members of the New Jersey Boxing Commission.

PRO LEAGUE RUMOR CAUSING NO ALARM

O.H.A. Moguls Have No Fear of Proposed Minor Circuit.

KINGSTON, Jan. 28.—(Special).—That the amateur moguls are not a bit alarmed over the report that has gained prominence recently to the effect that a number of Western Ontario hockey clubs contemplate forming a sort of second "pro" league next season, was the opinion expressed by James T. Sutherland, ex-President of the O. H. A., local authority on hockey and known as "the father of hockey" in Kingston.

"Ontario is being well served by its amateur hockey clubs," says Mr. Sutherland, "and there is not a thing that the second-grade "pro" promoters can do to improve upon the wonderful spirit of competition that exists throughout the Province. The spirit of commercialism which the promoters of the reported new league are banking on will, in my opinion, be a wash-out. However, let them go to it and see if history will not repeat itself. Personally, I would welcome the advent of the new venture, but because the quicker the enterprise gets started, the quicker it will be wound up.

"The second-rate "pro" proposition is not a new idea by any means," added Mr. Sutherland. "Some years ago the league composed of teams from Peterboro, Trenton, Port Hope and some other places endeavored to function, with the result that the promoters dropped a barrel of money and dozens of bright, young Canadians woke up one morning to find that their amateur standing had disappeared during the night, and that they were out of all amateur sport for life."

CHICAGO SPEED SKATER GAINED

O'Neil Farrell Tied For First Place With Charles Gorman.

80 POINTS EACH.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. — Canadian Press. — Neil Farrell of Chicago and Chas. Gorman of Saint John, with 80 points each, were tied for first place in the world's skating championship meet at Lilly Lake, at the close of the second of the three days racing here yesterday. Farrell's showing was the feature of the day. The sensational youngster, skating for his first year in senior company, closed the point difference between himself and the Saint John boy by winning the half and three-quarter mile events while the best that Gorman could do was make second in the three-quarters. Duke Donovan of Endicott City, N. Y., won the two mile race with Willie Logan, Saint John, a close second, and Clas Thunberg of Finland, third. The ten points he got in the two mile were the only ones the Finn who won the Glympics in 1924, has gathered so far in the meet.

During the early part of the programme the judges announced that Gorman had been awarded first place in the mile skated on Tuesday, and protested after Donovan, who did not qualify for the final, covered the race and crossed the line first.

Demanded Ruling.

It had been announced that the judges would make their decision known before Wednesday's racing began, but no statement had been made public when the first heat in the senior half mile was skated.

When the starters in the second heat were called to the line, Gorman did not take his place, refusing to leave the dressing room until a decision had been given. K. J. Macrea, a timer, held up the start of the heat, insisting that the expected ruling should be made known. This was not done, and there was a delay of almost half an hour, when it was decided to postpone the second heat until the other heats had been skated. When the other trial heats had been completed the starters in the second were again called to the line, and once more Gorman failed to appear. It was reported among the officials that the judges and the referee had ruled that Donovan should be disqualified, and the final of the mile skated over again; Gorman refused to take the ice until Referee Harry Noah should notify him officially. Mr. Noah went to the dressing room and was there for some tife. Finally Gorman appeared on the ice. Mr. Noah said that in view of the fact that Reed, who had placed in the semi-final in which the difficulty arose, refused to skate again, it had been decided to award first place to Gorman, with Logan second, and Farrell third.

PEACOCK RINK FROM OSHAWA WON PETERBORO' TROPHY FROM KEENE

First Competition Decided in Bonspiel—Visitors Lose Waddell Cup Test.

SOME OF SCORES.

Charlie Peacock's Oshawa rink carried off the Peterboro Cup, prize of many a bonspiel, after eliminating Bob Nelson and his companions of the Keene club by 18 shots to 9 last night. The Otonabee curlers made a determined bid to reach the final round, turning back Rod Grant and Jack Sedgewick of Peterboro, and by way of varying their style turned the tee over to J. A. Drummond for the bout with the Oshawa quartette, which included Dr. F. L. Henry, one of the regular visitors to Peterboro's tournament. The Otonabee men were apparently not on edge in the final, and their hopes of once more decorating their club with the historic Peterboro Cup faded as the game progressed. The scores were as follows:

WADDELL CUP TEST

The bonspiel was accelerated by the Peterboro curlers' victory over the twelve rinks representing the visitors by the aggregate score of 103 to 95 for the Waddell Cup. The playoff by the local rinks in the bonspiel was deferred indefinitely and the draw was concentrated on the Morrow and Matthews-Blackwell trophies.

The Waddell Cup preliminary games resulted as follows:

The absence of Angus McIntosh was generally regretted by the curlers to whom the veteran icemaker was an outstanding personality at the Charlotte Street Rink for many years. He was the official umpire of the annual open tournament, and his decisions were never questioned. And on the side of personal service his attetion to the visiting curler was always prompt, efficient and unfailingly cheerful.

Bonspiel a Success.

With keen ice and ideal curling weather, this year's bonspiel provided the best test of curling technique and skill for some seasons. There were 42 rinks entered in the events, a number that is lower than other years solely because of Tankard play in the districts from which Peterborough draws many rinks. Locust Hill, for instance, is absent this year, though an old reliable at the Peterborough 'spiel.

CENTRAL LEADS SCHOOL LEAGUE

Six Public School Teams Appear Evenly Matched.

The Public School Hockey League is supplying the boys with splendidly organized hockey. Each of the six schools has a team, and, in the opinion of President Ronald Deyell, the youngsters are playing even better hockey than last season. The boys have got the right idea too, and are playing cleaner hockey than ever before.

Every Saturday the teams play two games at the Mark Street Rink and one at the Cognawaga ice sheet.

In the first game at the Cog's palisade, Prince of Wales trimmed the fast King Edward six 4-2, but the victory was only gained after overtime play. At Mark Street the same morning Central and Queen Alexandra played a ding-dong battle, Central finally winning 8-7. The teams scored in turn throughout, and at half-time it stood 3-3, and Central notched the winning counter just as the gong sounded. It was a tidy argument, and the players went the full sixty minutes without a penalty, a real proof of hot young tempers controlled. The heavier Queen Mary boys downed the East City School 3-0.

At the South-End rink last Saturday, King Edward won over last year's Queen Mary champions, 4 to 0, while over at Mark Street, Prince of Wales lost 3-0 to the Central School boys. In the second game, Queen Alexandra, after leading 3-0 at half-time, lost out 5-3 to King George. The King George outfit showed vast improvement in the second half, and swept down on their opponents in fine style.

The teams are all evenly matched and so far it appears any team may win the honors. Queen Alexandra has had a little hard luck in their games, but if practising will bring victory, they will sure win the next game.

Team standings:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Central	2	0	100
King Edward	1	1	50
Queen Mary	1	1	50
King George	1	1	50
Prince of Wales	1	1	50
Queen Alexandra	0	2	00

Sportsmanship Cup

The Kennedy Cup for Sportsmanship is on exhibition in H. G. Fitzgerald's window and is a very handsome trophy and well worth winning. A spectator at the League games indulges in a bit of mild speculation between periods as to who will be the winner and one can't help feeling that the judges have a hard task ahead as the District League has done more for hockey in this vicinity than anything else and each year shows a marked improvement in play and a great team spirit. Thanks to the league and those who have stood with it, hockey has "come back" in Lakefield.

BASKETBALL
By THE CAPTAIN

NO. 14—POSITION ON THE TAP-OFF

No rule can be hard and fast in its regard to athletics but the laws laid down in basket-ball are at least as iron-clad, if not more so, than in any other sport. For that reason they differ little for the individual.

Of course, there are slight changes that fit each person better, but as a general thing stand by the set style of play. You'll profit if you only remember that.

I've mentioned at different times pointers in the various positions, but I haven't yet given the proper lineup for a tap-off. It's much more important than the average person realizes.

Forwards, guards and the center many times place themselves haphazardly for the toss-up. There's where they're wrong, for there's a groove into which each should fit.

A forward should stand in such a position that straight ahead he will see the center and, further on, his guard. If you play center face your opponent and time your upward swing with that of the referee's arm and the ball.

If you're playing guard stay a short step behind your opponent, but don't lag there once the ball is put in play. Face in such a position that you can watch your man if necessary, as well as the forward on your side of the court. Don't forget that you are guarding one man in particular but must be on the alert to stop either the opposing center or forward if they should elude your teammates and dash down the floor.

In the accompanying drawing one team is represented wearing black jerseys, the other light. Consider the team in black jerseys as your team. Study the illustration carefully.

Note the style of play as outlined. It isn't necessary to follow the standard too religiously but always assume the same position on every play. That way you won't tip off your opponent what you intend to do.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL RULES PROPOSED

Unified Code For L. O. S. A. is Drafted.

TORONTO, Jan. 27 — Girls all over Ontario will be interested to know what the softball rules will be for this year. The new Ladies' Ontario Softball Association will be a big boost to the game. A committee appointed by this body has gone over the exceptions to the rules adopted by the National and American Baseball Leagues, which are the standard for all hardball games and the foundation of the softball regulations.

The exceptions necessary from hardball have been drafted.

Changes Suggested

Some minor changes may yet be made, but in the main the rules will be as follows:

1—The rules of regulation baseball as officially adopted by the National and American leagues annually shall govern the game of softball, except as follows:

2—The smooth-seam ball, 12 in. cork centre, not to exceed 2 in., shall be used.

3—Fair ball governed by where it rolls in the infield.

4—Any four tip caught out

5—Batter hit by pitched ball not swung at, counts dead ball.

6—Third strike must be caught (Same as hard ball rule).

7—Leaving base too soon, runner is out.

8—Bat shall not exceed 33 in. and not more than 2 in. diameter at its largest point. Same to be of wood. Handle may be taped for the purpose of suitable grip.

9—No spike shoes or any other attachment which will assist the player in any way shall be used.

10—The pitcher must deliver the ball from below the hip, parallel with the body and both feet on the rubber. Only one step may be taken in a delivery.

11—The bases shall be 45 feet apart, and the pitching distance 35 feet.

Any suggestions from any recognized teams or leagues throughout Ontario will be welcomed by the committee ten days prior to the general meeting of March 6th, when it is hoped that the final recommendation made by the committee will be passed and approved of by the general meeting.

The changes from the softball rules at present in vogue are:

The out-seam ball gives way to the smooth seam, a foul tip is out, the base lines set at 45 feet, and the pitching distance to 33 feet.

The NUT Cracker
By JOE WILLIAMS

SO THIS IS TURKEY.

Sensational news from Turkey is that the great unwashed sheiks are going in for marimony and divorce on a standardized, simplified basis and no foolin' areund.

From now on matrimony in Turkey will mean "meet the little woman," just as it does in Dubuque, Cut Here—Ia.; Lanternjaw, Minn., and Tulsa, Okla.

Under the new wild game regulations a turbaned soap-evader must confine his interests, bank roll, alibis, halitosis and golf orations to one wife.

It's going to be all O. K. to have one wife in a thousand, but having a thousand is out, like the third strike, or a pair of suspenders in a sorority house.

Civilization is spreading quicker than Harry Greb's smeller. . . . Despite the Turks a set of shop-worn divorce laws is almost as comical as initiating a Chicago gunman in the Boy Scouts.

Under the English prize ring rules the Turks could have as many wives as they wanted. . . . But under the modern Queensberry system they will be able to get away from as many as they want to.

This makes it six of one and half a dozen of the other, which is the Turk equivalent to not being married at all.

Turk girls are besieging village justices for divorces in all the fashionable spring shades and sizes. . . . They don't mind being lonely if they can be different.

MAROONS LOSE IN OVERTIME

Pittsburgh Pirates Broke Tie 48 Seconds After Period Started.

SCORE WAS 2-1.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Montreal Maroons in a scheduled engagement of the National Hockey League here last evening by the score of 2 to 1. The game was replete with rough play, particularly in the first period. The teams were deadlocked in the initial session, and similarly at the end of the middle period, when each registered one counter. Pittsburgh scored the winning goal in the first overtime period, after the third session had also gone scoreless.

MOVIGRAPHS

OLD SOUTH SEAS NOBILITY PORTRAYED IN "MOANA."

By Jack Jungmeyer.

NEW YORK, January 28.—When "Moana of the South Seas" comes to your town, put aside all other engagements and see it. See and treasure in memory the morning glow of the simple, poetic love and family relations of Moana, the Polynesian hero youth.

In recording "Moana," Robert J. and Frances Flaherty lived for two years on Savaii Island in British Samoa.

The esprit and nobility of the old Polynesians has been captured with idyllic beauty, dignity and simple drama; with photography that sparkles and with a happy co-operation of natives expressing full confidence and delight in the portrayal of their intimate existence. And handsomer people have never graced the screen than these lovers of Savaii and their folk.

This is a picture for those who can appreciate sheer beauty, without contrived thrills or cheap entertainments. A picture which would cast pearls before swine or any beholder who might smirk or giggle at the regal nudity of these splendid South Sea figures, portraying life in a land where clothes are not the gauge of morality.

BOXED BURLIE.

Corporal Izzy Schwartz, of New York, who fought Alex. Burlie in Toronto on Monday night. Schwartz is rated by Tex Rickard as the fourth best flyweight in the United States.

TORONTO "POLAR BEARS"

Quite a sensation was created at Sunnyside Beach Sunday, when a party of Toronto "fish," including George Young, Canadian champion, at right, and Art McPhee, at left, appeared on the beach in regulation swimming garb, and after doing some acrobat stunts in the snow and sand, plowed through twenty feet of broken ice and plunged into the lake.

None of the daring but foolhardy experts seemed to be any the worse for their novel experience, and Young (who stayed in the water longer than any of his companions) declared that he would make it a regular part of his training.

BOTH OUTFITS NEED A VICTORY IN SENIOR TILT

Much at Stake When Parkdale and Peterboro Meet.

ICE WILL BE FAST.

Ideal Conditions For Battle Between Senior Teams.

With Parkdale facing virtual elimination from the race, in the event of a loss, to-morrow' senior fixture at the Brock street rink should be an epic struggle. The Paddlers can ot afford to lose another decision while at the same time a defeat for the Petes would leave the home talent in a position where they would be fighting with their backs to the wall. Both outfits need the victory and with so much at stake there should not be a dull moment from the first face off. The ice conditions will be at their best and there will be a record crowd out for the battle. The Parkdale crowd will include Collett, Lount, Sullivan, Jeffrey, Morris, Cole and Campbell. The Peterboro lineup will be the same as in the Hamilton game, Rose's bad knee not having yet returned to normal.

COUNCIL PLANS TO BUILD BARN

Morning Session Devoted To Discussion of House of Refuge.

"RUN TOO CHEAP."

After a discussion which occupied the entire morning session a motion proposed by H. B. Parker and seconded by Robert Scott, to the effect that the Council sanction the building of a barn of a certain type with a size of 35' x 65' on the farm which forms a part of the property of the house of Refuge the board of Management being given authority to carry it into effect, was passed by a small majority.

In the opening moments of the discussion J Scott suggested renting the farm. J. F. Breckenridge demurred, saying that there had been several offers made last year but none of them had been for a satisfactory amount. He said that the crop had amounted to much more than the price which could be secured by renting the property. He also questioned the superintendent's ability to manage both the farm and the house without securing additional help.

John Miles, superintendent of the House of Refuge, said that there was a greater need of help in the absence of a barn than there would be if there was some building in which proper storage space might be secured. J. C. Strickland maintained that the superintendent could not possibly give attention to the farm and garden as well as to the requirements of the house. Mr. Maise declared that it was one man's job to keep things in order around the house without the added responsibility of doing the farm work. W. H. Montgomery told of the difficulty of trying to keep laborers on the farm and on the confusion which would result by the changing of the men from time to time. Mr. Maise in reply stated that that was a problem with which all farmers were forced to contend. H. B. Rye said that in his opinion they were trying to run the farm on too cheap a scale. Mr. Strickland concurred.

A warm debate then ensued as to whether or not the council was vested in authority to deal with the matter. Some contended that the Board of Management should administer at its discretion. Eventually the council by eight votes decided to sanction the constuction of the barn on the premises.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

P. L. Allison Elected President of Queen Mary Branch.

An open meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association was held in the kindergarten room on Tuesday evening, when annual reports were presented by the secretary, Mrs. H. S. Huffman, and the treasurer, Mrs. D. Cameron. Election of officers took place, with the following as the personnel for the new year: President—Mr. P. L. Allison; 1st vice-president, Mr. George Wagar; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. G. Shiner; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. C. R. Banks; 4th vice-president, Mrs. W. T. Wilson; secretary, Mr. M. N. Clark; treasurer, Mrs. D. Cameron; convenors of committees: Programme, Mrs. C. Willison; Refreshments, Mrs. S. Worstencroft, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Skinner; Visiting and Relief, Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge.

A programme was then given, including pianoforte selections by Miss M. Flowers and Tom Allen, a violin solo by Grant Breckenridge, and an address, entitled "Our Gift to the New Day," by Rev J. D. Patterson. The service of light refreshments concluded the evening's programme.

The normal beat of the human pulse is seventy-two per minute, although speeds of 175 and even 180 have been recorded.

SKI AND SNOWSHOE CLUB NOTES

The weekly outing of the Peterboro Ski and Snowshoe Club held last evening, proved to be a big success. The weather was ideal and the field committee made a perfect choice when they chose Rye's Hill on Monaghan Road. Leaving the Y.W.C.A., the party journeyed to the hill by way of Charlotte Street and Monaghan Road, where the "thrill seekers" enjoyed themselves in coasting and jumping, mingled with a good many spills until 10 o'clock, when they wended their way to the Club House, where ski-ing gave way to dancing and games, followed by refreshments.

Next Wednesday night if the weather permits, there will be another hike, and a larger crowd than ever is expected to turn out. Same jolly time as usual is assured.

The field committee have inspected the numerous hills surrounding the city, and have picked Green Hill, on Sherbrooke Street, west of the Highway, as the most favorable hill on which to build a jump. The hill is fairly steep and a good jump could be erected at a small cost. It is but a short distance from the city and can be reached by walking in 10 or 15 minutes' time.

At the next general meeting, which will be held on Monday night, the question of erecting the jump will be threshed out, and it is most likely, no matter where it is built, the members will be doing their stuff on it before the end of next week.

BILLY EVANS Says:

Because Red Grange, Ernie Nevers and a few college grid stars decided to turn professional before graduating, college reformers have been deploring the football status in our institutions of learning.

However, there are a few optimists among the college presidents and professors. One of them is President John M. Thomas of Rutgers. His remarks are refreshing coming at this particular time.

"I can see nothing radically wrong with football as it now exists," says the Rutgers prexy.

"I have confidence in the ability and the character of the men in charge of athletics in our colleges.

"Taking them as a whole they are sincerely devoted to the building of sound manhood in the American youth. All of them understand perfectly that scholarship comes first.

"Professional football means nothing to the college game. The hysteria over the pro brand of sport will soon die out, as football is a college sport."

There is nothing the matter with football despite the efforts of the pessimistic reformers to make it seem the game has become so big that it is a menace to college life.

FOOTBALL ALL RIGHT

Perhaps no one player has done so much to create the present confusion in football circles as Red Grange.

A considerable amount of the trouble has been caused by Grange being misquoted. In a recent interview he commented on this unpleasant feature of his professional football experience.

It seems much copy of a sensational nature, based in no way on writers because they believed it was good reading.

In this connection I recently received a very interesting letter from L. M. Tobin who disseminates to Illinois, the world interesting facts about the athletes and their doings at the University of Illinois.

No one outside of Coach Zuppke knows Grange better than Tobin. No one has written more good copy about the same Grange than Tobin. As a matter of fact, Tobin did as much to mke Grange a national figure in football as did Coach Zuppke.

* * *

During his freshman years at Illinois, when no one knew a thing about Red Grange, Tobin started to exploit him. What he said was based on fact and Grange made good on all Tobin's predictions.

STATUS OF GRANGE.

Recently there appeared a story in the press that Red Grange's famous 77 sweater had been removed from the trophy room at Illinois, and was being kicked around the locker room, that his fraternity brothers had turned his picture to the wall and much more guff of a like nature.

"The stories that have been carried about Grange's jersey are most absurd," says Tobin.

"The truth of the matter honestly is that some enthusiast suggested that the famous 77 jersey worn by him in his final game be preserved forever in the Illinois trophy room.

"The matter was not taken seriously enough by the athletic council to even receive the slightest consideration.

"Grange was given his football outfit like all other seniors on the team after their final game. The story that it was kicked around the locker room as related by an eastern writer is pure bunk. It has been in Grange's possesion since the close of the Ohio State game."

* * *

Grange, according to Tobin, has always been and still is the idol of the alumni and undergraduates of

PENNANT WOE.

Winning a major league pennant carries with it plenty of woe.

Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington club, champions of the American League, is already experiencing some of it.

According to wire reports, Manager Harris is still among those unsigned. Likewise several of the star players are not satisfied with the terms offered.

Winning a pennant is all very fine but there is a reaction that makes it rather costly from several angles.

When a club finishes first, it has nothing to shoot at. It must repeat to satisfy fandom. Finishing in any other position you always have one or more positions to shoot at to better your previous showing.

The fans quit much quicker on a championship club that suddenly goes to pieces than a team that isn't going anywhere. The case of the New York Yanks of last season is a proof of it.

The question of finances often has something to do with a club's showing. A dissatisfied player seldom gives his best, for he lacks the winning spirit.

ANNUAL HOLDOUTS.

Back in 1912 the Boston Red Sox then presided over by Jimmy McAleer, won the American League pennant and the world series from the New York Giants.

In those days salaries had not reached the big figures that the stars now draw. As I recall it, Jimmy McAleer told me that the salary list of his club was around $100,000 in 1912.

After winning the world championship, players who had been easy to sign the year previous were the most determined sort of holdouts.

It cost him something like $200,000 to sign the club up for the season of 1913. That was quite an increase.

As is often the case, the world champs of 1912 didn't do so well in 1913. The attendance fell of considerable and the club didn't make any money.

"When I signed the team up for 1913 all the boys had as their talking point the money we made the previous year. However, none suggested taking a cut in 1914 on the theory we didn't make any money in 1913," laughingly explained Jimmy.

No sir! This thing of winning a big league pennant isn't all that it is cracked up to be. If in doubt, interview club presidents that have won one or more.

WINTER AFFAIR

The holdout proposition is largely a winter affair. When reporting time rolls around a majority of the athletes lose the determination to retire unless their terms are granted.

It is much easier to sign up any one connected with basebal just before training time or the opening of the season than it is with the snow on the ground.

Incidentally the major leagues have tightened up the strings by refusing to let a player report for spring training who has failed to sign.

In the old days they used to drop in at the training camps and talk it over at the club's expense. It is now taboo.

A ball player is worth all he can get. If holding out enables him to in any way increase his compensation he has profited thereby. That's that.

LUNCHEON FOR TEAMS.

Social Hour After Campbellford Game.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 28.—After their annual hockey match here Tuesday night the Hydro employees of Campbellford and Belleville proceeded to the parish hall, where the visitors were entertained to a dainty luncheon provided by the ladies of the parish, followed by a musical programme.

G. A. Ironsides was chairman, with R. T. Cowell leading the community singing and Leonard's orchestra supplying the music.

Short speeches were delivered by L. C. Richardson, manager of the local team, L. Shillinglaw, W. J. Smith and the Rev. G. C. Clark, of town, A. Leslie and H. C. McIllwrath, of Belleville.

H. Leonard rendered a solo and Henderson and Leonard gave a banjo selection.

The evening closed with God Save the King and everyone went home very well pleased with the affairs of the evening.

AT THE CAPITOL

FAMOUS BEAUTY HAS PROMINENT PART IN "THE YANKEE SENOR"

Harrison Fisher Model, Appearing With Tom Mix, Called America's Crowning Beauty.

Was Harrison Fisher, famous artist, right when he said that Kathryn Hill was the most beautiful woman in the United States?

Thousands of Canadian women will have an opportunity to settle this question to their entire satisfaction when they see Miss Hill on the silver sheet in "The Yankee Senor," to be shown today at the Capitol Theatre. This is a William Fox super-picture featuring Tom Mix.

It is said that Miss Hill has been photographer more than any other woman in New York.

In the Tom Mix photoplay, Miss Hill is the niece of Miss Abigail Mayne, an elderly spinster who loves Boston, but detests the due of the sprawling West. Misjudging the hero, Miss Hill leaves to return to New England—and this clears the way for petite Olive Borden, who wins a wholesome love and mammoth Spanish hacienda.

CONSERVATIVES ARE READY FOR A VOTE

Preparing To Force Division On Amendment By Meighen.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press)—Conservatives are preparing to force a division on the amendment moved by Right. Hon. Arthur Meighen which is now before the House.

Following a lengthy caucus of the Conservative party this morning, it was definitely announced that insofar as the opposition was concerned, the debate on the Meighen amendment is completed except for the speech of Hon. J. W. Edwards when the house opens this afternoon.

The Conservatives are prepared, it is stated, to have a vote on the Meighen amendment either this afternoon or this evening. A further amendment to the address will probably be moved by the opposition after the vote on the present one has been taken.

The aatitude of the Conservatives, it is intimated, is that, in the interests of the country, there is nothing to be gained by prolonging the debate on the amendment.

A large number of Liberals and Progressives are still on the speaking list.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING

Progress in Every Field Reported—Splendid Financial Gains.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian church was held last night, when the different societies presented their reports and without exception reported progress in every department.

The church is in good shape financially, having no liabilities of any kind against it, and it was predicted that this year promised to be the best in its history.

During the past year a sum of $3,803 was expended for missionary purposes. The open and envelope collections for the year amounted to $8,674.27. After all liabilities had been met there remained a cash balance of $530.25, which was carried forward to this year.

PRESENTATION AT GILMOUR CHURCH

J. A. McGregor Retires From Office of Treasurer—Annual Meeting.

At a largely attended annual business meeting held last night in the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, J. A. McGregor who has retired form the office of treasurer, on account of failing health, was presented with a purse of money and an address. Mr. W. G. Telford made the presentation and Mr. A. B. Mann, the church clerk, read the following address:

We, the members of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, have great pleasure in presenting you, Mr. J. A. McGregor, with this purse as a token of esteem for yourself on the occasion of your resignation as treasurer of the above church.

You have held this position with credit to yourself for about 17 years, and we are deeply conscious of the great service you have thus rendered to the church. We feel that this slight acknowledgment is but a poor return for those years of responsible service you have thus given.

The best reward you can have is the inner consciousness of duty well done.

Although you are laying down your present task we hope to have you going out and coming in amongst us for many years to come; and we trust that your health may so improve that you may have years of usefulness in other directions.

In the discharge of your duties you were always civil and obliging, and ever manifested a true Christian spirit. May the good Lord reward you with returning health and with true prosperity here on earth and in eternity may He grant you a place in His Everlasting Kingdom. Signed:

T. H. GRAHAM,
W. G. TELFORD,
JAMES YOUNG,
C. E. MOORE.

Reports presented by the various departments of church activity showed all to be in a flourishing condition and indicated progress in the church life generally.

"YE OLDEN TIME" CONCERT

(By Jeannette)

A very interesting and out of the ordinary concert was presented last evening in the hall of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, in the Golden Wedding Celebration of John and Mary Gray, the programme being a presentation of songs of "Ye Olden Time" in old-fashioned costumes. Given in aid of the Immaculate Conception Church, East City, the entertainment was under the capable direction of Mrs. F. A. Hodgson and Miss Margaret McCabe, both of whom deserve a great deal of credit for the excellent nature of the programme presented. Far from being too long, as is usually the case with amateur performances, it was really too short and the audience went away wishing for more of the old-time dances and songs. The selection of these was exceptionally good and the whole atmosphere of the entertainment recreated in pleasing fashion one of the old-time gatherings of long ago, the occasion being the anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Gray, when their friends came to pay them a visit and sing for them the music of other days.

Preceding the rise of the curtain, an overture was played, with Mrs. Hodgson at the piano, and Messrs. F. Clarke and P. Loescher playing banjos. Accompaniments for the entire programme were played by Mrs. Hodgson and Miss McCabe.

The old-fashioned costumes of those taking part added much to the quaint charm of the affair. With careful curls, fichus, panniers and hooped skirts, the ladies were attired, the men appearing in long-tailed coats, high collars and stiff stocks. The opening chorus by the ensemble was an arrangement of "Cousin Jedediah," and demonstrated to excellent advantage the care taken in training the massed voices, which were sweet and tuneful in the extreme. The atmosphere of jolly good humour which pervaded the piece from beginning to end was apparent in the work of the choruses, which went with a bright swing.

To Mr. and Mrs. Gray, the celebrants, dressed in their best, with white wigs and a little flower-girl (Grace White) in attendance, an address, the composition of Mrs. Hodgson, was read by Miss Lillian Simons. The parts of Mr. and Mrs. Gray were taken respectively by Mr. A. Everitt and Mrs. J. Dwyer.

Then their visiting friends proceeded to entertain themselves and the audience with some old-time songs that received enthusiastic encores in every instance. Cousin Jedediah and his sweetheart Ruth (Mr. Ed. Leonard and Miss Stella Brady) sang a very catchy duet, in "Dost Thou Love Me, Sister Ruth," with a whimsical encore in "Reuben and Rachael." This duet was particularly lively and interesting.

Mr. T. Stazicker's melodious, soft tones were as fascinating as usual in a rendition of "When You and I were Young, Maggie," addressed to Mrs. A. A. Perrin, and Mr. A. Everitt's fine voice was heard to splendid advantage in "The Old Rustic Bridge by the Stream," with a choral quartette composed of Messrs. J. Fitzpatrick, E. Leonard and H. Niven. In the encores which followed this selection, Mr. Leonard lir l the solo in "The Grandfather's Clock," and Mr. Fitzpatrick in "Darling Nelly Gray."

Mrs. J. Dwyer sang, with much expression, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," and Miss L. Simons gave two recitations in fine style, "The Nine Suitors" and an encore, "Rory O'More."

"The Keys of Heaven," the charming and well-known duet, was sung beautifully by Miss Geraldine Collins and Mr. H. Niven and Mr. J. Fitzpatrick had a fine solo in "The Mocking Bird," with a bird-whistle refrain in the choral accompaniment. As an encore, the ensemble sang "Comin' Thru the Rye." Mrs. Perrin's solo rendition of "I cannot sing the Old Songs" was splendidly done and earned her a hearty encore and Mr. Hugh Niven brought down the house with his rousing selection, in exceptionally good voice, "The Skippers of St. Ives," with quartette chorus and encore.

Mr. Everitt sang "Silver Threads amongst the Gold" in fine style and the vocal programme ended with an ensemble of "Drink to me only with thine Eyes."

A conclusion to a bright and very entertaining programme, interert-holding from start to finish, was an old-fashioned dance, "Strip the Willow," that received enthusiastic approbation from the watchers.

Those taking part in the entertainment, including soloists and choristers, were: Mrs. A. A. Perrin, Mrs. J. Dwyer, the Misses Frances Murray, Florence Murray, Leona Hummel, Geraldine Collins, Alma Fontaine, Stella Brady, Minnie Allen, Lillian Simons, little Grace White, Messrs. A. Everitt, J. Fitzpatrick, Hugh Niven, E. Leonard, T. Stazicker and Master Jack White.

At the conclusion, Monsignor McColl spoke briefly, congratulating the directors and those taking part in the excellence of the programme provided.

The hall at the Lyceum was filled to capacity last evening for this performance, which will be repeated at a later date.

VENTILATION IS HEALTH MEASURE

Many Preventable Diseases Succumb to Good Fresh Air.

By DR HUGH C CUMMING

Ventilation is the process by which air in inclosed spaces is frequently changed.

At a temperature of 86 degrees Fahrenheit and a relative humidity of 80 per cent you will begin to feel uncomfortable. You will not be inclined to work. The temperature of our body is raised and your heart action is quickened. Under higher emperature, headache, nausea, vomiting and prostration often result.

It is a combination of heat and moisture which makes air intolerable. A man can stand without discomfort a much higher temperature in a room if the air is dry.

In winter the heated air of buildings is usually too dry. Many times the relative humidity in rooms is often less than 20 per cent. This dry air is drier than the air in a desert. The relative humidity of the driest climate of this continent is seldom less than 30 per cent.

When the air entering our dwellings from without is heated to an even temperature of 70 degrees Fahrenheit and when no watery vapor is added the capacity of this air for absorbing moisture is increased to such an extent that it will absorb from all moist articles.

This dry air will take moisture from the skin, from the mucous membrances of the nose and mouth, and from the respiratory tract. The relative humidity of buildings in winter time should be 50 per cent.

If the weather is very cold and the amount of moisture in the room is great, drops of water will collect on the window panes. If this happens in your room it is a signal for you to open your window. Where there is sufficient moisture in the air, an indoor temperature of from 62 to 68 degrees Fahrenheit will be found comfortable.

Whenever possible, in any climate, you should sleep with the windows of your bedroom open. Pneumonia patients are now often treated in a cold room.

Drafts are dangerous to healthy people only when they cause a chilling of the body. Children and old persons, because of their feeble resistance to changes, should not expose themselves to drafts.

A draft may increase the tendency to take cold or to contract pneumonia. When your body is hot there is a large quantity of blood near the surface of the body. When cold air is suddenly blown upon the skin these blood vessels contract. The blood is driven inward producing a congestion in the internal organs.

Remember that cold air entering a room falls to the floor. A glass screen or a wooden screen should be used in windows to deflect the air upward and an outlet pipe may be placed over a fire place, or a ventilator may be placed around the stove pipe, if you are using a stove. You may also lower the upper window sash.

If you properly ventilate your room you will be free from many preventable diseases.

WHEN YOU DECIDE TO GIVE YOUR EYES ATTENTION
You have made one of the wisest decisions possible. You may be one of the busiest persons in town. Your time may be worth dollars an hour. But that should not be offered as as excuse for neglecting your eyes. With your vision brought up to the highest possible point of efficiency your capacity for work is increased. That is why the busy man especially needs a prompt and accurate eye service. At your command.

TELEPHONE OFFICE WORK IS EXPLAINED

Manager and Operators Give Demonstrations To School Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening with a splendid attendance of parents and senior pupils. After a short business session the school orchestra, which has been carefully trained by Mrs. Foster, rendered some splendid selections. Rev. N. R. McLeod then made a short address to the parents and children.

The principal item on the programme was a demonstration arranged by W. R. Northgrave, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company, who was assisted by Misses McInnes and Green. In his preliminary address, Mr. Northgrave explained in a general way the routine work of the telephone office, while Miss McInnes, assisted by Miss Green, entered into detail with the assistance of a small section of a switchboard. This was equipped with the necessary fixtures which showed in a graphic manner the various items which enter into the day's work of a telephone operator. Moving pictures supplied by the company added greatly to the interest of the demonstration.

After a violin solo by Stanley Northrop, the meeting was closed.

IN MEMORIAM
HORDING.—In loving memory of our little son, Milton Hording, who died January 28, 1925.
He was too pure for this cold earth;
Too beautiful to stay;
And so God's holy angels
Took our dear one away.
Worthy of our everlasting love
From those he left behind;
The flowers we place upon his grave
May wither and decay.
But the love for him who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.

Happy were the years we spent together,
Lonely are our hearts to-day,

UNITED STATES LINER SAILS ON TO FRANCE WITH BRITISH CREW SNATCHED FROM ATLANTIC'S MAW

Remaining 13 Men Rescued in Heavy Sea From Floating Freighter.

AIDED BY MOON

But Sea God Claimed Lives of Another Captain and 25 Men.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—The sea and human heroism have broken even in the latest renewal of their age-old battle. The President Roosevelt, her funnels belching defiance of the gale she has fought four days, had resumed her way to Cherbourg last night, with the whole crew of twenty-five men from the mangled and helpless British freighter Antinoe aboard.

Their rescue was the seaman's victory. A few hundred miles to the North and West, bits of wreckage on the still turbulent Atlantic give evidence of the battle the sea won. They are all that is left of the Laristan, also a British freighter, which went down with her captain and twenty-five men.

The Roosevelt completed her victory early yesterday morning by the light of a moon which came out propitiously during a brief lull in the 90-mile gale. An open boat from the Roosevelt, commanded by Chief Officer Miller, took the last thirteen men off the Antinoe.

Sailors Exhausted.

They were exhausted from hunger and battered by the waves. Earlier, Captain George Fried, of the Roosevelt, had wirelessed of the rescue of the first twelve of the crew, but said the other had to be left aboard "because they were too weak to risk jumping into the sea."

Captain Fried had stood by the Antinoe since Sunday. Early yesterday morning he got a "blinker" code message from the thirteen left aboard, saying the ship was listing fifty degrees, and could not stay up much longer.

Though the gale had abated a little, heavy swells were running, and the waves were high. Nevertheless, the Roosevelt launched its sixth lifeboat. It succeeded.

A little later her wireless operator sputtered a message to the home office of the United States Lines, saying they were "on the way to Cherbourg" again, regretting the loss of two of the crew who were drowned in an earlier attempt to reach the Antinoe, and leaving the

From the Archepiscopal Palace, to which it had been returned, after yesterday's elaborate State funeral in Brussels, the casket was borne in solemn procession, preceded by a great silver cross—to the Cathedral of St. Rombaut, and there entombed in the crypt. The entire route from the Palace to the Cathedral was lined with soldiers.

BELLBOY SERVED SPOTTERS LIQUOR

Judge Reduces Magistrate's Ontario Temperance Act Penalty.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Jan. 29. —(Canadian Press.) —"The relationship of master and servant existed," said Judge Kenny in a judgment rendered yesterday in the matter of appeal from a magistrate's conviction in the case of an hotel bell-boy who had been sentenced to one month in prison and a fine of $200 for violation of the O.T.A. The judge was referring to testimony which indicated that the boy had procured a bottle of liquor for a guest, who afterwards became known as one of two special officers.

The judge amended the conviction, stating that the lad was not guilty under section 40, but was guilty of an offence under section 41. The penalty of a month in jail and fine of $200 and costs was changed to a straight fine of $50.

U. S. Deportation Trip If She Entered Canada.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 29. —(Canadian Press).—Maria Kurenko, Russian soprano, who was to have sung here to-night by arrangement with the Women's Musical Club, is faced with all the pains and penalties of the U.S. Immigration Department, if she crosses the line from the United States into Canada.

She can go into Canada if she wants to, say the U.S. authorities, but since she is a Russian subject and not a U.S. subject, she cannot get back into the States again.

So Maria, in despair, is now on her way back to New York, having cancelled her Edmonton engagement.

Whiskey and Flax Seed Show Increase In Exports

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—Whiskey and flax seed showed the largest increases in the list of Canada's exports to the United States during the year 1925, both more than doubling the figures for the previous year. Exports of whiskey to the United States last year were $10,811,988, as compared with $5,289,080 in 1924.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday's high wind, drifting and general unpleasantness was succeeded in the evening by a decided drop in temperature. By 9 p.m. the temperature had got down to 14 below zero; during the night it reached 20 below and this morning at daybreak it was at 18 below. A year ago this morning we had it 15 below zero. Yesterday's high wind has caused some of the roads to be badly blocked, and if the snow had been deeper the result might easily have been much worse.—W. P.

JUDGE DECIDED EXTRADITION OF HOUSE BREAKER

Arrested Upon Expiry of Term in Kingston Penitentiary.

WANTED IN MICH.

Long Term for Stealing Trousers and Three Dollars.

KINGSTON, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—Judge Lavell, sitting as extradition commissioner, decided Thursday to grant the request of the United States authorities for the extradition of Carl Regis as a fugitive from justice.

A few days ago Regis was arrested by the local police on the request of an officer from the State of Michigan on his release after serving a term in the Portsmouth Penitentiary, being remanded by the police magistrate on a formal charge of "having escaped from a penal institution, being unlawfully at large in Canada." Yesterday morning, however, the Crown Attorney being ready to proceed with the case before the extradition commissioner, the charge was withdrawn in city police court and Regis discharged, only to be immediately rearrested and held pending his appearance before the judge.

It was disclosed at the hearing that Regis had been sentenced for a period of from three to fifteen years on the Michigan State Reformatory at Ionia for breaking into a house and stealing a pair of trousers and three dollars in money. He escaped from the institution after serving about nine months, and later was sentenced in London, Ontario, to three years in the Portsmouth Penitentiary for theft. Regis was born near Chatham, Ontario.

SNOWDEN SEES NO FUTURE FOR LIBERAL PARTY

Refers in Speech To Sir Alfred Mond Leaving Party.

MUST SHED SECTION.

If Only True Liberals Left, May Be Revived, He Says.

BLACKBURN, Lancashire, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—Philip Snowden, M.P., Chancellor of the Exchequer in the late Labor Government, in a speech last night, made important references to what he described as "that perennial question, namely, the relationship of Labor and Liberalism.'

By way of a preface, Mr. Snowden said that while Lord Oxford and Asquith was saying that the Liberal party never was more vigorous than at the present time, one of the principal members of that party(Sir Alfred Mond, 'M.P.), had considered it so hopeless as to cause him to leave the sinking ship.

"While I do not believe there is any future for Liberalism as a dominating force," Mr. Snowden declared, "yet if it can compose its differences and shed that section which is not Liberal in any true sense,—shed its Monds—and leave the Radical rump, then it is possible there may be something of a Liberal revival in the next election.

"If, however, this exodus of Liberals to the Tory party continues, then what is ultimately left will doubtless prefer to support the Labor party rather than the Tory Government."

It is not necessary to retain facts that we may reckon concerning them.—Beaumarchais.

"There was a general discussion of numerous plans submitted to the conference," the announcement said.

Italian Official Says Some Shown as Voting Were in Italy.

EDMONTON, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press)—J. B. Billows of Venice, Alberta, a deputy returning officer for Athabasca riding in the recent federal election, was committed for trial yesterday on charges connected with the alleged ballot box frauds.

The book for the poll where Billows was in charge showed 95 ballots had been cast and of these 94 were for C. W. Ross, elected Liberal candidate.

Felie D'Angels, Italian Consul at Edmonton, gave evidence and declared that sixteen persons who are shown by the poll book to have voted at this booth, have been in Italy several years, two are dead, three are in the United States, and others living far from Alberta.

Billows was charged with putting papers in the ballot box other than authorized ballot papers.

COUNCIL HEARD SCHOOL REPORT

Inspectors For East and West Peterborough Told of Work.

OLD MEMBER SPOKE.

The presentation of reports by school inspectors Richard Lees and R. F. Downey and ensuing discussions which arose out of them occupied much of the time of the County Council this morning. The reports on motion were received and will be referred to the Schools Committee. They will appear in full.

On the opening of the morning session, C. Coben, of Saskatchewan, a former members of the Peterborough County Council, was introduced by Warden Curtis and requested to address the Council. In response Mr. Coben remarked that it afforded him great pleasure to appear before the Council perhaps, he said, for the last time. When one lives out his allotted span, he declared, one was living on borrowed time. He recalled with pleasure the years which he had spent as a member of this county council and remarked that there was only one person remaining of those who had sat with him in 1916, his last year as a member. In the short time he had been at the council chamber he could see that the members measured up to the standard fixed and maintained by the old council.

While the problems which annually faced the council were becoming more diversified and intricate he had no doubt but that the minds of the Councillors were becoming broadened so that the difficulties could be coped with adequately. Remarking on the loss of the County buildings by fire he declared that the improvements made since amply compensated for the loss.

Regarding conditions which were at present prevailing in the west, Mr. Coben had much to say, outlining the character of municipal government and the problems which faced the farmer regarding the marketing of the wheat crop.

He viewed with approval the imminent amalgamation of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association and the Farmer's Union of Canada, being confident that greater strength would result with benefit to the farmers in that the middleman would be practically eliminated.

Mr. Coben was for many years the representative of Galway and Cavendish in the County Council.

A motion was sponsored by J. Hawthorne and J. P. Flood was carried and provides that as many members as possible of the County Council attend the Good Roads Convention to take place in Toronto in February and that the council meet on the return of the members.

WARSAW ROAD MAN FOUND DEAD; POLICE SAY SHOT ACCIDENTAL

PREMIER IS DEAD

VISCOUNT KATO
Japanese Prime Minister who died Wednesday after an illness of four days. He was a veteran in international statesmanship.

Lewis Kempt Believed Looking in Muzzle When Revolver Discharged.

SHOOTING RATS?

Tragedy Yesterday Afternoon to be Investigated By Coroner.

His one good eye pierced by a bullet that had entered his brain and caused instantaneous death, Lewis Kempt, 32, was found in a stable three miles from Peterborough on the Warsaw road yesterday afternoon. He was the adopted son of Mrs. Kempt, and had lived with her from his childhood.

Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker gave as his opinion last night that Kempt was engaged in rat shooting in the stable when the old fashioned .22 revolver jammed. He had only the use of one eye, and, it is supposed, applied it to the muzzle of the gun to ascertain the trouble, when the revolver discharged. The bullet passed through his eyelid into his brain.

The revolver, half open in the way old-fashioned revolvers "broke" to recharge, was found beside the body, and in the dead man's pocket was a box of shells, three of which had been used.

Had Finished Chores.

The story told by Mrs. Kempt is that Lewis had left the house at 11 o'clock to do the chores, and when he had not returned at 2 o'clock she set out to search for him. She found him sprawled on the floor of the stable, dead. All the chores had been done, and the stable cleaned up.

The body was brought to the city under charge of Provincial Constable Maker yesterday evening, and is at Comstock and Sons' undertaking parlor.

Coroner Dr. Young viewed the body this morning and decided that death was accidental and that an inquest was unnecessary.

SEAL COAT VANISHED

From the Possession of Detectives.

MONTREAL, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—That the City of Montreal was not responsible for the acts of the members of its police force when such officers are acting in the interests of peace and justice, and not as servants of the city, was the effect of a judgment delivered by Mr. Justice Philippe Demers in the Circuit Court yesterday.

The action was taken by Misses Desroberts, fur merchants of Three Rivers, against the City to recover $580, the value of a Hudson seal fur coat. The plaintiffs alleged that the coat was seized by city detectives in effecting the arrest of the thieves who stole the coat in Three Rivers. It was alleged that the seal coat disappeared after coming into the possession of the detectives.

More than 165,000 divorces were granted in the United States in 1923.

Understand the Other Man's Viewpoint and Problems is Need of Age.

Farmers' Day at Kiwanis Club today was an unqualified success. All the members of the County Council, the County officials, and other farmers were present, taxing the limits of the usual meeting place and overflowing into the main dining room of the Empress Hotel. President John J. Craig was in the chair; the booster was Tom Mark, and the prize winners were A. Reynolds, J. R. Marshall, J. J. Turner, and Levi Bond.

Professor Reynolds of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, was the speaker of the day, taking as his subject the increasing of friendly relations between country and city dwellers. He commented favorably upon the largeness of mind and heart and the intelligence shown in gathering together people of different modes of living in order that the common interests of all might be considered and the cordiality of their relationships increased. Such gatherings where each division is reminded of the interests of the other are good mentally and spiritually.

Four Years In Prison For Two Montreal Highwaymen

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 29. (Canadian Press)—Leon Latuk, who with Paul Caron, entered the Simkover shoe store, St. Lawrence Boulevard, on the night of November 21, and held up the proprietor with a revolver and stole $42, was sentenced to four years in St. Vincent De Paul Penitentiary by Judge Cusson yesterday.

Paul Caron, who gave evidence for the Crown after pleading guilty to the charge against him, will be sentenced at a later date.

Just Tumble. Not My Neck Says Prince Of His Fall

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—"Just an ordinary tumble and not my neck this time," said Prince of Wales, laughingly to a friend who saw him last night on his arrival in London from Leicestershire, where he broke his collar bone yesterday when he came a cropper while riding to hounds.

All reports agree that the hurt the Prince of Wales received yesterday is in no way serious.

EXPLOSION KILLS LOCOMOTIVE CREW

Hurled to Death When the Crown Head Blew Up.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Jan. 29—Two men were killed on Wednesday night, when the crown-head on a locomotive hauling a fast express on the main line of the New York Central exploded near Port Byron. The dead are William Ballou, 55, of East Syracuse, engineer, and Bernard J. McGraw, 34, of Syracuse, the fireman. The accident occurred about two miles west of Port Byron.

After the explosion, which hurled Ballou from the cab of the engine and buried the fireman beneath debris, the train sped on through the night until the steam all escaped from the boilers and came to a stop about a mile from where the explosion took place. There were no passengers on the train. The crew in the express cars heard the shock of the explosion when the boiler burst, but paid no attention to it until the train came to a stop.

The train was about an hour late and was travelling at a fast clip to make up lost time, according to statements of railroad officials.

McGraw was badly burned by the steam, and Ballou's body was found on the other side of a fence which ran alongside of the tracks. An investigation is under way to determine the cause of the explosion.

DR. T. W. H. YOUNG WON BIG PRIZE HIS ESTIMATE, 12,374, CORRECT

City M. O. H. Hit Exact Figure—W. Read Second.

MOST PEOPLE OUT.

Majority of Estimates Were Between 8,000 and 10,000.

Dollar Day, with ideal winter weather, was a real success as a shopping event. The official count of the number of tickets dropped in the box in front of The Examiner Office, revealed an almost identical number with that of last January; the figure this time being 12,374 compared with 12,728 on the last Winter Dollar Day. The long search for the successful estimators showed that the great majority expected the number to be less this year; estimates ranging from 8,000 to 10,000 being much the more numerous. As always, in the 12,374 tickets that had to be examined, there were a few that were right on the mark; the winner of the big $50.00 bonus having the exact number, and the second bonus winner being within one of the correct figure. Two lots of ties cleaned up the balance of the $150.00, with estimates, none of which were more than three away from the exact total.

Shoppers from outside points had numerous close estimates, but in the final round-up, only one, Mrs. Selkirk of Warsaw, figured in the successful list.

The money will be paid to the winners at The Examiner Office on TUESDAY.

STORM AT SEA HAS BROKEN UP

Portion of Main Hurricane Leaves Pacific, Crossing British Columbia.

STEAMER REPORTS.

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 29. Canadian Press. — A great storm 3000 square miles in area, which has been blowing on the North Pacific for the last two days, has broken into parts, reports from British Columbia coast points and ships at sea, last night indicated. A portion of the main hurricane has darted away eastward, over northern British Columbia, into Alberta.

The Canadian Pacific Liner, Empress of Asia, in the centre of the main disturbance, 300 miles off the coast, last night reported the gale was blowing there at between 60 and 70 miles an hour. The vessel at that time had been compelled to reduce speed, the message said.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Jan. 29. — (Canadian Press.)— Lieb Ritterman, of New York, reputed to be one of the most notorious international smugglers, was in jail here to-day, while customs officials held diamonds valued as high as $200,000, which they seized in his luggage while en route from Montreal. At the same time, immigration agents prepared to question the legality of his entry into this country.

Her Liver Was Bad And She Felt Tired and Depressed

Mrs. M. Siefert, Grosswerder, Sask., writes:—"I was greatly disturbed with pains in my liver, and felt tired and depressed most of the time. One day I read about and the next time I went to town I bought four vials of them.

Milburn's

LAXA-LIVER PILLS

I have used them regularly, and after two months' use I feel like an entirely different woman.

Now, I always recommend them to any of my friends who are troubled as I was."

There's only one "Laxa-Liver Pill", and that's the one put up by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

REICHSTAG PLACE OF HEATED WORDS

Nationalist Deputy Called Cabinet Members Traitors.

BERLIN, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press). — Wilhelm Henning, a Nationalist deputy, was expelled from the Reichstag yesterday, after speaking violently against the Locarno security pact. Herr Henning called the Cabinet members "traitors" and "hangmen of the German people."

Chancellor Luther, descending from the tribunal, intercepted the speaker and forbade further utterance of such slanders. Other members of Reichstag surged up and separated the men.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, JANUARY 30.

Rather strange or peculiar events are likely to transpire under the quizzical astral forces that dominate affairs, both business and personal. With Uranus and Neptune, planets of the weird and unorthodox, in conspicuous angles of operation it will be conjectural as to what may develop. But it is urged that self-control and precaution be exercised in order to meet these unpropitious or subtle conditions, and care should be taken against accident and loss.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of strange events and experiences in business as well as private affiliations. It will be well to be on guard against all manner of dangers and deceptions and success may be wrung from complicated situations. A child born on this day may be endowed with some rather singular gifsor traits, with a leaning to the spectacular and unorthodox. It may, however, have many excellent qualities which should make for success and independence. It should be taught how to withstand subtlety and the dominion of crafty influences.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

The Real Cause of Indigestion

Acids in the stomach irritate and inflame the delicate stomach lining, sour and ferment the food, prevent proper digestion and lead to nine-tenths of all dyspepsia and Indigestion. Pepsin and other artificial digestents give only temporary relief and do not correct the cause.

Stomach acids should be neutralized daily, and the stomach kept sweet and clean after eating by drinking a glass of pure Magnesia water made from teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia, obtainable at any reliable drug store. This prevents food fermentation and your meals digest naturally and without pain. By following this plan you may eat almost anything without fear of Indigestion.

1926 CANADIAN TEACHERS FEDERATION CONVENTION.

The above convention will be held in Charlottetown, P.E.I., August 2nd to August 6th, and arrangements are now being completed for an all-expense, personally conducted tour via the Canadian National Railways, from Toronto to Charlottetown in connection therewith. This tour will include a trip down the St. Lawrence Rapids, the Saguenay River, through the beautiful Bras d'or Lakes, and the Land of Evangeline country, with stopover at Quebec City and trip to St. Anne de Beaupre, returning by way of Boston, the White Mountains of New Hampshire, and Montreal. A leaflet will shortly be isued giving complete information regarding the tour.

For particulars address Mr. Martin Kerr, (Principal of Earl Kitchener School), 4 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, and Mr. E. A. Byrson, (Principal of the Silverthorn School), 44 Silverthorn Ave, Toronto.

CONSERVATIVE MEMBER ASSERTS THAT AUTRALIAN TRADE TREATY IS BAD BLOW TO DAIRY INDUSTRY

"Tremendous Blunder," Says Dr. Edwards, Speaking in House.

MR. MARCIL REPLIES.

Says Canada Should Be Made Attractive To Keep Canadians.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—While factories were closed in Canada, the United States consular offices were working overtime to provide passports for Canadians who wanted to cross the international boundary line, asserted Dr. J. W. Edwards, Conservative member for Frontenac-Addington in the House of Commons yesterday. They were leaving the only country in which tariff reductions had gone into effect to find work where industries were protected.

Tremendous Blunder

Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance furnished data on the butter importations from Australia and New Zealand since the Treaty came into effect. The Minister of Finance showed that about 600,000 pounds of butter had been brought from those countries in that period. Dr. Edwards commented that that was 600,000 pounds too much. Mr. Robb said that a greater quantity of Canadian butter shipped to England had returned to Canada because there was a shortage in this market, was shown in the table of imports which had been quoted. Dr. Edwards complained that the dairy produce brought from Australasia was imported under "subsidized rates of duty," while if Canadian dairy farmers wished to break into the markets of that continent, they must surmount a high rate of duty.

The treaty with Australia was a "tremendous blunder" and was "going to prove a severe blow to the dairy industry in Alberta." Industries and agriculture were entitled to a reasonable protection. Many factories had been closed in Canada, but the one industry which was working overtime was the consulate offices of the United States, where passports were being issued to Canadians to leave the only country in which tariff had been lowered, to go to the country with the highest tariff in the world in order to find work. The Government, said Dr. Edwards, should "play the game, acknowledge defeat, resign and get out."

Hon. Chas. Marcil.

Hon. Charles Marcil (Liberal-Bonaventure) congratulated Dr. Edwards on the mildness of the speech, and he expressed the opinion that a strong Opposition made for good government.

Although the members of the Parliament of 1914, said Mr. Marcil, had no mandate from his constituents to approve the declaration of war on the German allies, he had with his confreres voted for Canada's participation in the conflict.

He made touching reference to the life and attributes of the late Cardinal Mercier. Canada's trade, he said was increasing by leaps and bounds under the liberal regime.

He thought something should be done to increase the interest of the electorate, and especially of the women voters, in public affairs.

Emigration Chronic

Mr. Marcil referred to the flow of Canadians to and from the United States. This condition, he said, was chronic. It would always exist to some extent. The solution was to make Canada as attractive as possible, and the Canadians now in the United States should be welcomed back to the Dominion and encouraged to go on the land. To do this, good roads and access to city markets were essential.

Mr. Marcil commented favorably on the proposed tariff commission. It should in its investigation into the difficulties of the Maritime Provinces, also include those eastern section of Quebec province by the sea.

S. G. Tobin (LiberalWetaskiwin), said that, as a new member, the most difficult thing in the House of Commons for him to understand was the Conservative representation from Nova Scotia. He himself had spent his youth in that province, and it was beyond his comprehension how the province of that day could return Protectionist Conservatives.

In the later debate D. M. Kennedy, Progressive member for Peace River, complained of the plurality of immigration policies in Canada. Apparently the government had one and each of the railway companies another. He thought that all immigration should come directly under the government. Mr. Kennedy will continue his speech to-morrow.

COUNTIES COUNCIL OPPOSED TO TOWNSHIP SCHOOL BOARD PLAN

Adverse Recommendation by Committee Drafted at Cobourg.

HASTINGS BRIDGE

(By a Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, Jan. 27—The committee on schools, of which Reeve Hess of Hastings is chairman and Deputy Reeve Palliser of Campbellford is secretary, met Thursday morning and went on record as opposed to the formation of township boards of school trustees. The Counties Council will be asked to pass a resolution to this effect and copies of this will be sent to the local legislative representatives and to the Minister of Education. Reeve Hess will attend, as a delegation from the Council, the annual meeting of the Federation of Trustees to be held in Toronto at Easter.

Other Committees

All of the committees have got down to work in earnest and are likely to catch up with the time that has been lost. Deputy Reeve Peake of Seymour has been elected secretary of the county property committee and that body has voted that no action be taken on the proposition to install fuel economizers on the furnaces in the county buildings as recommended by the Council of 1925.

Roads and Bridges

Reeve Bedal of Brighton Township is general chairman and Deputy Reeve Nelson of Percy is secretary of the committee on roads and bridges. This committee is still puzzled over the difference between a culvert and a bridge. The definition of County Solicitor F. D. Boggs that a culvert carries the water under the road while a bridge carries the road over the water, appears to afford the committee no light.

If a culvert is built on a boundary road between two counties the custom has been to have the cost paid by the adjoining townships where as if the structure is a bridge the expense of building is assumed on a 50-50 basis by the two counties interested. There has been a dispute of long standing over such an issue between the counties of Victoria and Durham over a structure on the boundary road between the townships of Cavan and Emily a structure which Cavan maintains is a bridge but which Emily defines as a culvert. Victoria County refuses to pay $45, half the cost of the affair, and the committee decided to recommend that the claim be pushed.

General Chairman Bedal of the Roads and Bridges committee and Warden McCubbin will in the future be charged with the responsibility of deciding what is a bridge and what is a culvert on a boundary road and upon their decision will rest the qeustion as to whether the united counties is to pay half the cost of construction.

The Hastings Case

When it was decided to re-floor the bridge of Hastings, the committee in charge of the work, Reeve Hess of that village, Deputy Reeve Nelson of Percy and Road Superintendent Greer sold to ex-Warden Fowlds of Hastings the old plank for $125. Mr. Fowlds now says that he did not receive the full amount of material for which he tendered and has sent his cheque for $100 as settlement.

This matter was discussed by the committee and it was decided to refer it for settlement to Messrs. Hess, Nelson and Greer who originally dealt with it.

General Chairman Bedal, Deputy Reeve Wight, chairman for Durham county, Warden McCubbin and County Roads Superintendent Greer, will attend the meeting of the Good Roads Association in Toronto and the annual membership fee of $15 will be paid.

The Department will spend $506,710 on Provincial highways in the two counties this year and of this amount the counties will be required to pay 20 per cent. or $101,342. Last year the amount paid by the counties was $99,996.11.

No Advisory Council

The committee on agriculture decided to recommend that no advisory agriculture committee be appointed as requested by the district representatives of the two counties. The majority of the members of the committee were of the opinion that the farming community would not receive from such an innovation sufficient benefit to warrant the additional expense.

The Finance Committee

The finance committee of which Reeve Wood of Millbrook is chairman and Deputy Reeve Nelson of Percy is secretary, held a long session Thursday morning, the principal topic of discussion being the question of taking out a policy for insurance accidents on the county highways. The committee was divided on this proposition and three motions were offered, the one which finally carried recomending that the matter be referred back for discussion in open council.

PRESENTATION BY BETHANY LADIES

Retiring President Honored in United Church—Mrs. Lee Elected.

BETHANY, Jan. 29.—The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Will Rowan on Wednesday afternoon when twenty ladies were present. Mrs. Brown, the president, was in the chair and opened the meeting. A discussion arose as to whether the Aid should hold some concert, social, or some activity in the coming months, with the view of raising money. It was decided that for the present a tea would be held each month at the conclusion of the regular meeting and each member should bring some other lady with her, and that a silver collection be taken. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. C. Dawe on the last Thursday afternoon in February.

As Mrs. Brown, the president, is about to leave the village for Grafton it was thought wise to elect another president, and Mrs. Wm. Lee received the majority of votes. Mrs. J. Jones read a short address to Mrs. Brown as follows:

Dear Mrs. Brown:

We, the members of the Ladies' Aid and W.M.S. have gathered here this afternoon that we may have the privileeg of saying that which has been in the minds of us all for a long time. We have always regarded you as a faithful and hard working members of our organization and now that you are about to leave us we feel how great will be our loss. You have always proved yourself to be a faithful and devoted worker in all our church activities and when you undertook to do anything we always knew it would be cheerfully and well done. We scarely know how we shall get along without you, but it will always be an inspiration and encouragement when we remember how well and faithfully you labored among us, and we know that we shall all be better workers because of the example you have left us.

When you reach your new field of labor we trust that you will be just as eager to help as you have been here, and we are assured that others will reap the benefit of our loss.

As a slight token of our esteem and gratitude we ask you to accept this gift as a rememberance of your friends and fellow worker in the Bethany United Church.

We would remind you that our homes will always be open to welcome you whenever you return to our village and wherever you go, far or near, we trust our Heavenly Father will keep and care for you."

The gift which was presented by Miss Ella Jackson was one dozen of Community Plate tea spoons.

Mrs. Brown made a very suitable reply, saying the hardest part of her leaving the village was the severing her connection with the Ladies' Aid and remarking that the doors in her new home in Grafton would ever stand open to her many friends in both soceities. After the benediction was pronounced, Mrs. Rowan served a dainty and appetizing lunch. She was assisted by Mrs. Walter Rowland.

Among the ladies present were: Mrs. (Rev.) Poulter, Mrs. H. H. Ryley, Miss Sarah McMullen, Mrs. R. L. Crerar, Mrs. Sam Murphy, Mrs. Thos. Rowan, Mrs. Thos. Jackson, Miss Lily Weatherilt, Mrs. F. C. Dawe, Mrs. A. Monk, Mrs. J. Porteous, Mrs. Ona Thorndyke, Mrs. Milton Challice, Mrs. Wm. Lee and Mrs. Will Byers.

An interesting programme was presented at the Y.P.L. on Wednesday evening. The opening and devotional exercises were in charge of the president, P. C. Brown. Mrs. Leslie Challice then gave a reading on the prophet Jeremiah. Miss Verna Belle Lee sang a solo "Smiles", and Mr. Walter Rowland gave a reading on "The good in men". A duet by Edward Walsh and Henry Caseman was followed by a short address on the words, "Remember thy Creator in the day of thy youth", by Rev. Poulter. Prayer folowed by Mr. Monk. Next Wednesday the programme will be in charge of Miss Verna Belle Lee, 1st vice- president.

Will Leaves Woman Money To Buy Poison For Herself

DETROIT, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—A will, unique among the many queer documents filed in the circuit court yesterday was presented for the probate. The administrator of the estate of James Thorpe, who died December 12, 1925, filed a will which divided an estate of $450, or more.

Thorpe allows his wife Edith, of Wigan, Lancashire, England, one quarter of a dollar to buy herself rat poison. The allowance carries the proviso that she take the poison one hour after getting the 25 cents. Otherwise the entire estate is divided among the brothers and sisters.

PLANES TO DROP FOOD FOR BOATS

Tugs Caught in Michigan Ice Jam Have No More Food.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Two planes from Selfridge Field will leave for Muskegon early today with orders to pick up food at Muskegon and attempt to drop it on the ice to the men marooned in an ice jam four miles off Lake Harbor, in the tugs Indian and Helen N.

Braving death among the perilous floes, Theodore Graham, Jr., chief engineer of the tug Indian Martin Jensen of the Indian, and S. Mardreau of the Helen N, reached shore last evening, while hundreds of spectators anxiously watched their progress. They reported that the food supply was gone and fuel on the two tugs almost exhausted.

VERDICT IS MURDER

Coroner Decides Credit Manager Was Victim of Foul Play.

GRAFTON, Ill., Jan. 29.—(By N.E.A.).—A verdict of murder was returned by the coroner inquiring into the death of Henry Rand. The immediate cause of death was asphyxiation by gas, but there was also a concussion of the brain resulting from a heavy blow. There has been no arrest, the only clues held by the police being the name and description of a man registering as H. A. Jones and a woman's handkerchief.

Advertising Rates on application.

R. E. GLOVER, Managing Director.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1926.

$450,000,000 ON RADIO.

Many Examiner readers are, of course, radio enthusiasts, and there must be a small army of listeners-in in Peterboro who realize the extent to which radio has entered into recreation hours.

However, it is doubtful whether many of them know just what an important business has been developed through the ever-increasing popularity of radio.

It is estimated that on this continent at the present time there is a radio audience of 20,000,000 people, with five million receiving sets in operation.

The growth of the commercial end of radio is evidenced by the fact that the total retail value of radio equipment during 1925 is given as $450,000,000, of which $180,000,000 was spent on complete sets, $70,000,000 on parts and $200,000,000 on accessories and replacements. On dry batteries alone the people of this continent spent $75,000,000 last year, with another $18,000,000 spent on storage batteries.

When it is further stated that there are 2,000 radio manufacturers, 1,000 jobbers and 31,000 radio retailers, it will be seen that this new form of amusement has speedily jumped from the novelty class into the realm of big business.

THE COST OF TELEPHONES.

The fact that the Union of Canadian Municipalities has decided to oppose the application of the Bell Telephone Company before the Dominion Railway Commission for a new rate scale that represents an increase in the cost of business telephones, adds interest to the announcement of the new schedule.

The Telephone Company is wasting no time in putting its case before the public through newspaper advertising, and by means of a booklet addressed to every subscriber giving the company's reasons for asking what it terms a re-adjustment of rates.

The Union of Municipalities has so far confined itself to a mere statement of the fact that the application will be opposed.

The matter is not one that can be dismissed lightly.

The Bell Telephone Company's rates, it is said, have been increased 22 per cent. since the end of the war, and the Board of Railway Commissioners will surely insist upon some very strong evidence in justification of a further increase before granting the present request.

It appears from the rates proposed for Peterboro that the amount that would be collected under these rates in Peterboro would about equal the present cost to users. The proposed increase is altogether placed on the business 'phones, while a reduction is made in the cost of residence 'phones.

AN EPIC OF THE SEAS.

The best traditions of the sea have been lived up to during the terrible gale which raged over the Atlantic during most of the week.

No story of gallant conduct in perilous moments, no sea epic of the past has surpassed the picture of the United States liner President Roosevelt standing by the stricken British freighter Antinoe for three days and three nights in the worst storm of thirty-five years, or that of the German steamer Bremen performing a similar service for the battered Laristan.

The determination and dauntless courage shown by the crews of these two steamers resulted in the saving of twenty-five lives in one case and of six in the other, under conditions that baffle description.

Waves running 40, 50, even 60, feet high, seas that smashed or capsized lifeboats almost as soon as they were launched, only the searchlights of the rescue steamers to pick up the badly battered freighters —this was the scene throughout 72 hours of continual battling against the elements with human lives as the stake.

Upon the captains of the two liners a heavy responsibility fell.

They had the safety of their own passengers to think of; Providence perhaps counselled fighting their way into port as soon as possible.

But on those smashed hulks were human beings whose lives were at the mercy of the waves, and the liners stayed where they were until there was nothing more to be done.

UNFAMILIAR INDUSTRIES.

There are in some of the little known portions of Canada industries that are sending their output to the far corners of the earth, and yet their products are not those of which much is heard. When one goes through the five-and-ten-cent stores and sees displayed such a wide range of articles there is a natural wonderment as to where they are all made, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior. It is largely in out-of-the-way places where such factories are located, where working conditions are good, where home life is of the best, and where each employee has a personal interest in production. An illustration of this class of industry is in the making of the humble wooden clothes pin. In the little village of Carleton, in Yarmouth County, Nova, Scotia, is a wood-manufacturing concern whose chief product is clothes pins. This firm's product is finding a ready sale throughout the world. Seventy-five persons are employed steadily, and the output averages a carload every five days. Each carload runs about 1,500 boxes with 720 clothes pins to the box, so that the annual total of production runs into very large figures. Located in the centre of a good hardwood district, the concern is making splendid use of its available raw material.

The barrel and stave industry, too, is another example of a large output from factories located in the smaller places. The making of the many millions of staves used in both tight and slack cooperage in Canada and for export gives employment to large numbers of hands. Small sawmills, located outside of the centres of population, produce the greater portion of the box shooks, the berry baskets and crates, the fruit baskets, egg crates, cheese boxes, etc., used in Canada, and in nearly all cases these sawmills and factories are the sole industry of the village. It is only natural that the villagers should be intensely interested in their wood supply. A continuance of this supply means steady employment, means a steady home life and comfortable and happy surroundings. These people realize the necessity of keeping fire out of the forest, and lose no opportunity in promoting forest protection.

WORTH WATCHING.

The experiment now under way in Peterboro, as a solution of the local transportation problem, will be watched with interest from this city, inasmuch as it has not been fully determined what will happen to the busses here, or whether construction will be carried out in the north end of the city as originally proposed.

Peterboro has a joint system, which combines street cars and busses. On the first Sunday, tickets to the amount of $480 were sold and that despite the schedule of ten tickets for 50 cents, which constitutes a five-cent fare. Ordinarily the fare is seven cents, but the bulk offer keeps the fare at the five-cent level. The first day's business was done on a blizzardy Sunday, which makes the gross receipts for the day all the more remarkable. Motor busses and street cars are all under the one management in Peterboro, which provides for a uniform service. That is the problem which will have to be worked out in St. Catharines.—St. Catharines Standard.

STRIKES AND ARBITRATION.

A renewed effort is being made to end the anthracite coal strike in Pennsylvania by conference between the operators and strikers. One would imagine by this time both sides have realized that the trouble ought to end, and indeed never should have begun. The strike began on September 1st last, involving 158,000 miners. The loss in wages per day has been nearly $1,000,000, making a total loss in wages so far to the workers of about $150,000,000. The loss in the production of coal has been 266,000 tons per day, and if we allow a profit of only $1 a day to the companies, that means a loss in the profits of over $30,000,000. There must have been a much greater loss to the railways in the matter of freights, and of course there has been a vast loss in business in north-eastern Pennsylvania where practically all the mines lay. Altogether there must have been a loss of close on $300,000,000 in wages and business as a direct consequence of the strike, together with apprehension and sometimes distress in other parts of the continent, and an unnecessary increase of living expense through the necessity of getting substitutes for anthracite coal.

All this is a result of failure to arbitrate.

Arbitration was held up by each side making reservations as to arbitration. The miners refused to arbitrate because, according to their President, Mr. Lewis, it was a matter which concerned their scale of livelihood and they declined to make their scale of livelihood subject to arbitration unless the operators would agree to arbitrate what their profits should be; and to this the operators would not agree.

This brings up a long existing subject of argument between employer and employed. The contention has often been raised in disputes between employers and employed that the profits of the employer should be subject to examination. Employers have invariably refused this. The reason is plain. No outsider can judge what is the safe profit at any specific time of a going business. One year in a business may be profitable, the next year may show a loss. Every business must provide for depreciation and emergencies, for instance fire. Every business should provide a margin for future expansion. It is not safe for any business man to allow an outsider to decide what ought to be the scale of allowances for possible bad years, or for depreciation, or for emergencies or for promotion of the business. Not even an employer himself can be sure what it is safe to draw as personal profit in any one year. He must keep on the safe side—often far below what looks like the legitimate gain. If, therefore, an employer agrees to allow an outsider in the shape of an arbitrator to come into his business at any particular time and say what the fair annual profit should be, and make that a basis for increase of wages, the employer is putting his business existence at the mercy of somebody else's judgment, and no business man is fool enough to do that.

The case of the employee is different. An employee whether he gets more wages or less is at least getting wages of some kind. His livelihood is sure. It may not be what he wants, but it always is safe. But if an employer loses his business he loses everything. He gets no wages to go upon if he allows his business to be wrecked and his capital destroyed by the mistaken judgment of some arbitrator. He is done for. He cannot start a new business without capital, and he has probably got past the time when he is fit to earn wages even if he could find employment.

The foregoing is the case of the individual employer or firm of employers. In the case of a large company the crucial point is that the executive of the company are responsible to the shareholders for both safety and dividends. The shareholders depend more or less for a living upon their dividends. If the executive of a company were to allow the profits of the company to be destroyed by mistaken arbitrators, or its continued existence to be endangered, a gross wrong would be done to the shareholders whom the executive represent.

Another factor exists, namely that if arbitration after examining profits were to order a reduction of wages, the men would not likely accept, and nobody would have power to force them to.

At all events, the time is not likely to come when any business will allow wages to be regulated by what outsiders in a temporary examination may fix as proper profit for that business. Any union leader who holds out for this is going to find himself a misleader of his men, for it is certain to mean a fight to a finish. —Ottawa Journal.

Experts say that a fossil found in Manitoba is 60,000,000 years old. It must have been active before the Hudson Bay Railway agitation started.

The debate at Ottawa continues to produce plenty of words, even if there is a paucity of constructive ideas.

Peterboro's new bus service will seldom have worse weather conditions to contend with than yesterday, and apparently came through the test very successfully.

So far no radio set manufacturer has claimed to have eliminated the interference of the "Northern Lights."

THE BLACK SPOTS MEAN LIQUOR—MAYBE

The above map shows the manner in which the province of Ontraio will be dotted with "wet" municipalities if the rumored government control local option program is put into effect. The constituencies above shown in black are the ones that voted wet in 1924 and will thus become the wet areas of the province.

Wise and Otherwise.

Some people wonder why they don't get on when they are merely trying to get by.

We don't know why girls leave home, but sometimes men leave home because they can't pay the taxes.

You will make a poor job of growing old unless you take your time about it.

When love makes the world go round, it isn't always a merry-go-around.

Longer winter lasts the longer it will be before we have to cut the weeds again.

If you don't like the present just wait a little while and it will be the past.

Ya can't blame some people for not claiming to be self-made.

How apple pie got its name: Once upon a time a good housewife made a pie crust. It came out pretty good, so it was a shame to waste it. "What'll I put in it?" she asked her husband. "Apples," came the reply, just like that.

When angry, count ten—then swear.

One of these bright days the car companies are gonna decide that giving people a lot of straps to hang on is all wrong—and make us bring our own.

At trying to meet expenses he
Was never known to shirk.
He looked until he found a job—
Then sent his wife to work.

HOME, SWEET HOME—(Eight o'clock in the evening) Tha baby's cryin' fer a drink of water. Dad's yellin' fer his slippers. Tha two boys can't find their pyjamas. The dishes are waitin' in the sink. Somebody's ringing the front door bell. And mom has but two hands.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE FREE MIND.

(William Ellery Channing)

I call that mind free which masters the senses.

Which protects itself against animal appetites.

Which condemns pleasure and pain in comparison with its own energy.

Which penetrates beneath the body and recognizes its own reality and greatness, which passes life not in asking what it shall eat or drink, but in hungering, thirsting, and seeking after righteousness.

I call that mind free which sets no bounds to its love.

Which is not imprisoned in itself or in a sect.

Which recognizes in all human beings the image of God, and the rights of His children.

Which delights in virtue and sympathises with suffering wherever they are seen.

Which conquers pride, anger, and sloth, and offers itself up a willing victim to the cause of mankind.

I call that mind free which resists the bondage of habit.

Which does not mechanically repeat itself and copy the past.

Which does not live on its old virtues.

Which does not enslave itself to precise rules, but which forgets what is behind, listens for new and higher monitions of conscience, and rejoices to pour itself forth in fresh and higher exertions.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for grain on the Montreal market continued of a very limited character and the few bids received for odd lots of oats and barley were below working basis.

Owing to the renewed strength in Canadian cash wheat of late and the advance in prices recorded at Winnipeg a better feeling prevailed in the local flour trade for spring wheat grades. There was no actual change in prices. The demand from all sources continues disappointing. The trade in winter wheat flour is also slow and the market dull.

A firmer feeling developed in the local market for strictly fresh eggs today and prices were fully 1c per dozen higher. The condition of the market for storage eggs was unsettled. Wholesale prices were depressed and sales of extras were made at 23c, firsts at 21c and seconds at 19c per dozen. The trade in a jobbing was reported quiet and the demand limited.

The receipts of butter today were 152 packages, as against 304 for the same day last week, and 34 for the corresponding day a year ago. The demand from local and outside buyers was steady and a moderate amount of business was done.

The receipts of cheese today were 282 boxes, as compared with 31 for the same day last week, and 146 for the corresponding day a year ago. The trade was without feature.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Canadian egg markets are generally unchanged today. Lower temperatures are prevailing generally throughout the Prairie Provinces and aiding the situation somewhat.

Toronto—Fresh, steady and unchanged. Storage, demand is improving at low prices.

Montreal—The market is steady with jobbing fresh extras 45, firsts 4°, seconds 35.

Winnipeg—Fresh supplies fairly plentiful. Dealers paying country points, extras 35, firsts 30, seconds 20. Jobbing, fresh extras 40, firsts 35, seconds 25. Storage firsts 30, seconds 20, storage stocks hard to dispose of. Poultry market unchanged practically nothing moving.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.86 5-8.

Sterling cables $4.87 1-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (Canadian Press).—Sub-zero weather threatening damage to United States winter wheat did a good deal to hoist wheat values today, and so, likewise, did trade estimates pointing to unusual exhaustion of stocks of wheat in all countries before the beginning of the new crop year. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 2 1-2 to 2 5-8c net higher, May, new, $1.76 7-8 to $1.76 and July $1.52 1-2 to $1.52 5-8, with corn 3-8 to 5-8c up; oats showing 3-8c advance, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 12 cents.

Highest prices of the day in the wheat market came in the last hour, whereas the lowest prices showed themselves at the start. The early down-turn reflected declines at Liverpool and Buenos Aires, but aggressive buying here on the part of houses with eastern connections led quickly to a decided upward trend. The new buying movement was more or less associated with current predictions of a possible deficit of 53,000,000 bushels in world supplies of wheat at the end of this crop year as compared with present estimated requirements. Besides, Greece was reported to have purchased 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, and it was said Portugal was also trying to buy.

MADOC YOUNG PEOPLE

Epworth League Held Sleigh Drive to Hazards Corners.

MADOC, Jan. 29.—The Epworth League of the United Church held a sleighing party on Tuesday evening, driving out to Hazards Corners to unite with the league of that church. About fifty members of the Madoc league crowded in box sleighs and enjoyed a good old-fashioned sleigh drive.

The musical part of the program was as follows: Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Foster, duet; Misses M. Rousehorn and G. Phillips also sang; Master George Maybee played an organ solo, and Miss Lenore Vandervoort sang; Miss E. Harris gave a very interesting talk on the life and works of the poet Longfellow, and Rev. Mr. Foster followed with an address on Longfellow's poem "Evangeline."

At the close of the program refreshments were served by the W. M. S. of Hazards Church.

UNITED STATES LINER SAILS

Captain Congratulated.

The general manager of the United States Lines in New York immediately sent the captain a message of congratulations. So did Captain Paul Grenig, from London. Captain Grenig was in command of the President Harding, a sister ship of the Roosevelt, two months ago when she affected a similar rescue of the captain and crew of the Italian steamer Ignazio Florio.

Captain Fried lives in New York. "Now I hope George will get some sleep," his wife said when she heard of his victory. "I knew he would get them off if it was but humanly possible to do it."

The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, which had stood by the lost Laristan as the Roosevelt stood by the Antinoe, wirelessed yesterday the names of six men she had been able to rescue from the Laristan before she went down. They are Ship's Carpenter Sacenby, Sailors Carina and Johnes, and Firemen Phillips, McKee and McCahan.

Two Ships in Port.

Two ships from the storm area reached New York yesterday, the French liner France, 24 hours overdue from Havre, and the Cunard Line's Aquitania, two days late. On the France were three injured passengers and three seamen hurt when the heavy seas crashed through two portstorm doors.

It happened when the France left her course last Saturday night in response to the first S.O.S. from the Antinoe. The France resumed her course when the Roosevelt sent out a message that she already was standing by the freighter. The Aquitania suffered no damage, although there was some excitement when a gust of wind, as she was docking, rammed the big boat into the pier and splintered several beams.

ARCTIC WEATHER BORNE ON GALE FROM CANADA BLEW OVER BORDER FREEZING MIDDLE WEST STATES

Blasts Chilled Minnesota to 24 Below Zero—Chicago 7 Below.

SUFFERING IN PATH

Fifty Fires in Chicago — Tugs Periled in Lake Michigan.

CHICAGO, Ills., Jan. 29.—(Canadian Press).—King Winter reigned last night over land and sea, defying efforts to alleviate the suffering he caused.

Borne on the wings of a 40-mile gale from Canada, sub-zero weather settled over the middle west Wednesday night, remained Thursday and gave indications of staying for a while longer.

While the Middle West shivered, simultaneous storms off both the Atalantic and Pacific Coasts endangered shipping and delayed fast Atlantic liners. At the same time two tugs were ice-locked in Lake Michigan, off Muskegon Harbor and it was feared that seven men would freeze to death if not rescued. One of their number who made his way to shore over a mile of treacherous ice, said they were without food or fuel.

50 Chicago Fires.

In Chicago firemen were kept busy answering more than 50 alarms and in one section of the city water was turned off in an area of several square miles when a water main burst. One man was found on a South Side prairie nearly frozen to death. The temperature, here, which was 7 below yesterday morning, climbed as far as 1 below last night, then gave indications of starting a nose dive.

The cold wave this time was not as general as some of the previous sub-zero blasts that have swept out of the Northwest. It hit Minnesota, where 24 degrees below zero was reported, swept across Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana but did not extend as far South as other cold spells this year.

It was also expected to be a short-lived cold snap as warmer weather and snow was promised for today.

BROKEN COLLAR BONE, INJURY TO PRINCE IN HUNT

Horse Stumbled After Clearing Hedge and Ditch Following Hounds.

SIMPLE FRACTURE

Second Accident in Two Days to Prince of Wales.

LONDON, Jan. 29 — (Canadian Press).—While riding to hounds yesterday in Leicestershire, the Prince of Wales came a bad cropper and fractured his left collarbone. It was the second accident he had sustained in the last two days, for on Wednesday at Melton Mowbray his horse fell dead under him, though the Prince was not hurt.

His fall occurred Thursday between Houghton-on-the-Hill and Norton Gorse while the hounds were streaking across the country at a great pace. Wales, riding close beside the huntmaster, Lord St. Albridge, took a formidable hedge with a ditch on either side. His horse cleared the obstacle but stumbled and fell. The Prince tumbled on his shoulder, and his fellow-hunters ran to his aid, gave him what assistance they could and took him to a nearby cottage.

After his arm and shoulder had been strapped up, the Prince started back for London. An X-ray showed the fracture to be a simple one, and not likely to interfere with his riding for longer than did a similar accident to his right shoulder in 1924.

Brother Off to Hunt.

As the Prince, with his arm in bandages, was proceeding to London last evening, his train passed the train carrying his brother, the Duke of York, on his way to Melton Mowbray, for the fox-hunting today. The trains bearing the King's sons to and from the hunting field did not slacken speed, and the Duke had no opportunity to express regret at his brother's injury.

The Prince of Wales himself requested his personal friends and the newspapers to avoid sensational allusions to his latest fox-hunting mishap, which he considers merely a matter of luck in a rather hazardous sport. It was announced that his engagements would not be interrupted by the accident, apparently the State opening of Parliament, on Tuesday next was overlooked. The Prince would hardly be able to wear a uniform so soon after his injury, and if he attends the House of Lord it will be as a private member, instead of a prominent participant in the elaborate ceremonial.

CAMPBELLFORD WAR MEMORIAL IS TO BE MADE IN KINSTON, ONT.

McCallum Granite Co. Commissioned to Do Work.

CHASTE DESIGN

Will be Placed in Canal Bank Park in Suitable Plot.

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 29.—(Special to the Examiner).—The McCallum Granite Company, Ltd., of this city, has been commissioned by the War Memorial Committee of the town of Campbellford and the township of Seymour, to execute a memorial in honor of the men of that town and township who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Great War. The final details of the monument were settled recently at a meeting in Campbellford, at which Mr. J. W. McCallum represented the contracting firm.

The monument is of screen type, with a central and dominating pylon, somewhat after the style of the R.C.H.A. in the City Park, in Kingston, erected some years ago, by the same firm. The outside length of the work is twenty feet, while the main shafts rises fifteen feet. A great laurel bound sword is featured at both front and back of the Memorial, and extends from the top of the pylon about half way down the shaft. Below this in large Roman letters are the names of the battles in which the Canadian troops won especial distinction. Flanking the shaft are two wing like members, which bear the dedicatory inscription and the names of the fallen. At the very centre of the composition is a large laurel wreath, and inside this circle are the years 1914-1919.

The Memorial is made of white granite throughout and will finally be placed in the Canal Bank Park in Campbellford. The details of the plantings which in all probability will be flanking hedges of Barberry and formal plantings of Juniper are being planned now.

Work on the Memorial was commenced at the first of the year, and the monument will not be completed for several months, thus providing work for the company's carvers throughout the winter. It will be unveiled about June 15th.

GRAIN GROWERS APROVE UNION

Next Step Toward Amalgamation Rests With Farmers' Union of Canada.

MEET IN SASKATOON.

SASKATOON, Sask., Jan. 29. — (Canadian Press).—The next step in the negotiations to amalgamate the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association and the Farmers' Union of Canada rests with the latter organization.

While the convention of the latter body convened for an extraordinary session to consider the amalgamation question, the delegates to the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association yesterday voted overwhelmingly in favor of union and adopted a tentative agreement. This agreement was forwarded to the convention of the Farmers' Union for their consideration. The committee which carried the resolution to the Farmers' Union was informed that that body had not yet organized for business and that it might be impossible for them to consider the agreement until to-day. It had been planned, in the event of favorable action, to call a joint convention of the two bodies to-day.

The agreement provided for the amalgamation of the two bodies under the name of the United Farmers of Saskatchewan, for the assumption by the new organization of the assets and liabilities of both former association, for the appointment of a joint committee to work out details of constitution and incorporation and for the consideration of the committee report at a later date.
